THE LATE MR. JAMES LITTLE.

In its remarks on the death of the late lamented
Mr. Little, the Montreal Herald says—In 1850 he was married at St. Catharines, and moved with his wife to a place on the Grand River, now called Caledonia. The whole section was, at this period, a wilderness inhabited by the Six Nations Indians, and Mr. Little passed months at a time without seeing the face of a white woman. He engaged in lumbering, and ultimately his business extended over nearly the whole peninsula lying between Lakes Erie and Ontario. He carried on an active business for nearly thirty years. He came to Montreal at the age of 70 years, and at once became one of the most persistent advocates of forest protection, his personal knowledge of the lumber business and the rapidly decreasing area of forest territory enabling him more rapidly to draw attention to the facts. He was in a great measure successful, as he lived to receive an acknowledgment of the soundness of his views by a special vote of thanks from the American Forestry Congress, and by having his name placed as honorable president of the Forestry Association of this Province. No one to read the able articles that have appeared in the Columns of the Herald, and other papers could have imagined that these were the productions of a gentleman who had already passed the allotted seventy years, yet his death now at the age of 80 shows that he had passed this period, and recognizing as we do the great importance of forest conservation to the welfare of the country, can truly say that few men have done so much for the country's good, having their whole life's vigil to assist them. He was the first person in Canada to send lumber to the United States markets, Albany being reached by night and day coaches from Buffalo in a week's time.

New Roundhouse Burned.

A telegram from Port Hope announces that the new roundhouse of the Canadian Pacific railway at that point was totally destroyed by fire at five o'clock yesterday morning. Several men were at work in the building at the time, but were powerless to arrest the flames.

A Wrong Redressed.

The Free Press says Mr. Keefler was unseated in Lunenburg through the real or assumed stupidity of a returning officer. The organ is wrong. Mr. Keefler benefited by the stupidity of the returning officer, as he sat in the House of Commons last session. Mr. Keefler is not questioned, had a majority of votes. Ottawa Citizen.

Steamer Aground.

PORT ELGIN, Oct. 13.—On Friday the steamer
Ontario, of Beatty's line, which left Sarnia on Thursday night with about 300 tons of freight, 100 deck and 40 or 50 oil in passengers, lay ground about 3 p.m., during a heavy fog, about half a mile from shore and about eight miles east-west of Port Elgin. After ineffectual efforts to extricate her from her rocky bed, and fearing the effects of the approaching storm, Capt. James McManis, about midnight, decided to land the ladies and children, which was successfully carried out, although a heavy sea was running at the time. This morning the Ontario was towed by a tug, and was safely beached at Port Elgin. The passengers were conducted to the shore by the tug, and the Ontario was towed to the wharf by the tug.
The passengers were conducted to the shore by wharf by the tug.

English Papers.

It is an almost-mixed English cricketing cup, that is credited with the following remarkable decision:—"No ball, wide ball, leg-before wicket, no, by Jove! he's hit it, caught, out, over!"

English papers are condemning the present style of bicycle-racing, which consists in the competitors going along easily until the last quarter mile, when they sport for the race.
An example of this is seen in the time made in the five-mile race between the two fastest men in England. The time was 16 min.
4.45 sec., yet both are known to be a minute faster.

Mr. Perry Doolittle, a well-known Canadian bicyclist, had a fall the other day while on a race. The backbone of his machine snapped in two, and the rider was rather severely shaken.
Some of the racing done by E. T. Ritchie, the English amateur, are really wonderful.

Leeds Musical Festival.

The fourth celebration of the Triennial Musical Festival established at Leeds is proving highly successful. The first original work performed was Alfred Cellier's cantata, "Gray's Elegy."

New Nihilist Journal.

A St. Petersburg despatch says that the programme of a new Nihilist paper has appeared.
The paper will be called "Messenger of the Will of the People," and is published bi-monthly in London or Geneva.

Cause of the Mattawa Accident.

Mr. Barnhart, commercial traveller, from Montreal, who was rather seriously burned in the railway accident on the Mattawa extension of the Canada Pacific Railway, states that the cause of the accident was due to the company using a condemned baggage car.

Notice of Amalgamation.

The London Junction railway give notice of a meeting to be held on the 12th of November to consider the amalgamation with the Credit Valley railway. The Credit Valley and Ontario and Quebec give a similar notice of a meeting to be held on the 12th of November.

Decorate.

Messrs. Rathbun & Son have almost finished their contract in connection with the branch railway. Two iron bridges have yet to be put in position and then the road will be in working order. The G. T. R. authorities are satisfied with the work done so far. The depot will be on the St. Lawrence River, near Rathbun's dock.

Franks of a Beer.

A few days ago a deer ran down the main street of the town of Orangeville, Ont., and seeing itself reflected in the large plate glass windows of Dr. Lewis' Drug store, it sprang against one of them as well as against one in a grocer's store and one in a Dry goods establishment, causing much damage and severely cutting itself,
then finally escaped to the woods near by with the citizens in hot pursuit.

Run Down by an Express Train.

BARRIE, Oct. 12.—Early yesterday morning the body of a man was found on the track of the North-Western railway, north of Allandale.
Both legs were cut off, and death must have been almost instantaneous. His name was Charles Spigley. He had been at the fair as an engineer of a steam tug, and is supposed to have been cut down by the midnight train.
His mother is a widow, living in town. He was about 22 years of age.

A Large Log.

A big walnut log from an out-of-the-way part of France arrived in New York a few days ago.
It was twelve feet long and nine in diameter, and it said to weigh nearly twenty-two tons. It cost the owners $100 to bring it across the ocean, and $40 more to have it trucked some little distance to a veneer mill, a task which kept six horses busy for thirty hours. There was only derrick lighter in the harbor with which the monster log could be hoisted, and this is said to be worth, at $100,000, or $50,000 when cut into veneer.

Landowners Sell for Canada.

LATER, Oct. 13.—Landowners, the Marquis of Lorne's successor in the Governor-Generalship of Canada, with Lady Lansdowne and Lord Charles and Lady Evelyn Fitzmaurice with them, embarked on board the Clarendon, of the Atlas Line, at Halifax this afternoon. They were accompanied to the vessel by the Duke and Duchess of Albany, Lord Claude Hamilton, and a distinguished party of visitors. A luncheon was served on board the vessel and partaken of by the company, after which Lord and Lady Lansdowne and party were bade a regretful farewell, and the vessel returned to England.
The weather was brilliant.

The Murray Canal.

The Trenton Courier says:—"The present route of the Murray Canal is nearly seven miles long. The chief engineer, and all the captains and owners of vessels outside of Brighton from Montreal to Hamilton condemn it as to its length and impossibility in stormy weather. The canal is of "no much general importance" that we are disappointed at the prospect of having a necessary government work constructed where it will seldom be used. The people of Brighton themselves declare that a cut must be made through the isthmus of the Murray, and that the canal is a waste of money.

structed where it will seldom be used. The

Murray, and that the canal is a waste of money.

Another Assassination.

DUBLIN, Oct. 13.—Another horrible assassination crime is reported. Three armed men with revolvers were arrested to-day near Kilmore for attacking a beggarly, lame, and blind man, Dineen. The crime was perpetrated between the towns of Miltown and Miltown, and no savage was the assassin that the victim was completely disarmed and otherwise mutilated, almost beyond recognition. Up to the present there have been three million riflemen have studied the resources of Canada, and shown in the Canadian section of the exhibition.

THE BLACK FLAG.

HONG KONG, Oct. 13.—M. Dupont, considering
the reported amicable arrangement with the Black Flag pirates, and says they must be exterminated. The Black Flag pirates are disturbance to the peace of the East. He thinks further fighting must ensue before the Tientsin can be fully occupied. The pirates discredit the report that the Black Flag have been bought over.

A CONCESSION TO ITALY.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—Bismarck has submitted to the Bundesrat a bill extending to Italy the reduction of duties on goods from the new commercial treaty.

SIR CHARLES FERRER.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Sir Charles Ferrer has left for Paris, where he will represent Canada at the conference relative to submarine cables.

PARNELL'S TACTICS.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Parnellite leaders already show signs of a change of front in Ulster.
Their policy of resistance to the Whigs, and the absence of the Tories is transformed into the policy of crushing the Tories by an alliance with the Whigs.

ANOTHER ASSASSINATION.

MOODY AND SANKEY'S MISSION.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A few gentlemen have contributed £5,000 for the preliminary expenses of Moody and Sankey's mission to Belgium.

An Answer Wanted.

known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine, in advancement of which appears in another column.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

A BRUSH WITH SAVAGES.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Admiral from the Admiralty states that the natives of the Ambolia Island, in the Malay Archipelago, recently became troublesome and hostile to the officers and crews of British vessels calling at the chief port of the island. Yesterday the British man-of-war Dart sent on shore a strong party of marines and seamen to chastise the natives for their conduct. The natives offered at first a stubborn resistance, but were put to flight after a short fight, in which an officer and several seamen were wounded, and one seaman killed.
Many of the natives were killed, and a large number wounded.

THE RIVER PLATE BANK.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The managers of the River
Plate Bank have recommended an assessment upon the stockholders of the bank, in order to meet the losses sustained by the defalcation of Warden, ex-secretary.

THE O'DONNELL TRIAL.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The Telegraph says the police have failed to obtain any evidence showing any connection between O'Donnell and the murder. It is reported the Government will oppose a postponement of the trial.

RUSSIAN DESPOTISM.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 13.—Arrests of several officers have been made at Cronstadt, and several army officers and soldiers have been arrested at Riga.

THE FRANCO-SPANISH AFFAIR.

MADRID, Oct. 13.—The Government is satisfied with the friendly assurances and official explanations made to the Spanish Ambassador at Paris by M. Ferry, and has decided to direct to its representatives abroad surrounding the fact.

THE CORK EXHIBITION.

DUBLIN, Oct. 13.—The Cork exhibition closed
last night. It has been a complete success.
The National Anthem, in closing the exhibition, was received with hisses and cheers. The police had to interfere to prevent a fight.

M. FERRY AT HAVRE.

HAVRE, Oct. 13.—Prime Minister Ferry and
M. Ruyal, Minister of Public Works, arrived on Saturday, and were welcomed by immense crowds, who shouted for the Republic and occasionally for Thiers. At the reception to the foreign consuls it was remarked that Ferry cordially greeted the Spanish consul, who had received special instructions to attend the reception. At the banquet in the evening Ferry said it was necessary to persevere more vigorously than ever the policy of Republican union. Within a few months again will open before the Government the Franco-Spanish and the Irreconcilable.

M. FERRY ON THE DIFFICULTY.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Mr. Ferry, speaking at a banquet at Rouen this evening, alluded to the Alfonso affair, and said that he had seen with what serene majesty the chief of a republic can repeat the errors of an unthinking monarch. He dwelt upon the advantages enjoyed by a republican, sensible, and prudent, but not, alas! blameworthy republic.

CANADA AT THE FISHERIES.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The result of the examination of the jurors in the Fisheries Exhibition held in Kensington, London, Eng., is that Canada has won a victory by having won gold medals, silver medals, and bronze medals, and has won medals. This magnificent result is due to the energetic action of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and the staff of the Fisheries Exhibition. The result is a victory for Canada, and the result is a victory for Canada.

THE BLACK FLAG.

HONG KONG, Oct. 13.—M. Dupont, considering
the reported amicable arrangement with the Black Flag pirates, and says they must be exterminated. The Black Flag pirates are disturbance to the peace of the East. He thinks further fighting must ensue before the Tientsin can be fully occupied. The pirates

LATE CLOSING.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In your issue of 13th October, I observed under the above heading the remarks of a recent arrival in town as to the lateness of the hour at which the various places of business are closed. As you are aware in the Dry Goods business, from 1st January to 1st April, the habit has been for some years, to close at 6 p.m., also in the months of July and August at 6 p.m., the rest of the year it is generally 7 p.m., except Saturday all the year round when the hour of closing seems to range from 9 to 11 p.m. or later, the hours in this branch of business are now pretty good except Saturday night, which I think is unnecessarily late, and might be shortened with advantage to all concerned, some houses in this line blame their Millinery branch for keeping them late, if so surely the milliners could manage better, than to have their work sent home often bordering on Sunday morning, there can be no necessity for such late hours with right management, but if their was the desire to shut earlier by some house, no doubt they could manage it, as well as some who have not branch also, manage to do, and I hope that our Dry Goods merchants having their attention drawn to this matter, will arrange so as to have earlier shutting on Saturday night, their hours otherwise not having much to complain of. I believe the Hardware merchants have recently agreed to close at 8 o'clock on Saturday night, this is a step in the right direction.
I hear that the Druggists are also moving,
so as to have earlier closing, in which I hope they will succeed. With the grocers the hour seems more irregular, but by agreement, no doubt they could have earlier closing also, as could all the other branches of business.
Now that the winter nights are coming on,
and our earlier closing generally it would give one young people an opportunity of improving themselves. In connection with our Mechanics' Institute we have an excellent library and classes also in regard to the late hours on Saturday nights, I would like to see it abolished in all branches of business, and it could easily be done without any inconvenience to the public, and would tend to a better observance of the Sabbath; for if people are kept at work till 11 and 12 o'clock on Saturday night they cannot but feel tired on the Sabbath morning.

The public could help in a movement of this sort by purchasing earlier, and the clergy could also help in a movement that would be both a temporal and spiritual gain to many connected with their churches.

I am, dear Sir, yours truly,

MERCHANT.

THE RAILWAY NUISANCE.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—At a quarter before one on Sunday morning we were startled from our sleep by the loud, protracted shriek of the railway steam-whistle. This noise was continued at intervals until some time after that hour, so that even on the Sabbath day we are not free from this intolerable nuisance.

A few months ago some of the ratepayers, including the Police Magistrate, appeared before the town council, and complained of the annoyance caused by the constant shrieking of the cars up and down Bethune street. I don't think that any notice was taken of this complaint; at all events the shrieking is worse now than it was then, and the inhabitants of that and of neighbouring streets, none of whom pay a large amount of taxes, and whose houses were built before the shrieking nuisance was brought literally to their very doors, are in a worse plight than ever.

The shrieking, with all its discordant notes, commences before broad daylight in the morning, continues throughout the day, and especially during the afternoon and evening, and frequently runs on into the night. I don't suppose that when the Council gave these railway people a right of way along Bethune street, they contemplated the laying of two or more tracks for shuttling purposes along that street, and they ought, now that they cannot fail to be aware of the grievous annoyance caused by the laying of those lines, to insist upon an abatement of such annoyance.

A RATEPAYER.

Peterborough, Oct. 15, 1883.

The Farewell to the Marquis.

PREPARATIONS have been made on a large scale in Montreal to give his Excellency the Governor-General and the Princess Louise a fitting reception on the occasion of their farewell visit.

The Minister of Marine regards the Shaw difficultly settled. Shaw will receive an indemnify of 60,000 francs for losses sustained in Madagascar, and the French Minister of Foreign Affairs will address to the British Foreign office a letter regretting the occurrence.

The Montreal Free Library.

The troublesome litigation which has so long prevented the trustees of the Montreal Free Library estate from proceeding with the undertaking having terminated, it is expected that steps will be taken to establish the institution.

Fire in a Synagogue.

During the services in the synagogue at Ziewons on Saturday a false alarm of fire in the women's gallery caused a panic. The people rushed for the door, causing a terrible crush.
Forty women were killed, and thirty received severe internal injuries. Many were bruised.
The fire was easily subdued.

A Municipal Investigation.

Some charges of corrupt practices in regard to a corporation contract have been made against one of the Winnipeg aldermen, and now a resolution has been passed by the city council for an investigation by the County Judge, the move having fortified his position by producing evidence from ten citizens of repute.

A Broker Charged With Theft.

John Walters, the broker who failed on Saturday and was arrested, was the broker of Geo.
Ward, the defaulting secretary of the London and River Plate Bank. Walters was charged with stealing bonds deposited with the bank.
Walters claimed he had received the bonds as a broker. He was remanded.

Mischief Brewing at Quebec.

Messrs. Davitt, Healy and Sullivan will attend the League meeting at Quebec, county Fermanagh. Large numbers of Orangemen are en route to Quebec from all directions to hold a meeting at the same time. The government has decided to permit both meetings to be held, but will send cavalry, infantry and police to preserve order.

Reform Tactics.

Is one of the pollard divisions in Kent, N.B.,
the week before last, the Reformers actually,
the day before the election, entered the deputy returning-officer's house and stole ballot box and ballots. General Fazio does not think they will succeed. He disapproves Conservative tactics by withholding the horses. The latest plan, however, is probably that invented by Mr. Lafamme's agent in Jacques Cartier.—Winnipeg Times.

Quick Railway Time.

Mr. Travers, of the Montreal Bank, Brockville, was in Hamilton on Sunday when he heard that his daughter, who is married to a son of the late Sir Hugh Allan, had a relapse of typhoid fever, and that death was momentarily anticipated. He hired a special train at the G. T. R.
R. Hamilton, at 2:30 o'clock. The distance between Belleville and Brockville, 96 miles, was covered in two hours.

Politics in Spain.

Moret, Minister of the Interior, has requested the officials of his department not to resign, as usual in a change of Ministry. Moret says the present Government seeks the co-operation and good will of all sections of the Liberals to correct abuses and prove that the Liberals can form a compact party, and will not wreck, by divisions in their ranks, the splendid opportunity afforded by the reorganization of monarchy with democracy. The Minister of War does not propose to displace any generals, but if any resign
they will be replaced by Marshal Serrano's friends.

A Magistrate's Requisition.

A Reform journal, the Montreal Witness, has a good thing in the following:—"The Globe blames Sir John Macdonald, who, it says, is really responsible and not Mr. Norquay, the Premier of Manitoba, for the sending of the Winnipeg Field Battery to Rat Portage during the elections. Does not the law provide that, on the representation of a certain number of magistrates of any city or district, the danger of a riot exists that the local authorities are unable to deal with, the Minister of Militia shall see that a sufficient force is sent to preserve the peace? Three magistrates of Rat Portage made the proper requisition, we understand, and if that be the fact, what connection had Mr.
Norquay or Sir John Macdonald with it?"

A Large Family.

The Madrid Estadista states that a Spanish gentleman Senor Lucas Nequeiras Sen, who emigrated from his native land to America seventy years ago, recently returned to Spain in a steamer of his own, and brought with him the whole of his family, which consists of no fewer than 197 souls, some-in-law and daughters-in-law not included. Senor Sen has been three times married. His first wife had 11 children at 7 births, his second had 19 children at 13 births, and his third had 7 children at 6 births. The youngest of this family of 197 is aged nineteen; the eldest, who is seventy, has 17 children, of whom the first born is forty-seven. Of Senor Sen's 23 sons, all are living, 13 are married, 6 are unmarried, and 4 are widowers; and of the surviving daughters, 9 are married. The grandchildren number 34, and of those 23 are married, 4 are widowers, and 3 are widows; and of the 45 grandsons, 23 are married, 17 are unmarried, and 5 are widowers. There are also 45 granddaughters, and 29 great-grandsons, of whom 3 are married. Senor Sen has never tasted wine or any alcoholic liquor, and lives chiefly upon a vegetable diet, but with little salt. In spite of his advanced years, he is still hale and hearty, and makes a point of walking briskly for at least three hours every day.

HONOURING COLUMBUS.

MADRID, Oct. 15.—The anniversary of the discovery of America was celebrated this evening in Madrid by a splendid banquet in the Opera house. The festive ended with the unveiling of the Statue of Columbus, which stood on the stage.

MR. MATTHEW ARNOLD.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Matthew Arnold sailed from Liverpool on the Servia to-day. A Special correspondent met him, by appointment, at St.
Pancras station, London, shortly before the Liverpool express reached and interviewed him regarding his visit to America.

NIRILISM IN RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 15.—It is officially announced that there is no plan to support that a Nirilistic conspiracy exists among the army officers, and that those who will be taken to Russia will still in future give priority to such causes as those of the Nirilistic leaders. Statistician has announced the report that the Nirilists have sentenced the Czar to death in unknown.

ANOTHER MURDER IN IRELAND.

COB, Oct. 15.—A farmer named James was attacked and murdered with a pitchfork to-day.
Ten persons were arrested.

THREATENED STRIKE.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Colliers in different countries in the Midlands and North of England threaten to strike unless their demand of a 15 per cent. increase of wages is granted without delay. They allege that coal masters are making speculative gains at the present rates, and are not willing to pay an increase.

END OF THE TROUBLE.

MADRID, Oct. 15.—The Ministry has decided to drop the dispute with France. The decision is probably due to the fact that Senor Barcelona, the new Minister of Commerce, has been appointed in his friendship for France, and so a general desire among the members of the Cabinet to inhibit an escalation.

THE TONGVIN DIFFICULTY.

HONG KONG, Oct. 15.—It is reported that the Chinese minister, with some members, left Hong Kong for Shanghai, where the Chinese troops are, to embark the most of the Chinese troops on the Tongvin frontier has been abandoned.

FISHERIES EXHIBITION AWARDS.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The award of the Fisheries exhibition to the United States was 147, consisting of 45 gold, 45 silver, and 35 bronze medals, and 19 diplomas and 10 money prizes.

EXALTING THE EXECUTIVE.

It must be a very bad sign that requires for its advocacy a constant series of misrepresentations. "Exalting the Executive" with all its past devices it has had but little success in its plan for the Boundary River, the Ohio has now thought fit, as it says, "to take another view," which is advocated with as little regard to facts for the facts.

"First, there can be no doubt Canada has the right to settle the matter herself. A special Imperial Act established her Parliament to alter the limits of a Province with the consent of the Legislature. Any boundary so fixed would be superior to the legal boundary."

"Under these circumstances the Dominion and Ontario referred the matter to arbitration." Now the Ohio correctly states the law as to altering the limits of a Province, and therefore it is not ignorant, but wilfully, that it utters the falsehood that it was under these circumstances that the Dominion and Ontario made the reference to arbitration. Neither Canada nor Ontario took such action. It is true that Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Howland did so, but with no more authority than one of our constables and a Northwest Mounted trooper would have had to represent the two governments, saying that the power, as truly stated by the Ohio, is reserved by our constitution for the Legislature. It is true that Ontario subsequently assented by its Legislature, but Canada by its Legislature would not consent, and the award remained a waste paper.

As to the shabby about "smoking out of obligations," and "the continuity of government," that is utterly inapplicable under the circumstances. If the Ohio had agreed to an arbitration, or if the British Cabinet had done so, the good faith of their respective countries would have been pledged, for the Ohio has the power in Great Britain to act in such matters. But in Canada, by our constitution, neither Crown nor Cabinet has such power, which is expressly reserved for the Legislature, instead of the Executive, and Mr. Mackenzie having no power to act, had necessarily no power to pledge the principle of the "continuity of government" has no bearing upon such a case, for under a responsible government an incoming ministry is under no obligation to carry out the incoherent legislation of the outgoing cabinet; indeed, the presumption is rather the other way, as the people by their elected representatives make a change of administration with the very object of bringing about a change as regards legislation, in very many respects, at all events.

There is also "another view" to be taken. The Ohio's argument refers only to steps to "alter the limits," and this does not by any means cover the whole ground at issue. It may be that if the Canadian Parliament, in the exercise of its discretion, had determined, like the Ontario Legislature, to ratify the award, our boundary would be settled for the future sufficiently for many purposes. But there would be no such settlement as to the past, and many cases might arise, Hudson Bay Company claims, Indian titles, &c., &c., which would still be open for dispute. And still worse, a precedent would be set for other Provinces to agitate for bargains with the Dominion, and for alterations of the existing position.

Ontario wants no alteration of boundary or of constitution, but to have its true legal limits determined, and this can only be done finally, and with full justice to our just claims, now partially mortgaged to meet Mr. Howland's political necessities,—by the highest court in the realm.

THE Dominion Ministry has declined to give up a railway in Nova Scotia until the other party carries out its part of the bargain. Thereupon Reform papers team with abuse and the Globe says:—

"It is stated on their behalf that the conditions precedent have not been fulfilled, but that is probably a mere pretext."

The Globe is surpassing even itself by vilifying its opponents, on the ground that the true cause for their action is probably a mere pretext. It has nothing to suggest such a probability except the racorous hate and envy which make it impute evil in all things to opponents who have been more successful and are more trusted by the people of Canada.

An enormous Bunkum has been discovered. New York, Oct. 14.—The World says Comptroller Grant has discovered in the examination of the city revenue and markets that the enormous sum of $600,000 is unpaid or unaccounted for. Much of this is for rents from corporations and others for the use of city property.

FENELON FALLS.

FOUND.—The Gazette says: "In our issue of the 8th ult., we noticed that a tin box containing $23.50 in cash and some valuable books and papers had been stolen from Mr. Smith's bedroom in the Simpson House, and last Sunday the box and all its contents but the money were found near a path through Mr. Green's woods, at the corner of Prince's street and the boundary. The box was securely locked when taken, and the thief, after getting a long gash nearly the whole length of the lid, took out the cash, and then inverted the box and placed it in such a position against a small hillock that it could not possibly get in, and the papers and books were consequently perfectly dry and uninjured when found."

AN EAGLE SHOT.—While the "Little Nobby" was steaming across Bala Lake one day last week on her way to Cobourg, the parties on board noticed a large bird sitting on the top of a very high dead pine tree, and Mr. E. R. Edwards determined to take a shot with his Winchester repeater, with which he was on his way to the woods deer hunting. At the distance was estimated to be about three hundred yards, his compasses indicated at him, but the bird, which was a male, was properly, was raised, he raised his rifle, fired, and down came the bird stone dead, the bullet having passed through its body. At first some of the party thought it was a "monstrously large hawk," but it proved to be a bald headed eagle, measuring nine feet from tip to tip of its extended wings.

HARVEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Harvey Council met at the clerk's office on the 8th October, 1883. Reeve absent. Councillors all present. Councillor Clarkson was appointed chairman of the meeting. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. A By-law was passed, signed, and sealed, reappointing William Irwin as collector of rates and taxes for the year 1883. The clerk was instructed to charge on the collector's roll all the statute labour returned to him by the pathmasters as unperformed by the 20th day of October, 1883, also all on the unreturned road lists at same date. The clerk was instructed to deliver the roll to the collector upon receipt of his bonds, duly executed, with the names of John Smith and W. A. Naylor as sureties. Mr. William Bennett's application to the Council to build a bridge over Spruce river was laid over till the next meeting. Orders were drawn on the Treasurer in favour of N. Cross for $10, for clearing up a common line road near the school house No. 2; also A. Dewdney for $20 for placing stone on a crossway south of said school house on common line road. The Council adjourned to meet at the clerk's office on the second Monday in December next.

PORT ROYAL.

IS IT BURGLARY.—On Tuesday afternoon a quantity of plated silverware was found concealed in the bank at the rear of the Grand Trunk station by some children. It consisted of 18 forks, 5 knives, 1 butter knife, 7 tea spoons and 14 table spoons. The police have the articles in their possession.

GRANDS GOODS RECOVERED.—The Guide says that on Saturday last, Miss Fraser, daughter of Mr. Alex. Fraser, Deputy-Master-General, claimed a portion of the silverware found at the rear of the G. T. R. station yesterday. Mr. Fraser and Dr. White's residence, which are near together in Cobourg, were burglarized last week, and a portion that was found yesterday was taken at the time. They did not find all here that was stolen. There is still a portion of the silverware awaiting proper owners at police headquarters here.

CONSUMERS.

SEVERE ACCIDENT.—A sad accident occurred here on Sunday evening. As No. 2 express train from the east was coming into the station yard a young man named Wm. Carwell, Jr., a painter by trade, jumped from the train while it was in motion. In doing so he missed his footing and fell, the train passing over his right leg near the ankle, crushing it in a fearful manner. Dr. Craig and Clark were at once telephoned and arrived in a few minutes, when they found they would have to amputate the leg a few inches below the knee, which was down successfully.

Forest Preservation.

The Bobcaygeon Independent has the following remarks:—

"Our talented contemporary the REVIEW, of Peterborough, has another good article on Forest Preservation, caused by an article in the Globe. The big daily paper appears to have burst through its political fog for a moment, and is under the impression that the subject of Forest Preservation has only just come up for discussion. The REVIEW points out that the appointment of Mr. Phipps, and the action of the Government is due to a public opinion, the formation of which may be attributed to the many years advocacy of the subject by itself, this journal and maybe a few others. The report made by Mr. Phipps has received a very favourable criticism from the London Times, and has thoroughly aroused the Province to the importance of the subject. The Toronto World, giving a sketch of the work Mr. Phipps has planned out for himself, speaks very highly of the systematic thoroughness which characterizes that gentleman."

"The capable editor of the Peterborough REVIEW reads the Globe religiously, and appears to have a mission to keep that journal straight. He is glad to see the Toronto organ writing on the subject of Forest Preservation, 'even though it is evident that the writer was utterly ignorant of the subject till he consumed it from Mr. Phipps' pamphlet, and indeed that he still remains so.' This is really amusing to anyone who recognized at once the author of the editorial in question."

Our contemporary may be amused, but it is upon mistaken grounds.

An Answer Wanted.

Can any one bring us a case of Kidney or Liver Complaint that Electric Bitters will not speedily cure? Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1893.

Two Boys are wanted immediately at the Telegraph Office.

Rumour Corrected.
 We are requested to state there is no truth in the rumour that Dr. Pigeon does not go out at night or attend any but the wealthy.

Low Temperature.
 The Rev. V. Clement's self-registering thermometer marked 15 degrees above zero last night—seventeen degrees of frost.

Curious Case for Oysters.
 We are sole agents for Freeman & Shaw's Famous Baltimore Oysters, sold regularly by express in fine condition. Sold in cases and by measure in quarts, pints and half pints. Oyster shells supplied free of charge. A reduction made to parties ordering in large quantities. CAMPBELL BROS.

Dr. Wild's Lecture.
 The people of Peterborough will be pleased to have another opportunity of hearing the Rev. Dr. Wild, of Toronto, a lecturer who never fails to delight his audience. Even those who do not accept all the theories of the reverend doctor listen to the lucid statement of his ideas, his masterly arguments, and his happy phrases with pleasure, and are pleased so soon with the manner of the lecturer. On Wednesday evening next Dr. Wild will lecture in the Methodist Church, his subject being "Men With Iron Shoes."

The Head of the Council.
 As there has been a report current that the Town Council had not power to appoint an Acting Mayor during the Mayor's absence, and as it has been stated in the Council that an Acting Mayor had not the power of a Mayor, we would call attention to the "Consolidated Municipal Act of 1883," Part IV., Division II., Sec. 227, which reads as follows:—

"In the absence of the head of the Council, and in the case of a town, village or township, in the absence of the Mayor, if there be one, and in the case of the Deputy Mayor or Deputy Mayor, if there be one or more, by leave of the Council or from illness, the Council may from among the members thereof, appoint a presiding officer, who, during such absence, shall have all the power of the head of the Council."

Railway Notes.
 The Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway came into the possession of the Ontario and Quebec Railway at one o'clock a.m. on Saturday. Mr. Whyte, General Superintendent of the Credit Valley Railway, has been appointed General Superintendent, and Mr. W. Sutherland Taylor has been appointed Secretary-Treasurer of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce division of the Ontario and Quebec Railway.

An adjourned meeting of the freight agents of the Canadian railways was held at Toronto on Friday, to consider the question of adopting a uniform mileage tariff for local freight. Mr. Holden represented the Midland. A scale of freight rates was adopted, which will be submitted to the General Managers of the various roads immediately, for their judgment and approval.

Miss Carrie Eugene Mason.
 The following is a sketch of Miss Carrie Eugene Mason, mezzo-soprano, Prima Donna, who will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on Thursday evening, supported by Mr. J. F. Thompson, baritone, and the Kitching String Quartette (ladies):—

"This charming and gifted vocalist is a pupil of Signor Biondi (one of the most celebrated vocal instructors of the day), under whose tuition she completed her artistic studies. Miss Mason is an American by birth; her ancestors—with the exception of her father—were French and Spanish, and in personal appearance she is a true type of the ideal Spanish girl. She is piquante, sparkling and pretty with flashing but tender sympathetic eyes and inimitable grace of motion that is the hereditary charm of Spain. Her first appearance on the concert stage after her debut in New York, which by the way was one of the most brilliant successes of the season, was with Mlle. B. King. Upon the tour with this celebrated pianist she made herself a household name, and her success there has been maintained, so that to-day she enjoys the enviable reputation of being the youngest and yet one of the most mature voices of the day. She obtains from the fact, the sympathy of her audience and holds them in the deepest interest throughout her songs. Her voice is a soft, pure organ, with wonderful execution and volume. Her method is faultless, and the complete quality of her voice together with her charming appearance has won for her the praise of being the prettiest and most versatile of all modern lyric artists. In addition to her gifts as a vocalist, she is a thorough musician, a brilliant pianist and a most cultured lady; a perfect scholar in French, German and Italian."

Plane Tuning.
 Mr. Kompling, head tuner for A. & S. Ford, belmer, Toronto, is in town. Leave orders at Davis' Bookstore.

The Weather Probabilities.
 The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, computed from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows—Moderate to fresh northerly to easterly winds, fair weather, stationary or slightly higher temperatures.

Mr. Webster's New Store.
 Mr. John Webster is opening a new grocery store on the corner of Charlotte and Aymer streets, near the railway station. The premises have been tastefully painted and fitted up, and the store will be a very neat and attractive one. A comfortable lunch room has been furnished in connection therewith, and no doubt this stand will prove a very great convenience to residents and others frequenting this busy locality.

Necessaries of the Season.
 A very conveniently arranged store is that of the Messrs. Mills Bros. Their goods—hats, furs, &c., are well kept and displayed in a tasteful manner, and much patience and good judgment are used in making the customers. A new fur room has been built in the rear of the store for displaying robes and heavy furs, which is convenient, and has good light. Their store is complete in every department, and purchasers can not be otherwise than satisfied.

Health Bulletin.
 The official report for the week ending Saturday, Oct. 6th, shows that, in general, diseases of the respiratory organs have still further increased notably in the cases of bronchitis and consumption, cholera infantum on the other hand, has a percentage of less than 24. The six diseases most prevalent in the district in which Peterborough is included, in their order of prevalence, are, anæmia, bronchitis, neuralgia, intermittent fever, consumption and diarrhoea.

Sentenced for Theft.
 Joseph Hamrah, a lad sixteen years of age, who was committed to gaol by Mr. Goulbourn, J.P., of Apsley, for stealing a box of cigars from Mr. Pratt, of that village, was brought before His Honor Judge Denison on Monday. He elected to be tried by the Judge, without a jury, and pleaded guilty, offering as an excuse that he had been drinking at the time. His Honor said that was a very bad excuse, but as it was not usual to inflict a severe punishment for the first offence, he would make the sentence almost nominal. He sentenced the boy to ten days' in gaol at hard labor.

Disappeared from Port Hope.
 A card has been received by the police here stating that Patrick Morrison mysteriously disappeared from Port Hope on Friday night and has not since been seen. He is described as a stout, heavily built man of about 35 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches in height, dark hair, very black moustache, swarthy complexion, and with a stammer in his speech. He was last seen by his house-keeper on Friday night. He came into the house and changed his clothing. There are two children left in the house in an almost destitute condition. The missing man had been drinking very heavily for some days past. It is supposed he committed suicide by jumping from the dock, and parties dragged the harbour for the body.

The Pulp Mill.
 This industry, one of the latest added to the manufactures of Peterborough, is doing a prosperous business under the management of the new company, who are ably assisted by Mr. Allen, the foreman of the mill. A small increase has lately been made to the number of hands employed, and the mill will hereafter be run night and day. The material is prepared during the day time, and at night it is made into pulp. This new order of things was established on Monday night, and by it the output of the mill will be largely increased. The mill is now supplying the paper mills at Napane and Newburgh, and the Canada Paper Company, whose mill is near Montreal. The quality of the pulp turned out is excellent, and gives entire satisfaction.

A Musical Treat.
 That Peterborough can boast of a large amount of musical talent of a superior quality and excellence is no longer a doubt. It was only necessary to have the services of a first-class musician and trainer to bring this talent out, and happily, that too, has been accomplished in the person of Mr. Chas. Ewing, organist of St. John's Church. Since his arrival amongst us, Mr. Ewing has been busily engaged in teaching vocal and instrumental music to a large number of ladies and gentlemen, and that he has succeeded admirably is evident to all. Some of his pupils have indeed made astonishing progress, in fact some who were possessed of a good voice before Mr. Ewing's arrival, are now, under his superior tuition, perfection. On Monday evening Mr. Ewing held a private rehearsal in Bradburn's Opera House, when a number of his pupils sang several solos in a manner that drew forth loud and prolonged applause from those who were fortunate enough to be present, he having kindly invited a few friends to attend and criticize. The singing of the Misses Clara Claxton, Annie Choate, L. Cottleham, Eliza Johnston, and Mr. G. Leach, was faultless. They are all the happy possessors of voices of unusual excellence and sweetness, and when it is considered that their course of study under Mr. Ewing has been so brief, it speaks volumes for that gentleman's qualities as a musician. Where all this so well it would, probably, be unfair to attempt a criticism, but we must make special mention of Miss Clara Claxton's solo. This young lady has a very rich and pathetic voice, and sings without the least apparent trouble the most difficult passages. This pleasing entertainment is to be repeated again in about a fortnight or three weeks, when the invitations will be more general, and no doubt many will look forward to the date with pleasure.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

The Assizes of the County of Peterborough.

BLACK vs. STICKLAND.—Upon application of the defendants the trial was postponed until next court. Costs in the cause. Defendants to give plaintiff security for any amount that may be found against them.—G. T. Blackstock and C. W. Sowers for plaintiff; S. H. Blake, Q.C., and R. H. Dennistoun for defendants.

LONG vs. MORRISON.—Action to recover $500 paid on a quarter section of land in Manitoba on the ground that misrepresentations had been made in regard to the land. Stands until next court.—Pousette & Roger for plaintiff; Dumble & Henry for defendant.

CORRETT vs. HARPER.—Action to recover value of timber reserved in a deed from the plaintiff to the defendant. Judgment for plaintiff.—Pousette & Roger for plaintiff; Smith & Currie for defendant.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

TUESDAY, Oct. 19.—John Connell was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having been drunk in a public place. He pleaded guilty, and had no excuse to offer. "This is not the first time you have been here," said the magistrate. "Oh no, sir," answered John, and he told the truth, as he had once before been sent up the hill for 42 days. He was fined $2 or ten days in gaol, and was committed.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

Joseph Murphy pleaded guilty to a charge of having been drunk and disorderly preferred against him by P. C. Pidgeon. He had never been before the court before, he said, and was sorry he was brought this time. This being his first offence he was allowed to go with a caution.

Wedding Cakes.

Springless Truss.

See Prof. Hotchkiss's Springless Truss and Supporter. Advertisement in another column of this paper. Go and see him. He defies the hernia he cannot hold. At the Calise House Oct. 17th and 18th.

Shipment of Cattle.

Mr. P. Moher, of Douro, today shipped twenty-five head of cattle and a car load of hogs to Montreal. Mr. Moher has this season shipped 225 head of cattle and three car loads of hogs purchased in the vicinity, a business which has benefited the farmers not a little.

To Housekeepers.

Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpets, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

The Next Census Meet.

Col. H. C. Rogers and Mr. R. E. Wood have been at Albany attending the meeting called by Commodore Nickerson, the former as Rear Commodore and member of the Executive Committee, and the latter as representative on the Regatta Committee for 1894. Owing largely to their presence and influence the Thousand Islands was decided on as the place of meeting for 1894. There was a strong feeling on the part of some members in favour of Lake George and the vote was a very close one indeed. The Regatta Committee accomplished a considerable part of the work necessary before the next Regatta. Mr. Wood, who returned home to-day, reports that the Peterborough representatives were magnificently entertained by the Albany canoemen.

Temperance Entertainment.

A very successful temperance entertainment was held on Monday evening in St. Luke's School House, Ashburnham. The Rev. W. C. Bradshaw occupied the chair, and a good programme, prepared for entertainment, was carried out, including singing, readings and recitations. The attendance was very large, the room being crowded to the door. A number of persons gifted their intention to unite with the St. Luke's Branch of the Church of England Temperance Society. The following are the officers of this branch of the Society:—PRESIDENT—Rev. W. C. Bradshaw. VICE-PRESIDENT—Mr. H. Nesbitt. SECRETARY—Mr. F. Adams. TREASURER—Mr. H. O. Canning. COMMITTEE—Messrs. Bradshaw, Miss Gordon, Miss Bennett, and Messrs. Chas. Crowe, R. McRae, W. Pakenham, and A. B. Rogers.

Fence Points.

—Cold last night.
 —Clear and bright to-day.
 —Two prisoners were placed in the cells this forenoon.
 —The second meeting of the Peterborough Council of the Royal Templars of Temperance will be held to-night.
 —Ten cows, found meandering on the streets last night, "contrary to the by-law in that behalf," were impounded by the constables.
 —Two prisoners occupied the police cells last night. One was arrested at half-past eleven p.m. and the other at midnight.
 —A number of cards, &c., which were used on the "Missing Link" contract by Mr. Beemer, are being shipped east for use on the St. John Railway.
 —Court of Chancery, County Court and Police Court to-day. Who says the young lawyers have not a sufficient opportunity for taking lessons in "courtship?"
 —Among those registered at the Oriental Hotel to-day were Mr. A. F. Wood, M. P. F., Madoc, and Mr. E. O. Bickford, Toronto.

Springless Truss and Supporters
PROF. G. W. HOTCHKIN
Will visit the following places again:—
PORT HOPE—Queen's Hotel, Oct. 14, 15 and 16.
PETERBOROUGH—O'Brien House, Oct. 17 and 18.
LINDA Y—Benson House, Oct. 19 and 20.
OUBOUG—Dunham House, Oct. 21, 22 and 24.

Prof. Hotchklin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based on scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person. That a truss without steel springs or hard substances, having hinged ligaments and ligaments as well as Valves, at the advanced stage respectively of from 25 to 35 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses in children as well as adults. Prof. H. having had 20 years' experience has become master of his profession, and DEFIES the Herald he cannot hold in its place.
Prof. Hotchklin's post-office address is Albion, Orleans Co., N. Y.

THE ALGOMA FRAUD.
How Mr. Mowat's Tool is Carrying out the Plot to Disfranchise the Electors.

The Globe contains the following account of the progress of the conspiracy to misrepresent the majority of the electors of Algoma:—

"PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 15.—At noon on Saturday pursuant to notice by proclamation, Returning-Officer Thompson proceeded to count the returns for the various polling places in the recent Algoma election. Owing to the large number of returns, 54, the work of counting them was not completed until this evening. No returns having been forwarded by the deputy returning-officers from Rainy River, Fort Frances, and Algoma Mills, because of the failure to hold polls at those points, the Returning-Officer had determined, in accordance with the statute, to communicate with the deputies at those points and ascertain from them officially the whole circumstances before completing the return and making his official declaration of the election. As this will require considerable time, the distance being about 800 miles, the official return probably will not be forwarded for some weeks. Meantime the Returning-Officer understood to give Mr. Lyon a majority of over a hundred, not including the irregular votes polled at Fort Frances, which gave a majority of seven to Mr. Plummer. Neither of the candidates was represented by agents at the official court."

A Street Railway Company.
The following notice of application for incorporation appears in the Ontario Gazette of October 13th:—

"Notice is hereby given that, after the expiration of one month from the first publication of this notice in the Ontario Gazette, application will be made by the persons hereinafter named to the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario in Council for the grant of a charter of incorporation to the persons named, constituting such persons, and such other persons as may become shareholders in the Company thereby to be created, a body corporate and politic, under the provisions of 'The Ontario Joint Stock Companies' Letters Patent Act,' and of 'The Street Railway Act, 1883.'"

"1. The proposed corporate name of the said Company is 'The Peterborough Street Railway and Transfer Company.'"

"2. The object for which incorporation is sought is the building, constructing, and operating a street railway through the town of Peterborough, the village of Ashburnham, and the townships adjoining said town and village, all in the county of Peterborough and Province of Ontario; and the carriage and transfer of passengers' goods, merchandise and freight by rail, and by cable, carriages, waggon, or carts, within said town, village and adjoining townships."

"3. The operations of the said Company are to be carried on in the places hereinafter mentioned, and its chief place of business is to be the said town of Peterborough."

"4. The amount of the capital stock of the said Company to be one hundred thousand dollars."

"5. The number of shares is to be one thousand, and the amount of each share one hundred dollars."

"6. The names in full, and the address and calling of each of the said applicants, are as follows:—William Bruce Ferguson, of the said town of Peterborough, Railway Superintendent; Henry Read, of the same place, Accountant; Henry Rush, of the same place, Merchant; Robert Penfold Boucher, of the same place, Physician; and Robert Archibald Morrow, of the same place, Gentlemen; of whom the said William Bruce Ferguson, Henry Rush and Robert Penfold Boucher are to be the first Directors of the said Company."

"C. A. WELLS,
Solicitor for the applicants.
Dated at Peterborough, 6th October, 1883."

The British Withdrawal from Egypt.
The withdrawal of the British Troops from Egypt has been advanced by Gen. Wood's offer this week to answer for the preservation of order in the Nile Valley. The Times has published a statement that General Wood was willing that the bulk of English troops should come home. The Government will jump at this offer, and the more readily since Mr. Consul General Baring, recently appointed to that office, is a very strong man. Nevertheless the evacuation cannot be completed until Parliament be consulted. It is probable that two or three regiments will remain to give confidence to Europeans. General Wood speaks enthusiastically of the native army.

The Electric Light for Locomotives.
The Woolley electric headlight for railroad locomotives was successfully tested on the Belt road in Indianapolis lately. The light has a power of 7,000 candles, and casts a distinct illumination for a distance of over one mile. No difficulty whatever was experienced from the jarring and jolting of the engine, the light continuing as steady when the engine was in rapid motion as when standing still. A company, strong financially, has been formed to put the light in practical use at once.

What Haulan says of Courtney.
"That man Courtney only wants to have his name in the papers," said Haulan to a Telegram reporter the other day. "He thinks that by boasting about his fast time he will redeem his reputation. He doesn't mean to row me, although I am ready at any time to accommodate either himself or backer, for I don't intend that he shall either row over me or row over me while I can avoid it."

The Governor General at Montreal.
The Governor General arrived in Montreal on Monday, and was received by a guard of honour of the 65th Regiment and a royal salute. In the evening a ball was given at the Windsor Hotel which was well attended. Many ladies and gentlemen were presented to His Excellency and the Princess.

The Kingston Stabbing Affair.
KINGSTON, Oct. 15.—The two McKees, who figured in the recent stabbing affray, gave themselves up this morning. They were taken before the Police Magistrate, when they pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of cutting and wounding, and elected to be tried by jury. The case was adjourned till Wednesday.

The Burnt Roundhouse.
WINDSOR, Oct. 15.—Railway officials here believe the destruction of the round-house at Rat Portage was the work of an incendiary. Superintendent Egan says a searching investigation will take place, and hints that if suspicious prove correct the new round-house will not be located at Rat Portage.

FRANCE AND THE AGITATORS.
PARIS, Oct. 16.—The French Government has determined to act energetically against all agitators. The manager of an anarchist journal in Lyons has been arrested, and the proprietors of similar papers in Paris will probably be proceeded against.

TRIAL OF SOCIALISTS.
LONDON, Oct. 16.—A foreign Socialist, with a forged passport, has been arrested at Dover. At Olinthus, Moravia, the trial of eighteen Socialists for high treason has begun.

GALES IN ENGLAND.
LONDON, Oct. 16.—Violent gales prevailed on the English coast last night and to-day. Several wrecks and loss of life are reported.

OUTBREAK OF TRICHINOSIS.
LONDON, Oct. 16.—An outbreak of trichinosis is reported at Ermelen, Prussia Saxony. One hundred and eighty persons are suffering, and four deaths have already occurred.

RELIEF FOR THE JEWS.
ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 16.—It is announced officially that the Czar will shortly institute numerous reforms in the Russian railway system. It is also stated on authority that he will issue an edict in reference to the affairs of Jews residing in Russia which will place them on a better footing, both as regards their citizenship and business interests, and to a great extent render them less liable to the numerous attacks to which they have been subjected from the lower classes of Russians during the past year.

THE DEFAULTING SECRETARY.
LONDON, Oct. 16.—George Warden, the defaulting secretary of the River Plate Bank, has made a full confession, explaining the circumstances and manner of his stealing and disposing of securities of that institution.

THE FRENCH REPUBLIC.
BRUSSELS, Oct. 16.—Strange rumours are circulated concerning the future of the French Republic. The belief is prevalent in diplomatic circles that the Duc d'Annam will succeed M. Grévy in the Presidency of the French Republic, and that the establishment of an Orleans dynasty in France will speedily follow. On the other hand it is understood that Prince Napoleon (Bonaparte) proclaims a speedy and successful revolution, which will end in placing him on the throne of France.

O'DONNELL'S HEALTH.
LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Committee of Justice, after seeing O'Donnell and hearing the opinion of the physician that O'Donnell was in excellent health, have refused to grant the request that the prisoner be allowed to see tobacco.

EMIGRATION TO CANADA.
LONDON, Oct. 16.—The society for promoting State-aided emigration will send a mission to East London, to enquire into the condition of the working classes, with a view to ascertaining how many may feel inclined to emigrate to north-western Canada.

THE ROSLEA MEETING.
DUBLIN, Oct. 16.—Advice from Roslea, Ireland, states that the large meeting to-day was addressed by Haul, Sullivan, and Bigger. A meeting of Orangemen was held at the same time. A collision between them and the Parlatites was prevented by the police and soldiers. Many Orangemen and Parlatites were armed.

THE GEODETIC CONGRESS.
ROME, Oct. 16.—The International Geodetic Congress opened yesterday, delegates from all the European States being present. There were also in attendance four representatives from the United States. Signor Roncelli delivered an address in Latin, in which he warmly congratulated the people of America upon their first participation in the deliberations of a body having objects similar to those of the congress.

PORT HOPE.
A CASE OF SUICIDE.—The hat of the man who has been missing was found on Monday on the Queen's wharf, and on Tuesday morning his body was found near the same place by Mr. John Gamble and his brother George. They were grappling for it. There was not a scratch of any kind found upon the body, and it is quite evident the deceased committed suicide. It was considered unnecessary, therefore, to hold an inquest. He had been drinking heavily for some time past. He went to bed at about ten o'clock on Friday night, but when one went to call him on Saturday morning he had gone away, and it is thought he left the house during the night. Deceased leaves two children, a boy about ten, and a girl nearly twelve years old. His wife died a year ago last May, and Mrs. Hudson has been keeping house for him for over a year past. The wife has only received one dollar and seventy-five cents from him in money during that time.

Found in a School.
WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 15.—An alarm of fire to-day in the Elm street school building was given, and 600 children rushed headlong down stairs. Many of them were trampled upon. One had his collar torn broken, and another was found unconscious from severe internal injuries. Many were badly bruised. The fire was easily subdued. Some of the children had a narrow escape from a terrible death by being trampled on.

An Answer Wanted.
Can any one bring us a case of Kidney or Liver Complaint that Electric Bitters will not speedily cure? We say they can not, as thousands of cases already permanently cured and who are daily recommending Electric Bitters will prove. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Weak Back, or any urinary complaint quickly cured. They purify the blood, regulate the bowels and act directly on the diseased parts. Every bottle guaranteed for sale at 50c, a bottle by Taylor & McDonald.—1 600,000 BOTTLES.

For any testimonials recommending Mc-Grigor's Epidemic Cures for dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, &c., that are not genuine; none of which are from persons in the states or thousands of miles away, but from persons in and around Hamilton, Ont. THE MIDLAND DISTRICT TELEPHONE LINE.
The Midland District Telephone line, connecting Port Hope, Peterborough and Lindsay,
has been completed and opened for business.

This line runs through Millbrook, Omemee, &c.,
and the inhabitants of these places will enjoy
the full benefit of vocal communication with the people of the "Woods." One wire runs from Port Hope to Lindsay, and there are two wires
from Mount Pleasant to Peterborough.

The central office here is under the charge of Mr. A. T. Smith, who is also superintendent of the District line. It is quite proper that the head office of the district should be here, as Peterborough is the centre of the line, and there is a greater number of subscribers here than in any other place on the line, which goes to show
(if anything was needed to prove such a probable fact) that there is more enterprise in Peterborough and a larger amount of business done here.
And it is also fitting that a company which brings business men and friends, who are at a distance, into personal and friendly intercourse,
should be an abiding and friendly enterprise.

People in Peterborough can now converse with persons in Lindsay, Port Hope or Cobourg, as well as in the intermediate villages, and those who see subscribers can do so without leaving their own offices or residences. The telephone system was deemed a great convenience when it did not extend beyond the town, and its advantages will now be more appreciated by business men when it places the approaching towns in communication with Peterborough. As an instance of the convenience of the line we may state that on Monday evening an hotel keeper
in Millbrook telephoned an order into a store
here at about a quarter to eight, and the goods to be ordered were sent down on the eight o'clock train.

Toronto is now connected by telephone with Hamilton and Guelph. There is a line between Cobourg and Toronto, and a second and stronger line is being put up, which will be used in connection with the Midland District and eastern lines. Thus we will be able to communicate directly with these distant places. The system is also being extended eastward, and a line from Cobourg to Kingston is being constructed,
which will take in Belleville and other intermediate places. This line is expected to be completed in a few months. A line from Hamilton to London will also be finished, this autumn, so that nearly the whole Province will be brought into speaking distance.

The Midland District line works like a charm.
Considerable business has already been done
over it, and it will no doubt increase. It is thought by some that it will not interfere with the telegraph business as much as might be expected, as a different class of inquiries will be conducted over it. Messages will be sent by telephone that would not be sent by telegraph.

A representative of this paper was invited to try the line on Tuesday. Of course he did so,
and there is no reason why he should blush in saying that speaking to a person over thirty miles distant was to him a novel experiment.
However, Mr. Smith encouraged him by saying that it only required ordinary lungs, so he hesitated to be put on speaking terms with Lindsay.

A pleasant recognition of the salutation
"hello," came back from the Lindsay central office.

"Connect me with the Post office, please."

"They've got no telephone," said Lindsay.

"I mean the Post office," the reporter said.

"The Canadian Post," said the reporter, explained because there was not an italic key to the line, or an italic key to his vocal organs.

"I understand," replied the Lindsay central,
"but the Post has no instrument."

"Well connect me with the Warer, please."

"The Warer has no telephone either."

"Is there no printing office in Lindsay that has a telephone?"

"No, not one. You should give them a good racket about that," said the Lindsay operator.

The reporter promised to give the "racket"
as requested, and asked whether there were any subscribers in Lindsay. The operator, who must be one of the best natured young men in the world, read over the names of about thirty, but when the reporter could not speak with anyone connected with a printing office, he would not dare to talk with printing companies, railway men, &c., as he was required of the operator in the central office whether the new Midland station was completed. It was not finished, but the work was progressing. After some further conversation "good nightings" were exchanged and Lindsay was again miles distant.

Conversations were also held from this office
with Port Hope and Millbrook (the Guide has an instrument, although all it receives through it may not be true), and in every case the words could be heard as distinctly as if the speaker
was not two feet distant.

There are sixty-two subscribers (that is, persons who have instruments in their offices or residences) in Peterborough, about fifty in Port Hope and about thirty in Lindsay. The people of Omemee and Millbrook appear to be greatly pleased with the telephone, so that there will be a "boom" in instruments in these villages.

In the Peterborough central office the wires
are very neatly arranged. They enter above the window, and are drawn tightly along the ceiling to the rear of the switch where they descend to the connections. This office has also a prompt and efficient operator, the person of Miss Moffatt.

The painter in town and the posts in the streets will receive a covering of paint. Spikes on which the poles can be supported and the wires reached are first being put in, so that if it is necessary to direct the poles after they are painted they will not be damaged by the climbing
spurs. It is intended to take the wires off
the buildings and transfer them to the poles
wherever it can be done.

THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to
subscribers at ten cents a week.

This line runs through Millbrook, Omemee, &c.,
and the inhabitants of these places will enjoy
the full benefit of vocal communication with the people of the "Woods." One wire runs from Port Hope to Lindsay, and there are two wires
from Mount Pleasant to Peterborough.

The central office here is under the charge of Mr. A. T. Smith, who is also superintendent of the District line. It is quite proper that the head office of the district should be here, as Peterborough is the centre of the line, and there is a greater number of subscribers here than in any other place on the line, which goes to show
(if anything was needed to prove such a probable
fact) that there is more enterprise in Peterborough and a larger amount of business done here.
And it is also fitting that a company which
brings business men and friends, who are at a distance, into personal and friendly intercourse,
should be an abiding and friendly enterprise.

People in Peterborough can now converse with persons in Lindsay, Port Hope or Cobourg, as well as in the intermediate villages, and those who see subscribers can do so without leaving their own offices or residences. The telephone system was deemed a great convenience when it
did not extend beyond the town, and its advantages will now be more appreciated by business men when it places the approaching towns in communication with Peterborough. As an instance of the convenience of the line we may
state that on Monday evening an hotel keeper
in Millbrook telephoned an order into a store
here at about a quarter to eight, and the goods
to be ordered were sent down on the eight o'clock
train.

Toronto is now connected by telephone with Hamilton and Guelph. There is a line between Cobourg and Toronto, and a second and stronger
line is being put up, which will be used in connection with the Midland District and eastern lines. Thus we will be able to communicate directly with these distant places. The system is also being extended eastward, and a line from Cobourg to Kingston is being constructed,
which will take in Belleville and other intermediate places. This line is expected to be completed in a few months. A line from Hamilton
to London will also be finished, this autumn, so that nearly the whole Province will be brought into speaking distance.

The Midland District line works like a charm.
Considerable business has already been done
over it, and it will no doubt increase. It is thought by some that it will not interfere with
the telegraph business as much as might be expected, as a different class of inquiries will be conducted over it. Messages will be sent by telephone that would not be sent by telegraph.

A representative of this paper was invited to try the line on Tuesday. Of course he did so,
and there is no reason why he should blush in saying that speaking to a person over thirty
miles distant was to him a novel experiment.
However, Mr. Smith encouraged him by saying that it only required ordinary lungs, so he hesitated to be put on speaking terms with Lindsay.

A pleasant recognition of the salutation
"hello," came back from the Lindsay central office.

"Connect me with the Post office, please."

"They've got no telephone," said Lindsay.

"I mean the Post office," the reporter said.

"The Canadian Post," said the reporter, explained because there was not an italic key to the line, or an italic key to his vocal organs.

"I understand," replied the Lindsay central,
"but the Post has no instrument."

"Well connect me with the Warer, please."

"The Warer has no telephone either."

"Is there no printing office in Lindsay that has a telephone?"

"No, not one. You should give them a good racket about that," said the Lindsay operator.

The reporter promised to give the "racket"
as requested, and asked whether there were any subscribers in Lindsay. The operator, who must be one of the best natured young men in the world, read over the names of about thirty, but when the reporter could not speak with anyone
connected with a printing office, he would not dare to talk with printing companies, railway
men, &c., as he was required of the operator in the central office whether the new Midland station
was completed. It was not finished, but the work was progressing. After some further conversation "good nightings" were exchanged and Lindsay was again miles distant.

Conversations were also held from this office
with Port Hope and Millbrook (the Guide has
an instrument, although all it receives through
it may not be true), and in every case the words
could be heard as distinctly as if the speaker
was not two feet distant.

There are sixty-two subscribers (that is, persons who have instruments in their offices or residences) in Peterborough, about fifty in Port Hope and about thirty in Lindsay. The people of Omemee and Millbrook appear to be greatly pleased with the telephone, so that there will be
a "boom" in instruments in these villages.

In the Peterborough central office the wires
are very neatly arranged. They enter above the window, and are drawn tightly along the ceiling to the rear of the switch where they descend to the connections. This office has also
a prompt and efficient operator, the person of Miss Moffatt.

The painter in town and the posts in the streets will receive a covering of paint. Spikes
on which the poles can be supported and the wires reached are first being put in, so that if it is necessary to direct the poles after they are painted they will not be damaged by the climbing
spurs. It is intended to take the wires off
the buildings and transfer them to the poles
wherever it can be done.

THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to
subscribers at ten cents a week.

LINCOLN POLICE.

The Brandon Star says: The Winnipeg Times is very happy over a stolen despatch which it says Capt. Burden sent to the Ontario Government a day or two before the Algoma election, asking for $1,500 for police purposes.
It admits, however, that the money was not sent.

Our Brandon friend is mistaken. Such a despatch was sent, and although the Ontario Government did not send the money in reply,
it sent a despatch which was as good as money.
The Star cannot show that those despatches were stolen. The "police" were no doubt aware that Capt. Burden was securing their "pay." The abstraction of letters and despatches is simply thieving, but in this case there is nothing to show that the contents of the messages were dishonestly come by. The Star is pleased to say that the money was not sent, but it is equally pleased to say that the money was not sent.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1883.

Two News are wanted immediately at the Telegraph Office.

Wedding Dates.

Came and Confectionary from every day. Leave your orders for Wedding Cakes at O'Connell Bros.

Business Corrected.

We are requested to state there is no truth in the rumor that Dr. Pigeon does not go out at night or attend any but the wealthy.

An Act for the Editor.

Ministry Show Room opening on Wednesday next, the 18th inst. W. Fairweather & Co. will have a special display of the Latest Novelties in Millinery and Mantles. Inspection invited.

An Important Purchase.

We learn that the O'Neil block in Port Hope was purchased from the heirs of J. R. O'Neil by Messrs. "Starvation" and "Dumbie," of this town, for the sum of $24,000.

Custom House for Officers.

We are sole agents for Freeman & Shaw's Famous Baltimore Cysters, received regularly by express in fine condition. Sold in cases and by measure in quarts, pints and half pints. Order fills supplied free of charge. A reduction made to parties ordering in large quantities. Carries Home.

Marble of Change.

Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Millinery and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Coloured Dress Silks, at 50c, 75c, and $1.00 are Marvells of Cheapness, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

The Mason Company at Port Hope.

The Mason Company Company have an entertainment at Port Hope last night. The Guide says of it—

"The Masons of Port Hope. The Mason Hall was filled with over six hundred of the beauty and fashion of Port Hope last Wednesday evening. The programme presented was a first class one. Miss Mason's singing was all that had been promised. She has admirably well and is very highly cultivated—she was (immediately and enthusiastically) named. Mr. Thompson sang well; he has a pleasing voice. The Spring Quartette was one of the very best that has ever visited Port Hope; the violin and cello solos were all that could be desired. This company would again be greeted with a bumper house should they favor Port Hope with another visit. Mr. Shepherd deserves great credit for his exertions in bringing such high class entertainment to the town."

We are informed "that the singing of the simple stanzas by Miss Mason was beyond description, and will be long remembered by those who were present. The company will give an entertainment in Bradburn's Opera House this evening."

Peterborough Directory.

We have a copy of the Directory of the Town and County of Peterborough published by the Peterborough Times Printing Company. It contains much condensed information relating to this town and the various municipalities consisting the county, as well as the village of Bobcaygeon and the township of Emily and South Monaghan, which though not in Peterborough County have important business connections with us. There are also full particulars as to the officials, public bodies, societies, &c. The directory proper is an alphabetical list arranged under polling subdivisions, in voters list style, with the property and the interest in it. In the case of the Townships there is added the Post Office address which will be of great use to our merchants and others. Of course a classified business directory would be still more useful but we do not wonder at the publishers declining to undertake this course task as we found, when we proposed such a work ourselves, that neither the municipal authorities nor the business men were prepared to encourage and support such an undertaking. The work is nearly set up. Though published by subscription, there are a few copies left that may be obtained from the publisher.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

The Autumn Session of the Chancery Division in Peterborough.

CHALMERS vs. REES—An action on account for towing and supplies. Verdict for plaintiff for $193 and costs against defendant Kniffin; action dismissed as against defendant Rees.—PONSSETTE & ROGEE vs. PLATTIFF; C. Moss, Q.C., and Mills, of Ridgeway, for defendant Rees; Wright, of Port Hope, for defendant Kniffin.

BIRNBAUM vs. REES—Action for wages and supplies. Verdict for plaintiff with costs against defendant Kniffin, with reference to the Master, to ascertain the amount. Action dismissed as against Rees. In the event of a rehearing in Chalmers vs. Rees, on the question of agency, this case shall follow the decision in such verdict.—PONSSETTE & ROGEE vs. PLATTIFF; C. Moss, Q.C., and Mills, of Ridgeway, for defendant Rees; Wright, of Port Hope, for defendant Kniffin.

EDWARDS vs. ONTARIO AND QUEBEC RAILWAY—Action for having taken possession of property without compensation. Trial postponed, the defendants to do nothing further on the property for one month, so as to enable the plaintiff to go to arbitration.—C. Moss, Q.C., and E. B. Edwards for plaintiff; H. Cameron, Q.C., and G. T. Blackstock for defendant.

HARMER vs. ONTARIO AND QUEBEC RAILWAY—This was an action for trespass. In the absence of the plaintiff his father made a contract with the defendants for the right of way through the property for $81. The case repudiated the bargain, and claims $600 damages. Owing to the illness and absence of a material witness for the defence, the trial was postponed.—S. H. Blake, Q.C., and D. W. Dumbie for plaintiff; H. Cameron, Q.C., and G. T. Blackstock for defendant.

BANK OF TORONTO vs. HALL—An action to obtain payment from the Sheriff of the County and the Ontario Bank of a balance claimed to be due the plaintiff on an execution against the late firm of T. W. Robinson & Co. The question was as to the disposition of the assets of a firm and the members of a firm. Judgment was reserved.—S. H. Blake, Q.C., and E. B. Edwards for plaintiff; C. Moss, Q.C., and A. P. Ponssette for the Ontario Bank; G. T. Blackstock for the Sheriff.

Personal.

The Mason Concert Company arrived on the noon train and are at the Oriental Hotel.

How Far Successful.

There were 130 probabilities issued from the Toronto Meteorological Observatory during the month of September for this district. Of these 107 were fully verified, 13 partly verified and 10 not verified. Of the total number of 575 issued for the different districts, 457 were verified, 64 partly verified and 54 not verified.

New Boots for Ladies.

Ladies are invited to call at Foot & McWhinney's and see the latest fashionable new walking and skating boots neatly buckled at the side. This elegant boot is lined with chamois and got up in the latest and most improved style. They are unsurpassed for comfort, ease and durability, and are certain to be popular this season.

New Goods for the Season.

W. Fairweather & Co. are showing at their New Hat, Cap and Fur Store, Novelties in Ladies' Fur Mantles and Jackets. Rich Brocaded Satin and Ottoman, Black Silk Fur-lined Circassians. The largest variety of Astrachan Mantles ever shown in Peterborough. Ladies' Fur Sets in Seal, Mink, Ermine, Sable, Persian Lamb and Dog Skin. Goat Robes and Buffalo Robes cheap, at Fairweather & Co's.

Railway Extension.

The Midland Railway extension to Midland on Wednesday, from all points of the line, was very successful. About one thousand persons attended. The Peterborough excursionists arrived home at about 4 o'clock, a.m.

A despatch from Kingston on the 17th says that the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, and the Ontario and Quebec Railway are building a joint station at Sherbrooke Lake junction. The site has been filled in, and should no further sinking occur connections will be made for Ottawa at Sherbrooke Lake shortly.

My Memorial.

On Tuesday last Mr. George B. Parks, one of the late George Parks, M. D., Port Hope, and Miss Lottie R., daughter of the late James Mack, of Montreal, were united in matrimony at Oakhurst, Peterborough, the residence of Mr. R. Johnson, grandfather of the bride. The Rev. E. F. Torrance was the officiating clergyman. The room was handsomely decorated for the occasion. On the wall in the rear of the clergyman there was a large floral horse shoe, with the motto "good luck," and the initials of the contracting parties, "P." and "M." Over the heads of the bride and groom a large floral wreath was suspended on white ribbon, and there were other beautiful decorations. The bride was Miss Isabel White, of Montreal, Miss Parks, of Port Hope, and Miss Lottie Taylor, daughter of Dr. Taylor, of Peterborough. The groom was Mr. Barrett, of Port Hope. Dr. Parks, brother of the groom, was unable to be present on account of sickness. The bride was dressed in peach blossom satin, trimmed with oriental lace, and the bridemaids were dressed in white Indian muslin trimmed with lace. Little Miss Lottie Taylor looked particularly neat, preceding the bride and carrying a basket of flowers. She was to have been accompanied by Miss Nellie Bartram, who was unfortunately taken ill and unable to be present. Thirty-five guests sat down to the wedding breakfast, and a reception in the evening was attended by a large number of friends. The bride was made the recipient of 51 very handsome and valuable presents. The happy couple afterwards departed on a tour to Chicago, to visit the bride's grandmother.

Concert.

The Mason Concert Company will give one of their splendid entertainments at Bradburn's Opera House this evening. The company includes Miss Carrie Eugene Mason, Mezzo-Soprano, prima Donna, Mr. J. F. Thompson, baritone, Mr. Chas. E. Pratt, accompanist, and the Eichburg String Quartette, four ladies whose skill in playing the violin has been highly commended.

Warm with Rain.

The weather to-day has been slightly warmer. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows—Strong winds and moderate gales from the south-east with much rain, increasing during the night.

A Narrow Escape.

On Wednesday, between four and five o'clock in the afternoon an occurrence, which might have terminated in every distressing accident, took place at the intersection of Charlotte and Aylmer streets. As Mr. Thomas Greenhow was returning on foot to his residence he hailed a passing wagon with the intention of asking for a "lift." The driver kindly pulled up, and Mr. Greenhow was getting into the vehicle the horses suddenly started off at a sharp trot, and the gentleman fell prostrate—his head within a few inches of the approaching wheel. Most fortunately, by a slight movement, the catastrophe was averted, but not before the heavy wagon passed over his left arm. Strangely no bones were broken, and but for a severe bruise and a considerable shock to the system Mr. Greenhow escaped uninjured. Many will congratulate the old gentleman—we believe he is not far from an octogenarian—on his fortunate escape.

Parag on Forestry.

The following letter appears in the Mail.—Sir,—Looking into Rabelais a day or two ago I lighted on an ancient illustration of the waste deplored by Mr. Phipps. Pantagruel appoints Panurge to the lordship of Salmigondia, upon which the latter dissipates the revenue of three years in a fortnight. One of the means by which this was accomplished is given as "felling timber burning the great logs for the sale of the ashes." Those who have lived forty years in Canada have been amply familiar with this practice. But Panurge had a good word to say for his extravagance, which I fear poor Canadians had not wit enough to imagine. He says: The virtue of fortitude appears therein, by the cutting down and overthrowing of the great trees, like a second Milo, making havoc of the dark forests, which did serve only to furnish dens, caves, and shelter to wolves, wild boars, and foxes; and afford roosts, withdrawing corners and refuges to robbers, thieves, and murderers; lurking holes and skulking places for out-throat assassins; secret obscure shops for coyners of false money, and safe retreats for heretics; laying woods even and level with the plain champagne fields and pleasant healthy ground, at the sound of the hautyboys and bagpipes playing psalms with "high and State" dirges, etc. At any rate it would seem that Frenchmen three hundred and fifty years ago were no wiser than Canadians, and that the acute and witty scholar had eyes for their folly and many words for its reprehension. Yours, &c., JOHN CARRY.

Port Perry, Oct. 13.

McCabe the Escaped Convict. McCabe, who was shot at Port Hope a few days ago, commenced his career of crime at 13. He broke out of prison three times, and had received 24 lashes of the cat-o-nine tails. He was only 35 years old and had spent a score of years in different prisons.

Falling Leaves.

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the fallen leaves," says an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It was when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language—language uttered from the heart, yes, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who were sufferers from lung diseases, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

A Life Saving Present.

Mr. M. E. Allison, Hutchinson, Kan.: Saved his life by a simple Hint Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, for Consumption, which caused him to procure a large bottle, that completely cured him, when Doctors' change of climate and everything else had failed. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, and all Throat and Lung diseases, it is guaranteed to cure. Trial Bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store. Large size $1.00.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The greatest medical wonder in the world. Warranted to speedily cure Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Fleas, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Cancer, Piles, Chilblains, Corns, Catarrhs, Itching Hands, and all kinds eruptions, guaranteed to cure in every instance, or money refunded. 25 cents per box. For sale by Taylor & McDonald.

Kram's Field Lightning.

WIFE.—What's the matter now John. HUSBAND.—Oh, that neuralgia and toothache near killed me. WIFE.—Why don't you go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a bottle of Kram's Field Lightning, you know it cures all such things as toothache, neuralgia, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat, etc. It gives instant relief.

Have You Thought About It?

Why suffer a single moment, when you can get immediate relief from all internal and external pains by the use of Polson's Nerveine, the great pain cure. Nerveine has never been known to fail in a single case. It cannot fail, for it is a combination of the most powerful pain-relieving remedies known. Try a 10 cent sample bottle of Nerveine. You will find Nerveine a sure cure for neuralgia, toothache, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat, etc. Buy and try. Large bottles, 50c. by all druggists. Sample bottles only at Ormrod & Walsh's.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Dr. Winsor's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. The value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, soothes the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Dr. Winsor's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

ST. LAWRENCE CANALS.

Notice to Contractors.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for St. Lawrence Canals," will be received at this office until the arrival of the eastern and western mails on TUESDAY, the 13th day of November next, for the construction of a lock and regulating weir and the deepening and enlargement of the upper entrance of the Cornwall Canal.

Also for the construction of a lock, together with the enlargement and deepening of the upper entrance of the Cornwall Canal, or middle division of the Cornwall Canal, and the upper entrance of the Rapid Rapids Canal, together with plans and specifications of the respective works, can be seen at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's office, Dickenson's Landing, so and after TUESDAY, the 30th day of October next, and until after TUESDAY, the 13th day of November, when printed forms of tender can be obtained.

A map of the head or upper entrance of the Cornwall Canal and the upper entrance of the Rapid Rapids Canal, together with plans and specifications of the respective works, can be seen at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's office, Dickenson's Landing, so and after TUESDAY, the 30th day of October next, and until after TUESDAY, the 13th day of November, when printed forms of tender can be obtained.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—signed by the actual signatories, the names of the signatories and residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted Bank cheque for the sum of Two Thousand Dollars must accompany the tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works at the rates and on the terms stated in the specifications.

The parties thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

This department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
A. F. BRADLEY, Secretary.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1883.

The Ottawa Free Press is distinguishing itself again. Because the Bothwell election case is not progressing just as fast as it wishes it concludes an article on the subject with the following insinuation against the parity and impartiality of the Canada Bench, so deservedly honoured:—

"It would be a very serious thing were the impression to get abroad that the judges are subservient to the party chief of the Government through hope of promotion or preference."

We notice that Reform journals have a very restricted idea of "Canada." For instance the Belleville Ontario, commenting editorially upon the adoption of uniform railway time, says correctly enough:—

"North America is divided into five divisions—the Intercolonial, 60 degrees west from Greenwich; the Eastern, 75 degrees west from Greenwich; the Central, 90 degrees west from Greenwich; the Mountain, 105 degrees west from Greenwich; and the Pacific, 120 degrees west from Greenwich."

But then it proceeds to say:—

"Canada will be governed by the Eastern time."

We can assure the Ontario that although Belleville is a fine city, it is not Canada, nor for that matter is Ontario. Our Dominion extends through the five divisions.

THE BROOKVILLE REFORMER in reference to the Lennox election asks us our "opinion of Roe." Well at present our opinion is that Roe seems to be as bad as Denison, and Denison as bad as Roe, but we will be better able to form a mature opinion when Mr. Bethune has received his application for summons, as the court suggested against Roe, Denison and others, if he does renew it, thus amended. As to Muskoka we were not so difficult in news as the Recorder imagines, for we gave a graphic account of the proceedings of Mr. John Boyd, an enthusiastic Peterborough Reformer, our authority being that stalwart Reform journal the Port Hope Guide which had employed a "special correspondent." To avoid monotony we did not publish Mr. John Boyd's similar exploits in the recent Algoma fraudulent election.

THE GRAND TRUNK TO GET INTO N. Y. A gentleman on the inside of Grand Trunk policy said last night that the biggest deal yet on was now in motion, namely, the purchase of the Grand Trunk of the new West Shore line (down the west side of the Hudson and parallel with the Hudson river road) and other roads between it and the Grand Trunk system, thus carrying the war against the Vanderbilt consolidation right into New York. The Grand Trunk has got into Chicago and it is bound to get into New York. It has fought Vanderbilt's line in the west and it will fight them in the east. The Grand Trunk can get all the financial backing it requires.

The speaker then went on to say that there was talk of a consolidation of the Erie and the Central as a set off to the aggression of the Grand Trunk. This he thought would eventually be effected. For, said he, sooner or later the whole business of the north will be controlled by a Canadian line (owned entirely in England) and an American line (owned partly in England and partly in the United States). The Canadian line will be the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific consolidation, and in the American system will be the three big American lines of today knocked into one. The enormous consolidation that has taken place and is taking place will not stop where it is—it will go on till all the two mighty systems—by which time it will be in order for the two governments to take hold. And all of this is nearer than you think. Look out for a startling announcement before Sunday.

Remembered Cabinet Changes. The Mail says:—"It is understood that Sir John Macdonald proposes taking at length a step he has long suggested to him. It is that he should seek some freedom from too great labour and responsibility by taking the Presidency of the Council, retaining at the same time the control of the Indian Department. It is understood that Hon. Mr. Macpherson, who has long been acting Minister of the Interior, and is very familiar with the details of its working and with the policy it pursues, will become the actual Minister."

Dr. Sullivan Elected Bishop of Huron. At the meeting of the Anglican Synod of the Diocese of Huron, at London, on Wednesday, the Right Rev. Dr. Sullivan was elected Bishop of Huron by a large majority of votes on the first ballot. Dr. Sullivan is at present in England, and a cablegram was sent him informing him of his election, and asking him if he would accept the position.

THE PROVINCIAL FLOWING MATCH.

A Limited but Keen Competition—A Good Attendance of Spectators.

The Ploughing Match announced to take place under the auspices of the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association of the Province and for which they had granted the sum of $200 and the County Council of Peterborough $100, was held, in accordance with previous announcement on the farm of Henry Reid, Esq., Douro, on Thursday the 18th inst. Owing chiefly to the want of rain, the field selected, or rather obtained as the committee had practically no choice in the matter, was in anything but good trim for such a contest while the soil was just the kind which every good farmer would like to own plenty of, yet being a stiff clay with a rather plentiful sprinkling of rolling stones, it was in anything but a fit state for making fine ploughing. Notwithstanding these difficulties all the contestants, with a single exception, stuck manfully to his plough to the last, and we think it may be said of all of them that they had nothing to be ashamed of when due allowance was made for the difficulties with which they had to contend. Happily the weather for the day was propitious and as a consequence the field was visited by a large number of people including several from the adjoining counties. The number of entries for the twenty-one prizes offered was 16, of these, however, one did not put in an appearance and a second struck his flag after ploughing a couple of rounds—leaving but fourteen actual contestants. While all did very creditable work, the chief centre of attraction was the allcomers match in which the three counties of Durham, Northumberland and Peterborough were represented, the honor of the latter county being left in the hands of Mr. Waldon, of Lakeside, who through all the ups and downs of such contests has stuck to his plough and accepted the varying decisions of a man. The following is

THE PRIZE LIST.

All comers match, with any plough.
1st prize, James McNeil, Darlington.....$30.00
2nd do R. B. Bennett, Seymour.....20.00
3rd do Fred Waldron, Smith.....10.00
Match for those under 21 years—any plough.
1st prize, William Renwick, Harvey.....25.00
2nd do Fred Miles, Smith.....20.00
3rd do John McFarlane, Otonabee.....15.00

Match for those under 18 years—any plough.
1st prize, John Lumsden, Dumfries.....25.00
2nd do Walter McKee, North Monaghan.....20.00
3rd do Joseph Montgomery, Otonabee.....15.00
4th do Otis Kidd, Dumfries.....10.00
5th do Malcolm Reid, Douro.....5.00

Match for men with No. 40 or similar plough.
1st prize, Dan Hennessey, Smith.....15.00
2nd do John Price, Smith.....10.00
3rd do T. S. Breakenridge, Asphodel.....5.00

The Judges were Messrs. P. Bristol, of Bath, and A. V. Price, of Newburg, gentlemen who were entire strangers to every one engaged in the contest, and whose decisions, we believe, gave general, although not, of course, universal satisfaction.

Sporting Notes.

Dropped handled bars on bicycles are becoming unpopular in the Western states on account of their liability to break.

Mr. Brown, of Sutton, Eng., has made the best time on record for road riding. He made 300 1/2 miles in 24 hours.

It is said a ladies' tri-cycle club is about to be formed in Chicago, of which many prominent ladies of that city will be members.

The fifteen mile bicycle race between Keen, of England, and Higham and Prince, of Washington, for $500, was won by Keen in 40 mins., 7 1/2 sec. Prince second, Higham third.

The Toronto Bicycle Club races to be held to-morrow, promise to be a success every way if the weather keeps favorable. Between 60 and 70 entries have been received, including those of Mr. F. Westbrook, of Brantford, and Mr. Perry Doolittle, of Aylmer. Mr. W. G. Ross, of Montreal, is also expected to be a competitor. This is the first purely bicycle race meeting of any account that has been held in Canada, and with the flyers above mentioned, and the numerous local entries, bids fair to be one of the leading sporting events of the season. The prize aggregate about $250, divided among eleven events.

A Masked Burglar at Weston. On Sunday morning last the house of Mrs. Wilson, at Weston, near Toronto, was entered by a burglar. The intruder wore a mask, carried a light, and was making his way up stairs without his boots. On Mrs. Wilson moving her hands to the side of the bed the burglar evidently thought she was going to produce a revolver, and rapidly made for the door, making her if she "would like to be choked?" She then gave the alarm and some neighbours came to her assistance, but the burglar had made his escape. Nothing has been missed from the house.

Suspicious Characters.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 17.—Two men giving the names of James Holmes and William Brackett were arrested here to-day at the Parker Hotel. Two valises were found in their room containing 100 pounds of dynamite; revolvers, powder and dynamite cartridges were also found on the men when searched. They are supposed to have come from the States. Their object is not known, but it is supposed there are either dynamite fiends or burglars. They both, it is said, were in this city at the time of the Fenian scare last spring.

Remembered Extension of the C. P. R.

It is reported that the Canada Pacific Railway Company intend to construct another railway to the east of Port Arthur, to connect at Port Arthur. The proposed line will be located about fifteen miles south of the present Thunder Bay branch, and will begin west of Hawk Lake and have its terminus at Port Arthur. The construction of the proposed line will undoubtedly cost an enormous sum of money, but in order to ensure perfect safety the company will undertake the task.

The Kingston Tramway Company.

The Kingston shareholders of the street railway met on Tuesday and agreed to have each share assessed $20 in order to pay off the indebtedness. An answer is awaited from Toronto shareholders.

SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists.

A Child Burned to Death.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—A house in Hull occupied by one Bourgeois was burned down this afternoon. In the confusion a three-year-old child of Bourgeois' was left in the building until it was too late to rescue it, and was burned to death.

A Girl Sentenced to be Hanged.

HAMILTON, Oct. 17.—At the assizes here Judge Morrison sentenced a young girl, Maria McCabe, to be hanged for drowning her infant child in a cistern here a few months ago. As soon as the sentence was pronounced the prisoner put her hands to her face and broke into loud weeping.

A Life Saving Present.

Mr. M. E. A Whaling Vessel Lost.

WASHBURN, Oct. 17.—Capt. Healey, of the revenue steamer Corvus, reports the loss of the whaling bark Cyane off Port Belcher, in the Arctic ocean. The crew and cargo were saved. The security of whales made the whalermen venture, with the possibility that some would be caught in the ice. Healey recommends that arrangements be made to send out relief in the spring if required.

It Saved My Wife's Life.

This is the report of a Princeton student gentleman who had the opportunity a few nights since of testing Palmer's Nervine, the great pain cure. He prepared for any emergency by having a bottle of Nervine at hand. It only took ten seconds to test it, as you can buy and bottle at Grosvenor & Walcott's. Got a 10 or 25 cent bottle to-day. Same in rheumatism, neuralgia, cramps, colic, headache. Nervine, the cure for pain cure. At all druggists, 25 cents a bottle.

"FATE" DEFINED.

Two shall be born the whole wide world apart
And speak in different tongues, and have no thought,
Each of the other's being, and no heed—
And these two o'er unknown seas to unknown lands
Shall cross, meeting death, defying death;
And, all unconsciously, shape every act
And bend each wondering step to this one end—
That one day out of darkness they shall meet,
And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.

And two shall walk some narrow way of life,
So nearly side by side that should one turn Ever so little space from left to right
They must needs stand acknowledged face to face
And yet with wistful eyes that never meet
With groping hands and never clasp, and lips
Calling in vain to ears that never hear,
They seek each other all their weary days
And are unmet; and this is "Fate."

The reason why the surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church street, Toronto, are making so many wonderful cures of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma and consumption, are:—They have more but skilled and qualified medical men connected with the Institute. They adhere strictly to their specialty, and they use the spirometer invented by Mr. Souville, ex-able surgeon of the French army, an instrument which conveys the medicines in the form of cold inhalations to parts diseased, which is the only way these diseases can be cured. They are treating hundreds of patients every month, having twelve surgeons engaged in their work in Canada alone. The reason why the surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church street, Toronto, are making so many wonderful cures of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma and consumption, are:—They have more but skilled and qualified medical men connected with the Institute. They adhere strictly to their specialty, and they use the spirometer invented by Mr. Souville, ex-able surgeon of the French army, an instrument which conveys the medicines in the form of cold inhalations to parts diseased, which is the only way these diseases can be cured. A "Hunt" Club.

A number of the young men of the town have formed a club, to which they have given the name of the "Hare and Hunt Club." The object of the club is to take exercise in running once a week, when the hare (biped ones), are to be pursued on foot by the hunters. The first hunt came off on Wednesday evening, when a chase of some ten miles took place.

Colder Weather To-Night.

The weather-to-day has been cloudy and warm. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong winds and gales, gradually shifting to the west and north; cloudy to fair, warm weather to-day, with local showers, followed by considerably colder weather to-night or to-morrow.

New Goods for the Season.

W. Fairweather & Co. are showing at their New Hat, Cap and Fur Store, Novelties in Ladies' Fur Mantles and Jackets. Rich Brocade Sate and Ottoman, Black Silk Fur-Lined Circulars. The largest variety of Astrachan Mantles ever shown in Peterborough. Ladies' Fur Sets in Seal, Mink, Ermine, Sable, Persian Lamb and Dog Skin. Goat Robes and Buffalo Robes cheap, at Fairweather & Co's.

S. S. Association.

The programme of the eighteenth annual Provincial Convention of the Sabbath School Association of Canada, to be held at Cobourg on the 23rd, 24th and 25th insts., has been issued by the Committee. On the 23rd, in addition to the committee reports, there will be addresses from the retiring President and the President elect, and a paper on "The Sabbath School, an authorized and fruitful field for the working power of the Church" to be given by Rev. Principal Nelles, D. D., President of Victoria University. On the second day, Professor C. C. Case will deliver an address on "Sabbath School Music" and a council of the Sabbath School teachers will be held, when matters affecting preaching will be considered, the council being led by Dr. M. McVicar, Professor of Christian Didactics in McMaster Hall, Toronto. In the evening addresses will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Wild, Rev. H. M. Parsons, and Rev. T. W. Jeffery, of Toronto. On the third and last day the Council will be resumed, and there will be a conference and discussion on the Sabbath School from the various standpoints of the pastor, the teacher, and the superintendent. Several addresses will be delivered during the afternoon, and the Hon. S. H. Blake, Q.C., will speak in the evening.

The Mason Concert.

The Mason Concert Company gave one of their splendid entertainments in Bradburn's Opera House on Thursday evening. The attendance was meagre, and it was unfortunate that it was so, as the entertainment was one of rare excellence. The Richmond String Quartette, composed of Miss Lillian Shattuck, 1st violin, Miss Letitia Leander, 2nd violin, Miss Emma Grebe, viola, and Miss Laura Webster, cello, brought forth excellent music from their instruments, and were deservedly encored. The violin solo by Miss Shattuck and the cello solo by Miss Webster were really good, and they received a merited recall. Although the music of the cello alone is not very pleasing, the manner in which it was played brought a loud encore. Mr. J. F. Thompson has a good baritone voice which is well trained, and his rendering of the classical songs and the more popular ballads was exceedingly good. The principal feature of the entertainment was the singing of Miss Carrie Eugenie Mason. This lady has a voice of rare power, and the applause that followed each song was loud and enthusiastic. Mr. Chas. E. Pratt discharged the duties of accompanist in a creditable manner.

To Housekeepers.

Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpets, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

Fire Brigade Practice.

The members of the hose company of the Fire Brigade were called out at seven o'clock on Thursday evening for a practice. A few of the firemen were in the hall when the bell rang. Four minutes after the call sounded five streams were thrown from five hydrants, and the streams were powerful ones. The drill lasted nearly an hour, and will be of benefit to the brigade. The telephone connection with the pump house was found to be useful.

New Hoses.

Five hundred feet of new hose for the town arrived on Thursday evening. Three new canvas branches with brass nozzles have also been purchased, and the brigade will be better equipped when next called upon to do battle with the flames. The branches have straps on them, so that the branchmen will be better able to hold them. This was necessary, as was seen at different times when the hose was attached to the waterworks' hydrants and two or three firemen could hardly hold the branches.

Obiter Dicta.

The mid-day train was nearly half an hour late. Mild, damp and drizzling has been the weather programme here to-day. Temperature, 57.9°.

Eight members of the Salvation Army—four women and four men—arrived by the mid-day train in full regimentals. The former look remarkably well fitted to carry on a protracted seige. One was armed with a tambourine.

A day or two ago a lady escaped a terrible accident through the presence of mind of Mr. Joseph Buller, baggage-master at the Midland station. She was about to enter the outgoing Toronto train while it was in motion, slipped and would have fallen between the car and platform had not Mr. Buller rescued her.

Marvels of Cheapness.

Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Colored Dress Silks, at 50c, 75c, and $1.00 are Marvels of Cheapness, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

Suspicious Characters at Halifax.

The dynamite, which Holmes and Bracken now say they obtained in New York for mining purposes, is of the most dangerous character, containing about 75 per cent. of nitro glycerine. The prisoners are at the county goal, and have not secured any counsel. The case is postponed till Monday.

Suicide Before Marriage.

UPPER SANDWICH, O., Oct. 17.—Fowler Berry, a prominent young merchant, who was to have been married last evening, shot him self dead in his store, leaving funeral directions.

Portuguese Rising.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A report from the Portuguese frontier says that 3,000 armed peasants assembled at Valencia Domitro, Province of Vienna, and raised cries for the Republic. A small detachment of troops were sent to disperse them. Severe fighting ensued and several persons were wounded on both sides. The troops were compelled to retreat. Reinforcements of cavalry and infantry have been sent from Oporto.

SCOTLAND.

THERE was a grand show of chickens at Forfar on the 22nd Sept.

It is proposed that the British Association should meet in Aberdeen in 1895.

A Stag with eleven tines, and weighing about 18 stones, was shot at Marykirk on the 22nd Sept.

The Duke of Portland and party have had fair sport on Bremsors. They killed 16 stags, 400 brace of grouse, besides hares and rabbits. The bazaar held at Cellardyke on the 21st September, in aid of the building fund of the new church at Pietermaritzburg, South Africa, realized £290.

The Sanitary Congress at Glasgow closed on the 29th Sept. with a workingmen's meeting, at which Dr. Alfred Carpenter lectured on "Public Health, a winning aim's question."

The original bulata in the Royal Infirmary Edinburgh, for lifting patients and food, &c., not having proved quite satisfactory, the managers have erected six patent direct acting hydraulic lifts.

MUTINY OF FRENCH CONVICTS.
PARIS, Oct. 18.—One hundred and fifty Annamite convicts, erecting a lighthouse on the island of Ponto Canor, 120 miles east of Point Cambodia, and belonging to French Cochina China, mutinied, murdered a Frenchman and a native warden, and seriously injured another Frenchman. Sixty of their seized arms and stores, and decamped in boats. The rest fled to the woods.

MOODY IN COCK.

CORK, Oct. 18.—Several roughs assembled outside the hall in which Moody was holding his revival, and made an attempt to interfere. The police guard the hall nightly. Moody's mission at Limerick is a success.

SEVERE GALES IN ENGLAND.
LONDON, Oct. 18.—High tides and severe gales prevail on the coast, and numerous marine casualties are reported. The Saxon funnel is again flooded. Vessels arriving in the Humber report they experienced terrible weather. Limerick is partially flooded.

DUFFERIN AND THE SULTAN.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—The Sultan gave a banquet last night at Constantinople to Lord Dufferin, British Ambassador, and conferred a decoration upon Lady Dufferin. Lord Dufferin assured the Sultan of the sympathy and friendship of England.

REAPPEARANCE OF CHOLERA.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The cholera has again appeared in an Arab village outside the city of Alexandria. Four persons have died.

MR. SHAW'S INDEMNITY.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The Temps says that the payment of 50,000 francs indemnity to Mr. Shaw, the British Ambassador, is entirely voluntary on the part of France, and that the subject provoked no discussion at the Cabinet meeting at which it was decided to indemnify him.

REFORMS IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—It is believed that Premier Ferry will recommend in his forthcoming report a revision of the constitution, which will include the abolition of Senatorships.

DECEIMATED BY PLAGUE.

GUAYMAS, Mex., Oct. 18.—Advice from Alta report that the population is decimated by yellow fever, the deaths averaging twenty a day for the past two weeks. On October 3rd Alta was struck by a hurricane and several people killed and the greater part of the town destroyed. The inhabitants sought refuge in the mountains. Several miles of railroad track were torn up and a bridge blown down. The depot and machine sheds were the only buildings left. The private losses are $50,000. With fever and hurricane the misery is terrible. The collector of the port is among those killed by the hurricane.

THE NEW CABLE.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Messrs. Siemens are expected to be putting the cable on the new Mackay & Bennett cable new ship manufactured by them at Charleston, S.C. Woolwich. They will form a duplicate line from Ireland to Nova Scotia, continued from Nova Scotia by special cable to Cape Azores, and having a branch line from Ireland to France.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1883.

MR. MEREDITH'S POSITION.

Mr. Meredith is unique. It does not like Mr. Meredith's position, as none of his friends would expect to desire that it should. Indeed, the less it likes him, so much the better in their estimation. There are some men and some papers, and the Globe is among the number, is a thing not to be desired. No one needs to be told that the Globe never finds fault with any one belonging to its party, and never publishes any one opposed to it, and that just in proportion as a man is in a position to frustrate or checkmate the little games of the little clique which it has now come to represent, in proportion are the vials of its wrath poured out upon his head. Consequently the fact of the Globe being uneasy and concerned about Mr. Meredith and his doings is the best evidence which his friends can have of the strength of his present political position and the trembling with which the Mowattites look forward to the coming meeting of the Legislature.

As usual, for the hundredth time at least, the Globe repeats its statement that Mr. Meredith, "at the back of Sir John Macdonald, turned his back upon himself" on the boundary question, and that he is now "perfectly willing to spoil his own Province of nearly half its territory." Well knowing all the time that such a statement is not only a malicious falsehood unassailable by a single fact, but that the official records of the Legislature Assembly prove it to be such.

Whether it would or would not have been to the interest of the Province had Mr. Meredith joined Mr. Mowat in demanding a ratification of the Award after the Dominion Parliament had distinctly refused to do so, is of course a matter open to discussion, and about which the Globe has the same right to its opinion as we have to ours, viz.: that Mr. Meredith pursued the wise and statesmanlike course, while Mr. Mowat pursued that of the demagogue. But we need not discuss this point now, seeing whether rightly or wrongly the people of this Province have in the most practical manner declared in favor of Mr. Meredith's policy on this question and against that of Mr. Mowat, by rendering the latter's policy practically impossible for at least another four years.

As this is the important and practical point with which the newly-elected Legislature will have to deal, let us, even at the risk of repetition, briefly recapitulate the facts which lead up to and justify this statement: The Mowat position was, and is, for aught we know to the contrary, "the award" good or bad, right or wrong. That was the issue presented by the Mowat Government and its friends to the electors of this Province in the Dominion elections of 1882, as opposed to the policy of the Dominion Government, that the matter should be referred to the Privy Council. Well, in that contest even the Globe will not deny that the people of Ontario accepted the policy of Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Meredith, and rejected that of Mr. Mowat and we presume of Mr. Blake. True the Globe attempts to break the force of this defeat on the ground that the N. P., not the boundary, was the chief issue in that campaign. But even if we grant that it proved that the Ontario people preferred the N. P., with a reference to the Boundary dispute to the Privy Council, to the award without, or rather with Mr. Blake's modified N. P.

But what of the election of last February? The boundary question was then surely the chief issue. Did the people then give Mr. Mowat the increased majority for which he begged, and which the Globe then declared was necessary to enable this Province to secure a ratification of the award? Not a bit of it! Instead of giving Mr. Mowat an increased following, they, according to the Globe's own figuring, increased Mr. Meredith's over fifty per cent, or from twenty-five to thirty-eight, and gave him a majority of the ballots deposited in the ballot boxes. And yet, in the face of this great fact—in the face of the admittedly increased following which Mr. Meredith will have in the new House—the Globe informs its readers that if he has not "absolutely snuffed himself out" yet that he has done a great deal in that direction.

Well, if it pleases the Globe, it won't hurt us in the least to call Mr. Meredith's success in the recent elections a "snuffing out" of himself. It will not make the slightest difference, so long as it becomes an accomplished fact, whether the transference of Mr. Meredith to the leadership of the Government and that of Mr. Mowat to the leadership of the Opposition, be called a snuffing out of the former and an elevation of the latter, or the reverse,—the result will be the same, and the best possible proof that the Mowattites know that that happy day is near at hand, is the Globe's present uneasiness and anxiety about Mr. Meredith's position—an anxiety which is not unnaturally increasing as the time for the meeting of the Legislature draweth nigh.

CABINET CHANGES.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Mail, under date Oct. 18th, writes as follows:—The public will not be unprepared to hear that Sir John Macdonald has decided to relinquish the portfolio of the Interior, which since his return to power as First Minister in 1878 he has held in conjunction with the office of Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs. In consequence of the rapid settlement of Manitoba and the North West Territories, which has been largely owing to the unprecedented vigor with which the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway has been prosecuted, the Department of the Interior has become one of the largest and most important of the Dominion departments, and required the undivided attention of the Cabinet Minister who may be placed at its head. When Sir John Macdonald visited England for his health about two and a half years ago the Hon. D. L. Macpherson became acting-Minister of the Interior, and since that time, as is well known to the public, Sir John Macdonald has had his assistance in the administration of the affairs of the department. It will be gratifying to friends of the Government to know that the Premier has taken a step which, while relieving him of departmental toil, will afford him more time to devote to the political interest of the country, and the duties which appertain more particularly to the office of First Minister, and it will also be gratifying to them to know he is succeeded in the Ministry of the Interior by Mr. Macpherson, whose intimate knowledge of the department acquired while he has been acting-Minister, added to his long experience of public affairs, should specially fit him for the discharge of the onerous duties which he had undertaken. All the public interests affected by his administration will, we feel sure, be well and zealously guarded, and a broad and generous policy carefully and boldly carried out to conclusions thoroughly in unison with the most enlightened thought of the party and country. In the new head of the Department of the Interior long-ago settlers will find one as anxious as his predecessor was to promote their welfare. The Prime Minister becomes President of the Council, retaining the office of Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs and controller of the North West Mounted Police. These positions are quasi-political, as disputes and troubles are apt to arise owing to the Indians of this and the neighboring country crowding into each other's territory, and are therefore very appropriately assumed by the First Minister.

CAMPELLFORD.

PROPERTY.—The Herald says that, from what it can learn, there is not a single vacant residence in the place. This is certainly one index of the growth of the village.

EXPORTATION.—Mr. Whitton continues very active in the business of exportation. Last week he shipped a large number of cattle and some days later, a large number of sheep.

SHIPPING FROGS.—Frog meat has lost none of the deliciousness which the American epicure claims for it, for shipments from this side continue even as late as this in the year, and the demand for it is as brisk as ever. Mr. Rodrick Keller of Seymour, who is an expert in catching frogs, still finds employment about the streams, and made a shipment of frog meat a few days ago. The frogs are now large, fat and healthy, are less numerous than during the early summer, but captured with less difficulty when discovered. Mr. Keller has made many a dollar by this industry.

THRASHING MACHINE ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday, at about 10 o'clock, a thrashing machine accident occurred on the farm of Mr. John Burns, about four miles from this village, and it is truly wonderful that the victim thereof was not instantly killed. Mr. Frank Deacon, who was working near the thrasher, got caught by the clothes in the shaft of the machine near the gearing, and was trundled round and round several times, each time striking against the thrasher. The workmen stopped the machine instantly and went to his assistance. Deacon's clothes were torn completely from his body, his side was injured, some of his ribs are (at the time of writing this) supposed to be broken, and his head badly bruised. Dr. Byam was immediately sent for, and he did what he could to relieve the injured man, who is we believe, on a fair way to recovery.

NEWBOLD.

CHANGED HANDS.—The Register says that Mr. W. H. Stacey, of Havelock, has purchased Mr. Askey's pump factory.

PROPERTY SOLD.—At the auction sale of village property at McGregor's Hotel, on Saturday, Mr. J. C. Elliott, purchased three lots on Kidge street, at $155 each. Mr. Elliott, we believe intends building shortly.

MONDAY SATURDAY, LEON.—On Friday afternoon Mrs. R. A. Hamilton, last between Mr. Reynolds store on Peterborough street, and Mr. Butterfield's residence on Queen street, a money satchel containing 4 $1 bills and some silver and copper.

A FATAL FATAL ACCIDENT.—A young son of Mr. Henry Cope's, while playing in the school grounds on Wednesday, met with a probably fatal accident. It appears that young Cope and a number of other boys were playing "pull away" and that while running across the grounds Cope was accidentally tripped, and so severely injured that he was unable to get up quickly. The consequences was that the boys coming immediately behind were in their turn tripped by Cope, and falling on him rendered him insensible. The young fellow was carried home and placed under medical treatment. He is scarcely expected to recover.

The Cockburn Island Fraud.

The Toronto Evening Canadian has the following remarks:—

"The Peterborough REVIEW calls attention to the report in the Globe of a Presbyterian missionary on Cockburn Island, and rightly conjectures that if there are any Presbyterians enough there to guarantee that church in sending them a missionary, there must be electors enough of all denominations to make it a gross fraud on the freedom of election for Mr. Mowat to refuse Cockburn Island a single poll-tax place. No doubt Mr. Mowat would sooner subscribe to send there a missionary than permit them a polling place, when that polling place was likely to give a majority against Mowat. The REVIEW forgets that Mr. Mowat is a Christian statesman."

OTONABEE.

I. O. G. T.—Balsam Grove Lodge I. O. G. T. was re-organized on Wednesday evening. Bro. W. Stewart was elected W. C. T. and Bro. Geo. Washburn W. S. The evident pleasure of all with the reorganization, and the earnestness exhibited by the members, augur well for the future success of the Lodge, which will doubtless soon occupy its former standing among the Lodges of this order.

MILLBROOK.

ACCIDENT.—The Messenger says that on Friday, 5th Oct., at the residence of Mr. Wm. Shaw, front of Cavan, while unloading wood a large stick fell on a smaller one, snapping it in two, one part flying up about ten feet, falling and downwards on the head of Mr. Shaw's little two-year-old son, cutting a hole in his head. The child was brought to Dr. Burnham, who called Dr. Turner in for consultation, when they discovered the skull was fractured. Having put the little patient under the influence of chloroform, a careful examination was made and a portion of the skull was found depressed, making pressure on the brain. This was raised and put in place with some difficulty. We understand the little one is since doing well.

O'Donnell's Strongest Defence.

The strongest point made by O'Donnell's defence has been made by O'Donnell himself. In the course of a recent interview he pooh-poohed the idea that he killed Carey in obedience to the order of a secret society, or that he was in any way a professional venger. "They take me for an idiot, do they?" he says. "In a few days more Carey and I would be ashore in the bush, and in fifty places where I could shoot him unknown, (such a thing were in my mind). Suppose they think I'd prefer to do it in a public cabin on board ship with people all around so that I might be hanged?" This view will, no doubt be strongly urged by his counsel, and may have some influence with a mixed English and foreign jury, to which O'Donnell is entitled if he can prove his American citizenship.

A Life Saving Present.

Mr. M. E. Allison, Hutchinson, Kan., saved his life by a simple Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, for Consumption, which caused him to procure a large bottle, that completely cured him, when Doctors, change of climate and everything else had failed. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, and All Throat and Lung diseases, it is guaranteed to cure. Trial Bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store. Large size $1.00.

Buckley's Arnica Salve.

The greatest medical wonder in the world. Warranted to speedily cure Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Cancri, Piles, Chilblains, Corns, Tetters, Chapped Hands, and all kinds eruptions, guaranteed to cure in every instance, or money refunded. 25 cents per box. For sale by Taylor & McDonald.

Kram's Fluid Lightning.

WIFE.—What's the matter now John. HUSBAND.—Oh, that neuralgia and toothache near killed me. WIFE.—Why don't you go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a bottle of Kram's Fluid Lightning, you know it cures all such things as toothache, neuralgia, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat etc. It gives instant relief.

A REMARKABLE RESULT.—W. A. Edgar, of Franklinville, was a terrible sufferer from Chronic Kidney and Liver Complaint, and at one time was so bad that his life was despaired of. He was cured by four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. The use of Pills, Salts, Castor Oil &c. and other nauseous, griping Cathartics is unnecessary. A pleasant substitute is found in Dr. Carter's Bitters, which act as a Cathartic without griping or causing nausea. All Druggists sell it 50 cents a Bottle.

TORONTO'S CHRISTMAS SHOW.
Preparations for a Large Display of Live Stock—A Liberal Prize List.

An experiment of an interesting nature is about to be made in the Fat Stock Show to be held in this city on the 14th and 15th of next December. This show which is to be after the model of the great Christmas Stock Show at Chicago, originated in the suggestion of Mr. Wade, Secretary of the Ontario Agricultural and Arts Association. That Association at once adopted the suggestion, and a committee from it met the Toronto Electoral Division Agricultural Society, with the result that several months ago the Societies agreed to co-operate in establishing a Great Central Christmas Fair for the Province, or at least making a first attempt in hopes of the results justifying their expectations. The Committee of Management consists of C. Drury, M.P.P., John Carnegie, M.P.P., George Moore and J. C. Small from the Provincial Society; and Andrew Smith, V. S., William Rennie, J. J. Withrow, and J. E. Mitchell from the Toronto Society, with Dr. Smith as Chairman, J. P. Edwards, Treasurer, and Mr. Wade, Secretary. Each Society grants $500 towards the expenses of the Show, and this amount is expected to be supplemented from entry and entrance money, etc., sufficiently to provide for the payment of prize money and all expenses.

THE PRIZE LIST.
The Society prizes amount to $1,108, and special prizes are offered by individuals which bring up the aggregate in money to $1,434, an amount which, in conjunction with the superior opportunities afforded by the Toronto market in making sales, will, it is hoped, induce a very large number of stock raisers to exhibit. In thoroughbred cattle twelve prizes amounting to $245 are offered; grades or crosses of any breed receive corresponding prizes; the amounts in each class ranging from $10 up to $40. In addition to the money prizes for thoroughbreds given by the association, a silver cup, valued at $100, is offered by Mr. John Hope, of the Canada West Farm Stock Association, for the best fat Shorthorn steer or cow of any age. Fifty dollars are offered for sweepstakes on cattle, and $225 in addition by private parties for the best cattle of any breed. The prizes for sheep, long woolled and middle long woolled, bring up a handsome total of $335, while hogs take $210, and poultry $68. Butchers' stock only will be eligible to compete for premiums, and animals that are to be used hereafter for breeding purposes will be excluded from competition. A number of animals are to be slaughtered at the show, after the manner of the Chicago Exhibition, and the carcasses will be carefully weighed, part by part, offals, and the results given. This feature promises to prove especially valuable for purposes of comparison. The animals to be slaughtered will be placed under the control of a committee, in order that they may receive the same food and care until the day of slaughtering, and they will be weighed and dressed under the direction of the committee. Entries must be made with the Secretary on or before December 1, and be in the exhibition stalls early on the first day of the show. Entry fees are $2 for each head of cattle, $1 for each hog or sheep, and 25 cents for each fowl. Single car loads of cattle will be entered for $5. Forage and bedding will be supplied by the committee on application to the Superintendent of Forage. The rates to be charged will be very reasonable.

THE PRINCIPLE OF JUDGING.
There are to be three judges on each awarding committee. The principle upon which the judges are to make awards is the greatest weight in the smallest superficies, taking into consideration age, quantity of flesh, and distribution in the most valuable portions of the carcass. This principle of judging will commend itself as sensible, and no doubt its application will be viewed with considerable interest. The place of exhibition has not yet been decided on. The Street Car Company have been approached in the hope that a portion of their immense stables on Front street, which are well adapted for the purposes of an exhibition, might be secured. There are several other places in contemplation more or less suitable for the exhibition. The building finally decided on will probably be lighted by the electric light.

ADVANTAGES OF THE FAIR.
This is the first show of the kind attempted in this city, and stock breeders look with concern to ascertain whether the experiment will prove successful. The advantages which the city presents for the disposal of choice meat are very great, particularly at Christmas time, and if very high prices are to be obtained anywhere in Canada no doubt the animals exhibited at the show will obtain them. The Chicago Fair, which is similar, has surpassed the expectations of its promoters, and aided in developing the live stock trade. A proper combination of interests will no doubt result in a proportionate success for the new departure about to be made here.

A GREAT SHOW PROMISED.
Already several of the leading breeders of the peninsula, among them Geo. of Elmira, and Gibson, of Iderton, have signified their intention of making large exhibits, and assurances are received that at least four hundred of the choicest fat cattle in the Province will be at the show. An additional attraction to farmers will probably be a great sale of Shorthorns, under the auspices of the British American Shorthorn Association, which is to co-operate with the Provincial and local societies in making the fair a very important event of the year in the annals of the live stock trade. —Globe.

Howford's Acid Phosphate.
A VALUABLE NERVE TONIC.
Dr. C. O. Howford, Milwaukee, Wis., says: "I have used it in my practice ten years, and consider it a valuable nerve tonic."

THE BABY.
Where did you come from, baby dear?
Out of the every where into here.
Where did you get your eyes so blue?
Out of the skies as I came through.
What makes your forehead smooth and high?
A soft hand stroked it as I went by.
What makes your cheek like a warm, white rose?
I saw something better than anyone knows.
Whence that three cornered smile of bliss?
Three angels gave me at once a kiss.
Where did you get that coral ear?
God spoke, and it came out to hear.
Where did you get those arms and hands?
Love made itself into bonds and bands.
Whence came your feet, dear little thing?
From the same box as the cherub's wing.
How did they all first come to be you?
God thought about me and so I grew.
But how did you come to us, you dear?
God thought about you and so I am here.
Geo. Macdonald.

FROM ALL OVER.
LIVING BISHOP, the "mind reader," has recovered.
It is believed now that only two hundred deaths were caused by the earthquake at Chio.

NEGOTIATIONS are in progress between the Vatican and Russia with the view of obtaining the restoration of the expelled bishops.
NERVOUS EXHAUSTION, and all diseases arising from youthful indiscretions are speedily and radically removed by that wonderful remedy known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine, an advertisement of which appears in another column.
The city of Weston, Washington Territory, was totally destroyed by fire last night. A few brick stores were the only buildings that were saved.

TRIED IN TORONTO.—Mrs. Mary Thompson, of Toronto, reports the removal of eight feet of tape-worm by the use of one bottle of Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup. This medicine is reliable for all kinds of worms that afflict children or adults.

THE trustees of the Garfield National Monument Association have invited an international competition, open to all artists, for supplying the design.

A NUMBER of ignorant peasants in Styria, who had been persecuting and plundering the Jews in their midst, have been sentenced to imprisonment for 22 years.

A COMMON ANNOYANCE.—Many people suffer from distressing attacks of sick headache, nausea, and other bilious troubles, who might easily be cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It cured Lottie Howard, of Buffalo, N. Y., of this complaint and she praises it highly.

REPORTS from the Northwest assert that the wheat crop was badly frozen in September. Thirty elevators are refusing to receive this wheat. It is reported that three-eighths of the crop, amounting to four millions of bushels, were frost bitten.

CAUTION.—We advise all who are afflicted with a cough or cold to beware of opiates and all medicines that smother and check a cough suddenly, as serious results surely follow. Hagar's Pectoral Balsam loosens and breaks up coughs and colds in a safe and effectual manner.

THE reason why the surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church street, Toronto, are making so many wonderful cures of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma and consumption, are—They have none but skilled and qualified medical men connected with the Institute. They adhere strictly to their speciality, and they use the spirometer invented by Mr. Souverelle, ex-ade surgeon of the French army, an instrument which converts the medicines in the form of cold inhalations to parts diseased, which is the only way these diseases can be cured. They are treating hundreds of patients every month, having twelve acres engaged in their work in Canada alone. Send a three cent stamp for a copy of their International News, published monthly at 173 Church street, Toronto.

The Bishopric of Huron.
According to appointment, the Synod of Huron met yesterday to hear Bishop Sullivan's answer. The cablegram was read declining the honour in the following words:—"Most grateful to Synod, but duty to Algoma compels me to decline." Considerable confusion ensued for a few moments, and not till four ballots had been taken was there a sufficient majority to secure an election. At length Dean Baldwin, of Montreal, having received the majority of both lay and clerical votes, was declared elected Bishop of Huron, and word was sent him inquiring if he would accept the position.
The Synod adjourned till 8 o'clock to await his answer. At that hour a message was received from Dean Baldwin accepting the office.

Lord Melgund.
Lord Melgund, private secretary to the Marquis of Lansdowne, is in many respects a remarkable man, and one who has already made his mark in the world. At Eton and Cambridge he was noted for athletic achievements, and for his horsemanship he has long been known, having won several steeplechases. At twenty-two he entered the Scots Fusilier Guards. He was in Paris during the Commune and acted as correspondent to the Evening Post at the headquarters of the Carlist army in Navarre. He was on the staff of the British military attaché in the Russo-Turkish war; served under Roberts in the Afghan campaign, and saw active service in Egypt, being wounded at Magyur. Lord Melgund has also written for the Illustrated Catechism. Two months ago his Lordship married Miss M. C. Grey, daughter of the late General Grey.

Cerepalsy.
The following diet is recommended by Prof. Ebbstein, of Göttingen:—
Breakfast—A large cup of black tea without milk or sugar; 50 grammes of white bread with plenty of butter.
Dinner—Soup (frequently with bone marrow), 120 to 180 grammes meat, boiled or roasted, with fat gravy—fat meat being preferable; a small quantity of vegetables, particularly leguminous, but also all kinds of cabbage. Turnips are excluded because of the sugar contained in them; potatoes are altogether excluded. After dinner some fresh fruit, when in season, as dessert; a salad or baked fruit without sugar. Two or three glasses of a light wine. Soon after dinner a large cup of black tea, without milk and sugar.
Supper—In winter regularly, in summer occasionally, a large cup of black tea without milk and sugar. An egg or some fat roast meat, or both, sometimes fat ham, smoked or fresh fish, about thirty grammes of white bread with plenty of butter, and occasionally a small quantity of cheese and some fresh fruit.

Falling Leaves.
"There is something inexplicably touching in the fallen leaves," sighs an esteemed author. "There is, there is, indeed, it is when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language—language uttered from the heart, yes, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung disease, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Down's Vegetable Balsamic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity."

New Goods for the Season.

W. Fairweather & Co. are showing at their New Hat, Cap and Fur Store, Novelties in Ladies' Fur Mantles and Jackets. Rich Broad Satin and Ottoman, Black Silk Fur-Lined Circulars. The largest variety of Astrachan Mantles ever shown in Peterborough. Ladies' Fur Sets in Seal, Mink, Ermine, Sable, Persian Lamb and Dog Skin. Goat Robes and Buffalo Robes cheap, at Fairweather & Co's.

A Squirrel Hunt.

This morning about 7 o'clock a red squirrel came running down George street on the sidewalk, followed by half a dozen of the small boy who, it is supposed in this case, to use an old adage, had the good fortune to be numbered among "the early-bird-catches-the-early-worm" portion of the inhabitants of this mundane sphere. The chase was kept up on both the part of his squirrelship and the small boy with much vigor, and some clever dodging was done on both sides, when the destroyer of bookworms struck a bee line through the arcade, across the market square, and vanished in the distance like the morning mist before the rising sun.

Ladies, remember that Turnbull keeps, and has always kept since they have been introduced here, Ball's Celebrated Health Preserving Corsets.

The Salvation Army.

Peterborough had a visit on Friday from several of the most distinguished officers of the Salvation Army in America, all in full regiments. The party included Major Moore, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Captain Wain, of Toronto, chief officer in Canada, Capt. "Happy Bill" Cooper, of London, Lieut. Woodyard, of Lindsay, and the following female officers:—Capt. Hall, of Toronto, Capt. Abbie Thompson, of Kingston, Capt. Nellie Ryerson, of Belleville, and Miss Annie Moore daughter of the Major. "And we're all saved," said Capt. Abbie, as the reporter noted down the last name. The party arrived on the noon train, and went east to Belleville at 4.05 on the Grand Junction. They put up at the Moray house, and when on the way to the Midland station they sang a hymn through the streets. At the station they also, at the request of some persons there, sang another hymn in a subdued tone, and they sang it very nicely. While here the officers looked about for suitable barracks, as they have for some time contemplated attacking Peterborough. They did not secure a hall, however, and Capt. Wain was unable to say when he would direct an attack to be made upon this town. Major Moore is a man a little larger than the medium size, with side whiskers and a mustache, and is rather a fine-looking officer. He wore a dark cloak, with a cape over his shoulders. Capt. Wain is a much younger man but is quick and intelligent. But Capt. Thompson and Capt. Ryerson attracted the most attention at the station, as they walked about the waiting room with their arms around each other's waists, like two happy school-girls, and this evidence of their affection for each other was supplemented by a hearty kiss. It is not surprising that Capt. Abbie and Capt. Nellie have been so successful in their campaign. Wonder if the army sent here would be commanded by either of them?

To Housekeepers.

Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpets, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

Sharp Frosts.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong winds and moderate gales from the north-west, gradually decreasing in force; generally fair, cooler weather, with a few passing showers; sharp frosts at night.

The Fort Hope Music Hall Stock.

The Fort Hope Guide contains the following:—Messrs D. W. Dumble and J. Stevenson, of Peterborough, the new proprietors of the Music Hall Block, were in town on Thursday. Mr. Dumble informs us that they intend to erect a gallery in the Music Hall, enlarge the stage, and otherwise put the hall in first-class repair. They will also put plate glass fronts in all the stores, and fit them up in good style. Messrs. Stevenson and Dumble are the sole proprietors now; Mr. Cox or Mr. Bradburn have no interest in the investment.

These neat, tight fitting Ulsters in Tweed Patterns you see on the street every day are, many of them, made at Turnbull's.

A Chapter of Accidents.

Mr. Charles Grenier, while skidding logs on Thursday at Bridgenorth, slipped and fell between two logs, and his head was severely jammed. He is now recovering. On the same day a man at Mr. Hilliard's mill had his arm torn by a circular saw, inflicting a severe wound. Dr. Kincaid, who was telegraphed for on Friday morning by Dr. Bell, of Lakefield, to visit Mr. Patrick Scott, an account of whose injury appears in another column, thinks it very doubtful whether he will recover.

Railway Notes.

The Lindsay Warder of Oct. 19th says that the iron structure of the new railway bridge over the Scougore here is almost in place, and a day or two more will suffice to have everything ready for the final tightening and screwing down of the plates and bolts. Then all it will require will be a good coat of paint. It is expected trains will begin running over it at the time the new time table comes into force—in about a couple of weeks.

The Midland train was an hour late at noon, and the Grand Junction train nearly two hours late.

St. Paul's Church.

Owing to a mistake that was made at first in computing the figures in the tenders, the contract for making the alterations, additions and improvements to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church has been re-let. Mr. A. Rutherford has secured the contract, the price being $24,900, and Mr. J. J. Hartley will do the mason work and excavating. The work will be commenced at once, and those well-known builders will no doubt do their work well, as that they are capable of doing so is shown by the buildings which they have erected in the town. The plans are elaborate, and when the work is completed the congregation of St. Paul's will have a magnificent edifice in which to worship.

Personal.

Mr. Alfred E. Hayter, editor of the Millbrook Messenger, has been confined to his house by illness for some weeks. We are pleased to learn that he is recovering.

The Port Hope Times says:—
"The many friends of the Rev. John Shaw in this town will regret to learn that, owing to ill-health, he has been compelled to retire from the ministry. We are confident all will join with us in wishing that the reverend gentleman may speedily be restored to his wonted health and strength. The Methodist pulpit can ill afford to lose the services of so earnest and devoted a worker as the Rev. Mr. Shaw has proved himself to be."

The Times has fallen into an error in stating that the Rev. Mr. Shaw has retired from the ministry. He was given leave of absence for two months by his congregation, and that time will have expired next month. We are pleased to learn that Mr. Shaw's health is so far improved that it is hoped he will be able to resume his pastoral work by that time.

The Battle of the "Golden Lion."

Quite a commotion was caused on George street on Friday afternoon by what is now known as "the battle of the Golden Lion." Messrs. Fair, VanEvery & Co. leased the store formerly occupied by Mr. Bradburn, and which is owned by the latter gentleman, over the door of which reposes the famous beast as a sign. Mr. Bradburn wishes to get possession of the lion, and for that purpose he sent men to take it down from its lofty position. The firm, however, disputed their right to do so, and when the men put up scuffling and ladders to remove it they were taken down. The battle was waged for some time, the generals being Mr. Fair, on the one side, and Mr. Bradburn on the other, with Mr. McMaster as his chief aide-de-camp. A large crowd gathered around and witnessed the bloodless conflict, and appeared to enjoy the fun. Finally, however, the attacking party had to retreat, and the lion, which was an unmoved spectator of the scene of which he was the cause, still occupied his position over the door. The firm claim that the lion is part of the premises occupied by them, and that Mr. Bradburn verbally agreed to leave it where it is, but this Mr. Bradburn disputes. This afternoon another attack was contemplated and for some time the movements of each army was jealously watched by the other. The police gave warning that they would not allow the streets to be blocked on Saturday afternoon, not even for an event of such importance, and a ruse was proclaimed until Monday. Hostilities have therefore ceased for a time. Some of the engines of war were removed from the field of battle, but others are still there.

Among the New Mantle Cloths just received at Turnbull's you will find a nice piece of Cream Sealotte, very cheap. Just the thing for Babies.

POLICE COURT.VEZATION CHARGE.

SATURDAY, OCT. 20.—Elias Burnham and Wm. Kelly, appeared on an information laid by W. H. Robertson, charging them with stealing a quantity of potatoes. The prosecution applied for an enlargement, but the Magistrate said that from what he knew of the case he believed the case to be vexatious, and as there would be no dispute as to the facts, an enlargement was not necessary. The evidence of Mr. Burnham and Mr. Robertson was taken, from which it appears that Mr. Robertson and Mr. Carlisle had owned the land in which the potatoes were grown. Mr. Burnham had a mortgage given by Mr. Carlisle. Mr. Robertson occupied the property and arranged with Mr. Carlisle as to rent. Last June the mortgage was foreclosed, and Mr. Burnham received a vesting order from the Chancery Court, and on the strength of this deed claimed a share of the potatoes. He gave Kelly orders to take them, and five bags were taken. The charges were dismissed, Mr. Robertson to pay the costs.

Fire in Otonabee.

On Friday morning, between one and two o'clock, two barns, stable and driving shed belonged to Mr. David Crowley, of Otonabee, were destroyed by fire. The fire was a disastrous one consuming all Mr. Crowley's grain and farming implements, including a reaper, mower, sleighs, harness, &c. Two teams of horses were burned in the stable. The fire originated in a shed in the rear of the barns, but how it was started is unknown, the supposition being that a tramp had been sleeping there and caused the blaze. A neighbor of Mr. Crowley saw the flames and awoke the family in time to save the house. The loss is estimated at about $5,000, to which there is only an insurance of $1,000.

Quinces, Peas, Peaches.

Oranges, Lemons, Apples and fruit of all kinds in season. Fennel, Haddies, Bologna, Ham and Spiced Meats. Also a choice stock of family groceries at CARTON BROS.

Marvels of Cheapness.

Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Coloured Dress Silks, at 50c., 75c. and $1.00 are Marvels of Cheapness, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

That fresh lot of Dress Goods has arrived at Turnbull's. Call early if you wish to secure any particular shade. They are extra value and selling fast.

THE ANATOLIA EARTHQUAKE.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—Later details show that the first accounts of the earthquake in Anatolia were exaggerated. At Vourlo, where 200 houses were destroyed, only 100 persons were killed and seven injured. A thousand inhabitants are quartered in tents outside the village. Ten hospitals have been opened. Altogether 57 persons were killed and 150 injured in that district. This represents the total loss of life, although 10,000 persons are homeless. At Chama only one-fifth of the houses were damaged.

PEACE DECLARED.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A despatch received here announces that a treaty of peace has been signed between Chili and Peru.

NO INDEMNITY YET.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The Temps denies that the French Government has agreed to a treaty regarding the amount to be paid Madagascar.

AGRICULTURAL OUTRAGE.
DUBLIN, Oct. 20.—Daniel Luce, a ballist, was found brutally murdered in county Cork. It is supposed to be an agricultural outrage.

STAMPING OUT SOCIALISM.
BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The Red Cross Socialists arrests continue. The police say members will be deported from the Russian territory. The Government has been especially active in hunting them in the Polish provinces, and a great number of arrests have been made in Warsaw. At Lodz, a town which has been made the centre of the agitation, about 75 miles from Warsaw, members of the third section claim to have abundant evidence of treasonable acts.

FIRE FOR INSURANCE.
AGENTS, Oct. 21.—Several Jews have been arrested and placed on trial charged with having fired their synagogues for the purpose of obtaining the benefit of the insurance.

THE CATHOLIC COLLEGE.
ROMA, Oct. 21.—An interview to-day Cardinal Jacobini said the Pope had decided to adopt a new plan for the proposed Catholic College in England, without reference to the opposition of Cardinal Manning to its establishment at Oxford.

GALES IN EUROPE.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—Terrible gales have prevailed along the Baltic coast and through Northern and Central Germany. Many lives have been lost and buildings have been wrecked. Fishing boats and other vessels have been wrecked near Lubek and Loochow. The ancient castle of Schwerin, capital of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, has been blown down.

RIVAL FACTIONS.
DUBLIN, Oct. 20.—Freeman's Journal demands that the Government shall prosecute the leaders of the Orange meeting at Rome. It states they were armed.

THE COLLIERIES DISASTER.
LEITH, Oct. 20.—Twelve bodies have been recovered from the Wharfedale-Carlton disaster. The searchers worked all night removing the debris.

A FATAL AVALANCHE.
MEXICO, Oct. 20.—An avalanche at Catania buried six men. Five were killed.

BANQUET TO PARNELL.
DUBLIN, Oct. 10.—Mr. Parnell has accepted an invitation from the promoters of the Parnell testimonial fund to attend a banquet in his honour on Dec. 10.

LEAGUE MEETING PROHIBITED.
DUBLIN, Oct. 20.—A number of Irish League meetings announced to be held in the county of Cork have been prohibited by the authorities. Lord Spencer, Lord Lister, and Lord Dunsany have been asked to remain a considerable time. He will visit Glendene and Sir Evelyn Wood.

THE NEW CABLE COMPANY.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—The certificate of organization of the New American, British and Continental Cable Company, with a capital of $150,000, has been registered.

MADAGASCAR.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—Nothing is known at the Foreign Office in regard to the reported offer to Madagascar by the French Government of an indemnity of 80,000 francs. Earl Granville has, through the British ambassador at Paris, sent a long despatch to the French Government stating that extensive losses have been sustained by British subjects trading with Madagascar and other parts in Madagascar. Lord Granville leaves the total amount of indemnities to be claimed from France to be fixed hereafter, as claims are still being lodged at the Foreign Office. It is now reported that the amount will be £500,000. No reply has yet been received from Paris.

BLACK SEA PIRATES.
PARIS, Oct. 20.—A correspondent at Istanbul, on the Russian frontier, telegraphs the following:—"Night before last the Russian police at Kertch made an attempt to arrest the chief of a band of pirates, whose lucrative exploits have caused a sort of panic along the whole northern coast of the Black sea. The chief pirate escaped, but evidence has fallen in the hands of the authorities disclosing astonishing facts that not only the great bulk of the sea-faring population on the Sea of Azov, including the Government pilots, are in active complicity with the pirates, but that several of their boldest operations were directed by one of the highest functionaries of the Crimea, and suspicion even points to the complicity of one of the Russian residents at Kertch. About twenty Crimean merchants are also compromised in the affair. The method usually adopted by the pirates was to exhibit false signals, so as to lure vessels straight on the dangerous reefs of the Crimean coast. The crews were then left to perish on the rocks or murdered. After the vessel had been pillaged, and the pirates had helped themselves to what they needed, the cargoes were transferred to other vessels, placed at the disposal of the pirates by their silent partners at Kertch and elsewhere, and conveyed to Constantinople, Varna and Odessa, where they were sold in open market.

EARTHQUAKE AT GIBRALTAR.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—Three shocks of earthquake in quick succession were felt shortly after midnight at Gibraltar, and another at two o'clock this morning. The direction of the movement was north. The duration of the shocks was 10 to 20 seconds each.

THE TONGKIN DIFFICULTY.
LONDON, Oct. 21.—A special English envoy is going to Siam in consequence of the threatened French encroachments in that country. Earl Granville has advised Marquis Tseng that English mediation between France and China for the settlement of the Tongkin question must be undertaken only as a last resort. The Chinese ambassador has asked the French Prime Minister for a conference on Wednesday next. The Marquis is now less and less hopeful of a peaceful solution of the difficulty.

TRICHININOSIS IN GERMANY.
BERLIN, Oct. 21.—Trichinosis is spreading in the vicinity of Krasleben. The doctor fears that 20 per cent of the cattle will result fatally.

THE ORLEANS PRINCES.
PARIS, Oct. 21.—It is reported that the Extreme Left will, upon the assembling of the Chamber, demand the expulsion of the Orleans Princes.

ESCAPE OF MIDHAT PASHA.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 21.—It is now understood that Midhat Pasha, who has been in confinement in Arabia, and who was reported to have been released, simply escaped, and is at Medina in defiance of orders of the Porte. It is said he is in possession of important State secrets, and announces his intention of making his way to England at once.

THE LEAGUE PLEASED.
DUBLIN, Oct. 20.—At the Irish League meeting last night resolutions were passed expressing the hope that the principles enunciated in that address will be applied by the British Government in Ireland, and that the American tour of Lord Coleridge will serve to enlighten his views and enable him to advocate self-government for Ireland.

AMERICAN.
A BRUTAL HUSBAND.
DETROIT, Oct. 20.—In the Wayne County Circuit Court, Detroit, Lovell Benedict began a divorce suit yesterday against Elias Benedict, to whom she was married at Buchhorn, Kent county, Oct. 1878. The bill recites that in the winter of 1882 Benedict took his wife into the north woods of Michigan, and there made her do manual labour fit only for a strong man. She was forced to pull one end of a cross-cut saw, setting logs in a swamp. She frequently fainted from exposure and over-work. Once he threatened to burn her on a heap of logs, and tortured her with a red hot iron, and with salt and vinegar, to make her promise to apply for a divorce. The final allegation is that Benedict has wasted his property and sold their home for a mere pittance, and now neglects to support her. (The complaint is now 25 years old.)

The massacre at Mase.
The Paris Mase publishes a narrative by a French officer, giving particulars of the massacre of natives at Mase by French sailors. It says that after the natives ceased resisting they were driven from the burning village, unarmed, and were shot down in piles. The Frenchmen afterward murdered the wounded.

A Consistent Offender.
The law requires returning officers to transmit returns of elections to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery "within ten days after he has ascertained the result of the poll." The returning officer in Algonquin has accordingly transmitted the result of the poll, but he refuses to transmit his return to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery. As every step in the Algonquin election has been in defiance of law, the returning officer is determined to be consistent and to continue to defy the law to the end. —Hamilton Spectator.

An Item for the Ladies.
Military Show Rooms opening on Wednesday next, the 24th inst. W. Fairweather & Co. will have a special display of the Latest Novelties in Millinery and Mantles. Inspection invited.

A Meeting set for Monday.
In these times when our Newspapers are flooded with patent medicine advertisements, it is gratifying to know what to procure that will certainly cure you. If you are bilious, blood out of order, liver inactive, or generally debilitated, there is nothing in the world that will cure you so quickly as Eucalypti Bitters. They are a blessing to all mankind, and can be had for only fifty cents a bottle at Taylor & McDonalds.

TRY AN OLD REMEDY.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—Nothing is known at the Foreign Office in regard to the reported offer to Madagascar by the French Government of an indemnity of 80,000 francs. Earl Granville has, through the British ambassador at Paris, sent a long despatch to the French Government stating that extensive losses have been sustained by British subjects trading with Madagascar and other parts in Madagascar. Lord Granville leaves the total amount of indemnities to be claimed from France to be fixed hereafter, as claims are still being lodged at the Foreign Office. It is now reported that the amount will be £500,000. No reply has yet been received from Paris.

A Tribute to Alexander II.
The corner stone of the church to be erected upon the spot where the Emperor Alexander II was killed, was laid yesterday by the Czar and Czarina with imposing ceremonies, in the presence of court officials and nobility, and a vast concourse of people.

Attempted Train Wrecking.
PROVIDENCE, Oct. 20.—An attempt to wreck the Worcester passenger train was made this evening. A sleeper, secured on the track, was discovered by a freight train on another track. The danger signal was given. The train struck the obstruction, but with sufficient force to cause no damage.

Telegraph Lines in the North West.
The Great North-Western Telegraph Company are rushing line construction rapidly in the Far West, and will soon have communication with all important points. A new and substantial line is being built concurrently with railway construction on the M. and N. W. railway, and will reach Minnesota by the 1st of November.

Hardening Stock.
The old fashioned idea that exposing stock to the cold in winter hardened them had at least this basis of truth. It took off the soft spots, and left only the bones and skin. Besides, it destroyed the less hardy animals, and, though often stunting the growth of those that lived, they had generally a capacity for enduring cold. The small chaggy Shetland ponies are examples of what this method will do for horses, but this is a direction in which few horsemen will wish to proceed.

Bitten by a Rattlesnake.
St. CATHARINES, Oct. 19.—A young man named Thomas Arthur, whose home is under the mountain near Ancaster, was bitten by a rattlesnake last week. He was working in the field binding grain. He put his hand under the shiel, and must have touched the snake, which he did not see hidden under the straw. The rattlesnake put its fangs into his wrist, and he has suffered greatly from the bite. Although the surrounding part of the flesh was cut out and the wound cauterized the poison has spread through his system.

Free Fight in a Church.
BELLEVILLE, I. I., Oct. 18.—While an organist was giving in a church here last night Wm. Smith and Capt. John Sackett, brothers-in-law, quarrelled, and exchanged blows. Their friends joined, and a free fight followed. Lamps were knocked out and brackets broken. Women and children made frantic efforts to leave the building, and many were knocked down and trampled upon. Ten persons were injured, including the pastor, who was seriously kicked and beaten. Smith was carried home on a stretcher. Sackett is confined to bed.

A Useful Word.
A correspondent of the London Times writes:—"I find the article 'the' occurs 260 times in first column of the Times for sales of average, say 1,000 times on every page, making 16,000 for the entire copy, equal to 48,000 letters. Now, if we reckon that every line in a column numbers 60 letters—taking leading articles typical of the sample—and that a column is made up of 180 lines, then we learn how 6,000 letters are consumed. And so we come to ascertain that an ordinary copy of the Times devotes eight columns of letters to the article 'the.' Surely this little verbal parasite might with advantage be stamped out."

A Snake Trapped.
Miss Nellie Whitney, of Kingston, N.Y., recently had a novel experience in snake-killing. Miss Whitney was going out calling, and, on opening the front door that leads out to a piazza, she was startled to see a big snake coiled under her feet. She stepped back in a hurry, and then, stopping to think for a moment, made up her mind that if she opened the door a little the snake would come in, and then, shutting the door with a slam, she could squeeze it to death. Her idea was speedily put in practice, and the reptile was killed in the novel way she had planned. The snake measured four feet in length.

The Alaskan Seal.
An interesting description of the habits and manner of capture of the Alaskan seal has recently appeared in a western exchange. The breeding grounds of the seal are abandoned during the winter, but early in May the more energetic males paddle along the coast and select their territories. Having determined their estates, they seek an elevated point, and watch the sea for the coming of the females. Soon the expected males appear, and a race to meet them ensues. The race frequently ends in a struggle, of which the female is an interested spectator. Thereupon the considerate male, and the strongest seal carries her home to his particular cave or beach. The capture of one male does not suffice, however, and the watch is again kept until as many as twenty females are secured by the victorious male. The defeated ones sometimes secure only one or two wives, and so the law of natural selection is enforced. Gossiping between estates is strictly guarded against by the jealous males, and wives and offspring are alike chastised if detected outside the boundaries of their lord's domain. In killing the seal, only the males from two to five years are taken. The skins are generally prepared in England.

Why grumble at every little thing? Nobody cares to know anything about it. If you have toothache, get the dentist to remove it. Don't increase your misery and try to make others unhappy by talking about it. How stupid a subject of conversation is aching tooth or two. Can you expect sympathy? PROVINCE AGAINST PROVINCE.

Thus to its policy of continually setting Province against Province and fostering sectional feelings within the Dominion of Canada, the Globe is again accusing the Quebec members of the House of Commons of maintaining their own rights but refusing similar justice to the other Provinces. The immediate accusation is that the Quebec members, in the debate on the new Liquor License Act, voted in favour of reserving to their province the right to license the sale of legal prohibition, but that when Mr. Blake proposed that the rights previously exercised upon this question be guaranteed to the other provinces also, the Quebec Blues joined in voting down the resolution.

This is a deliberate misrepresentation by the Globe of the facts of the case. The falsehood was exposed by the Globe's own reporter at the time. Then the Globe was attacked for a while, but now that it thinks there has been time for forgetfulness of the facts it calmly repeats its exploited falsification.

As was shown at the time there was a wide difference in the existing position of the different Provinces. In Quebec the municipalities had at the time of confederation certain rights as to prohibition, and these had ever since been maintained intact, being still operative at the moment of the debate. The continuation of these old and valid rights was requested, and was very properly granted.

In Ontario, the Province in which our readers are chiefly interested, and as to which the question was principally raised, the situation was very different. Certain rights had existed at the time of confederation, but the Province, being overruled by Provincial Legislation, and were non-existent at the period of the debate. Instead of Mr. Blake's motion being for the maintenance of rights existing law it was for reviving the ante-confederation legislation, which had been discarded. Even the plea advanced that such amendment was claimed to be beyond Provincial legislation, was an empty quibble, for even if invalid the legislation might at least be taken as an expression of Provincial opinion.

There was also another important point. The new License Bill, which Mr. Blake, in pursuance of his policy, was endeavoring to thwart, was not retrograde on this point, as he argued, but was more advanced in regard to prohibition than the existing legislation for which his friends were mainly responsible.

The Globe is not rendering a service to its party leader by reviewing their question, for it necessarily revives the recollection of the contrast between Mr. Blake and his supporters thwarting and opposing temperance legislation on the one hand, and Sir John Macdonald and his friends on the other hand introducing and successfully passing the license measure most favourable to temperance ever adopted by any English-speaking legislature.

It will also recall to memory the fact that it was on this very question that Mr. Blake stood in the middle of a quotation which, if completed, would have shown that the statute enacted, the very opposite of what he was maintaining it to mean, a piece of strategy which may or may not be allowable in the law courts, but which out of them is certainly not considered honest or reasonable. It showed that the leader of the Opposition preferred a hit at political adversaries to either temperance or truthfulness.

New York Stocks.

Towards the close of last week Wall street had recovered much of the confidence and security that it had recently felt the want of. On Wednesday the transactions were larger and brisker than for some time past. Indeed the previous characterized those of the morning as extraordinary. Could it be that he is going to continue his energy to his own stocks. Sage prophesied a rise in prices without any such effect.

John Bright to Visit America.

It is announced that John Bright will visit America next spring, and it is probable that he will deliver addresses in the great cities of the Union. Englishmen are jubilant over the fact that their great statesman has at last consented to visit their country across the water.

A Heavy Lateral Saddle.

Police Inspector French, of Dublin, has entered a suit against United Ireland for $100,000 damages for the publication of a statement that he had absconded with money belonging to the secret service fund.

PORT HOPE.

PRESENTATION.—Constable Rinkin, who shot the escaped convict McCabe, while trying to arrest him, was presented with a purse containing $125 and an address on Friday afternoon by citizens of Port Hope.

ONEMEE.

A LARGE APPLE.—The Herald says:—Mr. Wm. Mills, of Emily, has left at this office one of the finest apples we have ever had the pleasure of seeing or eating. It measured 1 1/2 inches in circumference.

PRESENTATION.—Miss Mills Enright, who was for a long time organist of the Methodist Church, was on Tuesday evening addressed and presented with a beautiful silver tea service.

MILLBROOK.

A RAID ON THE ITALIAN CAMP.—A correspondent of the Port Hope Guide writes as follows:—On Wednesday night last a party of nine or ten young roughs who had been attending the fair at Bethany, and who had got pretty full with whiskey, undertook to rob the Italian camp near that village, but the Italians wouldn't be robbed—not much. They made a sortie and captured two of the would-be robbers, tied them together by their thumbs, then went to the oord and kept them in that position until the next morning, when the whole camp escorted the prisoners to Millbrook, where an investigation took place before Alexander Ferguson, Esq. An Italian was then employed by the Italians. The prisoners, who proved to be young men, farm hands in the vicinity, were remanded until Friday morning, and then released. The Italians, about one hundred and fifty strong, were a disgusted crowd. Public opinion here is with the prisoners.

BOWATON.

BRIDGES.—The Independent says the alterations to the Sewing Bridge are completed, and Mr. Kennedy, the foreman of the works, has made a first class job. Previous to the repairs it took four men to swing the bridge, and frequently delays were occasioned in getting the men together. Such a tangle and a struggle was it, that like a hand fire engine though you might catch a man at it once it was extremely difficult to catch him a second time. The work might be full of men at one moment, but let the bridge be swung, and like a flash not a soul was to be seen, with the exception of the look master left solitary and alone. Now the bridge works with a key and a child could swing it as easily as winding a clock. Mr. Kennedy has skillfully superintended the job and the iron work is most creditable to the foundry of Mr. Law, of Peterborough. If any other swing bridge were required in the neighborhood, Mr. Law should certainly be consulted. The approaches are being filled in by the council and the bridge will be in use in a few days.

CATTLE.—A drove of cattle was collected in the yard of the Rokeby Hotel on Monday morning to be shipped to Buffalo. The drove contained 100 head and were chiefly two or three year old steers. A large proportion were fairly bred animals. The farmers are beginning to find that it pays to give more attention to their stock. Cattle buyers do not give cheap prices for the same breed animals no matter what they are. Mr. Dick had paid $25 and $35 for the same aged steers.

BROWN.—Mr. Macdonald, the contractor of the Fenelon Locks, paid a flying visit to his quarry on Pigeon Lake, some five miles in being, on Sunday. The removal of the top covering of the dam is being done. The dressed stone is being removed to Fenelon as fast as possible so as to clear the yard before the close of navigation.

Canada's Future.

The era of "boom" will soon set in in Canada, if it has not set in already. Mighty railways like the Pacific line of America do for a country in a few years or even months what a century of creaking wagons will fail to do. Towns and villages appear as if at fairy bidding. As the road nears completion, the enthusiasm of the workers grows apace. The sight of the Pacific sea was to the Ten Thousand. When the three thousand miles of line are finished the progress of the Dominion will have assumed another phase. That Canada has a great future in store is no doubt. The Dominion has its weaknesses, but they are far less frequent than its assets. The severe cold in winter, which is the only drawback to the rich lands of Manitoba, should create a hardy race of men, unless expertises contradict itself. With inexhaustible coal and mineral wealth, the Canadian North West is at that happy stage of social development when there is land enough for everybody, when labour is highly paid, and when it is not worth a man's while to be lazy. It is the golden age of a country, about which it cannot make the much while it lasts. But, just as children are impatient to become men, a country is impatient of childhood and hastens to reach maturity. The Dominion is anxious to fill a larger place in the eye of the world, and one may safely prophesy its success. Given a vast and rich country, with an energetic population commencing its energy to every settler who sets foot upon its shores, and a railway traversing the land from one end to another, nothing short of the superhuman would seem able to stop the Dominion from a career of prosperity.—London Times.

These Times Didn't Count.

Our West and neighbour of the Grit persuasion, in one of its frantic spells, exclaims: "What would our Tory brethren say if Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. Blake, Mr. Mowat, Mr. Hardy, Mr. Fraser, or any other leading men of the Liberal party should be named by the election courts for bribery or corruption?" It strikes us that Laframboise, Mackenzie's Minister of Justice; Jones, Mackenzie's Minister of War; Anglin, Mackenzie's Speaker of the House of Commons; Malcolm Colin Cameron, Herman H. Cox, Capt. James Norris, and others are or were pretty high up in the ranks of Gritism. The able editor should work up a little indignation over the irregularities of his own brethren in the political faith.—Pittsburgh Press.

Worse Than Feckless.

It is foolish to decry the country at one moment, and the next to express surprise that immigrants do not come here instead of going to the States. Nothing seems to give the Grit organs so much pleasure as the announcement of a business failure. The return of hard times would no doubt be looked upon as a painful joy.—Toronto Telegram.

The Chief of Police has received a telegram from the Chief Constable of Colborne that a horse and buggy were stolen from T. O'Dell. It was a chestnut mare, no white on it, about fifteen hands high, with a plaid set of harness, and top buggy with all the springs.

We are sole agents for Frederick & Silas's Famous Baltimore Oysters, received regularly by express in fine condition. Sold in cases and by measure in quarts, pints and half pints. Oyster shells supplied free of charge. A reduction made to parties ordering in large quantities. CASPER BROS.

A Good Opportunity.
A few new boys are wanted at this office to sell the DAILY EVENING REVIEW. Smart boys, who will attend to their business, can make plenty of pocket money after school hours. One little fellow named Charman has been making from 75 cents to $1.25 per week, for the last two years, while attending school every day. Other boys can do the same.

Real Estate Changes.
At the auction sale at the Chase House on Saturday, conducted by Mr. C. Stapleton, lot 22 (broken) in the 13th concession of English, containing seventy acres, a part of the Brough estate, was purchased by Mr. Geo. Webber for $1,325. Park lot E, south of Brough and east of Concession street, in the village of Lakeside, four and a quarter acres, was sold to Mr. J. H. Branch, for $325.

A Wall Collapsed.
The work of rebuilding Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger's carriage factory has so far been done on the west end, and was pushed on vigorously so that it could be completed. The eastern half was unloosed on this morning, when a rope was attached to a horse on the east end and pulled it down. When it came down the whole wall on the eastern end of the building fell down and the west half of the north wall came near falling with it.

The "Golden Lion."
The Golden Lion war has ceased for a time, a strategic movement on the part of the army in possession having placed the cause of contention out of sight. The lion has been taken down for repairs, and when the officers of the invading host came out to reconnoitre at an early hour this morning it was nowhere to be seen. The expedition after the golden lion, which immortalised Janson, was nothing to this contest about the golden lion.

New Goods for the Season.
W. Fairweather & Co. are showing at their New Hat, Cap and Fur Store, Novelties in Ladies' Fur Mantles and Jackets. Rich Brocade Satin and Ottoman, Black Silk Fur-Lined Circulars. The largest variety of Aspranese Mantles ever shown in Peterborough. Ladies' Fur Sets in Seal, Mink, Ermine, Sable, Persian Lamb and Dog Skin. Goat Robes and Buffalo Robes cheap, at Fairweather & Co.

An Advertising Bazaar.
A car passed through here on the Midland line on Saturday belonging to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, which contained an exhibit of farmers' produce and had been raised in Dakota. It was a sort of agricultural fair on wheels. The name of the owner of the farm on which the produce were said to have been grown was attached to the vegetables, but some samples had no name to them. We cannot say whether these were from lands owned by Messrs. Peck or Rydman, but if they were their names were carefully concealed. The samples shown in the car may have been raised in Dakota, as several gentlemen who had been in Manitoba, on visiting the car, said that a better exhibit could be gathered in our North-West.

Personal.
The Rev. S. A. Dyke, manager of the Canadian Baptist, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church on Sunday.

Thanksgiving Day.
Thursday, November 8th, has been appointed a general holiday throughout the Dominion for the purpose of returning thanks for the harvest and the blessings of Providence.

Quinces, Pears, Peaches.
Oranges, Lemons, Apples and fruit of all kinds in season. Finest Haddies, Bologna, Ham and Spiced Meats. Also a choice stock of family groceries at CASPER BROS.

A Good Idea.
The Young Men's Christian Association has arranged with Dr. Clarke to deliver addresses at intervals during the winter on useful subjects to young men. The lectures will be principally on hygienic subjects, and will no doubt be largely attended. This is a good idea, and one that will doubtless be followed by beneficial results.

To Housekeepers.
Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpet, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

Slightly Warmer.
The weather yesterday was clear and cold. To-day has been cloudy. The weather probabilities for this district, for the next four hours counting from 1 o'clock a.m. this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderately to fresh north-east by east winds; fair to cloudy weather; stationary or slightly higher temperature.

Changes in Legal Firms.
Mr. N. D. Beck, of the firm of Hutton & Beck, barristers, &c., has gone to the North-West to practice his profession. He will take up his residence in Regina, the capital of the North-West. Mr. Beck is a gentleman of considerable ability, and will no doubt be successful in the far west. Mr. E. R. Wood, formerly of Edmonson & Wood, has entered into partnership with Mr. G. W. Hutton, and the firm will hereafter be known as Hutton & Wood. Mr. Geo. Edmonson continues in the office of the late firm of Edmonson & Wood.

Pencil Yarn.
Clear and cold yesterday. Cloudy and still today.

The Midland train was only ten minutes late at noon.

A few flakes of snow fell on Saturday. We are informed that there was quite a sprinkling of it on the "Link" line.

The police cells were very antiseptic on both Saturday and Sunday night.

A case for infraction of the Liquor License Act was called in the Police Court this morning and adjourned until to-morrow on account of the non-appearance of the plaintiff.

The new wharf at the end of Wolfe street is taking shape.

Constable Craig placed a man in the Ashburnham lock-up on Saturday night for being drunk. He regained his liberty when he became sober.

The lumber for the Newwood-school building is being shipped from Mr. Hazlett's mill. It is towed to Hastings by Mr. Calcutt's steamers and then steamed to Newwood.

The clerk sent out the usual notice for the Town Council to-night. In addition to the posters have been issued (not by the clerk), and an advertisement inserted in the REVIEW, so that the fact that a meeting is to be held will be well known.

Railway Notes.
The London Free Press says that Mr. A. F. Yarker, who has held responsible positions on the Midland and Grand Trunk Railways, has been appointed General Superintendent of the Erie and Huron Railway. Mr. Yarker's courteous demeanor to all will tend to popularise the E. & H. with the travelling public.

The fourth abutment of the Ontario and Quebec bridge across the Otonabee is almost completed, and work has been commenced in the two remaining piers.

The Mail says that the reported cost of the preliminary survey of the proposed extension of the Belleville and North Hastings Railway on Thursday last, and is to continue the same until completed. He will be assisted by a staff of assistants such as are required to effectively perform such work. The Review learns that the probability of the extension gives great satisfaction in the north country, and that a liberal subscription for that purpose was given at St. Catharines. It believes a sign of right progress has already been raised in the village of Madoc, and that sum can be considerably increased if necessary. In addition to the Belleville promises $1,000 and the Midland Railway $500. A meeting of the subscribers is to take place in that village on Friday evening next, to arrange various matters in connection with the work, and report.

Marriage of Chenevix.
Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Colored Dress Silks, at 50c., 75c. and $1.00 are the marvels of the occasion, at W. Fairweather & Co.

Sporting Notes.
The University of Toronto Football Club defeated Trinity College University last week by twenty-six points to three.

An unknown Boston horse named Frank, on the track at Morrisania, N.Y., yesterday made, with running mate, a mile in 2:11, which has only once been equalled.

Never, says an English paper, has there been such a season for lawn tennis as that of 1883. The game is progressing by leaps and bounds. A hustler has all but fully made up his mind to visit Australia this winter, starting the middle of next month. He has received gratifying assurances of the confidence of the people on the antipodean continent. Several gentlemen have offered to find the money necessary to back him against all and every comer.

The Halifax scare.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 19.—Since the arrest of Holmes and Bracken, the two men suspected of connection with an infernal dynamite conspiracy, the six British war-ships in port are more carefully guarded from secret operations that might directed on them. At night-time particularly, extra precautions are taken, boats with strong forces of men being placed around and about the ships. Vice-Admiral Comberford to-day made an inspection of the suspicious articles found on the prisoners, and stated they were exactly suited for an intention such as the men are suspected of. To-morrow he will order the chief gun instructor to the flagship Northampton to fully explain to the law officers the serious harm that could be caused by the proper use of the sophisticated explosives and apparatus.

A Bad Game.

The New York Herald makes the following graphic introduction to its description of the shooting affray in that city on Wednesday:—At two o'clock yesterday morning John Irving, burglar and ex-convict, lay dead with a bullet in his brain. Near by John Walsh, porter, with a wound in his forehead, lay on the ground, and a very few yards away a third man, who was clutched in the fingers of the other. They lay in the shadow of "Sham" Draper, burglar and convict, and outside the door a despoiled trap-ridden with a man sinking away in the street, in whose pocket was a discharged weapon, and who was the burglar and ex-convict Billy Porter. Harry Hope, son of burglar and convict Jimmy Hope, stood in the doorway. With him was Bill Yonburg, burglar and ex-convict, and Nathaniel Beck, forger and shoplifter, stood in a closet a few paces from where the dead men were lying.

Reserve Power a Necessity.

It is not wise to work constantly up to the highest limit of which we are capable. If the engineer of the railroad were to keep the speed of his train up to the highest rate he could establish with his engine, it would soon be used up. If a horse is driven at the top of his speed for any length of time, he is ruined. It is well to try the power occasionally, of a horse or engine, by putting on all the motion they will bear, but not continuously. All machinery constructs their machines so that there will be a reserve force. If the power required is four horses, then they make a six horse power, in this case it works daily, and lasts longer, but in this case it works only to do twelve horse power of labor in twenty-four, and no more, should do but nine or ten hours work.

The reserve power keeps the body in repair. It sounds odd to the name to fall properly. It keeps the mind cheerful, hopeful, happy. The person with no reserve force is always incapable of taking on any more responsibility than he already has. A little exertion puts him out of breath. He cannot increase his work for an hour without danger of explosion. Such are generally pale, dyspeptic, bloodless, nervous, irritable, despondent, gloomy. We all pity them. The great source of power in the individual is the blood. It is the machinery of life, and upon it depends our health and strength.

A mill on a stream where water is scanty can only be worked a portion of the time. So a man with little good blood can do but little work. The reserve power must be stored up in the blood. When the reserve power of an individual runs low, it is an indication that a change is necessary, and that it is best to stop expending and go to accumulating, just as the miller does when the water runs low in his race. Such a course would save many a person from physical bankruptcy. —Herald of Health.

THE PRICE OF WHEAT.

The difference in the quotations for wheat at Chicago and in Canada has very naturally attracted much attention, and has called forth many comments. Last year for a time the Chicago price was considerably above that of our own markets, and the opponents of the N. P. claimed that it was only our tariff that prevented our farmers from sharing in the supposed advantage. For some time past prices have been higher in Canada than in Chicago, and it has been too rashly asserted that the difference was directly due to the National Policy, and to that alone. Though the latter contention is less wide of the truth than the former, neither is in exact accordance with the facts.

The price of wheat is really fixed by the amount of the world's crop (including the surplus carried over), as compared with the world's requirements for consumption. This price is not fixed at Liverpool, as is often asserted, but Liverpool being the greatest import market for grain, the rates prevailing there may often serve as a convenient measure of value, modified by distance, local abundance or scarcity, and other disturbing influences. The most potent of these influences, especially in Chicago—the great supply market—is gambling. It often happens, and notably last year, that prices in Chicago are forced up above the natural value by the most barefaced gambling of the great speculators in produce. It is seldom that farmers get the benefit of these abnormal prices, for from the very nature of things a corner is not likely to be attempted as long as there is much grain in first hands. It is simply the winning or losing gamblers that are affected. But, on the other hand, the farmers do suffer from this iniquitous system. The artificially high price checks the movement of grain; other countries, which have acted less foolishly and wickedly, have supplied the demand; there is even the physical impossibility of moving such vast quantities of produce in a short time, when the price at length falls to a reasonable figure, and a large quantity of grain is held over till the following year, thus interfering with the prices for the next crop. A surplus of nearly fifty million bushels of wheat was thus carried over from last harvest in the United States, and the consequence may be seen in the Chicago quotations. Taking the year round the average price under such a system is necessarily lower than it would naturally be.

In Canada, happily, the practice is different, for such gambling in breadstuffs is not in vogue. Our wheat of last harvest sold at its natural price, if not at Chicago gambling figures, was consumed or exported, and now our farmers are obtaining a fair price, not the lower rate prevailing in Chicago. The National Policy benefits them in two ways: our markets are not materially affected by the feverish gambling quotations of Chicago, now up and now down; and our farmers have the supply of our own local consumption, increased as it is by the demands of those who are manufacturing for us at home instead of abroad, so that the supplying of Canada is preserved to them, and they have only the surplus to export.

That such a benefit is secured to our farmers is made evident in two ways. The price of wheat in Canada under the N. P. has on the average borne a higher ratio to that in Chicago, than under the old tariff. Again the average price of wheat in Canada under the N. P. has similarly borne a higher ratio than formerly to the Liverpool quotations. Who then can doubt that we have obtained higher prices for our wheat than would otherwise be the case? Neither we, nor any other country can fix the prices of wheat for the world, but by wise legislation we have secured a proportionately better price, which is just so much gain to our producers and through them to the whole country.

We notice that some of our contemporaries have been greedily "annexing" and circulating charges of disgraceful conduct brought by certain papers in the States against English gentlemen of high position, who were recently invited by Mr. Villard to a free trip on the Northern Pacific Railway, in celebration of its completion. Mr. Rufus Hatch, who was associated with Mr. Villard, has given a complete contradiction to these slanders, and asserts that instead of these visitors misbehaving themselves, in any way, on the contrary they were to a certain extent victims of discourtesy and practical joking. It would have been well if Canadian journalists had ascertained the facts instead of circulating such mean and malignant falsehoods.

THE "MISSING LINK."

Some Facts Concerning the Omemee Branch of the Midland Railway.

The Midland Railway has been more successful with its railway system than Prof. Darwin was with his theories. The company has found the "Missing Link" and made the connection. They did not do it, however, without trouble. It was easy to discover where the "Link" was needed, but to place it in was no easy task. They surmounted the difficulties. The rails have, as was previously announced, been laid from here to Omemee, and the work of ballasting is being pushed on with vigour, only about four miles remaining to be completed, so that the line will soon be open for traffic.

Almost the whole line, the exact length of which is 13.96 miles, is made up of cuts, filling and bridges. The contractor, Mr. H. J. Beemer, of Montreal, found it a difficult contract to carry out, but he did his work well.

The line was located in January, 1882, by Mr. A. L. Hogg. On the 14th of February the contractor commenced work with a force of 125 men, but this number was soon after increased, and as many as 600 men were employed on the contract at one time, the average being about 375. Mr. T. Powers, of Three Rivers, was the foreman, and he was an efficient one. Mr. W. R. Russell, of Toronto, a young and capable engineer, who formerly resided in Keene, was the resident engineer and superintended the work on behalf of the Midland.

If one should take a trip over this line to view it particularly—and if they did so in company with Mr. Russell they would it to their advantage in learning interesting facts regarding the road—they would only go a few yards until they would come to the first cutting, a small one near the Protestant Home, and a few yards further on they would reach the first bridge, over the creek. The bridge is 112 feet long. On Mr. Bertram's farm there is another small bridge, 64 feet long, and at Mr. A. Cox's a bridge 80 feet in length.

About three miles from the town a canal would be noticed on the south side of the track. It was constructed to divert the creek from its natural bed, which led it across the line fourteen times. The canal, which runs through the swamp in which Lily Lake is situated, is in different sections, but its total length is about a mile and a half, and it is 24 feet wide at the bottom, with an average depth of five feet. The canal was dug principally through heavy clay, and in some places quicksand was found, so that it was in keeping with the other work on the line—difficult to construct. The story of one man, which relates how he sank in the quicksand and had to go to the shanty to get a long-handled shovel to dig himself out, each one can believe or not, as he sees fit. It was in this same swamp that the Midland had the trouble with the sink hole, the track having sunk out of sight after it was laid. The holes have been filled, however, and the construction train is now running over it daily. A little further on another small bridge, 20 feet in length, is crossed.

Passing on through small cuttings, over fillings and through fields, one of the chief points of interest is soon reached. It is the excavation known as Tully's cut and the bridge erected there. The cut is 1,300 feet long and at the deepest point the walls of earth loom up 52 feet. Work was commenced on this cut on the 14th of February, 1882, and was continued until the 12th of September, 1883. The earth was the hardest of clay, and every yard had to be removed with powder or dynamite. An immense steam shovel was used in the work of excavation, and at one time as many as 175 men were employed at this point. From the hill 128,000 cubic yards of earth was removed and utilized in filling the valley east of it. There are several small streams of water in the cut, where the earth's arteries were severed, and its life blood trickles down the banks and runs along the track. Across the valley a bridge 672 feet long was constructed, Messrs. Boyd & Nicholls being the contractors. The bridge is 42 feet high at the highest point, and the piles were driven 38 feet into the earth.

On the other side of this cut, across the boundary, Mr. Wm. Best has given land on which a station will be built. A storehouse will be erected there for the purpose of storing and shipping grain. Further on, about eight miles from Peterborough, the highest point on the line is reached. It is in a small cutting, from which 32,000 yards of earth was removed, and the road bed there is 300 feet higher than the level of the water at Peterborough, and 175 feet higher than Omemee.

The next point of interest is the cut and immense bridge at Doube's. The cutting at this place is 1,500 feet long and 80 feet deep, and from it 104,000 yards of earth was removed. A second steam excavator was used at this cutting. A wide and high bank of earth extends into the valley, and the remaining distance is spanned by a bridge 1,300 feet long and, at the highest point, 74 feet high. From the top of the immense structure one can look down on the tops of the trees in the small swamp below. This valley extends for miles, and runs down to Mud Lake. The bridge was also built by Messrs. Boyd & Nicholls, who did their work well. The timber is set on a concrete foundation, four feet of cement and gravel, 800,000 feet of timber was used in building this structure, and 14 tons of wrought iron, and four tons of cast. A large portion of the iron was purchased from Messrs. John Whyte & Co. The timber was cut by a portable saw mill at Garden Hill, and four months was the time consumed in building the bridge. It was built on the plan of the Canada Southern bridge, and is a substantial structure. It has been tested by trains passing over it, and found to be safe and solid. At the east end of this bridge there is another high bank, the material for which was taken out of a cutting through Mr. Sherin's farm, from which 45,000 yards of earth were removed. There is a bridge over this cutting, which Mr. Sherin has to cross in going from his house to his barn.

About three miles on the side of Omemee the longest cutting on the line is passed through. It is 2,300 feet in length, but it is not deep and 30,000 yards of earth was taken out of it. As Omemee is reached, the only level piece of work on the road is passed over, and it is only half a mile in length. The last bridge, a Howe truss bridge 80 feet in length, crosses Pigeon creek at Omemee.

On this fourteen mile line 630,000 cubic yards of earth was moved from the cuttings. The aggregate length of the bridges is 2,228 feet. In addition to this 32 culverts were constructed, besides cattle passes, overhead crossings, &c. The bridges have all been tried by heavy trains passing over them, and have been found to stand the test admirably.

This was the most difficult piece of railway construction in Canada, except the Rocky Mountain division of the Canadian Pacific, and the Summit division of the Intercolonial. In addition to the natural obstructions encountered the work was delayed by wet weather, and by the scarcity of labourers. The other large public works in close proximity to this—the Trent Navigation works, the Murray Canal, the Ontario and Quebec Railway, and the Central Ontario Railway—all united in making a lively competition for labour. If it had not been for the Italian laborers imported from New York by Mr. Beemer, it would be difficult to tell how the work would have been completed. During this summer 270 of the sons of Italy were employed on this work, and they were so well pleased with their treatment that numbers of them are now applying to be taken to Mr. Beemer's contract in Quebec, although they were told that the wages paid there were not so high.

Great credit is due to the Midland Railway and its officials, the contractor, and the engineers, for the successful completion of this line. The bridge over the Scugog and the short link at Lindsay will also be ready for traffic in a week or two, and when that piece of track and this "Missing Link" are opened, the distance to Toronto will be materially shortened, and the trains will be enabled to make much better time, greatly to the convenience of the travelling public and business men.

Mr. Moore Montefiore's Age.

The following letter appears in the Montreal Star:

Sir,—Would you kindly permit me to correct a statement published in your paper of the 12th inst., wherein it was mentioned that Sir Moses Montefiore would attain his 100th year on the 6th proximo. From a letter we have received from the worthy and venerable "old man himself," and from our researches, we find that Sir Moses was born at Leghorn, on the 24th of October, 1758, and that he will reach his 100th anniversary on 24th October, 1858, and to beyond which age let us trust he will be spared to the world and that people for whom he has done so much.

I am, dear Sir, yours truly,
MAXWELL GOLDSTEIN,
President.

Nihilism in the Russian Army.

A list of names discovered in the house of Stryatschew, formerly assistant public prosecutor at Kieff, who was convicted of Nihilism, has led to numerous arrests in the Caucasus. Eleven officers belonging to the Grenadier regiment have been brought to St. Petersburg and imprisoned. A number of other officers have effected a compromise with the authorities. The offenders are so numerous that a special commission of inquiry has been sent to the Caucasus. Naval officers are also implicated, and a number have been arrested at Odessa and Nicolaieff.

Charge of Manslaughter.

SANDWICH, Oct. 22.—Among the criminal cases to be tried at the Assizes which begin tomorrow is that of Henry McPhiline, of Chatham, indicted for manslaughter. McPhiline is a boiler maker, and made a steam thrasher boiler which exploded at Mersea about a year ago and resulted in the death of one of the men who was working near it. The boiler was found to be of inferior material, not capable of sustaining the pressure. McPhiline represented it would, and he is held responsible for the accident.

Notice to Contractors.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for St. Lawrence Canals," will be received at this office until the arrival of the eastern and western mails on TUESDAY, the 13th day of November next, for the construction of a lock and regulating weir and the deepening and enlargement of the upper entrance of the Cornwall Canal.

Also for the construction of a lock, together with the enlargement and deepening of the upper entrance of the Rapids Canal, or middle division of the Williamsburg Canal.

Tenders will also be received until TUESDAY, the 27th day of November next, for the extension of the pierwork and deepening, &c., of the channel at the upper entrance of the Galop Canal.

A map of the bend or upper entrance of the Cornwall Canal and the upper entrance of the Rapids Canal, together with plans and specifications of the respective works, can be seen at this office, and at the Resident Engineer's office, Dickenson's Landing, on and after Tuesday, the 29th day of October next, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

Contractors are requested to bear mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted bank cheque for the sum of Two Thousand Dollars must accompany the Tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

The Weather.

To-day is cloudy and damp. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:-Moderate to fresh north to east winds; cloudy to fair weather, with light showers in a few localities; not much change in temperature.

New Goods for the Season.

W. Fairweather & Co. are showing at their New Hat, Cap and Fur Store, Novelties in Ladies' Fur Mantles and Jackets. Rich Broad Satin and Ottoman, Black Silk Fur-Lined Circulars. The largest variety of Astrachan Mantles ever shown in Peterborough. Ladies' Fur Sets in Seal, Mink, Ermine, Sable, Persian Lamb and Dog Skin. Goat Robes and Buffalo Robes cheap, at Fairweather & Co's.

For the Shanties.

Last week Mr. T. Cavanagh hired thirty men to work in Messrs. Cameron & Henson's lumber shanty, north of Gravenhurst. He also purchased three fine teams for the same firm. Two teams were bought from Mr. Chas. Fairbairn, of Boboygon, for which $600 was paid. The third team was purchased from Mr. J. Jackson, of Otonabee, the price being $340. The horses were fitted out with harness at Mr. Metcalfe's shop, and sent north to the shanty. Mr. Cavanagh a short time since hired ninety-five men in Ottawa for the American Lumber Company to work in the shanties at Dolleriville, Michigan. The wages paid was from $15 to $22 per month.

An Inconvenient Fire.

The fire alarm sounded at five minutes to three o'clock this morning. The occasion of the alarm was a fire in a rough cast dwelling house on Simcoe street, west of Bethune street. The fire had made some headway before discovered, the firemen did not get to work promptly, and the building was totally destroyed. The firemen were delayed because there was not sufficient hose on the reel to cover the distance required, and they had to go back to the fire hall after the hose which was in the tower. This they placed on the hook and ladder truck, but it broke down, and they were compelled to carry it to the scene of the fire. The house was occupied by Miss Margaret Cook, a dressmaker, whose furniture was burned. It was owned by Mr. Henry Best, who had it insured in the London, Liverpool and Globe for $250. It was probably worth $600. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary. There was no one in the house when the fire was discovered. The previous night it had been set on fire, but the flames were seen in time to extinguish them.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company-Satisfactory Report.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company took place in the Casino House parlor on Tuesday evening, Mr. W. G. Ferguson, President, in the chair.

The annual report was read, and on motion of the Rev. V. Clementi, seconded by Mr. A. McNeil, unanimously adopted. It showed a satisfactory balance on hand, in fact sufficient to pay a handsome dividend, but in view of the new directorate having to construct a drain at the north end of the building, the purchasing of new hose, moving the present dam, and other expenditures necessary for the successful running of the institution, before any money would be forthcoming from the sale of tickets, &c., it was deemed advisable to defer the dividend question till the close of the skating season. A vote of thanks was on motion, tendered to the retiring directors, and suitably responded to. The ballot was taken for new directors for the ensuing year, and resulted as follows:-Hon. R. Hamilton, Messrs. Jas. F. Dennistoun, R. S. Davidson, W. G. Ferguson, and Adam Hall. The meeting then adjourned.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. Geo. J. Gompficht, tuner for Messrs. Mason & Riech, Toronto, is in town. Orders sent at T. Menzies' Book Store will be promptly attended to.

Hosiery, Gloves and Underclothing. W. Fairweather & Co. have just opened a splendid variety of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Fine Wool Hosiery, of a superior make and quality. Ladies' and Gent's Underclothing. Black Goods a specialty, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

The Town Clock.

The town time piece has been keeping time irregularly this week. On Monday Mr. Joe McClelland, the caretaker, had to put it forward six minutes, on Tuesday twelve minutes and this forenoon nineteen minutes. It is so finely gauged that it takes very little to affect it, and the pigeons are so fond of roosting on a lofty perch that they have appropriated the hands of the clock, thus often stopping it for several minutes. From this it would appear that the clock cannot be depended on so long as the hands are exposed.

A Fractured Leg.

On Tuesday evening at about 9 o'clock the police found a man lying on Hunter street, near the Temperance House, with a leg broken below the knee. The Town Physician, Dr. Kincaid, was sent for, and the constables went to the injured man in some hotel or other place. Dr. Kincaid attended to the fractured limb. The unfortunate man was Mr. Edward Hunter, of Cavan, a former resident of Peterborough. He states that three men, who were passing him on the street, pushed him off the sidewalk and the fall fractured his leg.

Hotel Stables Burned.

The stable of the American Hotel, of which Mr. M. Halpin is proprietor, was destroyed by fire this forenoon. The alarm was sounded at twenty-five minutes after ten o'clock, and the firemen turned out promptly. The hose was attached to the waterworks hydrants, and in seven minutes one fine stream of water was playing on the fire, and was followed half a minute later by another splendid stream. The stable was a frame one and was nearly all destroyed, but the horses, harness, &c., were rescued. A quantity of hay was burned, but a bin of oats in the lower part of the stable was saved, although they were thoroughly soaked. For a time the brick stables of Darcy's Hotel were in imminent danger, but the timely arrival of the firemen and prompt work saved them. A shed connected with Mr. Halpin's stable was partly torn down. Mr. Halpin's loss is covered by insurance in the London Insurance Corporation. The building belonged to the Hall estate, and was insured in the Imperial for $200. It was slightly damaged and was insured in the British American.

TOWN COUNCILLORS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,-At the Council meeting last evening Councillor Denne, backed up by his prestige, Mr. Cummings, charged me with having made an arrangement with Mr. Timothy Cavanagh to bring a crowd of rowdies to the Council to break up the meeting. As Mr. Cavanagh was not present to substantiate my denial of the arrangement, I, this morning, requested Mr. W. H. Moore to call upon him to inquire if he had given any grounds for such a statement. I have just received from Mr. Moore the following letter, which sufficiently refutes the charge.

Mr. Denne's sense of justice and love of British fair play are so well known that I am sure he will not hesitate to retract his statements and make the amende honorable, as he will have an excellent opportunity of doing at the Council meeting this evening.

PETERBOROUGH, 24th October.

DEAR SIR,-I have had a conversation with Mr. Timothy Cavanagh this morning as to the statement made at the Council meeting last night that you had asked him to bring a company of rowdies to the Council. He denies that you ever asked him to do so, or that he ever informed any one that you had. He says you requested him to come and hear both sides of the question, and judge for himself who was right.

Yours truly,

W. H. MOORE.

G. W. Sawers, Esq., Peterborough.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for giving me space for this letter,

I remain your obedient servant,

C. W. SAWERS.

Nearly Buried Alive.

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis., Oct. 22.-The sensation of to-day is the return to life of a young lady who, to all appearances, had been dead three days. Miss Lena Richman, daughter of a wealthy German, had been sick for some weeks, and died, as was supposed. The body was prepared for burial. There were fears in the minds of some that the appearance of the young lady's face did not indicate death, but on the fourth day the funeral was held. While the ceremony was in progress Dr. Baxter, of Milwaukee, seeing the face of the supposed corpse, asked that the service might be interrupted long enough for him to attempt resuscitation. This was done, and he succeeded so well that the woman arose from the coffin with a terrible shriek. The scene which followed was highly exciting. Men turned pale with horror, and women fainted. It was a long time before anything like quiet was restored. Yesterday many called to see and congratulate the lady, whom they never thought to see again in this world. She says that while in a trance-like condition she realized with unspeakable agony that she was being prepared for the ground, but could do nothing.

The Coal Duties.

The Montreal Journal of Commerce has a long article on the latest Grit platform in which it says:-

"The coal duties is, of course, most objectionable, and it is to be regretted that the United States do not consent to an article so extensively consumed by the masses of the people being placed on the free list. In that case the Canadian collieries would supply the North Eastern States of the Union, and the United States collieries would have the entire supply of Western Canada without the obstruction of the duty which forces the coal of the Maritime Provinces into consumption into Quebec and Eastern Ontario."

Our contemporary thus furnishes one of the very strongest arguments in favor of the coal duty. If the United States will not admit Canadian coal free of duty, why should Canada admit coal from the United States without duty? Of course this is only one of the reasons for the imposition of the duty, but it is a very good one.-Belleville Intelligencer.

Ravages of Yellow Fever.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.-The Surgeon of the Marine Hospital Services at Brownsville, Tex., reports that yellow fever has appeared in La Paz, the capital of Lower California. Cholera has disappeared from the states of Campeche, Yucatan, and Oaxaca, but the disease is feared on account of the failure of the crops. At San Blas yellow fever is still doing its deadly work. Business is suspended at Sonora. Two telegraphers and ninety-five railroad workmen have died.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1883.

The Toronto Telegram says:—"There is no such thing known in our political contests as the Indian vote." In the Manitoba election we are informed that not only did a band of Indians vote under peculiar influences for the Reform candidate, but that after they had been to the poll their squaws put on their husbands' garments, and voted likewise. This is one of the "Reform" devices of the latest pattern till the Algonia improvements in knavery were introduced.

A CONTEMPORARY has the following remarks:—

"An English Tory landlord should blush at the very name of Ireland, if he has any natural sense of shame. The incipient revolution in Ireland, the assassinations, the maiming of cattle, the social anarchy which prevails there, are the legitimate fruit of the Tory relations with Ireland."

We feel by no means inclined either to defend the landlords or to condemn them in this whole-some manner, but we may remark in passing that we know of no reason why "Wing" landlords should be contrasted unfavorably with "Tory" landlords, nor indeed that landlords of Irish lineage have given more satisfaction than those from England. The fact, however, to which we desire especially to direct attention is that the real authors of the Irish difficulty are the English and Scotch manufacturers, a class not especially "Tory," who procured legislation by which Irish industries were destroyed, and the Irish population, being deprived of that means of earning a living, were forced upon the land for their subsistence. It was a selfish policy, which has resulted in a measure even upon those who inflicted the wrong.

LUNENBURG AND BOWWELL.

THE Globe gives the following as among the reasons why it declines to consider the election of Mr. Kaulbach, for Lunenburg, as being a "Tory" victory. It says:—

Mr. Kaulbach undoubtedly received the majority of votes in 1882. The fact that he was deprived of his seat by the Returning-officer acting on a mistaken view of the law was calculated to create sympathy for him."

"It is then admitted that the Returning officer for Lunenburg is in the same position as that which is asserted of the Returning officer for Bothwell, with this difference that in the one case the mistake has been proved and in the other it has not yet at all events. We do not remember, however, that the Reform press have rebuked Mr. Kaulbach for occupying during a session a seat in Parliament for which he had undoubtedly not received the majority of votes, as Mr. Hawkins has been rebuked with the master yet is dumb, or that the Returning officer for Lunenburg has been persistently vilified like the Returning officer for Bothwell. Are such mistakes venial in the Globe's friends and villainous in its opponents?"

A VALUABLE ENDORSEMENT.

We are indebted to the leading Reform journal for the following quotation from a report made to the Council of the South Kensington Institute of Agriculture, by Prof. Tanner, an Englishman, who travelled more than 5,000 miles over Canadian territory as far west as Assiniboia, to ascertain the truth about the country as a field for emigration, and conversed freely with the settlers in every part he visited. In this important document Prof. Tanner says:—

"I did not meet with a single instance in which they were not fairly successful, contented and full of hope for the future. They worked hard, it is true, but that labor was sweetened by the knowledge that they were improving their own property. Their personal requirements were easily provided for by the aid of a rich and productive soil, their families were growing up around them in the enjoyment of health, and without any anxiety being felt as to their future success in life."

We have given the entire quotation as it appears in the Globe, without altering, adding or suppressing a word.

Now this is most satisfactory. Every Canadian must rejoice to learn from such an authority that the settlers in our great Northwest are fairly successful, contented and full of hope, that the hard labour incidental to the settlement of a new country is sweetened by the sense of property in their improvement, that they are healthy, well provided for, and free from any anxiety for the future. Really the fabled Utopia could hardly be described in more glowing terms. Never before in the history of colonization has such a happy lot been attributed to the early settler.

All true and loyal Canadians have another reason for intense satisfaction. The Globe informs us that the above quotation is "The Globe's View Endorsed," and that it is further testimony in the exact line of what the Globe has been saying. We must confess that with lamentable carelessness we omitted to notice the Globe's editorial expressing this view and speaking in this line, but we are happy to accept its assertion of the fact. We have seen many Globe editorials stating in various words that the settlers were thoroughly discontented, utterly disheartened, and almost on the verge of rebellion, so that it is very satisfactory to know that our contemporary has changed its mind, and has expressed itself exactly in agreement with the statement that the settlers are contented, successful and full of hope, and in circumstances, healthy and free from anxiety. The facts that have brought about such a remarkable conversion must indeed be most weighty and undeniable.

It is true that there is a cloud in this otherwise serene sky, and that although the settlers are contented and happy, the Globe is not. It appears to be our contemporary's opinion that there would be even greater progress but for the present administration. Against this expression of opinion we can only set the facts that under the administration of its friends this abode of happiness, comfort and content remained for years unpopulated and desert; that under the administration of Mr. John Macdonald it has become the elysium so glowingly described by Prof. Tanner—and by the Globe. For our part we are content with this astounding improvement, and cannot summon up legions of angels to clamour for more.

We are surprised to learn from the Globe, after all this, that there is a serious amount of discontent, especially in the Northwest. Who can these unreasonable and discontented persons be? We know, upon the authority of Prof. Tanner—and of the Globe—that it is not the settlers, who are contented and prosperous. We are really at a loss to imagine who these peevish and craving malcontents can be, unless they are disappointed politicians of the "Reform" stripe, who in such happy circumstances see no prospect of a change that will satisfy them with office, or Globe correspondents who are in the painful position of finding no grounds for cursing the enemy, and are constrained by the hard logic of facts to utter reluctant blessings.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

The Lakefield Public School Board met in the Council Room on Monday evening last. Members present, Mr. G. J. Galvin in the chair, and Messrs. Armour, Caldwell, Gordon, Sanders and Wilson. The minutes of the last regular and subsequent special meetings were read and confirmed. Communications were read from Mr. August and Misses Duff and Galvin, expressing their willingness to remain in their positions as teachers for the ensuing year, and from Miss Tanner, tendering her resignation, which were received.

Moved by Mr. SANDERS, seconded by Mr. WILSON.—That the following accounts be paid and orders issued for the amounts, viz.:—John Hall, insurance, $22.50, and A. L. Davis, paper, $1.80.—Carried.

Moved by Dr. ARMOUR, seconded by Mr. GORDON.—That the application of Mr. T. A. August at a salary of $500 for 1884, be accepted and that Misses Duff and Galvin be retained in their positions at their present salary for 1884.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. SANDERS, seconded by Dr. CALDWELL.—That the resignation of Miss Tanner be accepted, and that in doing so this Board place on record its appreciation of Miss Tanner as a painstaking, industrious and efficient teacher, during the past year, and that this Board parts with her services with regret.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. WILSON, seconded by Mr. GORDON.—That the Managing Committee advertise for a teacher for the junior department of Lakefield school, present salary, $200.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. SANDERS, seconded by Mr. WILSON.—That this Board do now adjourn, to meet on the regular meeting evening in December.—Carried.

HUNTING PARTIES.

A large party of Americans went through Lakefield to Gold Lake on Wednesday last for a hunt, which means, so it is said, the killing of a large number of deer. Since the arrival of this party a good deal of anxiety has been manifested by many of our leading men as to whether the new law forbidding the exportation of deer is to be a dead letter. People would like to know if the same laws are in force against Canadians, and particularly the settlers and not against foreigners. A great deal is said about the Fort Hope officials being fired, &c., that amounts to nothing. They should not be condemned before hand. It will be time enough to condemn them when they allow venison to be exported contrary to law.

THE CRUISER LAID UP.

The Steamer Cruiser has been laid up for the winter, on account of the low water between Lakefield and Young's Point, which is caused by the dilapidated state of the Lakefield dam, and in consequence Mr. Tobias Fitzgerald has some hundreds of cords of wood left on Stony Lake.

C. E. T. B.

The Rev. John Farncomb, M. A., incumbent of St. John's Church, Lakefield, is endeavoring to start a branch of the Church of England Temperance Society in Lakefield. A preliminary public meeting was held in the F. C. A. Hall, Lakefield, on the evening of Oct. 24th. Addresses were delivered and the working, pledges, &c., were explained. We understand that a private meeting for organization will be held at an early date.

LAKEFIELD SPORTS.

A party of seven are said to have started for a hunt at Jack Lake, on Wednesday last, from Lakefield. It is to be hoped that this party will not bring back any corpses except that of the deer this time.

DIED.

Mr. Scott, who was referred to in last week's Lakefield correspondence died on Sunday afternoon, never having recovered consciousness after the accident.

HASTINGS.

DIPHTHERIA.—The Star says that several of Mr. John Coughlin's children are suffering from diphtheria.

RECOVERED.—The horse and buggy taken from Mr. T. O'Neill's livery stable at Cobourg, a description of which was sent out, was left at Hastings, where Mr. O'Neill got them. He had previously received a letter post marked Syracuse, containing $10 for damages. The men who hired the horse and left it at Hastings are supposed to be the Port Hope express robbers.

CATTLE SHIPMENT.—Mr. John Convey took a car load of very fine hogs to Montreal by rail last Friday. One of them died while driving in here for shipment. Mr. Wm. Goad has over five hundred very fine sheep awaiting shipment.

A NEW HOTEL.—Mr. P. Brennan raised the sheds for his new hotel on Friday last. The hotel is almost completed and will be soon open for the public.

PLOUGHING BEE.—Mr. Turner having bought the Armstrong farm in Otonabee, held a ploughing bee on Thursday last, in which fifteen teams took part, and turned over quite a number of acres. Mr. Kindra's team took flight at the passing freight train and ran away, one of the horses getting a leg badly cut by the escape.

A Central Prison Convict Shot.

Another convict in attempting to gain his freedom has paid the penalty of his life for the attempt. At a late hour on Tuesday night, information was received that a convict in the Central Prison named Scott was shot dead late in the afternoon by one of the prison guards while in the act of attempting to escape. It appears that a gang of eight men were sent beyond the prison to work at the Mercer Reformatory under the charge of Prison Guard Hart. On returning back, in the evening about half-past 8 o'clock, and when crossing the railroad track, Scott and another convict named Stevens suddenly threw down their tools and made a bolt up the track at their utmost speed. Hart brought his rifle to the level, and called to them to halt or he would fire. Unheeding his warning they kept on at full speed. The report of Hart's rifle followed quickly after, simultaneous with which Scott fell forward on his face. The report soon brought several prison officials to the scene, when it was found that the bullet had entered his head from behind, directly midway between the ears, and passed through, coming out in front. Death must have been instantaneous. Hart immediately gave himself up to the officials as a prisoner. Stevens, the other convict, succeeded in making good his escape, and has not been seen since. Scott was 22 years of age, and was serving a six months' term in prison for assault.—Globe.

The C. P. R. Progressing.

General Manager Van Horne, of the Canadian Pacific Railway has furnished the following interesting and gratifying information in answer to questions by a Pioneer Press reporter:—

"How is construction progressing?" "Finely. The road will be completed to the summit of the Rocky Mountains, 962 miles west of Winnipeg, the first week in November, and on the eastern work we have got to a point forty miles east of Red Rock, or 160 miles east of Fort Arthur."

"Will you work all winter on the eastern division?" "Yes; we will keep 9,000 men at work there. It is only a question of men and nitro-glycerine, and we are shoving them in as fast as we can use them."

"When will the road be completed?" "Two years from this month, or in October 1885."

"Do you look for a large immigration next year?" "We have well authenticated assurances that there will be a large Scotch and English immigration into Manitoba and the Northwest next spring, and in a word, Canadian Pacific affairs were never more promising or its future more surely guaranteed."

A Notable Official.

The Winnipeg Free Press, a Reform journal, gives the following account of one of Mr. Mowat's officials.

"On Wednesday evening Mr. Boston O'Brien got on a racket, and amongst other places visited the Waverley Hotel. He had not been there long before he managed to raise a row, and whipped one of his kinsmen, and to 'rip up' another party. A blow from the butt end of a billiard cue had a soothing effect on him, and he, together with a boozey companion, changed their quarters with considerable alacrity. The police were applied of the facts, and yesterday Chief Murray swore out an information against O'Brien for carrying a knife and threatening to use it. O'Brien is now in jail on another charge, but should he be released on bail he will be collared instantly on the charge above referred to."

THE BOND DIFFICULTY

SETTLED AT THE TOWN COUNCIL MEETING LAST NIGHT.

The word "forever" struck out of the bond—An Opinion from Mr. Denison—Mr. Edwards' Position.

The third meeting of the Town Council in as many days was held on Wednesday evening.

Present—Acting Mayor, Mr. Denison, in the chair, and Councillors Davidson, McNaughton, Kelly, Sawers, Yelland, Douglas, Rutherford, Dene, and Patterson.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with, on a division.

The "ONE WORD" difficulty.

The Acting Mayor said in accordance with the instructions received from the Council he and Mr. Patterson had gone to see Mr. Weller to get his opinion on the collector's bond, but he was not at home. They then went to Mr. R. H. Denison, who gave them the following written opinion:

MR. DENISON'S OPINION.

PERMANENT, Oct. 24, 1888.

Dear Sir, In answer to your question as to whether the bond prepared by the collector, Mr. Cummings, and his sureties would be valid and binding if the word "forever" in the beginning of the bond was struck out, I beg to say that in my opinion the bond would be as binding upon the collector and his sureties with this word struck out as it would with it.

I would suggest that in the event for the time of the return of the collector's roll being assessed, the Council should first get the consent in writing of the sureties.

Yours truly,
R. H. DENISON.

MR. EDWARDS' POSITION.

The Acting Mayor said he had also received the following letter from Mr. Edwards:—

PERMANENT, Oct. 24, 1888.

Dear Sir, Having given you and Mr. Weller a verbal opinion on the question of Mr. Cummings' bond as collector, I desire to set down in writing my position in the matter in order that there may be no misunderstanding.

When you came to see me about the bond drawn by Mr. Cummings himself a bond copied, it is said, from the one in the office of the late firm of South & Belvidere in 1875, I pointed out to you several instances in which the wording of the bond might be improved, and I also pointed out to you that under the 15th section of the "Assessment Act," the bond of a collector must conform to all the provisions of the Act, and that the many changes made in the By-law appointing the collector and defining his duties, and the By-law appointing changes in the bond. You, therefore, instructed me to prepare a bond as I thought it should be drawn. I have, therefore, drawn a bond, showing in its formal part the usual and almost universal form of wording, and in the condition or more particular part complying with what I understand to be the requirements of the statute law, and the By-law as they now stand.

Mr. Cummings took exception to the wording of the formal part, upon a subtle misapprehension upon his part as to the meaning and legal effect of it. As I pointed out at the time and since, the mere insertion of a change in the wording of the bond, without any change in the substance of it, is a mere change in the form, and not a change in the substance of it. I have, therefore, drawn a bond, showing in its formal part the usual and almost universal form of wording, and in the condition or more particular part complying with what I understand to be the requirements of the statute law, and the By-law as they now stand.

Councillor DENNIS.—If the word "forever" was struck out, would Mr. Cummings sign it? Mr. Cummings said that both he and his sureties would be willing to sign it. In answer to Councillor DENNIS, he said that it would be impossible to collect all the taxes by the 14th of Dec. unless the roll should be returned, but the Council had power to extend the time, and he would consent to an extension.

Councillor DENNIS moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD, that the word "forever" be struck out, and so struck out that the bond be accepted, and that the Acting Mayor and the Chairman of the Finance Committee are hereby instructed to accept the same, of satisfactory in other respects.

Councillor RUTHERFORD was surprised that the Acting Mayor and Chairman of the Finance Committee had not had time enough to get this matter settled, as they had authority to do, without calling three meetings of the Council. The town had lost money in interest by the collector not being at work sooner.

Councillor PATTERSON said that he and the Acting Mayor had exercised all the authority they possessed.

Councillor SAWERS said that the latter part of Mr. Denison's opinion qualified the first. If they made any change in the bond at all, they should do it according to both suggestions. Councillor DENNIS said that they might get the word "forever" struck out, but in the extension of time, in the event of the Council wishing to extend it.

The Acting Mayor.—We will attend to that to-morrow.

Councillor KELLY said that if the collector issued notices as soon as he could, and 5 per cent. were addressed after the 15th of Dec. the people would have a short time to pay the taxes.

Councillor PATTERSON read a clause from the bond to show that it covered the extension of time.

The motion was carried on the following division:—
Councillors Davidson, McNaughton, Kelly, Patterson, Yelland, Douglas, Rutherford, and Denne.

NAY.—Councillor Sawers.

Councillor DAVIDSON said that, in voting for the motion, it was understood that the bond should give a writing agreeing to an extension of the time for the return of the roll if the Council decided to extend it.

The Mayor.—Yes.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved that the Council adjourn.

Councillor McNAUGHTON moved that it adjourn until three weeks from next Monday night.

The members left their seats and the meeting broke up without either motion being put or carried.

FROM ALL OVER.

MR. ALEX. FRASER, Assistant Receiver-General for the Dominion, died at Coburg on Tuesday.

MR. JUSTICE WILSON and Mr. Justice GALT gave judgment dismissing the preliminary objections in the Bethwell Dominion election case.

DON'T FAIL IT.—A. J. NORTON, the late Toronto bookbinder, died at his home in the city on Tuesday.

THE BOOKS OF MR. HILL, the missing Prescott station-master, have been found in a box in the city.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION and other diseases arising from youthful indiscretions are speedily and radically removed by that wonderful remedy known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine, an advertisement of which appears in another column.

SEVERAL have been made of thirteen townshipships south of Regina, and it is estimated that two thousand townships have been subdivided during the season.

THEIR TALK.—Mrs. Mary Thompson, of Toronto, reports the removal of eight feet of tape-worm by the use of one bottle of Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup. This medicine is reliable for all kinds of worms that infect children or adults.

A RECENT EXAMPLE of the liberality of the London Sheriff's charitable fund, that sum representing £1 for each year of the river's age. Nearly 50 years ago Sir Moses held the office of Sheriff for London and Middlesex.

A REMARKABLE CASE.—W. A. Edwards, of Franklinville, was a terrible sufferer from Chronic Kidney and Liver Complaint, and at one time was so bad that his life was despaired of. He was cured by four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters.

Wedding Cakes.

Cakes and Confectionery fresh every day. Leave your orders for Wedding Cakes at CARTON BROS.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. Geo. J. Gumprecht, tuner for Messrs. Mason & Rich, Toronto, is in town. Orders left at T. Menzies' Book Store will be promptly attended to.

Curling.

At the meeting of the Ontario Branch of the Royal Canadian Curling Club at Toronto on Friday, the committee on district medals gave in their report, allocating medals to be competed for during the season between clubs. Peterborough is to play with the Toronto Granites.

A Collision.

On Friday evening, when the Calise House bus was returning from meeting the Grand Junction train, it collided with the mail wagon, which was going towards the station. There were three boys in the mail wagon. They were driving at a lively rate, and each one of them took a header over the dash board, but were fortunately uninjured. The shafts of the wagon were broken and the horse broke free, but the bus was not injured.

First Annual Ball.

The first annual ball of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club will be held in Bradburn's Opera House on the evening of Wednesday, November 7th (Thanksgiving eve). Supper will be served in Faucher's Restaurant, so that those attending will not have to leave the building in which the ball is held. The club expect to have as strong a first twelve, or even stronger, next year than they had this season, and the object of the ball is to procure new uniforms and to provide for other necessary expenses. The club deserves all encouragement that can be given to it, and we expect to see this ball well patronized.

For Rent Millinery call at Turnbull's. You will find a good article at reasonable prices.

Bazaar.

The ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee:—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Book, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick. A meeting to decide the final arrangements of the bazaar will be held at the Rev. J. W. R. Beck's on Monday, the 29th, at half past three o'clock p.m. It is particularly requested that the ladies of the congregation will attend.

A Charge of Bigamy.

On Wednesday, Oct. 24th, an information was laid before Mr. Dumble, Police Magistrate, charging Thomas Irwin with bigamy, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. The information was laid by the mother of Mr. Irwin's alleged second wife, and is to the effect that on the 21st of June last, in the town of Lindsay, he married Mary Ann Elliott, while he had a wife then alive. Soon after the marriage he came to Peterborough with his Lindsay wife, and has since resided in the south part of the town. It is said that Mr. Irwin, who is well up in years, married his first wife in Ashburnham, some years ago. The warrant was placed in the hands of P. O. Adams, but he has been unable to make the arrest, and it is believed that Mr. Irwin left the town.

All Saints' Day.

On Thursday next, which will be All Saints' Day, and the anniversary of the re-opening of the church, there will be three services in St. John's Church, viz. Holy Communion at 8 a.m., morning service and Holy Communion at 11 a.m. and full evening service at 7.30 p.m. It is expected that a large number of clergymen from the different parishes throughout the province will be present and take part in the Missionary Services that will be held on the evening previous, All Saints' eve, or the vigil of the saints. The Bishop of Toronto will also be present. The musical portion of the services will be very fine. In the evening the choir will sing the grand new Te Deum for the first time in service, which is the composition of Mr. Chas. Ewing, the organist. The collections of that day, which it is hoped will be large, are to be devoted to the organ fund.

Football Match.

A football match is being played this afternoon on the Ashburnham cricket ground between the Peterborough Club and the Trinity College School Club of Port Hope.

Quinces, Pears, Peaches, Oranges, Lemons, Apples and fruit of all kinds in season. Finest Haddies, Bologna, Ham and Spiced Meats. Also a choice stock of family groceries at CARTON BROS.

Division Court.

A session of the Division Court was held in the Court House on Friday, before His Honor Judge Dennistoun. Twenty-seven cases were disposed of.

A Good Arrangement.

Two bars or rails have been placed in front of the general delivery in the post-office to prevent crowding. Persons enquiring for letters enter between the rails and pass out, one at a time. This will be of assistance to the clerks in delivering the mail, and a blessing to tender corns.

The Late George Bremner.

There was a very large attendance at the funeral of the late George Bremner, which took place in Toronto on Friday. Among those present were fourteen or fifteen gentlemen from Peterborough, who by their presence testified to the popularity of the deceased commercial traveler, and the esteem in which it was held.

To Housekeepers.

Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpets, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

Generally Fair.

The weather this forenoon was clear and fine. The sky is clouded this afternoon. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light to moderate winds; generally fair weather, with slightly higher temperatures.

You can get heavy Knapp Mantle Cloths at 75c., $1.00 and $1.10, worth nearly twice the money, at Turnbull's.

Personal.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Parks returned on Friday evening from their honeymoon in the Western States.

Mr. T. Clothier, who has been employed as a salesman at Mr. A. Hall's store, has been obliged to return home on account of an attack of rheumatism in the leg. We hope to hear of his recovery soon.

The Trinity College School football team, of Port Hope, numbering sixteen, arrived on the noon train and are registered at the Calise House.

Railway Notes.

The Midland Railway has changed the gauge of the Sutton branch to the regular width.

The Post says that the new station building at Lindsay is being hammered into shape, and for its site will be a fairly neat looking building. Ample platform accommodation is being laid down. The bridge at that town gets the finishing touches this week.

Mr. R. Jaffray, of Toronto, a director of the Midland Railway, and Mr. J. Davis Barnett, of Port Hope, Mechanical Superintendent, are at the Oriental Hotel.

A Collision on the G. J. R.

The regular passenger train from Madoc to Belleville ran into a ballast train this morning. The ballast train was on its way from Belleville to Faulkner's gravel pit, between the North Hastings Junction and Belleville, from which it takes ballast out for the Grand Trunk Railway. Near the gravel pit it was met by the Madoc train, and the two engines came together with considerable force. The passenger coaches were uninjured and did not leave the track. The engines, although they remained on the rails, were disabled. One brakeman on the Grand Trunk gravel train, named Taylor, was severely injured. Four or five ballast cars were knocked off the track.

Police Points.

—Fine weather.
—Police cells untenanted last night.
—There was a good market this morning.
—A "blank record" at the Police Court this morning.

—The head of the large moose deer killed in Harvey by Mr. McKenty, has been viewed by a number at Mr. Peterson's tannery.

—A boy has started and is doing a thriving trade at the shoeblack business in the town. Haterprise!

—The Lindsay Post is offered free for a year to every young lady who proposes during leap year. The language in which the offer is made indicates that it must be a post-marriage gift.

—The mistakes made by persons entering wrong places are often amusing. A party went into a book store in town to-day and asked to see some whitewash brushes! Perhaps, after all, this would be a proper article for a book store to keep, that is, if they were adapted for brightening up dull intellects.

—The Boboysgon Independent, referring to the visit to Peterborough of the Salvation Army officers, says that a temperance society would find better ground in this town. There are already five or six temperance societies in full operation here, and they are doing such good work that the police can seldom find a drunken man to arrest, except an odd outsider who comes into the town.

Marvells of Cheapness.

Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Colored Dress Silks, at 50c., 75c. and $1.00 are Marvells of Cheapness, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

The Fiske Jubilee Singers.

The Christian Union says of the Fiske Jubilee Singers, who are to give a concert here on the 6th of November:—

"There was no attempt to show strength or volume of voice to reach high notes; it was the tone, that was all; a clear, round, pulsing, indescribable tone of ethereal sweetness. This was the thing which thawed down the stern matrons and stolid merchants of Brooklyn like ice before an April sun. This was what caused Mr. Gladstone to honor these unknown minstrels with a complimentary breakfast, and that other Prime Minister of England, Mr. Spurgeon, to affirm that he had never enjoyed music so much."

Montery, Gloves and Underclothing.

W. Fairweather & Co. have just opened a splendid variety of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Fine Wool Hosiery, of a superior make and quality. Ladies' and Gent's Underclothing. Black Goods a specialty, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

THE FALSE FRIEND.

It would be a tedious undertaking to attempt to enumerate the many occasions on which the Globe either through culpable ignorance or with malice aforethought has pursued a course diametrically opposed to the best interests of the Province of which it claims to be the champion par excellence. Almost invariably whenever any question of an inter-provincial character has arisen the Globe has assumed a tone and adopted a line of argument calculated to arouse the antagonism and illwill of the people of the other Province. Take as an example its whole course, since 1878, with regard to the Boundary embroglio. It has lost no opportunity of arraying Ontario against the rest of the Dominion, while worst of all, it has by systematically misrepresenting the position of Mr. Meredith and those whom he represents, done its best to weaken the force and justice of our claim in the eyes of the people of the rest of the Dominion.

Those who have followed the chameleon like course of the Globe need scarcely be reminded of the persistency with which it has sought to make it appear that Mr. Meredith and his friends desire to abandon all claim to the disputed territory—a statement for which there is not the slightest foundation, unless it be based on the assumption that Mr. Meredith's proposed reference to the Privy Council is certain to lead to every point being decided against Ontario. Is this what the Globe desires its readers and the public to understand? If it is not, then all its past statements about the loss which must follow the adoption of Mr. Meredith's policy is nonsense. If it is, then surely the Globe must see that such an admission means neither more nor less than that, in its opinion, our title to the disputed territory will not stand investigation, and that we should hold by the award simply because it has given us something which cannot be obtained from an independent and disinterested tribunal like the Imperial Privy Council, an admission which is a disgrace to those who make it, justifies those who charge us with a desire to cringe and retain possession of that which does not justly belong to us, and is of such a nature that none but a false friend—one who lives on the antagonism of others—would even indirectly promulgate.

No better evidence could be afforded of the consciousness of guilt with which Mr. G. W. Ross and his friends looked forward to the trial of the petition filed against his return, than the statement of the witness whom Mr. Ross said would not lie, that he was so anxious to force a compromise, i. e. a withdrawal of this petition, that he voted for the other side in the following local election. The little game undoubtedly was to first elect Mr. Johnston, and then file a petition against his return, as was done, to be used as a means of securing the withdrawal of the one against Mr. Ross. Truly we have heard of many games to get out of an election difficulty but commend us to a Gift priest for ways that are dark and crooked. Mr. Johnston's Gift opponent must be highly pleased to learn on such undoubted evidence that while Mr. Ross was sporting on his behalf his friends were voting against, and sacrificing him in order to enable Mr. Ross to pose as a patriot. If that man and his friends don't pay Mr. G. W. Ross off in his own coin when he comes back for re-election, they will have even less pluck than most Giftists have.

In the West Simcoe election case Mr. Phillips has been finally unseated, the Court of Appeal having decided against him. This decision will also govern the Welland case, and will be fatal to Col. Morin, the Reform candidate for that seat.

Held to their Bargain.

It is understood that the Dominion Government has made a formal reply to the application of the delegates of the Nova Scotia Government for the transfer of the Pictou Branch of Intercolonial Railway, declining to make the transfer till the government can be assured that the terms of the original contract have been complied with, while the Nova Scotia Government assured the Dominion last winter was not the case. The objections then raised were that the road was not properly completed, the rolling stock was insufficient and the ferry service at the eastern terminus of the road was inadequate and that no tariff of tolls has ever been submitted for the approval of the Dominion Government, as required by the original contract. When these objections have been overcome the Dominion Government will be ready and willing to hand over the Pictou branch.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

A New Scheme for Encouraging a Course of Reading on Agricultural Subjects—Annual Examinations to be Held—Certificates of Merit and Money Prizes to be Granted.

While want of space forbids our transferring the circular of the Agricultural and Arts Association anent agricultural education to our columns entire, we give below the whole of it except that portion containing the course of reading required, and the works of reference recommended for those who propose competing for second-class certificates, an omission which will not be material, as doubtless those who come forward on this occasion will content themselves with entering for third-class certificates. The circular reads as follows:—

"The Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association of Ontario, believing that a more general study of the science of agriculture by those engaged in the active work of the farm would prove beneficial to those engaged in such studies, and conducive to the progress of agriculture in Canada, have decided to inaugurate a scheme of annual examinations in subjects bearing directly upon the work of the farm, accompanied by the granting of certificates of merit to all whose examination papers shall come up to a pre-determined standard of merit, somewhat similar to those already in vogue in England and Scotland, and which have been followed by most beneficial results in those countries. The consent of the Minister of Education having been obtained thereto, the first of these examinations will be held at the same time, at the same place, and subject to the same rules and regulations and supervision as the High School intermediate examinations of July next, and of the place and date of which due notice will be given through the local press. The examination papers, therefore, will be prepared by persons appointed by the Council, subject to revision by a special committee appointed for that purpose. Every precaution will be taken during their preparation, printing and distribution to keep a knowledge of their contents from intending candidates until they are placed before them by those in whose presence the examination is conducted, and the candidate's answer returned to the examiners appointed by the Council of the Association, who will be kept in ignorance of the names of the candidates whose papers they are examining.

Intending candidates are required to send in their names, accompanied with a statement as to whether they have ever attended any agricultural school or college in Canada or elsewhere, and also of the place at which they desire to present themselves for examination, to the Secretary of the Association at Toronto, before the 1st April, 1884.

At the first examination only second and third class certificates will be issued, and for these the following course of reading is required:—

COURSE OF READING FOR THIRD-CLASS CERTIFICATES.

1. Different kinds of soil; their properties; variations in the composition, texture, and condition, essential differences between good and poor soils. A Heceding to all Handing.

In these times when our Newspapers are flooded with patent medicine advertisements, it is gratifying to know what to procure that will certainly cure you. If you are bilious, blood out of order, Liver inactive, or generally debilitated there is nothing in the world that will cure you so quickly as Electric Bitters. They are a blessing to all mankind, and can be had for only fifty cents a bottle at Taylor & McDonalds.

THEY ALL TELL THE SAME STORY. Mr. W. Thompson, Jeweller, Delhi, suffered for years from Dyspepsia, got no relief, until he used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. He says it was just the medicine I needed. It has cured me.

MR. MOWAT'S OFFICERS AGAIN.

How "Reddie" and "Boston" O'Brien Put up a Job to Rob Mr. Stanley.

The Winnipeg Times of Oct. 22nd says:—Wilson, the man who was picked up insensible on the track near Arnaud station on Saturday morning last by the conductor of a south-bound train, arrived in the city on Saturday evening. His hands are badly frozen, and his feet are somewhat frost-bitten. Being unable to walk, he was carried from the baggage car by officers McKenzie and Alexander, and driven to the police station at the instance of Mr. Stanley, of the Office Hotel, who is one of "Reddie's" bondsmen to the extent of $400. It will be remembered that "Reddie" and two men named Laballe and "Smithy" were arrested last April for stealing C. P. R. time checks. Their trial was fixed for the present session, but owing to Smithy, who was out on bail, having left the country, it was postponed until next session. Wilson was trying the same dodge, but, fortunately, he did not succeed in his undertaking. He had walked all the way from Winnipeg, but having taken an overdose of whiskey, it is presumed he laid down to sleep off the effects. For reasons best known to himself Mr. Stanley informed a Times reporter that he never had in his house a man named Wilson, when the latter enquired at the hotel, in reference to the despatch which had been received at the office. He told a very different story, however, to the same reporter and a number of police officers at the police station on Saturday night, and here it is:—Wilson and "Boston" O'Brien were stopping at Mr. Stanley's hotel, and on Tuesday night last, along with a man called "Smithy" put up a job to rob him of $1,500, which they knew he had on his person. He was sleeping in bed with the money under his pillow, and about twelve o'clock he was awakened by a slight noise in the hall, and on arising from the bed, he saw "Boston" O'Brien peering into his room, the door of which was left open. He immediately jumped out of bed and followed the midnight prowler, and as he would pass into the hall, give the money to "Boston" and "Reddie," who were to skip out with it. Mr. Stanley says as he has now both villains caged, he will never be a bondsmen again, and if he carries out his remarks about "Smithy" it will be well for that individual to keep clear of the Office hotel.

Wilson was taken to the jail this afternoon. On the following morning Mr. Stanley, who was also one of "Boston's" bondsmen withdrew his bail and on this account the would-be thief was placed in jail. Mr. Stanley thinks that "Smithy" who is well known to the police as a hard case, was the one who planned the robbery, and as he would pass into the hall, give the money to "Boston" and "Reddie," who were to skip out with it. Mr. Stanley says as he has now both villains caged, he will never be a bondsmen again, and if he carries out his remarks about "Smithy" it will be well for that individual to keep clear of the Office hotel.

Wilson was taken to the jail this afternoon.

A Horrible Murder.

St. John's (Newfoundland) Telegram says the steamship Curlew, Captain Francis, arrived here from the westward between twelve and one o'clock, bringing among other intelligence an account of a terrible tragedy which occurred at Borin on the 20th ultimo. Particulars are not yet available, but from what we can learn it appears that on Sunday night last an altercation took place between George Hollett and Charles Mayo about some old grievance, during which hard words were said on both sides. Nevertheless, it does not seem probable that any serious result would have followed, only that young Hollett, a lad of 19, was constrained to come to the aid of his father. The latter, we are told, "put in an appearance while the angry dispute was in its height," and drawing a clasp knife plunged it into the breast of Mayo, making a cut of several inches and wounding his heart, such a manner as to cause the death of his victim in a little more than three minutes. To use the words of a gentleman who came from Borin on the Curlew, "Mayo staggered back a few paces and fell dead." The young miscreant, who scarcely appeared to realize the nature of his terrible crime, fled to the residence of his aunt, where he was arrested at three o'clock on Sunday morning. Great excitement has been caused by the tragedy, and the people of Borin are loud in their expressions of horror.

LUDWIG'S WEAVER, August 22nd, 1883.

Mrs. M. Churchill & Co., Gents.—I have been afflicted with Rheumatism for the past three years, and have been treated by some of the best doctors of Eastern Ontario without any lasting benefit. I was recommended by Mr. C. J. Lindsay, of Kams, to try your Fountain of Health. After using five bottles of your Fountain and two bottles of your Cinnamon Salve, I believe I am perfectly cured. My general health is also much improved, and I now feel like a new man.

Yours truly,
LUDWIG'S WEAVER.

DALNEY P. O., Tr. Ogroode.

Mrs. Churchill & Co., Dear Sirs.—I have been troubled with Piles for the last five years, and during that time I have taken medicine from five doctors which failed to effect a cure. I have used only one box of your Cinnamon Salve, which I purchased from W. F. Ritchie, of Ogroode Station, and can recommend it as a safe cure to all afflicted with the same disease. I consider your Fountain of Health an excellent tonic to build up the system.

Yours truly,
ARCHEL McLENNAN.

IRELAND.

ONE of the most successful fishing seasons ever experienced on the Slaney has been that which has just closed.

INSPECTOR Mallon, who distinguished himself in the Phoenix Park murder investigation, is to be made Chief Superintendent of the Dublin police.

On Monday last a new epidemic, containing a "black list" of the jurors in the Phoenix Park murder trials and in the case of the men tried for the attempt to murder Jervis Denis Field, was mailed to thousands of the inhabitants of Dublin.

It is said that poker has almost superseded what might be called its special domain—the Davendish Club, Stephen's Green, Dublin. Indeed, so popular has the game become because that Stephen's Green has been named "Poker Flat."

AN analysis of the contributions to the Parnell National Fund shows that the four Irish provinces have subscribed as follows: Leinster, £10,398; Munster, £3,979; Ulster, £2,221; and Connaught, £1,048. America has contributed £2,372, England £773, and Scotland £179. Subscriptions from Australia and India amount to £916.

A NEW trouble has arisen in Ireland—an almost open war between the Orangemen and Parnellites. Lord Rosebery, as Grand Master of the Orange Order of Monaghan, has written to the newspaper calling attention to the serious state of affairs in Ulster. He states that henceforth the self-restraint of Orangemen cannot be reckoned upon; that only the utmost efforts of himself and other leaders prevented the Orangemen from storming the hill at Rathfriland, the recent Parnellite meeting. If the Government, he says, allows such displays of violence to continue in Ulster the result will be bloodshed and perhaps civil war.

A REMARKABLE wave of heat passed over Scotland in the beginning of the present week. At Aberdeen on the 5th Oct. the thermometer reached 74 degrees, or 2 degrees above the average for the month.

Argon's Little Joke.

One day at the Academy of Sciences they had a long and tiresome session. Argon thought he would go out and take the air. At the foot of the stairway there was a leather bowl, upon which the rays of the sun were hotly beating. Argon turned the bowl around, and, rushing up stairs, told the distinguished assemblage that he had just met with something that was very mysterious. "That leather bowl," he said, "at the foot of the stairway is cool upon the side which presents itself to the sun, but warm upon the other side." The scientists descended in a body and substantiated this assertion. They took the inclination of the sun, the hour, the minute, the second, and a vast array of other details. They made calculations, and several weeks afterward each of them presented a paper explaining the phenomenon. Argon himself taking care to send in his explanation with the rest. There is no knowing how far the discussion might have gone had not the doorkeeper, who, being seen Argon turn the bowl, and playing the worthy gentleman who were on much warmer terms, cleared away the mystery. —Scientist's Record.

Two Dollars Ahead.

Judge David Davis was once making a deposit at a Washington bank, and stood counting a large pile of money at a desk. A well dressed young man stepped up, and, with a bow and smile, said: "Judge you have dropped a bill." Sure enough, there lay a clean, crisp, genuine $2 bill at the depositor's feet. "Thank you," handsly answered the judge, placing his ponderous right foot over the bill, then the floor, and calmly resumed his counting. The clerk, taken aback by the coolness of the proceedings, disappeared, and the judge was $2 ahead by the transaction, for the sharper placed the bill on the floor in hope that he would have a chance to grab the pile on the counter when the judge stooped to pick the decoy up.

THE sandstone quarry at Turner's Falls, on the Connecticut river, in Massachusetts, is a veritable mine of fossils. It was originally brought into fame through the fact that it is printed in its stones. The slabs of dark sandstone with the bird tracks on them fetch high prices, some of them being valued at $500 and $1,000. One slab, recently excavated, had tracks on it of an enormous bird, which must have been some twenty-five or thirty feet high.

A GREAT SOURCE OF EVIL.—Every farmer will admit that one of the most destructive evils of good crops is that of worms or parasites that prey upon vegetable life; other species of worms infect the human system and are productive of much suffering and ill health. Freeman's Worm Powders will effectually rid the system of this trouble, are pleasant to take and contain their own cathartic.

A DOCTOR in the employ of the C.P.R., on his way from Spanish River to Algoma Mills, packed his effects on the propeller Eclipse. While the company were about on shore a watchman and three druggists boarded the vessel and ransacked the doctor's effects. Seeing a bottle labelled "Time Juice" they took it for liquor. The watchman is dead and his companions at the latest advices were suffering the most terrible agony and were expected to die every moment. The Time Juice was sulphuric acid.

THE reason why the surgeons of the International Traction and Light Company, 119 Church street, Toronto, are making so many wonderful cures of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma, and consumption, are:—They have none but skilled and qualified medical men connected with the Institute. They adhere strictly to their speciality, and they use the spirometer invented by Mr. Souville, ex-aid surgeon of the French army, an instrument which conveys the medicine in the form of cold inhalations to parts diseased, which is the only way these diseases can be cured. They are treating hundreds of patients every month, having twelve surgeons engaged in their work in Canada alone. Found Guilty of Murdering Mother.

DETROIT, Oct. 26.—The trial of Greenwood and Harding, charged with the murder of 21-year-old Mary in Sandwich, on Jan. 21st, last, took place yesterday afternoon at the fall assizes at Sandwich, Justice Patterson of Toronto presiding. Seventeen witnesses were examined, their testimony being substantially that Mather was enticed across the river by the prisoner under pretence of meeting his son Tommy Mather, the safe blow, who was reported to have escaped from Jackson, where he is serving a fifteen year's term, and that after he went over he was drugged and robbed and died from the effects of the drug. The prisoners were found guilty with a recommendation to mercy.

A Youthful Train Wrecker.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 26.—Jacob Gangway, the boy who placed the obstructions on the Reading and Columbia Railroad last May, causing a wreck which resulted in the death of Master Mechanic Hain, was today convicted of involuntary manslaughter with a recommendation to mercy.

Nobody Cares.

Why grumble at every little thing? Nobody cares to know anything about it. If you have toothache get the dentists to remove it. Don't increase your misery and try to make others unhappy by talking about it. They stand a good deal of conversation as you know, but they don't care to hear of your troubles. Know that Burton's Peppermint Cure removes them without pain in a few days. That's the proper thing to do in a bottle, get it at the corner, and the thing is done. Be sure you get Putnam's, for there are others offered as substitutes for the genuine.

Are you

Drowsy, dull and out of sorts? Are you bilious, nauseated and made sick by the thought of food? Is there a dull, dragging pain in your right side? Do your bowels suddenly get sore without any apparent cause? Are the whites of your eyes tinged with yellow? Is your skin wan, clammy and copper-colored? Does your mouth taste badly in the morning? Are you constive? Do you have itching piles? Are your bowels irregular? Are you dizzy and dim-sighted at times? Are you gloomy and despondent? Is your urine highly colored? Are you nervous and full of bad feelings in all parts of your body?

If so, be advised before your case gets more serious—before you are seized by some form of low fever or become otherwise hopelessly sick.

Take SULPHUR and IRON BITTERS. The trouble with you is that your liver is out of order and needs regulating immediately. SULPHUR and IRON BITTERS will help you as nothing else in the shape of medicine can.

Regulated, stimulated and made to do its proper work in a proper manner by SULPHUR and IRON BITTERS the Liver will resume its natural functions, and all the above symptoms will disappear and be forgotten. But do not neglect them. Use the remedy at once. Sold everywhere, price 50 cents.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1888.

The Cells.

Two tramps and one prisoner shared the police cells on Saturday night, and the two tramps had the rooms to themselves last night.

Personal.

Mr. W. L. Russell, of Lindsay, who contested South Victoria with Mr. S. Casey Wood for the Provincial Legislature, a gentleman who was well known in Peterborough, died this morning.

Another old Settler Gone.

On Sunday afternoon another of the oldest settlers in the town, Mr. Robert Stenson, who has been identified with the growth and prosperity of Peterborough for many years, passed away from this life at the ripe age of 92 years.

Midland Railway Traffic Returns.

The Traffic of the above Railway for the week ending Oct. 20th, 1888, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $7,816.14; freight, $22,171.87; total, $29,988.01 as compared with $28,280.01 for the corresponding week of 1887, being an increase of $1,708, and the aggregate traffic to date is $887,850.97, being an increase of $27,466.14 over 1887.

Is Advertising Good?

The lost new umbrella, advertised in this paper on Friday, has been returned to the owner at a cost of twenty-five cents, exacted by the inexorable printer. For the find the latter claims some credit, and would suggest that the numberless aspersions and anathemas lately cast upon "the man who took my umbrella," would be reserved if the asperser would remember the great disseminator of news.

A Fall.

On Saturday evening a wagon with three women sitting in the rear seat turned from George street to McDonnell street. Just as the horses turned the corner the rear seat gave way and the three occupants fell out backwards into the road. One of the ladies was bruised on the shoulder and the other two were uninjured, although their escape was a narrow one, as they fell on their heads and shoulders.

Hotel Range.

Mr. Adam Hall shipped to-day to Parent's Hotel, Trenton, one of his wrought iron hotel ranges, with fourteen cooking holes, heater and hot water reservoir. These ranges are becoming very popular among hotel keepers. The Radiant Home still holds the foremost place among stoves, all other base burners being eclipsed by it. There is no danger of its exploding, as there is with inferior stoves.

Windy and Warmer.

The weather yesterday morning was fine, but in the afternoon it became cloudy and in the evening rain fell. To-day is warmer, and rain fell during the forenoon. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, commencing from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh winds, cloudy to fair weather with local rains; stationary or slightly higher temperature.

Over an Embankment.

On Saturday night, shortly after the shades of darkness enveloped the earth, Mr. T. Gammill, Jr., was driving down Water street with a light wagon loaded with wood. When driving up the hill at the edge of the river, at the end of Dublin street, the traces broke and the wagon went down the hill. As there is no railing or guard of any kind along the embankment, it fell over the bank and into the river. Fortunately Mr. Gammill was walking up the hill and escaped. The principal damage was the box torn off the wagon and one spring broken.

A Melody Bath.

The Manyunk, Pa. Chronicle and Advertiser says of the Fisk Jubilee Singers, who are to give a concert here on the 5th of November:— "A melody bath, healing, strengthening, renewing, was the concert by the Fisk Jubilee Singers at Temperance Hall on Thursday evening. Over and over selections were given worth the entire price of admission."

Revere followed encore, and the responses were prompt, graceful, and in excellent taste. Just to sit and revel in that entrancing music dispelled the wonder that the foremost cities of two continents give them the highest commendations, and that "covered heads" have listened with fearful delight to their singing. Each voice almost phenomenally sweet and mellow, the combination seems as perfect and entrancing as anything human can be. There is no musical business about it. The Singers rely solely on the sterling merit of their camp meeting songs and "spirituals," and herein lies their strength. May they go on conquering and to conquer."

FOOTBALL.

Saturday's Match.—The Peterborough Club Defeat the Trinity College School Boys.

A football match between Trinity College School Club, of Port Hope, and the Peterborough Club was played on the Ashburnham cricket ground on Saturday afternoon. There was quite a large attendance of spectators, including a number of ladies. The following composed the teams:—

TRINITY COLLEGE SCHOOL.—Forwards—Curry, McMurray, Cousins, Walker, Gilbert, Blackburne, Patton, Boyd, Cooper. Quarter-backs—Tyler, Lewis (captain). Half-backs—Beatty, Cassels. Backs—Lawless, Cameron.

PETERBOROUGH.—Forwards—Budden (captain), Carnegie, A. Rogers, Hutton, Henry, Gilmour, Orde, Cooper. Quarter-backs—Smith, Morris, Geale. Half-backs—Waller, R. B. Rogers, Snyder. Back—Haultain.

The ball was kicked off by Budden for Peterborough and throughout the first half time was kept well down on the School goal. Occasionally a good kick by the School backs sent the ball up the field, but only to be returned by a fine run by Waller, Snyder, Smith or Orde. At the end of the first half time the score stood twenty points to none in favour of Peterborough. After a short breathing spell, the ball was kicked off for the School by Curry, and for some time was kept dangerously near the Peterborough goal line, and at last Beatty, by a good kick from the field, won a goal for the School. But this was only a momentary advantage, for the fine forward play of the Peterborough men, notably Budden, Carnegie and A. Rogers, gradually forced the ball up the field to the Port Hope goal. In spite of the plucky efforts of the School forwards and the really good kicking of their backs, the ball was kept near their goal line for the rest of the game, except a last desperate charge by the School team, which carried all before it and forced their opponents to rouse in self defence. At the end of the game the score stood, four goals, two tries and seven rouges for Peterborough, to one goal and a rouge for the School, or forty-seven points to seven.

For the School, McMurray, Beatty, Lawless and Curry played particularly well, while all played a plucky game against their heavier opponents. The Peterborough forward play was very good and runs in were made by Carnegie, Smith, Orde, Waller, Snyder and A. Rogers. The passing by the Peterborough men was very effective. The game went off most pleasantly, with the exception of a little dispute, which was more the result of some unfortunate change in the rules by the Ontario Union than of any ill-feeling on either side. After the match the two teams dined at Faucher's Restaurant, and the School team returned to Port Hope by the evening train.

COLLISION ON THE GRAND JUNCTION.

The Worst Since the Opening of the Road.—Two Trains Wrecked—Several Persons Injured.

A dispatch from Belleville gives particulars of a serious accident occurred on the Grand Junction Railway on Saturday morning, the Madoc train running into a gravel train near Foxboro', about seven miles from that city. Mrs. Wright, of Madoc, is reported to be dying of her injuries. Another passenger is reported as being seriously hurt, and several others have sustained injuries more or less serious, but not dangerous. The collision which occurred on the Grand Junction was owing to a curve, in the bend of which the gravel pit is situated. The ballast train had slackened speed to go into the siding, when the passenger train, coming from the opposite direction, dashed into it at a high rate of speed. The passenger train was in charge of John Snider, and the ballast train was under the control of David Hays, an old and experienced conductor. The regular passenger train from the west left Madoc on time, and it is asserted left the North Hastings junction without orders. At all events when the ballast pit was reached it collided with the ballast train about a mile and a half west of the Madoc road, above Foxboro', on the main line. The result was that seven cars in the ballast train were smashed, two engines were put in a sadly dilapidated condition, and other minor consequences followed to the rolling stock. The engine, No. 184, driven by Muir, and 23, driven by McNight, formed a part of the wreck, the equal of which has not been seen on this road since its opening. The cars of the ballast train were literally smashed into splinters.

The casualties are as follows:—John Taylor, brakeman, of Belleville, sustained a fracture of the right hip, and was otherwise dangerously hurt. Hiram Phillips, of Eldorado, had his head badly hurt, one of his hips was injured, and two ribs fractured, and Mrs. Wright, of Madoc, was badly injured about the back. Her condition is serious. Nearly all the other passengers were severely shaken up, one being thrown through a window and a knife penetrating the hand of another. Physicians were summoned, and Dr. Burdett, of Belleville, and Dr. Faulkner, of Foxboro', responded. The wounded were taken to a farm house near by and were afterwards all taken to Belleville, on a special, which had been sent to the scene of the disaster. An auxiliary engine was sent with a number of men, who were throughout the day engaged clearing the debris and putting the cars on the track. The damage done, it is estimated, will be in the vicinity $30,000. An investigation is to be held, when the true cause of the disaster will be ascertained. The collision occurred about eight o'clock in the morning.

Government of Canada Loan for $4,000,000, 4 per cent. Currency Bonds.

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE for the Dominion of Canada is authorized to receive tenders for a loan of $4,000,000 currency bonds, bearing interest from 1st November, 1888, at the rate of 4 per centum per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st May and 1st November of each year, at his office in the Finance Department, Ottawa. This loan is issued under the authority of an Act of the Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, passed during their last session, (46th Victoria, cap. 2, sec. 4.) The object of the loan is partly to provide for the payment of debts maturing or redeemable in the course of the current fiscal year, and partly for expenditure on public works. Subscribers will receive bonds to bearer, which may at any future time be converted into registered stock. The subscription list will be opened on Wednesday, the 17th day of October next, and will be closed on Saturday, the 25th day of October next, at 4 o'clock p. m., and tenders in the accompanying form, marked on the outside "Tenders for Debentures," will be received at the Finance Department, Ottawa, up to and including the latter date, at the hour mentioned. Tenders must be made for not less than $1,000, and in multiples of $1,000. The allotment of the loan will be made as soon as possible after the close of the subscription list, the amounts allotted will be payable on the 1st day of November next, and Bonds will be issued shortly after that date. Copies of this prospectus and forms of tender can be obtained from the undersigned, from the several Assistant Receivers General at Montreal, Toronto, Halifax, Saint John, Winnipeg and Victoria, and from the Dominion Auditor at Charlottetown. Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1883.

In Lennox it was proved that there was bribery by Conservatives. In both Lennox and West Middlesex it was proved that there was bribery by Reformers. Reform journals argue that one case completely offsets the other. They are not good arithmeticians.

Some Reform journals are arguing that the corrupt act which caused the loss of Mr. G. W. Ross' seat in West Middlesex was very trivial. They forget to mention that there were sixty additional witnesses to testify, but that Mr. Ross' counsel wanted to give up the case, so as to close their mouths and to prevent a fuller disclosure of the corruption practised.

We notice that some of our contemporaries dwell, as if in surprise, upon the fact that our new Governor General is conversant with the French language. This is certainly not a rare accomplishment among educated people in the British Islands, and is very natural in the case of Lord Lansdowne, who has French blood in his veins, his mother being the daughter of an ambassador from France to Great Britain.

The Dominion Government has guaranteed three per cent interest on the Canada Pacific Railway Stock, the company having deposited cash and securities sufficient to hold the country harmless. Thus the construction of our great transcontinental railway is aided without any risk being run, and indeed with the benefit of obtaining the use of a large sum of money at a lower rate of interest than we are now paying. There has been a most beneficial effect upon the C. P. R. stock.

There is much dissatisfaction in Toronto over the fact that the women in the Mercer Refectory are allowed to compete in laundry work and to sell with those outside that institution, and at prices that admit of no rivalry. It is evident that women who are fed at the expense of the Province, and lodged at the expense of Mr. Mercer, whose confiscated property was used for that purpose, can under their more moral sisters who have to board and lodge themselves.

On Monday the Globe seized the opportunity of spreading a report that the Kicking Horse Pass had been condemned by the Canada Pacific Railway engineers, that a large number of men had been discharged and that work had been suspended for two years. On Tuesday its "own correspondent" at Winnipeg supplied the antidote by telegraphing that the stoppage was only for the winter, as before; that they would proceed with the construction through the Kicking Horse Pass next summer, and that the track is already laid within a few miles of the summit.

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT.

The Ottawa Free Press of Saturday has a very little better in reference to some reprehensible personalities in the Mail, this well-informed critic actually representing the charge of "an absence of sweetness and light" as equivalent to an accusation of being "dirty." As if to make this absurdity more glaring, the adjutant column of the Free Press contains a portrait and description of "Matthew Arnold," who would be surprised to learn that when singing the praises, in his favorite phrase, of "sweetness and light," he could be supposed to attribute want of personal cleanliness to the "Philistine." This particular specimen of the tribe certainly has no great share of either sweetness of disposition or intellectual light, and in his case the remarks of the Mail would evidently be justifiable, however objectionable they may be in their general application.

A HIGH PRIEST.

The Belleville Ontario has the following little rap at us. It says:—

"In the heading 'A Purist Unseated' the Peterborough Review (Tory) acknowledges the high character borne by Mr. G. W. Ross, of West Middlesex."

Our contemporary blunders in supposing that the term "purist" implies high character. The two dictionaries to which we have immediate access, Webster and Worcester, define a "purist" as "one excessively or scrupulously nice in the use of words." This is very applicable to Mr. Ross, who was so very "nice" in the use of his words that he thought it quite harmless to express a wish that a voter in Michigan should be "sent for," though the impression he thereby conveyed to his friend and hearer (a truthful man, in Mr. Ross' opinion), was the natural one that his expenses were to be paid. It would not have been "nice" enough to use the plain, blunt language almost demanded by the circumstances, that no illegal inducement was to be offered. No wonder that Mr. Barry misunderstood him, if, indeed, he did not really understand him too well.

But besides its dictionary definition, the word "purist" has acquired the colloquial significance (and journalists are allowed to use colloquial language) of "a pretender to purity." Now those who watched Mr. Ross' course in the House of Commons last session know that he made great claims to purity. That these claims were not well founded—were, in fact, a pretence—is evident from the recent election trial, where his quibbling evidence in the Barry case, and the almost indecent eagerness of his counsel to admit agency even before it was claimed to be proved, and in spite of the doubts expressed by the judge, so that all further enquiry was barred, and the numerous witnesses in waiting were silenced, were far from being signs of a purely contested election.

WAGES AND LIVING.

The Globe is trying to bring up again the question of wages and living, as effected by the National Policy, and endeavours to make the worse appear the better reason by suggesting that protection has made living dear in Canada. Although the attempt is made to keep out of sight the fact that such increase as there is in the cost of living lies altogether in articles of food, and not of clothing. Whatever number of dollars a working man may have to spend on clothing for himself and family will certainly go as far now as the same amount would have gone five or six years ago. We leave it to the whole body of shopkeepers dealing in such articles to say whether this is not strictly true. Cotton, woollens, ready-made clothing, women's goods, and boots and shoes, never were cheaper in Canada than at present. Tea and coffee pay no duty, and the former is certainly cheaper now than we ever had it before in this country. Sugar, though paying, as we have maintained, too high a duty, is cheaper and of better quality—better value for the money—than in 1878. Where then does the increased cost of living come in?

The question is very easily answered. The increased cost of living lies altogether in the higher prices of flour, meat, milk, butter, cheese, eggs, milk, potatoes, and in fact of farm produce generally. Wheat is cheap, so is corn, only a little over a dollar, but flour and bread keep up notwithstanding. The fact is that the farmers are getting big prices for everything they have to sell, and these big prices have to be paid by dwellers in the towns. Beef and mutton are dear because our best fat cattle and sheep are bought up and sent off to England and the Eastern States. The same also with butter, eggs and cheese; these articles are gathered up by hundreds of eager buyers, all with pockets full of money, who sweep them out of the country by car loads.

The very high price of these necessities of life come hard upon the poor man, to be sure, but it does not very clearly appear what we are going to do about it. Is the Globe prepared to argue that lower prices of farm produce would be for the country's good? If so, that will be new doctrine in Canada; and we wish our contemporary joy over the time it will have in winning this argument to this effect. The Globe claims to be particularly the farmer's friend; we should like to see it maintain in dead earnest that the country would be better off if prices of farm produce were lower.

Admit for a moment that hard coal is fifty cents per ton dearer because of the duty. Five cents for the season would certainly be more than the average consumption in workmen's houses. That would be offset by two or three extra days' work in the year. But the number of additional days' work created by having our own markets for the products of our own shops is far more than this to workmen generally.

Suppose we had open ports all along the coast, should we then be supplied with cheap beef, mutton, butter, eggs and cheese from the States? Nobody will venture to maintain that, for everybody knows that these articles are exported from here to there.

It is a delusion to imagine that high prices at the shops of butcher, baker, flour dealer and grocer are caused by the duties, in a country which has a surplus of the articles to export. The high prices complained of are due mostly, of course, to the sweeping foreign demand; but in part, also, to serious defects in our system of distribution, which we should endeavor, if possible, to discover, and find a remedy for.—Toronto World.

THE COLONIZATION COMPANIES.

Eleven of the Colonization Companies are doing good work. These are the Dominion Lands Co., the Qu'Appelle, the Townswood-Qu'Appelle, the Primitive Methodist, the Temperance, the York Farmers' Colony, the Saskatchewan, the Montreal and Northwestern, the Dundas, the Shell River and the Bootbell, Ontario and Manitoba Co. They have each planted 100 settlers and as many more are going on the land this fall. In other words, before winter sets in there will be about 10,000 souls on the reserves. The companies are spending a vast amount of money. The outfit for each company ranges from $500,000 to $200,000. They have opened stores, where the settler can obtain goods at cost price, built saw mills and blacksmith's shops, and advanced money to settlers in order to enable them to make their entries and break the prairie. The settlers are picked men. Those on the Primitive Methodist reserve are mostly farmers from England. On the York Farmers' reserves they are the sons of Ontario farmers, well equipped with money, implements and experience.

These settlers are doing well. They had wonderfully good crops this year, and are entirely satisfied with their prospects.—Winnipeg Times.

Bribery by Railway Passes.

The Hamilton Tribune holds the right view as to the gift of railway passes by directors to electors, though, we may remark, that the law remains in doubt till the Court of Appeal has given its decision. The Tribune says:—

"The Belleville Intelligencer condemns warmly the distribution of railway passes by Mr. Harris to voters in East Northumberland. Our contemporary's arguments in favor of a change in the law are sound. For our part, we neither give Mr. Harris credit for innocence of any intention to bribe the electors who received the passes, nor with ignorance of the fact that it was a species of corruption which the chances were, the law as it stood would not cover. The Ontario Legislature owes a duty to itself, and that is to amend the election law so as to cover such cases. If Mr. Meredith is the keen politician he ought to be, he will divide the House upon this question at the earliest moment."

Kram's Fluid Lightning.
WIFE.—What's the matter now John.
HUSBAND.—Oh, that neuralgia and toothache near killed me.
WIFE.—Why don't you go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a bottle of Kram's Fluid Lightning, you know it cures all such things as toothache, neuralgia, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat etc. It gives instant relief.

THEY ALL TELL the same story. Mr. W. Thompson, Jeweler, Delhi, suffered for years from Dyspepsia, got no relief until he used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. He says it was just the medicine he needed. It has cured me.

A REMARKABLE CURE. Mr. A. McKee, of Frankville, was a sufferer from Chronic Kidney and Liver Complaint, and at one time was so bad that his life was despaired of. He was cured by four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters.

NOVEMBER.

The Month for OVERCOATS and forerunner of colder days to come reminds everyone that heavier clothing is now wanted. This want we have anticipated, and have now on hand an extensively fine line to select from. Go tell your friends, then come yourself, and see that this is the place you have been looking for. Our general line comprises overcoats, (heavy as well as medium), Men's Fall and Winter Suits in endless variety, Children's and Youths' Clothing in all the Newest Shades and Styles, and at prices that will suit all. Our Goods are all as represented.

Of course low prices have much to do with the success of any business where the competition is great, and especially is this the case with the Clothing Trade. But there is another feature, equally necessary to complete success, and that is the POSITIVE MERIT of the goods sold. It is upon these two absolutely essential requirements that we have established the most extensive business in Peterborough.

Old Friends.

As a proof of this, witness the throng of old FRIENDS who daily visit us, bringing acquaintances to introduce, and all convinced that we sell BETTER CLOTHING AND AT FAR LOWER PRICES THAN ANY OTHER HOUSE IN THIS TOWN. An apt illustration of these facts can be found in our present sale of an exquisitely made and thoroughly substantial ALL-WOOL SUIT AT $5; also a BEAUTIFUL $5 FALL OVERCOAT, equal to like coats found elsewhere at $8.

Intending Clothing-buyers will nowhere find such extraordinary inducements awaiting them as are now offering by us.

CUSTOM DEPARTMENT.

Finest Lines of Imported Fabrics—Suits and Overcoatings—Honest
Workmanship and Reduced Prices, are the attractions offering in this Department. Particular attention is paid to the Make, Fit and Style of our clothing, and we acknowledge no superiors in the art of turning out Elegantly Dressed Patrons.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1883.

The New Wharf.

The new wharf, built by the Ontario and Quebec Railway Company at the end of Wolfe Street, is completed. Mr. T. M. D. O'Leary had the contract for the wharf and superintended its construction, and he has done the work in a creditable manner. Considerable filling is now done on the approach to the landing, and the wharf itself is substantially constructed. The pier is of solid timber and heavy plank and was used, while the space under it has been filled in with stones, so that it is a strongly and solidly built.

Railway Notes.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Midland Railway this week to arrange for a general meeting of the shareholders of the road to consider the agreement with the Grand Trunk.

A house has been torn down and another moved at the corner of Aylmer and Wolfe streets, and a number of men are at work leveling the lot and utilizing the earth taken from it in widening the embankment for the roadbed of the Ontario and Quebec. This lot was purchased by the railway.

Another large C. P. R. locomotive arrived at noon today. It will be used on the work of construction on the Ontario and Quebec Railway bridge.

A quantity of bridge iron arrived per the Midland to-day for the Ontario and Quebec Railway bridge.

A Seasonable Sale.

As the cold months of winter approach, and the cool nights and north winds warn us that we must prepare to do battle with Jack Frost, it is well to know where suitable winter goods can be purchased cheaply. A sale at which such goods can be purchased at low prices, at this time of the year, is announced by Messrs. W. Fairweather & Co., which will be commenced on Thursday, November 1st, and continue during the month. All kinds of Dry Goods and Clothing are marked down to the lowest figures, and Ladies' Fur Hats, Misses' Fur Coats, Buffalo and Polar Robes, are included in the general reduction of prices. Their well stocked Millinery and Mantle Department is not excepted, and good bargains are offered. See their advertisement and visit their place of business, corner of George and Simcoe streets.

Letters From the People.

The First University Jubilee Singers, who will give a concert here on Monday evening, have received many letters, among them being the following:—

"The First Jubilee Singers have sung in my church for several successive years, and every year with growing acceptance. The glees which they sing, like the concerted hymns of the church, never wear out. We count their annual concert as the great treat of the year, and think the year could hardly be complete without it."

"Personally, I regard their singing as a help and comfort; never have I had the favour and his great redemptive work brought more vividly before me. The history of this troupe, the triumphs they have won, are among the wonders of our wonderful day, and will live in the memory of men so long as there is a God, and a faithful heart left to record them."

JAMES B. SHAW.

Pastor of the Brick Church, Rochester, N. Y.

Mandatory Meeting.

There will be a mandatory meeting held in St. John's Church Chapel this evening at 8 o'clock, when, it is expected, there will be a large number of clergymen present, among them the Bishops of Toronto and the Rev. A. P. Campbell, Oriental Secretary of Missions. The latter gentleman is said to be a very good speaker and no doubt will give the meeting some wholesome and interesting information in connection with missionary work. There will be a collection taken up for the missions. As previously announced in this paper, the anniversary of the opening of the church will be celebrated to-morrow (All Saints' Day), and there will be service at 8 o'clock a.m., 11 a.m., and full service in the evening at 7.30 o'clock. The evening service will be unusually interesting, and the musical portion of it will be very fine. The collections taken up to-morrow, are to be devoted to the organ fund. We will give particulars in Friday's issue.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Bank Falls in and Buries a Man Under the Earth.

An accident of a serious nature occurred to Mr. John Daly on Tuesday. He was working in the pit from which the earth is being taken for the construction of the bank along the raceway on Dickson street. The pit is on the side of a hill on Hunter street, and the bank had been somewhat undermined by the work of excavation, causing a large quantity of earth to fall down. Mr. Daly was working close to the bank, and before he had time to escape he was caught by the falling earth and completely buried under it.

As soon as the other men saw the accident they set to work to dig him out, and a messenger was sent for a physician. The unfortunate man was covered to a depth of three or four feet, but energetic work soon relieved him from his uncomfortable situation. Before this was done, however, Dr. McGee, who resides near the scene of the accident, had arrived, and when Mr. Daly was taken out the doctor found that he was seriously injured by the weight of the earth about the chest, and his hip was dislocated, besides other injuries. No bones, however, were broken.

The unfortunate man was placed in a buggy and driven to his home on Elm street. It is not thought that his life is in danger, unless a cold is contracted and inflammation supervenes.

The Midland and Grand Trunk. At the Grand Trunk meeting held in London on Oct. 25th, agreements with several railways were ratified. The following extract from the Directors' report, concerning the agreement with the Midland railway, is published in the Globe:—

"An agreement between the Grand Trunk Railway Company and the Midland Railway Company of Canada. It will be remembered that a traffic agreement was made between the two Companies, dated the 10th May, 1882, under which the five railways comprising the existing Midland system were consolidated into one undertaking, and these railways have since been worked under a President and Board, having separate control, though in connection with, and in the interest of, the Grand Trunk system."

"That arrangement has proved so far beneficial in preventing injurious competition, and has had the effect of protecting the interests of the Grand Trunk Company from the evil effects that would have resulted if the Midland system or any portion of it, had fallen into the hostile hands."

"The preliminary object having been thus obtained, the further step now becomes desirable of promoting still greater unity of action and greater economy of working, by operating the Grand Trunk and Midland Railways as one system."

"With this view it is now proposed that the Midland Railway shall, from the 1st January, 1884, be taken over and worked as part of the Grand Trunk system; the Grand Trunk Company undertaking to supplement the net receipts of the Midland Company, if necessary, by payment out of the gross receipts from traffic carried upon the said railway, an amount sufficient to secure the interest on the bonds of the Midland Company, as was previously agreed in regard to bonds of sections of that Company."

"Of the total share capital of $6,000,000 of the Consolidated Midland system, an amount of $4,316,000 is held by the Grand Trunk Company, which has, therefore, a very important interest in the future success of the Midland Railway."

Hallowe'en.

This day is the 31st of October. It only comes once a year, the same as other days of the month, and many do not feel a very deep regret that such is the fact, for this evening will be Hallowe'en. Hallowe'en, whatever may have been its origin or original import, is commemorated each year by the youth of Canada by a festival of fun. The spirit of mischief is then let loose, and tricks and practical jokes are tolerated and laughed at, that at any other time might lead to serious consequences. It is said that at one time it was believed that witches and evil spirits were abroad on this particular night, and it may be that the boys wish to perpetrate this belief of a superstitious age. The Hallowe'en sports peculiar to all countries appear to have been imported into Canada and adopted by the youth of this country, with some additions of their own. The different methods of fortelling the matrimonial fate of young men and maidens, such as by burning nuts and using bowls of water, often amuse a family around a Canadian fire, and "Snap Apple Night," the name by which it is known in parts of Ireland, is not forgotten, one way of commemorating it being to suspend two sticks crossed, with an apple and a ball soaked in molasses on the alternate ends, and the string fastened in the centre. It is then "whirled around, and while in motion the dew is created by attempts to bite an apple and to escape the syrup. The celebration of Hallowe'en, however, is in Canada left almost entirely to the boys, who celebrate it in their own peculiar way. It is to be hoped, if it is celebrated in town this evening, that the boys will discriminate between practical joking or fun and destruction of property. Fun that inflicts loss, injury or pain is not fun, and no right minded one would considerate it amusement. At the same time there is a wide field for sport that is harmless, and that will afford just as good an opportunity for justification. There are reports as to how far they may be true. We believe, however, that the rumour that the boys were laying a plot to kidnap the Town Council is not correct.

Thanksgiving Day.

The St. Andrew's Church Ladies' Society intend holding a Social on the evening of Thanksgiving Day. Tickets 25 cents.

HASTINGS "STAR" ON WARSAW.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In your issue of the 19th you give the Hastings Star credit for saying that "at the East Riding Exhibition at Warsaw last week the usual pilfering took place." No cushion was stolen, as stated by the Star. The buffalo belonging to Mr. Burgess was not on exhibition.

Does the word "usual" as used by the Star, mean that Warsaw is a noted place for pilfering or does it mean that pilfering as a rule is carried on at all exhibitions? I would like to know.

Yours truly,

ALEX. WATTS.

President East Riding Agricultural Society, Warsaw, Oct. 30, 1883.

Anniversary Services.

At the anniversary services in St. John's Church to-morrow the Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, M.A., will preach in the morning and the Rev. John Curry, D.D., in the evening.

Festual.

Mr. V. V. Ashland of Toronto, was in town to-day on business in connection with the history of Peterborough to be published by Mr. C. Blackett Robinson.

Presentation.

Miss Preston, who to-day retired from the position of teacher in the public school was presented with a handsome gold ring, elegant plush work-box, and address by her pupils. The address will appear in to-morrow's issue.

Hosiery, Gloves and Underclothing.

W. Fairweather & Co. have just opened a splendid variety of Ladies' Mitts and Children's Fine Wool Hosiery, of a superior make and quality. Ladies' and Gent's Underclothing, Black Goods a specialty, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

Carton Bros. for Oysters.

We are sole agents for Freeman & Shaw's Famous Baltimore Oysters, received regularly by express in fine condition. Sold in cans and by measure in quarts, pints and half pints. Oyster shells supplied free of charge. A reduction made to parties ordering in large quantities. CARTON BROS.

To Housekeepers.

Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpets, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

The Town Clock.

The town clock was at its usual tricks again to-day. It was over ten minutes behind time this morning and remained so until noon. Something should be done about it, as it is becoming a nuisance instead of a convenience. The caretaker blames the exposed face for the trouble.

Bazaar.

The ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee:—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick.

Colder With Gales.

The weather to-day has been cool and partly cloudy, with strong winds. COMPLIMENTARY SUPPER.

A Farewell to Mr. George Pratt of the Ontario and Quebec Staff.

On Wednesday evening a farewell supper was tendered to Mr. George Pratt, Inspector of Masonry on the Ontario and Quebec Railway, in Chamberlain's Hotel, previous to his departure to the Northwest, where he goes to take charge of a contract for the Canada Pacific. There was a large attendance of gentlemen connected with the railway and of citizens, some of the former from Toronto being present. Mr. Chamberlain understands how to cater for such an occasion, and the spread did credit to the house.

Mr. D. McDermid occupied the chair, and Mr. C. T. Murray the vice-chair. After the removal of the cloth a very pleasant social evening was spent with toasts, speaking and singing. After the usual loyal toasts had been duly honored, Mr. Hendrie, of Messrs. McDermid & Hendrie, proposed "Our guest," and in doing so referred in complimentary terms to Mr. Pratt's efficiency in discharging his duties. Mr. Pratt made a suitable reply. Mr. Murray proposed "The Engineers of the Ontario and Quebec," and as Mr. J. H. Barber was unavoidably absent, Mr. McKenzie responded for the engineers in a neat speech. "Messrs. McDermid and Hendrie" was proposed by Mr. W. W. Cummings, who spoke very highly of the efficient manner in which the contractors had carried on their work. Mr. Hendrie responded on behalf of the firm. Mr. W. J. Ross, Inspector of Bridges, then proposed "The Citizens of Peterborough," which brought Messrs. C. Cameron and W. Cummings to their feet, each of whom briefly responded in appropriate terms. "The Ontario and Quebec, and its success," proposed by Mr. McDermid, was ably responded to by Mr. Morrison. The toast "The Inspectors," coupled with the names of Messrs. Ross and Fraser, was replied to by Mr. Fraser. Messrs. Mang and Sabiston responded to the toast of "The Foreman." The pleasure of the evening was greatly enhanced by the singing of Mr. D. Gaillety, Mr. McEachern, and other gentlemen, and altogether a very enjoyable evening was spent. The remarks during the evening gave abundant evidence that Mr. Pratt carries with him the best wishes of those who were present, and of many friends.

Personal.

Miss S. H. Preston, who has resigned her position as teacher in the Central School, has been engaged to teach a school in Cavan at an advanced salary.

Mr. H. S. Crews, provincial inspector of the registration of births, marriages and deaths, was in town to-day. He instructed the registrar, Mr. C. D. Macdonald, to proceed at once against all who have not registered their wants, as required by the law.

W. Fairweather & Co. have just opened a splendid variety of Ladies' Misses' and Children's Fine Wool Hosiery, of a superior make and quality. Ladies' and Gents' Underclothing, Black Goods a specialty, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

THE HON. JAMES YOUNG has retired from the Provincial Cabinet and is succeeded by Mr. A. M. Ross, M. P. for West Huron as Provincial Treasurer and Commissioner of Agriculture.

Marvels of Cheapness.

Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Coloured Dress Silks, at 50c, 75c, and $1.00 are Marvels of Cheapness, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

A Train Falls Through a Trestle. CHARLESTON, Oct. 30.—A freight train of the North Eastern railroad went through a trestle 45 miles from here. The engineer and three trainmen were injured. Seventeen cars were burned and 200 feet of the trestle destroyed.

A Vessel Ashore. FORT ROWAN, Ont., Oct. 30.—A large three-masted vessel struck the shore at 9.30 this morning at the west end of the harbor, within a mile of the wreck of the schooner Wm. H. Vanderbilt. Signals of distress are being at the lighthouse, and the lifeboat from this station has gone to the rescue.

A Long Race. The annual fifty miles Amateur Bicycle Race was decided at Lillie Bridge grounds, London, England, the other day. There were eight starters, and the race proved a very close one. Sutton winning by ten yards, with only half a yard between second and third. Time of winner 3 hours, 6 minutes, 41 seconds.

A New Disease. A correspondent writes to the London Times from Sittingbourne describing a new species of blight which attacked the celery in that locality. Brown spots appear on the edge of the leaves, which gradually wither away. On holding an infected leaf up to the sun a number of minute worms of the caterpillar kind are seen. No remedy has yet been proposed.

A Savannah Conflagration. SAVANNAH, Oct. 31.—A fire broke out in Garnet, Stubbs & Co.'s warehouse this afternoon in a building in which were stored 3,000 bales of cotton, all of which was destroyed. The fire spread to the buildings on Joseph, Farm, Indian, and River streets, and was not checked until it reached West Broad street and Indian street. The electric light works and Tynan's iron foundry are among the principal places burned. The losses are said to be a million dollars.

Suffocated in a Vat. ALLEGHENY CITY, Oct. 30.—Chas. Dickson was overcome by foul air in a vat in Kiefer & Stiefel's tannery this morning. Ferdinand Shraeder, who descended to assist him, was rendered insensible by choke damp. Chas. Schultz went to the rescue and was also overcome. Ropes were then fastened around the bodies of Solomon Bamberger and Rhinard Remson, who were lowered into the death trap. They tied the insensible man to ropes and were hauled up. Dickson, Schraeder and Schultz are dead. Bamberger and Remson were unconscious, but were resuscitated.

Ontario Cats for the Northwest. The first consignment consisting of seventy-five cats arrived on Saturday night and will be shipped to-day. The shipper expects to get $1 to $1.50 apiece, according to the age and appearance of the cats. In the present consignment there is a motley collection, including white, black, and gray animals, which form an interesting group. They are shipped in tan ordinary boxes, fitted up for their comfort and do not show any signs of their long and wearisome journey. On the contrary they are evidently in good health, judging from the discordant noises in which they continually indulge. —Winnipeg Times.

A Navel Association. A small company has recently been started in London, England, called The Co-operative Art Needlework Association, with objects that are well worthy of imitation. The chief aim is to establish a depot for the sale of art needlework, where the materials for working can be supplied to members, and credit given until the work is sold. The capital—amounting only to about $2,000—is laid out in the purchase of silks, crevils, plush, Roman satin, and various linen and woolen materials. The shares are $1 each, with an annual subscription of 10s., and each member is entitled to give six exhibits. Instruction in embroidery, etc., is also given gratis.

Canada in the Lord Mayor's Show. OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—A letter has been received by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries from the secretary of the Canadian Fisheries Commission, stating that Canada has been asked to take part in the lord mayor's procession in London on Nov. 9 next. The authorities desire to add a new feature to the procession this year by giving prominence to the colonies. India has consented to co-operate and Canada has also agreed on condition that she shall occupy a conspicuous place. This has been conceded to, and in addition to a grand fish trophy the Canadian Pacific Railway will have a vehicle tastefully decorated with products of Canadian soil.

The Germ of Egyptian Cholera. Prince Bismarck has received the report of the German commission which went to Egypt to inquire into the outbreak of cholera there. Dr. Koch, the biologist, who was the first to report upon the bacillus of consumption, has sent home a comprehensive statement according to which he has found that cholera is due to a living microscopic organism of a thread-like character, resembling that which is seen in phthisis. The learned professor and his colleagues have asked to be allowed to continue their researches in India, where the conditions for the production of the bacillus, its communicability to other animals, and the diffusion of its forms are still more favorable than in Egypt. The chancellor has assented to this proposal.

The C. P. E. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company desired to make an arrangement with the Government similar to that entered into with the Canada Central some years ago; that is, to deposit with the Government a sum of money sufficient to meet the annual dividend on the whole stock of one hundred millions, the Government to undertake to pay an annual dividend to be specified out of the money so deposited. To that end the company have made an agreement by which the Government will guarantee 3 per cent. for ten years. The company are required to deposit with the Government a sum of money between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000. The result of such an arrangement will be to transfer the stock now held in New York and other places to England. A despatch from Montreal states that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has put up ample security with the Government for a guarantee on the stock.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

THE PEACE OF EUROPE. LONDON, Oct. 31.—Lord Hartington, at Buxton last night, said he thought Mr. Gladstone at the Lord Mayor's banquet would be able to say the peace of Europe was assured, and that the difficulties of England with France were settled, although a state of things might arise with China which would require all England's friendship and forbearance to prevent serious complications.

THE FALSE PROPHET. CAIRO, Oct. 31.—Hicks Pasha, after two battles, entered El Obeid, which he found abandoned, many of the False Prophet's men killed, and his forces broken up. The Prophet's fate is unknown. Communications between Khartoum and the Egyptian are now completely cut off.

DE BRAZZA KILLED. PARIS, Oct. 31.—It is reported that De Brazza, the explorer, has been killed in a fight in the Congo country.

THE LONDON EXPLOSIONS.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The excitement over the explosions on the underground railway last evening is very great. A large number of policemen were on duty at night at the various stations, and guarding the lines. A heavy force is watching the houses of Parliament and other public buildings. There is no clue to the perpetrators of the outrages. All the detectives are busy. The haunts of Irish Nationalists are closely watched. A sort of panic reigns in London. Twenty-eight wounded were taken to the hospital. Nine are seriously hurt, but are expected to recover, the others were able to go to their homes during the night. Both explosions occurred at 8.10 p.m. No persons were injured in the Charing Cross explosion. All available detectives are searching for the perpetrators, but no clue has yet been obtained. The police deny that any rocket cartridges have been found. No traces have been discovered of the nature of the explosives. Trains are running as usual this morning. No explosive matter has yet been found at Prad street. Londoners are unanimous in putting the blame on the Irish Nationalists.

New York, Oct. 30.—O'Donovan Rossa states that the explosions in London were the work of the Fenian Brotherhood. The work was done by a band of Fenians in London, who are in constant communication with their comrades in New York. The Woolwich explosion was another sample of what is being done in London, he said, will be in ashes before long unless England gives up Ireland. New developments may be expected at any moment. It was the purpose of the Brotherhood to push the work rapidly and reduce England to submission.

FISHERIES EXHIBITION.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—There was an immense attendance to-day at the closing of the Fisheries Exhibition. The Prince of Wales spoke. He stated that the Queen requested him to express her hope that the exhibition would be of lasting benefit to the fishing population of the kingdom. He said that after all the expenses had been paid a substantial surplus would remain, which should be devoted to the promotion of the interests of the fisheries, in order that the calamities incident to the fishermen's life might be alleviated. The Prince desired to see in those buildings a hygienic exhibition in 1884, one of the progress of inventions in 1885, and he proposed the holding here of a colonial exhibition in 1886. Sir William Harcourt, home secretary, expressed the thanks of the government to the Prince for his efforts on behalf of the exhibition.

ADDITION TO TRINITY COLLEGE.

A Handsome and Costly Chapel to be Added to the Main Structure.

Work is progressing rapidly on the chapel which is being built on the south-east corner of Trinity College. The building was only commenced last June, and already from the outside it wears a more than half-finished appearance. It will not, however, be roofed until the spring this year, owing to the delay arising from the desire to let the timber of the building stand the exposure of a winter, and do all its shrinking before being covered. The structure is of gothic architecture, according with the main edifice, and is built of red stone with relieving bands of stone. Its dimensions are 26 feet by 90 in the interior, and its capacity is calculated to accommodate about two hundred students and friends. There will be three platforms on each side of the chapel, and a visitor's gallery at the west end. The walls are very substantial, being from two feet to two feet and a half in thickness throughout. There is an organ chamber on the south-east side of the building, in the immediate vicinity of which there is a fire panic outlet, a precaution looking in many buildings of much greater proportions. There are besides on this two other entrances, the main entrance on the west side and a covered entrance running from the College, for the use of the professors and students, on the north side. The chapel is of fair size, and will contain a handsome marble altar. The chancel steps and floor will also be of marble. The floor of the main structure will be of oak. In the chancel on the south side are the front and side walls, both admirably carved, and displaying some excellent workmanship. The building will be plentifully supplied with stained glass windows. The roof of the chapel is arched, the principal supports springing from figures, carved from stone, on either wall, and distant from each other about ten feet. Intervening spaces being filled with panel-work. It is chiefly to be noted the wood, of which this panel-work consists, that the roofing will be of deferred till spring. The builders are Messrs. Crane & Harris, and the designers, Messrs. Darling & Curry, both of Toronto. The chapel will be exclusively for the use of the students of the college and their friends, and that portion of the college which has hitherto been used for devotional purposes will be otherwise utilized. The cost of the new building will be about $25,000. It will be completed by June next year, and will form one of the most handsome structures, for its size, in the city.—Globe.

RECENT.

RIFLE MATCH.—The annual rifle match of No. 4 Company, Keene, will take place on Thursday, 8th November, Thanksgiving Day. A large number of valuable prizes have been contributed.

BREASTVILLE.

BREASTVILLE.—Burglars on Monday night entered the residence of Major Gilliam in Sidney, three miles west of the city, and stole a quantity of silver and plated ware. AS ISLAND SOLD.—The City Council have agreed to sell the island in the mouth of the harbor to Rathbun & Son for $2,750.

AUSTRALIAN CONFEDERATION.

The curt refusal of the Australian proposition to colonize New Guinea and other islands in the Pacific, made by the Gladstone Government, is only another proof of that want of sympathy with the extension and progress of our colonial empire, for which "Liberal" statesmen have long been noted, although in the case of our Dominion some change for the better has been brought about by the inexorable logic of facts.

This rebuff to Australia from the home authorities is, however, not likely to be altogether evil in its effects. The necessities of the situation have forced upon the separate colonies of the great island-continent a conviction of the desirability of securing that strength which results from union. Public opinion is now strongly in favour of the formation of an Australian Dominion, and practical steps are being taken in view of confederation, which, though long advocated, has hitherto been deferred through sectional rivalries, which are now yielding to the greater desire for united action in this serious crisis.

Meanwhile we are glad to see that the project of colonizing New Guinea is not being abandoned. It would be most shortsighted to defer till its accomplishment might be frustrated, or at least rendered more difficult, the annexation to Australia of lands so nearly contiguous as to render their control by any other power a source of constant danger and annoyance. Already grave inconveniences have been experienced from the near neighbourhood of French penal colonies, escaped convicts from which have proved a most undesirable addition to the Australian population. Australia having successfully resisted being flooded with British convicts is not likely to submit to an influx of convicts of other nations.

We hope shortly to see a great Australian Confederation successfully established.

EXTENSION OF THE FRANCHISE.

From hints in the Reform papers it may be surmised that Mr. Mowat has an idea of introducing a measure for the extension of the franchise, that is if he is in a position to introduce any legislation otherwise than as a private member. If he does bring in such a bill, it will not be forgotten by the people of Ontario that such a course has been forced upon him against his will by the extension promised by the Macdonald administration, and by the action taken in the same direction by Mr. Meredith and his supporters last session. It will be remembered that the Conservative convention at Toronto formally adopted an extension of the franchise as one of the chief planks of the party platform, while the programme of the "Reform" convention, as originally drawn up, printed and circulated, contained nothing in favour of such a policy. It is true that at the last moment some astute individual handed in a manuscript resolution to the same effect—evidently an afterthought—a painful necessity to rival the Conservatives in this popular movement. The insincerity of this death-bed repentance was manifested before long, for the efforts of Mr. Meredith and the Conservative party to secure a liberal widening of the franchise before the last general election for the Province, were persistently voted down, and opposed by every possible device by Mr. Mowat and his sham Reformers.

We believe that there will be an extension of the franchise, but that it will have been brought about by Conservative action, and that it will be carried into effect by its true friends, not by its reluctant adopters, who were afraid to appeal to the country with a larger number of electors free to express their opinions.

THE falsehood of the story about the cessation of work at the Rockies on the Canada Pacific Railway, though it is being so eagerly circulated by the "Reform" press, is shown by the following letter from Mr. C. Drinkwater, Secretary of the C. P. R., in response to an enquiry by the Ottawa Citizen:

MONTREAL, Oct. 29th.

Editor of the Citizen:

The statement is altogether untrue. No men have been discharged. The force will probably be reduced during winter months, when grading cannot be prosecuted to the same extent as now.

PRESENTATION.

An Address and a Gift Presented to a Departing School Teacher.

On Wednesday Miss S. H. Preston, who has been for several years connected with the schools of this town as a teacher, formerly in the Collegiate Institute and for the past seven years, since the re-arrangement of the rooms in the Institute, in the Central School, severed her connection with the town schools. Her resignation was accepted at the last meeting of Board of Education, when a resolution was adopted giving expression to the high appreciation of her services entertained by the Board. On Wednesday afternoon, before the close of the school for the day, Miss Preston was presented with an address and a handsome gold ring and elegant plush covered work-box by the teachers and pupils. The gifts were presented by Miss Ada Perry and Miss Edith Glass, and Miss Celia Harvey read the address. The following is the address:—

DEAR MISS PRESTON,—We, the teachers and pupils of the school, cannot allow the connection to be severed that has existed between us for the past nine years without expressing our regret at your removal.

You have filled the responsible situation of teacher in this school with a very great degree of credit to yourself, and pleasure to those with whom you have come in contact.

We find that the word "farewell" is hard to utter, but rest assured that our sincere wishes for your welfare follow you wherever you go, and as a slight expression of our feelings we ask your acceptance of these small tokens, and we trust that you may prize them for the motives that prompted us in giving, rather than for their intrinsic worth, and we all heartily unite in wishing that they may recall to your memory all that is pleasant in connection with your residence in Peterborough.

Our earnest prayer is that "He who doeth all things well" may guard and protect you, and that when our earthly career is ended we may one and all meet in that better land where parting is unknown.

Signed on behalf of the pupils,

ADA PERRY
CELIA HARVEY
EDITH GLASS.

Peterborough, 31st Oct., 1883.

Miss Preston replied as follows:—

To the teachers and pupils of the Collegiate Institute and Central School, Peterborough.

DEAR FRIENDS,—We have met here to-day for the purpose of severing my connection as fellow-teacher and as pupil and teacher, which has existed for a period of nine years.

I sincerely thank you for your beautiful presents and for the words of esteem and friendship which accompany the gift, and only wish that I were more worthy of them.

To the pupils I would say that I hope they will ever bear in mind that I have ever tried to teach them, and remember that it is not the clever but the diligent students who succeed in the end.

My other friends, as well as the teachers, are cordially thanked for all the help and pleasure they have given me during my long stay among you, and if this should be our last parting may we all meet in "that happy land" where the "wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest."

S. H. PRESTON.

Peterborough, 31st Oct., 1883.

MR. H. K. COLEMAN, principal of the Public School, said that he was pleased to be present on this occasion, as the address and gift were deserved. He had not been long connected with the School, but he had found that Miss Preston was a good teacher, and he believed they would have worked harmoniously together. He hoped that the pupils would not forget Miss Preston or what she had taught them, and that they would receive kindly the teacher who would take her place, and progress in their studies.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

The Annual Meeting at St. John's Church—Stirring Addresses by the Delegates.

On Wednesday evening, being the eve of All Saints, the annual missionary meeting of St. John's Church was held in the chapel, which was tastefully decorated with flowers. In spite of the inclemency of the weather there was a good attendance. Many clergymen were present, among them being the Ven. J. Wilson, Archbishop of Peterborough, the Rev. A. F. Campbell, Secretary of the Mission Board, the Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, Head Master of Trinity College School, Port Hope, the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector of Peterborough and Rural Dean, the Rev. John Fletcher, of Unionville, Rural Dean, the Rev. J. W. Burke, Rector of St. Thomas, Belleville, the Rev. V. Clement, Rector of Lindsay, the Rev. E. J. Harper, of Grafton, the Rev. P. Harding, of Apsley, the Rev. John Farncombe, of Lakeside, the Rev. E. Soward, of Galway, the Rev. J. E. Cooper, of Caulway, and the Rev. R. Harris, of Brighton.

The Rector opened the meeting with appropriate prayers, after which a mission hymn was sung by the choir.

The Rector in his address spoke of the beneficial effect of such meetings. He dwelt upon the necessity of prayer for the furtherance of the great work they had at heart.

The Rev. Mr. BURKE, Rector of St. Thomas, Belleville, spoke of the encouragement derived from these visits to other parishes. He referred to the necessity for special exertion for the extension of the Church, the appointed channel for the blessings of religion. The state of the world showed the great need of religion, for without it education and civilization even might be perverted to evil. He alluded with satisfaction to the desire among Christians for unity, instancing recent consolidations of denominations and uttering a hope for the unity of the Church. Faith, too, seemed to be growing, and there appeared to be a reaction against infidelity and scepticism. He spoke of the individual duty of doing all possible for the promotion of the spread of the gospel.

The choir then sang another appropriate hymn.

The Rev. A. F. CAMPBELL, Secretary of the Mission Board, and one of the special delegates, spoke of the happy combination of the missionary meeting and of the anniversary services, for home work and mission work must go hand in hand. He dwelt in an eloquent manner upon the duty of obeying the command to evangelize the world. It could hardly be claimed that this duty was thoroughly performed. Those who enjoyed the privileges of the gospel should do their utmost to extend such blessings to others. He proceeded to give some interesting details of the success of missionary enterprise throughout the world, and the part that our church had taken in that great work. But the Church of England had not expended all its energies abroad, in proof of which he instanced its numerous new churches, and its efforts for education and for true scriptural temperance. So must we in Canada come to realize our responsibilities. We had a great work to do in this Dominion. Briefly he dwelt upon the diocesan scheme for missionary work, and gave due praise to the Bishop for his exertions to further it. He concluded with an eloquent appeal, more especially on behalf of our great Northwest.

A collection for the Diocesan Mission Fund was then taken up.

The Rector expressed his gratitude and that of the congregation for the addresses they had just heard, and avowed his sense of the benefit that would be derived.

The choir sang the hymn "Son of my soul." The Rector then dismissed the congregation with the benediction.

Kram's Fluid Lightning.

WIFE.—What's the matter now John.

HUSBAND.—Oh, that neuralgia and toothache near killed me.

WIFE.—Why don't you go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a bottle of Kram's Fluid Lightning, you know it cures all such things as toothache, neuralgia, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat etc. It gives instant relief.

THEY ALL TELL the same story. Mr. W. Thompson, Jeweller, Delhi, suffered for years from Dyspepsia, got no relief until he used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. He says it was just the medicine I needed. It has cured me.

Get the Fluid in color! The three colored shape of the Triangle Dye Package has become all the rage, completely throwing the old fashioned square one into the shade. Ask your druggist.

NOVEMBER.

The Month for OVERCOATS and forerunner of colder days to come reminds everyone that heavier clothing is now wanted. This want we have anticipated, and have now on hand an exceedingly fine line to select from. Go tell your friends, then come yourself, and see that this is the place you have been looking for. Our general line comprises Overcoats, (heavy as well as medium), Men's Fall and Winter Suits in endless variety, Children's and Youths' Clothing in all the Newest Shades and Styles, and at prices that will suit all. Our goods are all as represented.

Of course low prices have much to do with the success of any business where the competition is great, and especially in this case with the Clothing Trade. But there is another feature, equally necessary to complete success, and that is the POSITIVE MERIT of the goods sold. It is upon these two absolutely essential requirements that we have established the most extensive business in Peterborough.

Old Friends.

As a proof of this, witness the throng of OLD FRIENDS who daily visit us, bringing acquaintance to introduce, and all convinced that we sell BETTER CLOTHING AND AT FAR LOWER PRICES THAN ANY OTHER HOUSE IN THIS TOWN. An apt illustration of these facts can be found in our present sale of an exquisitely made and thoroughly substantial ALL-WOOL SUIT AT $8; also a BEAUTIFUL $5 FALL OVERCOAT, equal to like coats found elsewhere at $8.

Intending Clothing-buyers will nowhere find such extraordinary inducements awaiting them as those now offering by us.

CUSTOM DEPARTMENT.

Finest Lines of imported Fabrics—Suitings and Overcoatings—Honest Workmanship and Reduced Prices, are the attractions offering in this Department. Particular attention is paid to the Make, Fit and Style of our Clothing, and we acknowledge no superiors in the art of turning out Elegantly Dressed Patrons.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1893.

Thanksgiving Day.

The St. Andrew's Church Ladies' Society intend holding a Social on the evening of Thanksgiving Day. Tickets 25 cents.

University of Toronto.

A meeting of the graduates of the university of Toronto, residing at Peterborough will be held at the Mechanics' Institute at 7.30 this evening.

Missions.

On Sunday next the Rev. A. F. Campbell, Missionary Agent, will preach in St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham. Mr. Campbell addressed the missionary meeting in St. John's Church on Wednesday evening, and he is a fluent and cogent speaker, and has a thorough knowledge of mission work.

Notes.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Globe says it is reported that $5,000 in one and two dollar Dominion notes have been stolen from the Government, and that the banks have been notified not to accept them. The number of the missing one dollar bills are from 505,000 to 506,000, and of the two from 145,000 to 146,000 and from 155,000 to 156,000.

Hallowe'en.

Hallowe'en passed over very quietly on Wednesday evening. The weather was unfavorable for much frolicking, and although a number of boys turned out to have a night of fun, they were quiet about it. Some "practical jokes" of a reprehensible character were indulged in, but there has not been for some time a quieter Hallowe'en.

A New Vine Growing Company.

By the Ontario Gazette we learn that a new company under the name of "The St. Malo Vineyard Association of Ontario (Limited)," is to be formed for the purpose of manufacturing wine and sugar. The operations of the Company are to be carried on at Tilsburg and Toronto. The applicants are Goldwin Smith, A. H. Campbell (for many years a well known resident of Peterborough), C. S. Gzowski, and H. Quetton St. George. The capital is to be $60,000, divided into 600 shares.

Dr. Barnardo's Home.

The reports of the annual meeting in Exeter Hall, London, England, of Dr. Barnardo's Institutions for homeless children (which we noticed a few weeks ago), have just reached this country. Earl Cairns, as usual, took the chair. The total receipts of donations during the preceding year amounted to $45,136, a larger sum than ever before. Some two hundred pounds' worth of prizes were given away through the liberality of one of the committee, and before the close of the meeting $2,000 were either given or promised. A branch of these institutions is to be established in Peterborough next year.

A Phenomenal People.

The Flak University Jubilee Singers, who appear in Bradburn's Hall on Monday evening, have been highly recommended by the pulpit, press and people. Read the following letters: "The Flak Jubilee Singers have just closed another series of four concerts in the First Congregational Church. We always give them a hearty welcome, and many of the choicest people in the city are sure to hear them. For purely spiritual impressions no troupe of singers, probably, ever were more successful. They have endured, also, the severest musical criticism. So long as they continue to sing the gospel of freedom, civil and religious, they will have a work to do in their own and other lands. They have been phenomenal people; the true successors of those who sang with Moses and Miriam after the crossing of the Red Sea, and standing, as we but see it, between them and those who sing the song of the redeemed beyond the sea of death."

"J. E. RANKIN,
Pastor 1st Cong. Ch., Washington, D. C."

"The Flak Jubilee Singers gave a concert in my church (Hedding Methodist Episcopal), Elmira, N. Y., April 13, 1893. We gave them a crowd, and they gave us such harmony, of which I never expect to hear better until I reach heaven."

"Very truly,
MARLEY S. HARR,
Pastor."

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.

The commemoration of the Re-opening of St. John's Church—The Bishop of Toronto Present.

To-day being the festival All Saints, and the anniversary of the re-opening of St. John's Church, special services were held both in commemoration of that event, and in thanksgiving for the progress of the church.

The first service was a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 o'clock the celebrant being the Rev. C. J. S. Bethune.

At eleven o'clock there was a morning service with a sermon and a second celebration of the Holy Communion.

His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto entered from the vestry, and while a processional hymn was sung, proceeded round the church to the chancel with the surpliced choir and the clergy, among whom were the Rev. J. Wilson, Archdeacon of Peterborough; the Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, of Trinity College School, Port Hope; the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector of Peterborough and Rural Dean; the Rev. T. W. Allan, of Millbrook, Rural Dean; the Rev. J. Fletcher, of Unionville, Rural Dean; the Rev. J. W. Burke, Rector of St. Thomas, Belleville; the Rev. V. Clement, Rector of Lindsay; the Rev. A. F. Campbell; the Rev. E. J. Harper, Grafton; the Rev. R. Harris, Brighton; the Rev. P. Harding, Aspley; the Rev. J. Farncombe, Lakeside; the Rev. E. Soward, Galway; the Rev. J. E. Cooper, Cambray; the Rev. Dr. J. Carry, Port Perry and the Rev. J. McCleary, of Hastings.

The prayers were read by the Rev. J. W. Burke, the first lesson by the Rev. J. Fletcher, and the second lesson by the Rev. A. F. Campbell.

The ante communion service was read by the Rector, the gospel being the Rev. J. E. Cooper, and the epistle the Rev. C. J. S. Bethune.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, Head Master of Trinity College School, and a son of the late lamented Bishop of the Diocese, who took for his text Hebrew XII, 1-2:—"Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith." He dwelt upon the sacredness with which we all kept the anniversaries connected with departed friends, and the memories of them which were thus cherished. On this day the church was celebrating the memory of all the faithful departed, who had served the Lord in their generation. For them we must glorify God, and their example we must follow, for to us the same divine grace, the same holy rites, the same blessed privileges were given. If we were mere flesh and blood with all the consequent weakness and temptations, so were they, and like them with God's help we could persevere till we joined their glorious company, now waiting for us. For this we must struggle with all our heart and soul and strength, being encouraged by their example.

The Holy Communion was then administered, the Bishop pronouncing the absolution, and the Rev. J. W. R. Beck being the celebrant, assisted by the Rev. V. Clement.

The Bishop then pronounced the benediction, and the "Nunc Dimittis" was sung as the recessional.

The musical portion of the service was the usual semi-choral service, to which the congregation is accustomed. The organist and the well-trained choir taking their part in the services in the most satisfactory manner.

The communion table, the entrance to the chancel, the east window and the font were beautifully decorated with cut blossoms and flowering plants in vases.

This evening there will be another service, when the sermon will be preached by the Rev. J. Carry, D.D., of Port Hope.

The musical portion of the service this evening will be as follows:—

Anthem—"Blessed be the God and Father."

—Wesley.

Canticles—Parisian tones harmonized.

Voluntaries—Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's Messiah, and Priest's March from Mendelssohn's Athalia.

At the conclusion of the service a Grand Fete Te Deum, composed by Mr. Charles W. Ewing, the organist of St. John's Church, will be sung.

The collection this evening will be, as it was this morning, in aid of the organ fund.

Vital Statistics.

The number of births, marriages and deaths in the town during the month of October, as registered, are as follows:—

Births	12
Marriages	13
Deaths	14

Railway Notes.

About one mile of the "Missing Link" remains to be ballasted.

The Grand Junction train was over two hours late in leaving Belleville on Wednesday night. When about half way here the engine became disabled and a freight engine was put on. The train arrived here at 3 o'clock this morning.

The amount of the verdict, in the case of Duncan vs. the Midland Railway, at the Kent assizes, was, it now appears, $792.50, instead of the much larger sum before mentioned.

Wedding Cakes.

Cakes and Confectionery fresh every day. Leave your orders for Wedding Cakes at CARTON BROS.

Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

Bazaar.

The Ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee:—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick.

Snow and Hail.

The weather has been very disagreeable to-day. There was quite a flurry of snow this forenoon, but it turned to rain. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory are as follows:—Strong wind and moderate gales from west and northwest; fair weather, with snow flurries in some localities; lower temperature.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1883.

CAMPBELLFORD.

THE JAWISH LECTURE.—The Herald denounces Dr. Rosenthal, who has been lecturing in villages near here, as an impostor. It publishes a letter from a clergyman in Columbus, Ohio, exposing his hypocrisy and sin.

A NEW MILL.—The new grist mill being erected here is said to be equal to any in the Domi-on for its external appearance, and the interior is being fitted up in first class style.

A BEAR.—The Herald says that a good sized bear was seen by Miss Gove, near her father's residence, in Seymour west, north of Campbell-ford, one day last week. Bruin made himself conspicuous in an open field, through which he passed, climbed over a fence, and found cover in an adjoining wood. The men about the premises were made acquainted with the bear's approach, but they had not the pleasure of the sight of him again.

ANOTHER THOROUGH-BRED.—Seymour farmers are investing in thorough-bred stock very largely just now, and we believe the time is coming when they will pride themselves in the excellence of their stock as much as do the farmers of some of the banner townships of the Province. A few days ago Mr. Wm. Claus, Seymour east, purchased from Mr. John Armstrong, near of Brighton township, a fine two-year-old Durham bull. The animal is a mate for the one owned by Mr. H. Ross, weighs 1,375 lbs., and is a beauty. He passed through the village on Tuesday in charge of Mr. J. C. Clough.

MILLBROOK.

FIRE PROTECTION.—From the Messenger we learn that a volunteer fire brigade is being organized in Millbrook. Twenty-three names were enrolled in the brigade at a public meeting held on Friday evening, and at the same meeting passed a resolution calling on the village council to take steps towards making provision for protection from the ravages of fire.

ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday, while Mr. James
Porter, whose team was on the road, near Mr.
Atkin's, was showing a sample of barley to C. H. Winslow, both of whom were standing in the wagon, the horses gave a sudden jump throwing both Mr. Winslow and Mr. Porter out, the latter having his collar bone broken.
Mr. Winslow was not hurt. The team ran away. Dr. Turner was called out and attended the wounded man. He is doing well.

Forestry in Ontario.

Mr. Phipps is pushing his forestry work, as we see by the notices of newspapers in different localities where he pays flying visits. We hear of him week before last on the Blue mountains in Grey; last week we observe he was down at Leslie's large nurseries for a couple of days;
this week he is going, as we see by the News, through the Niagara district, examining everywhere the methods and success of tree planting and other matters connected with forestry in the sections he passes through. Farmers will find some valuable experience detailed in his next report. Toronto Report.

Canada's Fisheries Exhibit.

A cablegram from Sir Charles Tupper has been received by the Hon. Mr. McLellan stating that it is desired in London that part of the Canadian fisheries exhibit should remain there permanently. There seems to be a likelihood that India, Canada and Australia, working together, may revive the project of a colonial museum specially set apart for the enlightenment of the people of England as to the productions of Canada and the other parts of the empire mentioned.

Young Men's Christian Association TORONTO, Oct. 29.—At the annual meeting of the executive of the Young Men's Christian association of Canada, arrangements were made for the holding of three conferences, the first for the Province of Quebec at Sherbrooke, from Nov. 15 to 18; the second for East Ontario at Perth, from Nov. 20 to Dec. 2. The place and date for the third was not fixed.

Moreford's Acid Phosphate.

A VALUABLE NERVE TONIC.
Dr. C. C. OLMSTEAD, Milwaukee, Wis., says:
"I have used it in my practice ten years, and consider it a valuable nerve tonic."

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

THE KINGDOM OF POLAND.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—It is asserted that Bismarck and Kalnoky favour the re-establishment of the Kingdom of Poland.

FRENCH NEGOTIATIONS.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—Admiral Galiber, with the commissioner of the French Republic has opened preliminary negotiations with the Hova delegates.

FRENCH ANNEXATION.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—The French admiral at Gibson, on the west coast of Africa, has received instructions to annex the coast and all the southern ports as far as the Congo river.

THE LABOUR CONFERENCE.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—The international labour conference has adopted the following resolution:
"This conference records its opinion that the principal end to be pursued is to limit the hours of labour, and thus render supportable the position of working men of all nations. This is attainable in two ways, namely, by legislation for the protection of the weak against competition, and the organization of workmen, who should be united and disciplined."

THE LONDON EXPLOSION.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The slight damage caused by the Charing Cross explosion was owing to two large vent holes in the vicinity, which sensibly lessened the shock. At Finsbury street the passengers were panic-stricken when they found themselves writhing and struggling in utter darkness, many of them bruised and bleeding, and half dead with terror. The damage to the Finsbury street train alone was $500.

CHOLERA AT PEKIN.

PEKIN, Nov. 1.—It is reported that cholera has broken out here. If this is really the case it is to be feared that the epidemic will cause terrible destruction in so populous and crowded a city.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The municipal elections took place throughout the kingdom to-day.
There are large Conservative gains.

EXPRESS TRAIN COLLISION.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The express train from Liverpool to London yesterday, running fifty miles an hour, collided with an empty train.
Two were killed and many injured.

THE HOLYHEAD COLLISION.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The drowned from the Alhambra, sunk in collision with the Holyhead yesterday, included the captain, mate, and the captain's daughter.

RIOTS IN DERRY.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—There has been great excitement here throughout the day. A large number of Orangemen took possession of the City Hall to prevent the Lord Mayor of Dublin, for whom the hall was engaged, from delivering a lecture upon the franchise. Police were stationed along the street through which the Lord Mayor passed, and a troop of lancers has arrived to prevent a collision between the Orangemen and Nationalists. The seizure of the city hall has created immense excitement. While the procession, escorted by the Lord Mayor of Dublin was passing the city hall, the Orangemen fired upon it and three lancers from the windows and roofs. At eight o'clock, however, the Orangemen vacated the hall and withdrew from the vicinity. But the city did not remain its usual quiet until 11 p. m., the Lord Mayor delivering his lecture at the National Institute.

THE COTTON FAILURES.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 1.—Anxiety and distrust continue to rule in the cotton trade. It is surprised that further failures are impending.
There was an easier feeling in the market this afternoon. It is the general opinion that the crisis has culminated. It is hoped the shaky firm will be able to meet their obligations.
Morris Knicker has filed a petition for liquidation. He states that his liabilities are $1,080,- 000; assets $350,000. Mellor and Fenton's liabilities are $10,000. The Times attributes Ranger's failure to grossly reckless speculation in England and America and on the continent.

FEELING OF THE IRISH PRESS.

DUBLIN, Nov. 1.—The United Ireland (the League organ) pronounces the authors of the explosions in London Idiots. The Freeman's Journal protests against Irishmen being hastily accused of being the authors of these outrages.
The Irish Press asks why the Government does not vigorously remonstrate with President Arthur against the dynamite conspiracy of which New York is the source.

IRISH OPINION.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The explosions have caused an intense excitement in Irish circles. The Irish people are impatient to try O'Donoghue's case.
It is also remarked that the explosions occurred at about the moment Davitt was opening his address in St. James hall.

A STEAMER CAPSIZED.

DUBLIN, Nov. 1.—The Dublin Steam Company's steamer Holyhead has sunk with all hands. She left Dublin last evening for Holyhead with a cargo of pigs and horses. Sixty persons besides the crew were aboard. She was a new vessel. A pilot just arrived at Dublin confirms the report. He says the steamer capsized this afternoon in mid-channel. There were 60 passengers aboard, including a number of cattle dealers and drovers.

A later despatch says:—The Holyhead came in collision with the German ship Alhambra, bound from Liverpool to New York, when twenty-five miles off Holyhead. Both vessels sank. Thirteen of the Alhambra's crew and two of the Holyhead's were drowned. The remainder were rescued.

BATTLE IN THE SOUDAN.

Khartoum, Nov. 1.—Arabs to the number of 30,000 attacked Hicks Pasha's army. Ten thousand Arabs divided into two columns and attacked the Egyptian square on two sides, thus enabling Hicks Pasha to use his six thousand Ramington rifles, Krupp guns, and Nordenf-lied rocket batteries. The Arabs were all armed with lances. Falling after some time to reach the square, they fled, leaving eight thousand dead and all their women, food, baggage, and animals behind. The Egyptian's losses are nothing.

DO NOT BE DUPED.—A recently advertised
and highly puffed remedy for deafness has lately been exposed as an unqualified fraud.
Not so with Hayward's Yeauw Oil; not, in fact,
it but to praise. John Clark, of Millbridge,
testifies that it cured him of deafness.

A COMMON ANNOYANCE.—Many people suffer
from distressing attacks of sick headache,
nausea, and other bilious troubles, who might easily be cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It cured Lottie Howard, of Buffalo, N. Y., of this complaint and she praises it highly.

FORESTRY EXHIBITION.

Mr. Wm. Little, Secretary of the Forestry Association here, has just received from Mr.
William H. Rider, the Official London agent of the International Forestry Exhibition to be held in Edinburgh next year, papers containing particulars of the projected exhibition. The list of the officers is a long and influential one.
The Marquis of Lothian heads the list as President, and after him come eight dukes, six Presidents, and any number of earls, viscounts, lords and barons. The Honorary Secretaries are Messrs. Robert Hutchinson, J. N. Menzies, H. Cleghorn and William Skinner, of Edinburgh, with Mr. George Cadell as Secretary.
It is proposed to open the exhibition in August, and entries will be received until March, 1884.
The exhibition is intended to include everything connected with and illustrative of the Forestry products of the world, and will be open to exhibitors from all countries. Special railway terms will be granted, and it is expected that the governments of the different countries exhibiting will lend their aid to make the exhibit the finest ever yet seen. Class 1 will be devoted to practical forestry and will include forest implements, models of huts, charcoal kilns, timber, chips, &c., plans of river embankments and rafts; machinery for transplanting trees and transporting timber; saw mills and wood working machinery, and fencing materials of all kinds, including gates and stiles. Class 2 will be devoted to forest produce, raw and manufactured, such as collections of timber specimens; pavements, barrels, basket work, wood engravings, bamboos, tanning and dyeing substances, barks, corks, fibres, materials for paper, gums, resins, wood oils, charcoal for gunpowder, peat, cones, seeds and fruits. In class 3 scientific forestry is treated of. There will be displayed botanical specimens of forest flora, microscopic sections of woods, parasites and edible fungi, forest fauna injurious to woods; representations of forest antology, various processes for preserving woods and fossil plants.
Class 4 taken up with ornamental forestry such as ornamental trees, rustic work and dried specimens. Illustrative forestry will be treated of in class 5. In this department will be exposed to view paintings and photographs of remarkable trees, delineations showing the effect of light, accidents or any abnormal condition, sketches of practical works and operations in the forest. Class six will comprise forest literature of all kinds—reports, periodicals, manuals, treatises, charts, maps, book-keeping, etc. In class 7 will be exhibited essays and reports on forestry. Class 8 will be devoted to the loan collections. Class 9 to the economic condition of foresters and woodmen, and in class 10 will be placed the miscellaneous articles not included above.

The exhibition promises to be a remarkable one,
and it is confidently expected that the Dominion Government will take a strong interest in the matter. Montreal Star.

Burglars at Work.

A gang of burglars appear to be operating in the vicinity of Belleville. The Intelligence says that one night recently some burglars visited the residence of Mr. Tarlington, west of Trenton. One of them entered the window and unfastening the door let his companions in.
They then proceeded to a room occupied by Mr.
Palmer, who was awakened by them. He was told that in case he made any noise they would kill him, and they put the bed covering over his head. They then took away a silver watch, a chain and some clothing. The thieves stole a horse and buggy from a neighbor, whose property was recovered on Saturday morning.

Origin of the Word Album.

The current number of the German magazine
Lukem contains a note on the origin of the word "album." The writer points out that in the middle ages the parchment in common use was of two kinds—the Spanish-Italian and the German-French—and that the main difference between varieties lay in the method of their preparation. The German-French could be written upon on both sides, while of the Spanish-Italian only the inner surface was available. The smooth white side of this latter was called album, as distinguishing it from the stained exterior, and as the Spanish-Italian parchment, being stouter and cheaper than the other, was generally used for volumes intended as repositories for scraps and literary collections, the word album broadened out into its modern signification.

Some Battles.

Nobody is happy without an aim and object in life, and the home duties of a mistress should supply an ample field. She should take a broad and liberal view of the things, and while "cutting her coat according to her cloth," and as much as possible shielding her husband from the constant demand for money, which few masculine tempers can stand, should refrain from the wearying petty economies which often enough are not worth the trouble and discomfort they entail, and before deciding on the necessity for them, count the cost. I have known ten valuable minutes wasted in untying a knot to save a piece of string not worth the sixtieth part of a farthing, to say nothing of the injury to nails and temper; and the general peace of a household upset by a constant demand for matches, which were never forthcoming when wanted, because, to prevent waste of the same, a sufficient number of boxes, value less than a halfp

Victoria University Examinations.

Amongst the names of the successful candidates at the matriculation examination at Victoria University, Cobourg, we are pleased to see those of Mr. G. W. McCall and Mr. E. Sherin, of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

Secure them at Once.

The plan of the hall for the Fisk Jubilee Concert on Monday evening is open at Mr. Menzies' bookstore, where tickets may be purchased. Secure your seats early, as there is every probability of a crowded house.

Runaway.

A team of horses became frightened in Ashburnham on Thursday afternoon at a locomotive and ran across the river for safety. They were caught on Hunter street, in front of Mr. Gibbs' blacksmith shop, and were taken into his shop, where they remained until the driver arrived.

Hosiery, Gloves and Underclothing.

W. Fairweather & Co. have just opened a splendid variety of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Fine Wool Hosiery, of a superior make and quality. Ladies' and Gent's Underclothing Black Goods a specialty, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

At a Concert in Midland.

A very successful entertainment was held in Midland last week, under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute of that village. From the account of it in the Free Press we take the following extracts:—

"Miss Bagley, of Peterborough, was well received, and sang in fine voice 'When the Tide Comes In,' for which she received hearty applause from the audience. Miss Bagley was the next on the programme, and she sang, 'Am I Remembered in Erin' so clear and distinct that every word could be understood. The effect was simply grand, and could only be produced by a sweet, well cultivated voice. This was her best effort and it made a most favorable impression upon the audience. In response to the applause she received she sang with good effect, 'Gussie Who,' for which she was given still further evidence of appreciation."

Music from the Heart.

Of the Fisk Jubilee Singers, who will give a concert here on Monday evening, the Toronto Globe says:—

"The responsiveness of the Jubilee Singers last evening at Shattisbury Hall was greeted by so large an audience that even standing room was at a premium. The selections given on the occasion were but little varied from those rendered to large audiences with such acceptance on their recent visit, and the pleasure conferred by the sublime artlessness of their music, judging by the degree of enthusiasm evoked, was still greater than upon any previous appearance before a Toronto audience. It is not difficult to account for this undiminished feeling of interest. Music rushing from the heart, free as the joyous notes of a bird trilling in its leafy bower, will always awaken a responsive echo and touch chords of feeling and sympathies which find their proper expression in the harmonies of sound."

Railway Notes.

The Guide says that at a quarter to 7 o'clock on Wednesday morning, while the steam whistle at the Midland Railway shops, Port Hope, was blowing, Mr. Edward Fulford, blacksmith, was passing over the track near Blackham's Hotel, when he met Mr. Thomas Walton, who stopped to exchange a few words with him. The yard engine, which had just been shunting some cars of grain down to the elevator, was returning, they did not hear the signal of the driver on account of the noise made by the shop whistle until the engine was completely upon them. Mr. Walton sprang and escaped without injury. Mr. Fulford threw himself off on the west side of the track, but his pants were caught in the machinery, drawing his left foot under the ponderous machine, smashing all the front part of the foot. Dr. Corbett and Hamilton amputated the toe. The main part of the foot with the ankle joint escaped without injury. Mr. Fulford is doing as well as could be expected, in fact, is perfectly comfortable. It was a very narrow escape for both of the men. Moral—don't walk on the railway track; but if you do, keep your ears and eyes open.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.

All Saints' Day—The Commemoration of the Re-opening of St. John's Church.

On Thursday evening there was held the concluding service of the series in celebration of the re-opening of St. John's Church, and there was a very large congregation. The archdeacon of Peterborough, with the rector, a large number of other clergymen, and a full choir, entered with a processional hymn.

The prayers were read by the Rev. J. W. Burke, the first lesson by the Rev. J. E. Cooper, and the second lesson by the Rev. T. W. Allan, Rural Dean.

The canticles were sung by the choir in Parian tones harmonized. The anthem "Blessed be the God and Father," (Wesley) was very beautiful and impressive, the solos by Miss Clara Clouston and Mr. Alex. Elliott being especially well rendered.

The Rev. J. Carr, D.D., of Port Hope, preached the sermon, on the subject of the Festival of All Saints. He dwelt upon the blessed hope of immortality to be reached through tribulation, and upon the example of the saints and martyrs of old, whose memory was that day being celebrated. In cheering words he spoke of departed friends, as enjoying a truer life than ours, and feeling a loving sympathy with us in our struggles to be enrolled in the number of the saints.

While the offering was being collected for the organ fund the organist, by the voluntary which he played, showed the excellence of the fine instrument and his thorough command over it. The rector pronounced the benediction, after which the choir sang a grand, festive Te Deum, composed for the occasion by Mr. C. W. Ewing, the organist and choir-master of St. John's Church. Then came a recessional hymn, as the clergy and the choir left the sacred building.

Thus ended these very impressive and pleasing anniversary services. Both the Rector and the congregation may well congratulate themselves upon their beautiful church, with all the accessories afforded for devotional and hearty services, as well as upon the apparently beneficial effect upon the parish of these advantages. The services on All Saints' Day fittingly testified to the feeling of gratitude.

Personal.

Miss Bent, daughter of Dr. C. Bent, Mayor of Truro, N.S., is visiting friends in Peterborough.

Mr. J. C. Bailey, Toronto, Chief Engineer of the Midland, and Mr. H. J. Baeser, of Montreal, are at the Oriental Hotel.

The Weather.

To-day has been cold and cloudy. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong north to west winds; generally fair weather; stationary or higher temperature.

University of Toronto.

A meeting of the Peterborough Association of Graduates of the University of Toronto was held at the Mechanics' Institute on Thursday evening. The report of the special committee giving the details of the proposed scheme of representative voting in convocation was submitted and unanimously adopted, and the committee was instructed to communicate with graduates in other counties with a view to the formation of other county associations, and to submit to them for consideration the report adopted by the Peterborough association.

A Second Brass Band.

A second brass band is being organized in the town by the musicians who recently withdrew from the Fire Brigade Band, with others who have united with them. Several instruments have arrived, and one of their number informed us that new music had been ordered and that as soon as it arrived they would settle down to hard work practicing. If the music arrives in time they intend to play out on Thanksgiving Day. Peterborough has now one good organization of this kind, the Fire Brigade Band, but the promoters of this new one believe there is room for another.

Voters' List Court.

At the session of the Voters' List Court on Thursday, His Honor Judge Denison presiding, the following names were inserted in the voters' list for the town:—James Billington, James Bourne, Wm. Croft, W.J. Devlin, Alex. Edmunds, R.H. Green, Isiah Guerin, C.W. M. Hughes, Wm. McCall, Thos. Rehill, Richard Reeves, John Regan, Jas. Renton, Thos. Schreger, John Sawers and Geo. A. Cox. The greater part of these were changes. The following names were struck out:—Thos. Dittin, Jas. M. Ferri, Maxwell Hall, James Miller, Thos. Munro, Hugh Ross, Jas. Richmond and James Spencer. These changes make a Conservative gain of eight votes. The following appeals stand until Friday, Nov. 9th, at 11 o'clock a.m.:—John Merrin, Wm. Thompson, Jos. H. Cobb, David Mason and Richard Abbott.

Pencil Points.

—Cool and cloudy.
—Muddy crossings, especially the one on George street between Simco and Hunter.
—The police cells were empty last night, and there was a "blank record" at the court this morning—the fourth consecutive day that this has been the case.

—The Grand Junction morning train from Belleville was two hours and fifteen minutes late. The Midland train was only a few minutes late at noon.

—A young man in Westwood advertised in the Hastings Star for a wife. If marriageable girls are so scarce in that section the young man will scarcely be made aware of the presence of leap year when it comes.

—The Lindsay Warbler publishes a paragraph of ghastly humour, and says that the incident occurred in Peterborough. Is it not strange that other papers should have published the same paragraph, but laid the scene many miles distant from here?

THE NEW WHARF.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Your remarks about the wharf built by the Ontario and Quebec Railway Company give Mr. Croly, the contractor, great credit for his workmanship. But I cannot see the use of a wharf built in six (6) inches of water. It surely never was intended for steamboats. The shore houses to be used will require the carrying of goods from Wolfe street around to King street. It seems rather inconsistent on the part of the Council to order my boats to be assessed for taxes, and the next sitting to vote a railroad company the privilege of erecting a permanent bridge, and shut the boats out of the town. The day is not far distant when the people of Peterborough will regret the loss of their water front.

Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

Bazaar.

The ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee:—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick.

Confiscation of Literature.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—The court dismissed the suit against the Collector of Customs for seizing and confiscating the works of Tom Paine and Voltaire, without going into the merits of the case. The dismissal turned on a legal technicality.

Formosa Mission.

The Ottawa branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada has donated a thank-offering of $250 to Rev. Dr. McKay, the missionary of the Church in the Island of Formosa, to enable him to build one of the ten chapels he now needs in the persecution of his work in that island.

Falling Leaves.

"There is something inexpressibly touching in the fallen leaves," sighs an esteemed author. There is, there is, indeed. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement. But there is in reality touching language—language uttered from the heart, yes, from the depths of the soul, in the many thousands of testimonials and letters (unsolicited) that come from those who once were sufferers from lung disease, asthma and consumption, and who have used N. H. Down's Vegetable Balmic Elixir, and have been restored to their wonted health and activity.

Salt Rheum Cured.

Are you troubled with Salt Rheum, Rough Skin, Pimples or Canker Sores; if so go at once to John McKee's Drug Store and get a package of McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Carate. Price twenty-five cents. It was never known to fail.

CAUTION.

We advise all who are afflicted with a cough or cold to beware of opiates and all medicines that soothe and check a cough suddenly, as various results surely follow. Hay fever's Pectoral Balmic Elixir breaks up coughs and colds in a safe and effectual manner.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1883.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The attempt being made by the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association to foster and develop a desire for the study of those branches of science having a direct bearing upon Canadian agriculture, has called forth the ire of the Toronto Telegram, which, judging by the following editorial which recently appeared in its columns under the heading of "The Farmers," seems to be opposed to all kinds of technical education, but especially to such as may be intended for the benefit of "the distinguished people who hold the plough and hoe the potatoes." The following is the Telegram's article:—

"The farmers are to be given prizes for knowing how to farm. The adoption of the idea belongs to the Mowat Administration, which is always hunting up means by which it can tickle the farmers. Certificates are to be given to those farmers who pass examinations in subjects bearing directly upon the work of the farm, and in addition to the certificates, money prizes will be paid. The farmers are a fine class of people, and the Province would be a vastly different place without them, but there is really no reason that we can see why they should be made the special care of the Government. Why not offer prizes to the best carpenter, the best blacksmith, the best tailor? Why not offer certificates to the best preacher, the best doctor, the best lawyer? Other classes are worth considering as well as the distinguished people who hold the plough and hoe the potatoes. The explanation however is clear. The Reform party in Ontario relies upon the agricultural vote to maintain its power and this is an additional means to keep in their good graces. If the farmers do not stand by Mr. Mowat when he goes to the polls they will be very ungrateful."

Here, we think it is no difficult matter to show there are compressed into the smallest possible space the largest possible amount of untruth, willful misrepresentation and class bigotry imaginable. Let us notice some of its more prominent statements and implications.

(1) "The adoption of the idea belongs to the Mowat Government." Is, to begin with, a statement for which there is not a shadow of foundation, and the whole tone of this article is only an additional proof, to the many that have gone before, that the Telegram is a tool of the Mowat Government masquerading in the disguise of an independent and non-party journal. As a matter of fact the credit of suggesting this project belongs to Prof. Mills, of the Ontario Agricultural College, and the bringing of it forward to its present stage to Messrs. Carnegie and Drury, as members of the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association—the first named gentleman being as warm a supporter of Mr. Meredith as the latter is of Mr. Mowat. And all the Mowat Government have as yet had to do with the matter was to sanction an appropriation of $500, out of the $10,000 annually granted to the Association for its purposes, and to accede to the request that the examinations might be held at the same time and under the same supervision as the High School Intermediate examinations. Under these circumstances no party capital can be made out of the project, nor do we think it would ever have been thought of had not this journal, which never tires of denouncing "partyism" as the base of the Province, been the first to try and make political capital out of it. But nothing better could be expected of a hypocrite.

(2) We are told, meaningly, "that the farmers are a fine class of people," but that there is "really no reason" why they should be made the special care of the Government," and have "certificates" offered them any more than carpenters, blacksmiths, tailors, preachers, doctors or lawyers. Indeed! Is this wonderful Telegram not aware that "the Government" is now and has been doing much in this very direction for every one of these classes except the farmers. Is it ignorant of the fact that, largely for this very purpose, the friends of Toronto University are to-day asking, and the Telegram will no doubt back them up in their demand, that "the distinguished people who hold the plough and hoe the potatoes" should be compelled to put their hands into their pockets and contribute a further sum to the endowment of that institution. Then as to the carpenters, blacksmiths and tailors, is the Telegram an ignorant of what is going on under its own nose that it does not know that in 1882 there was paid out of the Provincial Treasury for the promotion of technical education in Toronto alone the following sums:—

School of Practical Science.....	$5,501 80
Mechanics' Institutes.....	400 00
Society of Artists.....	500 00
School of Art of Design.....	2,000 00
Canadian Institute.....	750 00
Total.....	$9,551 80

Or within a few dollars of the whole annual grant to the Provincial Agricultural Association. Then for the same year the Mechanics' Institutes alone cost the Province $26,493, and yet the Telegram has the audacity to try and set class against class by condemning the expenditure of the magnificent sum of $500 of Provincial funds in the promotion of technical education among the farmers, as a pampering of one class at the expense of other classes. Out upon such tactics.

(3) As to the general expediency of what is commonly understood as Technical Education, our opinion is that instead of too much money being spent upon this kind of education in this Province, more might be so spent with advantage, and we are convinced that the Mechanics' Institutes Association might do worse than follow the example which the Agricultural and Arts Association has set them. We don't believe in cramming, but we do believe in that education which combines practice and theory—which is given or obtained under such circumstances as makes the one the hand-maid of the other. Why the history of British progress in the history not so much of men who have been nurtured and educated in colleges and universities, but chiefly of men who have worked their way up and through the trades, and have served an apprenticeship at "holding the plough and hoeing potatoes," and what is more no better educational work is being done in England to-day—one that so well reaches and encourages improvement among its bread-winners—as that being performed by the Science and Art Department of the Committee of Council of Education, South Kensington, and whose work in 1882 included the holding of examinations throughout England, and the granting of certificates in the following twenty-four subjects, viz:—

Practical plane and solid geometry; machine construction and drawing; building construction; naval architecture; pure mathematics (2 stages); theoretical mechanics; applied mechanics; sound, light and heat; magnetism and electricity; inorganic chemistry; organic chemistry; geology; mineralogy; animal physiology; elementary botany; animal morphology and physiology; vegetable morphology and physiology; principles of mining; metallurgy; navigation; nautical astronomy; steam; physiography and principles of agriculture. Finally, and for the particular benefit of the Telegram, we may cite as an evidence of the beneficial influence upon manufactures of such technical instruction an article in Harper's Magazine for this November by Mr. Joseph Hatton, a recognized authority on such subjects, and from which we make the following brief quotations:—

"It does not come within the compass of this article to tell the story of the revival of artistic taste, but rather to illustrate its very notable existence. One might date its prominent beginning to the Exhibition year of 1881, since which time South Kensington has passed on the torch of knowledge from town to town. Art schools have sprung up all over the land; Lambeth has competed with Worcester, and both with the great potteries of the Continent; Durham and Kidderminster have vied with the carpet looms of Brussels and the hand-weavers of Persia and Turkey; Birmingham and Sheffield have sought to perpetuate classic models in their metal wares; Manchester, Bradford and Belfast have consulted the best schools of design and colour for their textile fabrics; the illustrated newspapers have given the cottage and the nursery good substitutes for poor German prints; famous draughtsmen have adorned the fairy tales and fables of youthful literature with characteristic forms of beauty; the painter has left his garret among the London chimney pots; and once more English architects and builders are erecting English houses in which all that was useful and picturesque in the "Old Kensington" and "Queen Anne" styles is restored and adapted to our greater knowledge and better sanitary habits, and more or less idealized through the impulse of the reaction that has set in against white-washing church warden and the other Gothic and Vandalic of the interregnum now happily at an end."

Further on Mr. Hatton quotes the well-known artist, Mr. Boughton, whose fame belongs to both sides of the Atlantic, he being a member of the American National Academy as well as an associate of the English Royal Academy, as saying:—

"People forget the commercial value of the movement, its influence on trade and manufactures. For example, we used to go to France for stiffs and paper-hangings, and dyes. We not only do so no longer, but France is coming to us for these very things."

If technical education has done so much in the Mother Country, why not in Canada, if intelligently applied to our own particular circumstances?

SOUTH MONAGHAN VOTERS' LIST.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Seeing that the Voters' List for the Township of South Monaghan is far from being correct, and being informed that I am accused of omitting names from the Assessment Roll, in answer to this charge I will say that if the Voters' List contained "a correct list of all the persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality," there would be no fault to find with said list. I do not like to boast, but in self defence will say that I made one of the most correct Assessment Rolls ever made in the Township of South Monaghan. I challenge any person to contradict my statement.

WM. SMITHSON, Assessor.

South Monaghan, Oct. 31st, 1883.

Escalating Corruption.

What in the world has come over the London Advertiser? It remarks:—"Col. Walker adopted the policy of fighting the devil with fire, and beat Mr. Carling at his own game. That's all there is about it." That's all there is about it, smooth! And has our truly good contemporary no word of condemnation for the widespread and profitable corruption practised by Col. Walker while "fighting the devil with fire"? Does the end justify the means? And, if so, why does not the indulgent editor remember to palliate the guilt of Tory bribers in a similar manner? Also, the Advertiser has fallen from its high estate.—Kingston News.

A GREAT SOURCE OF EVIL.—Every farmer will admit that one of the most destructive evils of good crops is that of "worms or parasites that prey upon vegetable life; other species of worms infect the human system and are productive of much suffering and ill health. Freeman's Worm Powders will effectually rid the system of this trouble, are pleasant to take and contain their own cathartic.

BELLEVILLE.

BURGERS.—Three burglars entered the residence of Mr. S. B. Burdett, LL.D., at about 4 o'clock on Thursday morning, but got nothing, as the valuables were locked in the safe. The noise they made aroused the household, which consisted of women only, Mr. Burdett being out of town. One of the ladies fired off a revolver, and the thieves left the house, sitting down on the veranah to put on their boots. Another shot was fired, and they ran off. They are no doubt the same gang who lately committed several robberies here.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The vital statistics of Belleville for October were 22 births, 19 marriages, and 12 deaths.

INCENDIARY.—Mr. Michael McMahon's barn, near Albert College, was burned on Wednesday by an incendiary. Loss about $450; insured in the Commercial Union for $100.

The Great Fire at Savannah. SAVANNAH, Nov. 1.—Fifteen hundred people mostly coloured, were made homeless by the fire here yesterday. Only half of the loss was insured. It is known that three persons were burned to death, and it is feared half a dozen others perished. A strong wind carried flames from one to the other with great rapidity, and every street was a mass of flames before the firemen could get to work. Three hundred houses are in ruins. The Secretary of War has authorized the use of the United States barracks for the homeless.

For Rent Millinery call at Tarambull's. You will find a good article at reasonable prices.

Kram's Fluid Lightening.

WIFE.—What's the matter now John.

HUSBAND.—Oh, that neuralgia and toothache near killed me.

WIFE.—Why don't you go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a bottle of Kram's Fluid Lightening, you know it cures all such things as toothache, neuralgia, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat etc. It gives instant relief.

Salt Rheum Cured.

FATAL SHOT AT APSLEY.

SAD RESULT OF THE CARELESS USE OF FIREARMS.

A Chaudes Farmer shot by his friend—Grief of the survivor—Particulars as to the Occurrence and History of the Parties.

From Our Own Correspondent.

APSLEY, Nov. 3.—Arthur Tomlinson, a farmer residing in the township of Chaudes in the County of Peterborough, was accidentally shot in the village of Apsley on Saturday night at about 7 p. m., by one of his neighbours, Deldine Phillips. They had been at the store during the afternoon making some purchases, and had just started to go home. After proceeding about 10 rods, Phillips drew from his pocket an OLD-FASHIONED NAVY REVOLVER

and fired one charge into the air. He was in the act of cocking it again when it accidentally went off. The ball, a round one, No. 38 calibre, entered a little below the right breast of Tomlinson, who fell on the spot. He was picked up by Phillips, with the assistance of others who were in the street, and was carried to 'McInn's Hotel. A slight examination of the wound showed that the ball had taken a downward course. There being no physician in the municipality a man was immediately sent to Lakeside, the nearest place, 30 miles distant, for a surgeon. Mr. Jas. Golborne and Mr. B. Anderson, magistrates, were sent for. Upon their arrival they received from the wounded man a statement which seemed to

EXONERATE PHILLIPS

from any intentional harm. Notwithstanding this they ordered Phillips into the custody of an officer to await the result of the inquiry.

DEATH OF TOMLINSON.

APSLEY, Nov. 4.—On Sunday morning Mr. Tomlinson died at 7 a. m., before Dr. Bell arrived.

HISTORY OF DECEASED.

Mr. Tomlinson was of Irish descent, and was born on May 24, 1827, the Queen's birthday. He came to Canada in 1836, and located in the County of Peel at a place called "Glenallan."

Previous to his coming to Canada he spent his early life in "Her Majesty's service." In about the year 1875 he moved to the Township of Chaudes and located on the Wellington road, about two miles east of Apsley, on the 4th concession, where he took up a free land grant. He erected a log house and cleared a few acres. His eldest daughter married soon after his arrival in the township. About five years ago she was passing through the woods about 6 miles east of Apsley, during a storm, and was killed by the falling of a tree. Mr. Tomlinson was a quiet, inoffensive, temperate old man. He leaves a wife and one daughter in almost destitute circumstances.

THE UNFORTUNATE CASE.

Deldine Phillips, who unfortunately did the shooting is a resident of the same township, and is a temperate and peaceful citizen. He has been a resident of Chaudes about four years. He formerly resided at Exeter, Ontario. He spent the early part of last night in agony at the bedside of the dying man, but at midnight he was looked up by order of the magistrates to await the arrival of Dr. Bell, the coroner, from Lakeside, who arrived upon the scene at about 11 a. m. this morning.

Marvellous Cheapness.

Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Coloured Dress Silks, at 50c., 75c. and $1.00 are Marvellous of Cheapness, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The Economist says:—"In the week, the threatening aspect of the Chinese difficulty and the failures in the cotton trade caused a fall in the leading securities and consols. Prices again receded on Friday on the withdrawal from the Bank of England of bullion which was for shipment to America. It is remarkable that with all this gloom the actual fall in prices is not greater."

THE LIVERPOOL FAILURES.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Hollinshead, Tetley & Co. have 50,000 bales of cotton uncovered. Their liabilities are estimated at £130,000. It is thought if further cotton failures occur in Liverpool they will be of minor importance.

THE LABOUR CONFERENCE.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—During the meeting of the International Labour Conference on Friday a brisk scuffle occurred between a number of delegates and some thirty anarchists, principally Italians. The latter were forcibly ejected.

M. DE BRAZZA NOT KILLED.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—The report that M. de Brazza the African explorer, was killed, is untrue. It was his brother.

THE MALAGASSY ENVOYS.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A letter from Tananarive asserts that the Malagassy envoys who recently returned from a visit to Europe and America and the prime minister, have been strangled.

LARGE CONFLAGRATION.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The upholstery warehouse of Wylie & Lochhead, of Glasgow, and the buildings adjoining were burned last night. Loss £300,000.

MR. MOODY'S MISSION.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Mr. Moody successfully opened his great mission at Ilkington to-day. Four meetings were held, each attended by from 4,000 to 6,000 people. The iron hall built for the occasion proved a complete success, affording seating room for 5,800 people.

THE VATICAN ON IRELAND.

ROME, Nov. 3.—On Tuesday the Pope will hold a consultation with Lord Berrington, Cardinal Manning, and several American bishops on the subject of Irish emigration to America.

CHOLERA IN MECCA.

CAIRO, Nov. 3.—There have been 140 deaths from cholera in Mecca in one week.

DISQUIETING RUMOURS.

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Rumours are current here that the reserves of the 2nd Division of the Landwehr will not be sent home as expected the present month. General inquietude prevails as to the maintenance of peace during the winter.

AFFAIRS IN AFGHANISTAN.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 3.—Afghanistan is in a state of complete anarchy. The exchequer is empty, and the troops demoralized. The Amer is a mere plaything in the hands of the Ghilzais.

THE LONDONIERRY RIOTS.

LONDONIERRY, Nov. 3.—The disorders arising from the hostility between the Nationalists and the Orangemen continue. A Nationalist was stabbed to-day, and runs and beating of persons are numerous on both sides. Revolvers and other dangerous weapons are used. Great anxiety is felt by the authorities and reputable people.

ANNEXATION IN AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 3.—The Governor of Victoria in proroguing Parliament, said the importance of the annexation of New Guinea had been established by France proposing to deport to New Guinea the worst of her criminals. He declared it would be vitally important to the Australian colonies that such a sink of pollution should not be permitted to exist at the portals of Southern Britain.

Murder of a Canadian.

HILLSDALE, Mich., Nov. 1.—On the evening of March 28th John Mulqueen and Adam Glasgow, the latter a Canadian, met in Wyatt's saloon in this city. A short time afterwards Glasgow, with his throat badly cut, made his way out of a side door, falling upon the sidewalk. Mulqueen was seen with a bloody razor in his hand, and then he disappeared, but was caught a few miles from the city. The affair grew out of a feud between the two, Glasgow having whipped Mulqueen a few days previously in another saloon. At the coroner's inquest held at the time the jury brought in a verdict of wilful murder against Mulqueen. Prisoner was born and raised in this city, and had before borne a fair character. He is only 26 years of age. Glasgow came to this city last fall. He was a large and powerful man, and went by the title of "Canadian Jack." The trial began at the 24th of October and ended to-day in a verdict of murder in the second degree, coupled with a request for mercy from the court. The defence will not apply for a new case.

Labourer's Story.

Governor Marcy, when Secretary of State was a great card player, and Mr. Labouchere tells of a good story which happened when he was Secretary of the British Legation at Washington. "I went," said he, "with the British Minister to a pleasant watering place in Virginia where we were to meet Mr. Marcy, the then United States Secretary of State, and a reciprocity treaty between Canada and the States was to be quietly discussed. Mr. Marcy, the most genial of men, was as cross as a bear. He would agree to nothing. 'What on earth is the matter with your chief?' I said to a secretary who accompanied him. He does not have his rubber of what," answered the secretary. After this every night the minister and I played at whist with Mr. Marcy and his secretary, and every night we lost. The stakes were very trifling, but Mr. Marcy felt flattered by beating Britishers at what he called their own game. His good humour returned, and every morning when the details of the treaty were being discussed we had our revenge, and scored a few points for Canada.

Decorative Tree Planting.

The Commissioners of the Woods and Forests, of England, are trying to plant a large extent of crown lands in the Isle of Man with forest and ornamental trees. The experiment, which is watched with interest not only by those who follow agriculture as an art but by many who regard with apprehension the gradual denudation of forest and woodlands, leads Land to comment on the growth of a taste for planting; for transforming to artistic plots grounds which are ill-favored and uninviting; for digging lakes and forming cascades, resulting in magnificent combinations of sylvan charms.—American Garden.

Trial of Constables at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 2.—The trial of Boston O'Brien and the other Mowat constables for assaulting Manitoba constables at Rat Portage is fixed for Monday at the Assize Court here.

On the Track.

A freight train on the Grand Trunk railway got off the track near Dundas the other day, and ran two miles bumping over the ties before it could be stopped. In fact, it was only brought up by running into the buttresses of the Sydneyham bridge. The road was terribly torn up by the runaway train.

Yellow Fever Inoculation.

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 2.—Dr. Frier has begun vaccinating persons with a culture of his yellow fever microbes, attenuated by six transplantations in gelatin. Five out of six suffered slight symptoms of yellow fever. The doctor expressed the conviction they will not be attacked again.

Gazette Notices.

The official Gazette contains the following:—The Ontario Bank, the Quebec Bank, and the Bank of Ottawa announce a semi-annual dividend of 34 per cent. The Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company give notice of their intention to make application to Parliament for power to re-arrange their bonded debt.

An Anonymous Benefactor.

The Treasurer of the Diocese of Montreal has received the sum of $2,350 from an anonymous benefactor to be invested and the interest paid to the rector of Dunham and the incumbents of Stanbridge East and Glen Sutton, on certain conditions; also the sum of $1,000 from Mr. Warden Fleming, the interest to be applied to the payment of lectures and examinations fees in Dunham Ladies' College.

Giant Powder Explosion.

GARFIELD, Colorado, Nov. 1.—A fire broke out yesterday morning, and getting beyond control reached the store of Sherry Bros., containing 600 pounds of giant powder, which exploded hurling buildings, timber, and fire in every direction, totally destroying the post-office, hotels, in fact the entire business portion of the town. Loss over $50,000. A number of persons were knocked down and badly stunned, but no one fatally injured. The majority of the people are homeless, and without food or clothes for winter.

Tipsey Sparrows.

A quantity of unlicensed whiskey and lager seized at St. Thomas was emptied into the gutter on Monday. Several hundred English sparrows alighted and proceeded to imbibe freely of the running liquor. Some of the birds flew away while they were yet able, but others less prudent and more thirsty bipeds partook of such a quantity that they were unable to do so, and the spectacle they presented in their vain endeavors to soar aloft was too comical for anything. They would ascend a few feet, only to tumble to the earth again. They chirped loudly to each other and fought all up and down the gutter. Their legs got tangled, they looked silly and made fools of themselves generally. The spectators of the funny scene had no trouble in capturing the little fellows.—Ingersoll Chronicle.

Something Like a Fight.

Lebanon, Penn., is now the scene of one of the fiercest battles between railway men ever known. Some time ago Mr. R. H. Coleman, the millionaire mine owner, attempted to purchase the old Cornwall road in order to get a connection between his mines and the Pennsylvania road. He failed in this and had to build a line of his own that nearly ruined the old road, which is controlled entirely by one Freeman. The other day, in constructing a branch, the Coleman line began to put down a crossing over the Freeman line. Down came the Freeman's 300 strong before a hand could be laid on their track, drove off the Colemanites, and took possession of the branch, pulled it up and ran a train of loaded cars on the line, and left them there under guard. Coleman has all the law on his side, and is said to have already commenced the formation of a regiment of miners.

Mrs. Langtry's Kindness.

Mrs. Langtry, during her stay in Montreal, makes her home in her elegant palace car at the Bonaventure station. During Monday night and until the early hours of Tuesday morning a large number of British immigrants arrived at the depot, to proceed to their destination to the west. On Mrs. Langtry arriving at the depot after her performance at the Academy of Music, she noticed many of these Englishmen waiting about with their wives and families, and no sooner did she notice this than the fair lady proceeded to address them, inquiring about their journey and prospects. She afterwards took a number of them to her car, and loaded them with all the good things she could provide. The sons of Old England left highly pleased and unanimous in praise, not only with the Jersey Lily's regal beauty, but of her kindly and generous disposition. Such acts as these lighten the burden of the stranger in a foreign land, and this small incident should not pass unrecorded, as it shows that not only is Mrs. Langtry a great actress, but far more, a noble and good woman.—Montreal Herald.

Loss of Voice.

Miss Wray, Freeman P. O., Ont., has been successfully treated by the surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute and Dr. M. Souville's wonderful invention, the Spirometer, used for the cure of Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption in its first stages. Miss Wray had severe Laryngitis, Bronchitis, and complete loss of voice for over seven months, was very much reduced in flesh and debilitated, severe cough and abundant expectoration. She can now talk distinctly and is improving every day. If you cannot call personally and be examined, write for a list of questions and a copy of International Views, published monthly, to 173 Church St., Toronto, or 12 Phillips Square, Montreal.

For any testimonials recommending McGregor's Speedy Cure for dyspepsia, Indigestion, Costiveness, Headache, etc., that are not genuine; none of which are from persons in far states or thousands of miles away, but from persons in and around Hamilton, Ont. Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1883.

Board of Education.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held in the Board Room on Tuesday evening at 7.45 o'clock.

A Change of Time.

The Police Court has, during the past summer, been held at the hour of nine o'clock a. m., but from this date till the month of April, it will be held at ten o'clock. The practice of holding the Court at the earlier hour during the summer was found to be convenient.

To Housekeepers.

Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpets, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

Arrested and Released.

On Saturday a suspicion arose that a certain man who had come from Millbrook on the train on Friday night was the one who had pushed Conductor Millage off the train. The suspicion grew so strong that P. C. Pidgeon got out a warrant and arrested him. He was taken to Mr. Millage to be identified, but in seeing him the conductor at once pronounced that he was not the man. He was then released, and appeared at the Police Court this morning and was finally discharged.

A Step in the Right direction.

We have much pleasure in being authorized to state that both Mr. Blizard M. P. P. for East Peterborough, and Mr. Carnegie M. P. P. for West Peterborough have decided to each contribute the sum of $25 towards providing prizes or some other encouragement for the purpose of inducing those residing in their respective constituencies to read up for the examinations proposed to be held by the agricultural and arts association next July. It is to be hoped that this example will be followed by others, and especially by our municipal councils. Mr. Carnegie also desires us to state that he will deem it a favour if intending candidates from this county will furnish him with their names in order, that action may be taken for the purpose of facilitating their studies.

This Evening!

"The officers they are heard, and the more intimately they are known, the more they are appreciated." Such is the Rev. John Shaw's opinion of the Fisk Jubilee Singers, and it will be endorsed by hundreds in Peterborough who have heard them during their former visit to this town. This company of colored singers will give a concert in Bradburn's Opera House this evening, and this will be the last opportunity our citizens will have of hearing them previous to their departure on another European tour. The programme will contain many of the old plantation melodies, whose pathetic strains, in the language of the Rev. Dr. Caylor, "have opened the fountain of tears," together with many new ones recently gathered up in the south. Do not fail to hear them to-night.

Personal.

We are pleased to know that the Rev. John Shaw, pastor of the George Street Methodist Church, has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to resume his pastoral functions. He occupied his usual place in the pulpit on Sunday and delivered able sermons. The adherents of the Methodist Church, as well as his many friends throughout the Dominion, will be pleased to learn of his recovery.

The Rev. S. A. Dyke, business manager of the Canadian Baptist, preached in the Baptist Church at the morning and evening services on Sunday.

Conductor Alexander Millage, who was pushed off the train on Friday night, was able to get out on Sunday and to-day he was up town. He was severely shaken by the fall, but does not appear to have been seriously injured.

The Fisk University Jubilee Singers arrived at noon and are at the Oriental Hotel.

Mr. J. T. Donnelly, one of the favourite commercial men, was at the Oriental last week.

LOST ON THE PRAIRIE.

A Former Resident of Peterborough Missing—A Search Instituted.

The Calgary Herald, of October 26th, contains the following regarding a former resident of Peterborough, who is well known in town, having been employed with different business firms. For three years he was clerk in the store of Hall, Innes & Co. It is to be hoped that all may yet turn out to be well with him. The Herald says:—

"This week news was brought to town that a man named James Thompson, late of Red Deer, and formerly of Peterborough, but who has lately been working for J. Francis, P. L. S., had been lost on the prairie. It seems that he has been troubled considerably of late with toothache, and on Thursday, Oct. 11th, came to Calgary and had two teeth extracted. On Friday he again started for camp, via the C. P. R., as far as the water tank, between the 16th and 17th sidings, where he left the road to proceed to the camp, about six miles distant. Friday night was spent at the water tank, on account of the lateness of the hour at which the train arrived, and on Saturday morning he started for his destination, intending to follow the line of mounds. During his absence, the camp had been moved about six miles further north, but he was left on the old ground and a note left within telling where the new encampment might be found. It would appear that the unfortunate man never reached this first tent, as although the tent had been partially blown down, the note remained in about the same position it occupied when the tent had been vacated.

As Mr. Francis had come to town at the same time as Thompson, and did not return for a week, no uneasiness was felt at camp by his non-appearance, but when Mr. Francis came home a week later and made enquiries for him, then it came out that nothing whatever had been seen of him. A search was at once instituted, when it was found that he had left the water tank on Saturday, and was afterwards seen about a mile and a half from the tent in which the instructions had been left; since which time no trace of him can be found. It is conjectured by some that as the weather was foggy, he may have wandered towards the Red Deer country, and will yet turn up all right, others less hopeful, fear the worst. He was about 30 years of age, 5ft. 11in. high, with light side whiskers and mustache, and dressed in a brownish suit, nearly new, and wore a gray soft-felt hat, also new. Any information that can be obtained of him, will be thankfully received at this office.

"Two mounted policemen have been sent to search the prairie, to be absent seven days, if tidings of the missing man are not sooner had."

Lacrosse.

A meeting of the Managing Committee of the Lacrosse Club will be held at Mr. LeBrun's store this evening.

Peterborough Law Association.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Law Association will be held at the Law Library at 8 o'clock this evening.

A Large Lamb.

Mr. T. Coe, butcher, informs us that he purchased a spring lamb last week from Mr. Smith, of Ennismore, that weighed ninety-two pounds.

American Canned Goods.

A full assortment of the choicest Canned Fruit and Canned Fish received from the most reliable packers at CARTON BROS.

An Accident.

A son of Mr. George Bolton cut the fore finger of his left hand severely in Mr. Hutchinson's tin shop on Saturday. The large knife struck his hand longwise on the finger, almost severing half of it.

A Literary Society.

A meeting will be held in the school room of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church on Tuesday evening to organize a young people's mutual improvement society. This is a move in the right direction, and there should be a large attendance, especially of young men.

Woolery, Gloves and Underclothing. W. Fairweather & Co. have just opened a splendid variety of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Fine Wool Hosiery, of a superior make and quality. Ladies' and Gent's Underclothing Black Goods a specialty, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

The Collie.

One prisoner occupied the police cells on Saturday and Sunday nights. He was entertaining a crowd on Hunter street by some loud talk, when he was arrested by Constable Adams. He made a couple of bolts to get free, but the "come-alongs" were placed on his wrist and he went. He appeared in Court this morning.

Rain this Evening.

To-day has been clear and fine. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—South to south-west winds, increasing to gales; increasing cloudiness, with some rain before evening.

Railway Notes.

The Grand Junction train from Belleville was an hour and a half late this morning, and the Midland train was about an hour late at noon.

A meeting of a committee appointed at a recent citizen's meeting at Goodrich was held in that place last week, when it was decided to have the Toronto, Grey and Bruce railway extended from Teeswater to Wingham, at any cost.

Another accident on the G. J. R.

Another accident of a less serious nature occurred on the Grand Junction Railway, at Campbellford, on Saturday, one week after the collision near Foxboro. A freight train was standing on the siding at the Campbellford station, when a special train with steel rails came up to the station on the main track. It appears that the freight train was foul of the main line, and the engine of the special train struck the other locomotive, knocking both off the rails. Both the engines were damaged, and one flat car was badly broken, but no person was injured.

POOR COURT.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

MONDAY, Nov. 5.—Joseph Hale, a young man whose countenance is familiar in the court, was charged by P. C. Adams, with having been drunk and disorderly on Saturday night. He pleaded guilty and had no excuse to offer. He was fined, and paid, two dollars.

THE LICENSE LAW.

Christopher Leary laid a charge against Darcy for having committed a breach of the license law by selling liquor during prohibited hours. A plea of guilty was entered, and a fine of $20 and $2.85 costs was imposed.

THE BRITISH SHILLING.

To the Editor of the Review.
SIR.—As editors are supposed to know everything, and at all times prepared to answer questions—often of an abstruse nature—I beg to ask: What is the true value, in Canada, of the English shilling?

Perhaps this question would never be asked, but that there is a wide diversity of opinion on the subject. Several establishments in this town receive only at a discount of 20 per cent., whereas your correspondent insists there is not now, nor ever was, a discount on British coin. He has the additional inducement to think so, as Whitaker's Almanac—an established authority on such matters—says:—"In all British colonies English money of every denomination is current."

Yours truly,

ENQUIRER.

The largest variety of Astrachan Mantles ever shown in Peterborough. Ladies' Fur Sets in Seal, Mink, Ermine, Sable, Persian Lamb and Dog Skin. Goat Robes and Buffalo Robes cheap, at Fairweather & Co's.

Accident on the Grand Trunk.

BUFFALO, Nov. 4.—A serious accident occurred last evening on the Great Western section of the Grand Trunk Railway. A special freight train bound west left Niagara Falls at 8 p. m., running on its own time. On approaching the swing bridge which crosses the Welland Canal near Merritt it was discovered that the bridge was swung open to permit a vessel to go through. The engineer made frantic efforts to stop the train, but could not control it, and the engine jumped the track, going over into the canal, carrying the tender and one car with it. Engineer Carson was pretty badly hurt, but just how seriously is not yet learned. The fireman made his escape by jumping when it became inevitable that the engine must go over.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION, and all diseases arising from youthful indiscretions are speedily and radically removed by that wonderful remedy known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine, an advertisement of which appears in another column. CAUTION.—We advise all who are afflicted with a cough or cold to beware of opiates and all medicines that smother and check a cough suddenly, as serious results surely follow. Haggard's Pectoral Balsam loosens and breaks up coughs and colds in a safe and effectual manner.

THE PAGAN VOTE.

It is stated by a gentleman who will swear to it and establish it by other witnesses if need be,
that a number of Pagan Indians voted for Mr.
Lyon in Algoma.

In this way, the bold Pattullo encouraged native industry. While engaged in the purchase of the root crop from the white agriculturists, for exhibition purposes, he took the red men in hand also. The politics of the average Indian is doubtful; of the Pagan Indian still more so.
It is to be presumed, however, that the Pagan person becomes a Liberal for a consideration.
If he gets work, or pay for alleged work, from an Ontario road-master, he swears the general policy of the Mowat Government; more especially that part of it relating to colonization roads. If he gets a drink of cough mixture, or some other potent Reform principle, he swears by the Ontario liquor law. If he gets a pocket Connecticut whizzer, a copy of the Weekly Globe being thrown in, he declares in favor of the paternal Administration that is endeavoring to encourage civilization in its outlying dependencies. When he can sell a mink skin for $10, he feels proud of the Government that is doing so much to advance the pursuit of agriculture. When he obtains $25 for a bag of pemican for exhibition purposes, he cannot help expressing his gratitude to the grand old party that supplies the money. The Pagan is an emotional being, and General Pattullo appears to have worked on his feelings. He had no well-considered opinions relative to the Boundary question, nor was he deeply interested in the matter of Disallowance;
but he exhibited a profound regard for a portion of the Ontario surplus, and took the oath and swore like one of Lalumiere's men. The pagan vote was "sold" for the Christian politician.— Winnipeg Times.

BELLEVILLE.

THE HASTINGS RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—The matches of this association were brought to a close at Belleville on Friday, when the final competition was won by Corporal Hilton with a score of 73. Private Munro won the field glass, presented by Col. Lazier; Corporal Hilton won the gold medal, given by the Minister of Customs; and Private Marshall won the Ontario medal. These prizes were for aggregate scores.

MIDLAND.

DROWNED IN TWO FEET OF WATER.—Thomas
Harkley, a resident of this place, was drowned on his yacht near Bosley Island on Friday night or Saturday morning. An Indian living on the island, whom he was in company with, reports he left him to watch the boat while he went on the shore for the night. On returning next morning no trace of Harkley could be found. The report reaching here, a party was sent out and searched the vicinity, and after a long search found his body near the shore in about two feet of water. It is supposed, as he is advanced in years, that he was tired, and that he missed his footing and fell over-board. An inquest will probably be held.

PORT HOPE.

IMPROVEMENTS.—The Midland Railway station has been given a new coat of paint, which adds much to the appearance of the premises.
The "artists" who performed the work are deserving of great praise.

"ALASKA SABLE."—Mr. Charles Doebler, of this town, alluding to a paragraph in a recent issue of the Monetary Times, stating that the skins of monkeys, cats, rats and skunks enter into the fur trade of the United States and the latter bear the name of "Australian Mink," writes to that journal, "I now beg to state that skunk has been used for the last six or eight years as a fur of a very fine quality, but it has not borne the name of 'Australian Mink,' but the more elaborate cognomen of 'Alaska Sable.'" —Times.

A HEARTY FAREWELL.—"On Thursday night last," says the Times, "quite a large number of our citizens were present at the Grand Trunk Station, for the purpose of saying good-bye to Col. Williams, M. P., and his daughter, Miss Lillian Williams, who left on the express east, on their way to Quebec, where they sailed on the Sardinian for Liverpool. The band of the 46th Regiment played several tunes at the station, and as the train drew out 'Auld Lang Syne' was struck up, while cheer after cheer rent the air."

Do NOT BE DUPED.—A recently advertised
and highly puffed remedy for deafness has lately been exposed as an unmitigated fraud.
Not so with Haggard's Yellow Oil; none name
it but to praise. John Clark, of Millbridge,
testifies that it cured him of deafness.

A COMMON ANNOYANCE.—Many people suffer
from distressing attacks of sick headache,
nausea, and other bilious troubles, who might easily be cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It cured Lotie Howard, of Buffalo, N. Y., of this complaint and she praises it highly.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

LUMBER YARDS BURNED.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—A great fire occurred today in the lumber yards in the east end of London. The loss will amount to £30,000.

THE RAILWAY EXPLOSIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The fact that several prominent delegates to the recent Sociestic Congress were severely injured by the blowing up of the train at Praed street has convinced the public that the Socialists had nothing to do with the outrage.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The British Cabinet has decided that the dispute between China and France has reached the verge of open warfare.
Explicit instructions looking to the proper consideration of British interests have been issued to all departments. The Admiralty has been directed to re-inforce the fleet in Chinese waters.
It is rumored that the naval commanders have been ordered to resist all attempts of the French to blockade any Chinese port where there exists an actual British interest about Peking.

ROSSA'S ARREST DEMANDED.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The Sunday Observer has called upon the Government to secure the arrest and extradition of O'Donovan Rossa and his colleagues.

ILLNESS OF KING ALFONSO.

MADRID, Nov. 5.—King Alfonso is ill with rheumatic fever. The attack though slight, is sufficient to confine him to his apartments, and has given rise to alarming rumours.

DEMANDS ON THE VATICAN.

ROME, Nov. 5.—Baron von Schlozer, German Minister to the Holy See, has demanded the resignation of Cardinal Ledochowski, of Posen, and Archbishop Melchers, of Cologne, in return for concessions made to the Vatican by the bill passed by the Prussian Diet in July.

ACTION AGAINST A PAPER.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The Morning News having published a report of a conversation alleged to have been held by a reporter with M. Clemenceau, the latter wrote a letter to the paper that he had refused to see the reporter. The letter not having been inserted in the News, M. Clemenceau has begun legal proceedings against that journal, and has summoned the director and proprietor as civilly liable for damages.

A SEMI-ROYAL MARRIAGE.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—It is rumored that the Princess Amalia, the eldest daughter of Comte de Paris, will shortly be married to the Grand Duke Alexis, of Russia. The Czar's advisers think the union will facilitate the restoration of the Orleansists and an alliance between France and Russia.

CHOLERA AT ALEXANDRIA

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 5.—There were five deaths from cholera at Alexandria on Sunday.

THE PARIS NATIONAL GUARD.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The Municipal Council rejected, by 59 to 8, a Radical proposal to re-establish the National Guard.

ANOTHER EXPLOSION AT LYONS

PARIS, Nov. 5.—A party of anarchist to-day exploded an industrial machine in front of the mansion of a wealthy merchant at Lyons. Immense damage was done to the building, but no one was hurt.

AMERICAN.

THE DANVILLE RIOTS.

RICHMOND, Nov. 5.—The riot at Danville has produced the most intense feeling all over the State. This morning a disturbance occurred at Fredericksburg which almost led to serious trouble. More arms have been sold in the State in the last ten days than ever before in times of peace. The feeling is such that it will require but a slight hostile movement to precipitate a riot, in which much blood will be shed. The whites are making every preparation. Members of the First Virginia regiment are under orders from the mayor to hold themselves in readiness for an emergency, and 150 special police have been sworn in for tomorrow in anticipation of further disturbances in Danville. Upon representations made to him, Governor Cameron this evening issued orders for the Richmond Light Infantry Blues and a section of the Richmond Howitzers to proceed to that city.
The Richmond military left the city at 11 o'clock to-night under the command of Major Carter, who upon his arrival at Danville will assume command of all the military there.

FIRE ON A STEAMER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The steamer Salembric, from Japan to New York, has been on fire.
The vessel and cargo are badly damaged.

Boiler Explosion.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 2.—Charles Nelson, watchman, and John Jones, fireman, were fatally injured by the explosion of the boiler of a steam shovel being used for construction work on the Canada Southern Railway, at Tilbury.
R. T. Grimshaw, the engineer, who was away at dinner at the time, says the boiler was defective, and that he had so informed the roadmaster, Nelson, the watchman, was thrown bodily a distance of fifty feet.

New Ocean Steamship Line.

Mr. Darley Bentley, consul general for Brazil, says he expects next summer to be at the head of a new line of ocean steamers between Liverpool and Montreal, for which purpose he has been in communication with a powerful English shipping firm. If great energy will succeed in accomplishing its purpose, then, indeed, the public can rely on Mr. Bentley's efforts to add another great steamship enterprise to those he has already given to the port.

France and China.

HONG KONG, Nov. 4.—The differences between the French civil and military officers in Tonquin continue. Admiral Courbet demands that he have absolute command. A reconnoissance from Hanoi in the direction of Sonlay shows many Black Flags posted on the banks of the river near Sonlay, which is defended by two lines of strong fortifications mounting forty heavy guns and a garrison of two thousand Chinese regulars.

Do NOT BE DUPED.—A recently advertised
and highly puffed remedy for deafness has lately been exposed as an unmitigated fraud.
Not so with Haggard's Yellow Oil; none name
it but to praise. John Clark, of Millbridge,
testifies that it cured him of deafness.

A COMMON ANNOYANCE.—Many people suffer
from distressing attacks of sick headache,
nausea, and other bilious troubles, who might easily be cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It cured Lotie Howard, of Buffalo, N. Y., of this complaint and she praises it highly.

LORD LORNE IN ENGLAND.

The Arrival of the Marquis and Princess at Liverpool—A Warm Reception.

The Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise arrived at Liverpool on Monday. They were received by the Mayor, and were escorted to the Town Hall, where they were presented with an address by the corporation. Lord Lorne, in replying, referred to the increasing prosperity of Canada, and the large interest now taken by England in the affairs of the Dominion, especially in matters relative to the growth and development of the North-West. In proof of which he mentioned the fact that letters from England to the North-West had increased from 3,000 to 12,000 during the last two years.
The Marquis and Princess were received with much warmth by the citizens of Liverpool.
They left for London about four o'clock and will arrive there to-night.—Globe.

THE RAILWAY GUARANTEE.

It was to be expected that Opposition journals would oppose the scheme to add the Pacific railway to a Government bonus. The fidelity of these papers to the Northern Pacific company is truly touching. They seem to entertain a lingering hope that in some way the completion of the Canadian line can yet be prevented, and that the transcontinental traffic can be thrown into the hands of the United States line.

We hoped awhile ago that Reform journals had been shamed out of their hostility to Canada and everything Canadian. But their madness has broken out afresh. They glory in their shame and parade their treachery to their country as something of which they should feel proud. They delight in telling the world that Canada is on the verge of a financial crisis, hoping to precipitate a financial crisis by so doing.

They persist in saying that farmers do not realize fair prices for their agricultural products when prices are higher here than anywhere on the continent. Wheat, to-day, commands a higher price in Hamilton than in New York.
So do oats. But the traitorous party boldly affirm that prices of farm products are depressed. They hope by that to keep immigrants out of the country.

If it could be successful in preventing the construction of the Pacific railway, they would possibly break up the Canadian confederation.
Certainly they would prevent the opening up of Northwestern Ontario to settlement, and inflict enormous injury upon this Province.

Fortunately success is out of their power.
The Government will be authorized to guarantee the Pacific railway stock for ten years, because the security to be deposited is ample.
There will be no risk. A great good will be gained, and nobody will suffer except the Northern Pacific company of the United States, and certain owners of land in Dakota.—Hamilton Spectator.

SPORTING NOTES.

The subscription list in aid of the family of the late Capt. Webb has reached $1,000.

Capt. Cuthbert, of the yacht Atalanta, left Toronto for Chicago to superintend the building of a new boat on an altogether new model.

Toronto University on Saturday at last succeeded in turning the tables upon McGill. The victory was not a very decisive one, but was quite as satisfactory as were the successes in 1881 and 1882 of McGill.

HANLAN has accepted an offer from the Ariel Rowing Association to make his first appearance on California water on Thanksgiving day, and he will start for the Pacific coast within the next ten days. George W. Cox will probably go with him. Hanlan will remain in California a month or six weeks, and he will visit Australia before he returns home, providing a favourable answer comes from Sydney.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1883.

The Cells.

Two prisoners occupied the cells' rooms last night.

C. E. T. U.

A musical and literary entertainment is to be held in connection with the Church of England Temperance Society on Wednesday evening, in St. John's Church chapel. A small admission will be charged adults.

Pictorial Canada.

Mr. T. H. Dodge, is at the Oriental, being in town for the purpose of delivering to subscribers the twenty-third and twenty-fourth numbers of Pictorial Canada, which maintain the high character of their predecessors.

Cheese Shipment.

Three hundred and fifty boxes, or about 22,750 pounds of cheese were shipped from the Midland station to-day by Mr. T. Watkins, of Belleville. The cheese was purchased from factories in this vicinity and was shipped to Liverpool.

Personal Attention.

Prof. Degallies will be in Peterborough personally on the usual day (Wednesday), to teach his classes, but will, for the convenience of those wishing to attend the Lacrosse Club Ball, open early in the evening. He states that could he have arranged he would have changed the night, as requested, for the occasion.

To Homekeepers.

Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpets, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

Young's Point.

Those interested will do well to remember the sale by auction of the comfortable residence at Young's Point, owned by Mr. L. G. Fobert, on Thursday next at about 5 p.m., immediately after Mr. Young's stock sale. This residence is pleasantly situated overlooking the lake, and has a half acre of ground attached well planted with fruit trees. Terms liberal.

Bazaar.

The ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee: Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick.

Clearing and Coasting.

Considerable rain fell last night. This morning was mild and cloudy, but towards noon the weather became cooler and the wind increased to a strong gale. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, commencing from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong winds and moderate gales from the south and west, clearing to rainy weather this morning, followed by clearing and cooler weather.

The Law Association.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Law Association was held in the Law Library, Mechanics' Institute building, on Monday evening. There was a good attendance of the local members of the legal profession. The report of the Executive Committee for the past year was read and adopted. It showed that $500 had been expended in the purchase of new books. The following officers were elected for this year:—

PRESIDENT—Mr. C. A. Waller.
VICE-PRESIDENT—Mr. D. W. Dumble.
SECRETARY—Mr. E. B. Edwards.
TREASURER—Mr. A. P. Fossett and Mr. W. H. Moore.

A resolution was adopted recommending that the Sheriff be requested to take steps towards having matting laid down in the Court House and the barristers' room in that building fitted up more comfortably. After discussing other subjects, the meeting adjourned.

Shelves! Shelves!

Oysters by the can and measure received regularly by express. We are headquarters for finest Bulk Oysters. Great discounts for them at CARTON BROS.

A PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT.

Mr. Hunter Gray Falls Between Cars and is Seriously Injured.

An accident of a very serious nature, and one that may yet prove fatal, occurred on the Ontario and Quebec Railway this afternoon, near the temporary shops at the Midland crossing in the town. Mr. N. Gray was staking a car, when the engine came against the train. A plank which supported his feet gave way and he fell between the cars and was very seriously jammed. Men at once rushed to his assistance. Blood flowed freely from his mouth, showing that he was injured internally.

Dr. King was sent for and soon arrived, and the injured man was removed to the Queen's Hotel. The full extent of his injuries are not known, but his collar bone and shoulder blade were broken, his right side was jammed and ribs broken and his lungs were injured.

Mr. Gray is a resident of Port Hope, where his family reside. He has been working on the Ontario and Quebec Railway and boarded at the Queen's Hotel. His recovery is at present considered doubtful.

MR. GRAY DEAD.

Since writing the above, and just as we were going to press, the sad intelligence reached us that Mr. Gray expired at a few minutes after 4 o'clock.

Board of Education.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held at 7.45 o'clock this evening in the Board Room.

American Canned Goods.

A full assortment of the choicest Canned Fruit and Canned Fish received from the most reliable packers at CARTON BROS.

Thanksgiving Day.

The Review office will be closed on Thursday next, Thanksgiving Day, and in consequence advertisers who wish notices inserted in the weekly issue of the paper will please hand them in a day earlier.

Church Re-opening.

The services in connection with the re-opening of the Bethel Bible Christian Church, in Otonabee, were held on Sunday and Monday last. The church has been greatly improved by the work done on it, and is now a neat and comfortable place of worship. On Sunday the Rev. E. Roberts, of Toronto, delivered able discourses in the afternoon and evening. On Monday evening a tea meeting was held, at which there was a large attendance, including a number from Peterborough. After those in attendance had partaken of tea, Mr. Thos. Johnston, of Salem, was called to the chair. The Rev. J. W. Joffe made a statement as to the cost of the improvements made on the building, and a subscription list was opened and the amount was subscribed in a few moments. The Rev. E. Roberts then delivered an address, after which the choir sang "Bethel is Free," an appropriate anthem after the handsome subscriptions recorded. Good music was furnished by the choir of the Bible Christian Church in Peterborough.

Week of Prayer.

The week commencing on Sunday, November 11th, will be observed throughout the world wherever a Young Men's Christian Association is in existence as a week of prayer for young men. The Peterborough Association has requested the clergymen of the town to preach special sermons to young men on the 11th of the following Sunday, and it is expected that the request will be generally complied with. The Association will, in common with the Associations throughout the world, observe the season of prayer, and meetings will be held in their rooms as follows, the subjects set down for consideration and the leaders being given:—On Sunday, Nov. 11th, at 9 a.m., "The Holy Spirit: Have you received power from Him?" Acts i. 8, iv. 31-33, Mr. George E. Williams; at 8.30 p.m., "Questions worthy of thoughtful consideration," Mat. xvi. 26, Luke xii. 16-21, Mr. J. F. Jeffers. At 8 p.m. on Monday, "Opportunities, Used," Luke xiv. 1-10, Dr. J. A. Fife. Tuesday evening, "Opportunities, Unused," Acts xvi. 22-23, Mr. D. E. Gardner. Thursday evening, "Opportunities, Abused," Mt. xxi. 33-46, Mr. J. W. Flavell. Friday evening, "Opportunities, Lost," Mark x. 17-22, Sheriff Hall. Saturday evening, "One more Opportunity," Luke xiii. 6-9, Rev. K. F. Torrance. A cordial invitation is extended to the young men to attend these meetings.

The Jubilee Singers.

The original coloured Jubilee Singers from the Fisk University in Tennessee gave one of their magnificent concerts in Bradburn's Opera House on Monday evening. The story of these people is well known to most of our readers, how they set out to earn by their singing funds to endow a school for their people, which was to cost the immense sum of $20,000, and how, after some unpleasant experience, they at last won their way to the hearts of the people, and endowed a university that cost $150,000. There was a very good attendance on Monday evening and the hearty applause and frequent encores testified to the fact that the Jubilee Singers had not lost the power of enrapturing a cultured audience. It would be almost useless to attempt to describe their singing, and it certainly is needless. If they had not been as perfect as on the occasion of the previous visit, or if they had allowed flaws to appear, then something new could be said about them, but as this was not the case, and as they even appeared to have improved, if possible, the task of description would be a difficult one, for the vocabulary of praise has long ago been exhausted in attempts to transcribe the effect of their singing. Although this company has appeared here so frequently, the amount of praise that this was their farewell tour previous to departing on a protracted visit to Europe was received with regret, and the wish of the audience was, we believe we are safe in saying, that they would be as successful as they could wish, and that the same company may return again to Peterborough.

Railway Notes.

Two trains are now used on the work of construction on the Ontario and Quebec west of the town. Timber has been laid across the bridge at the Midland crossing near Bethany, so that the trains now pass over it and the work is not delayed.

The Globe contains the following:—The Manager of the Midland Railway has written to the City Council with reference to the action taken by the city on that road laying another broad gauge on the Esplanade in place of the old narrow gauge track of the Nipissing Railway. He says that the Midland Company were ignorant of their rights with reference to this track, having taken it over with the Nipissing Company's effects, and they were simply taking up the narrow gauge track and putting down the regulation gauge. In the meantime they had stopped the work, and their engineer will look into the matter.

The Guide says that Robert Crocker, a brakeman on the Midland, had his hand smashed while coupling cars at Millbrook, on Saturday morning. He will be laid up for some time.

NELLY'S MISTAKE.

A LOVE STORY.

They waited to some little distance in silence. Edward's usual nonchalant ease of manner seemed to have deserted him entirely. He looked anxious and his eyes were fixed on the ground. Nelly, on the other hand, was looking at him with a steady gaze, and as if she were waiting for him to speak.

"I think I can guess what you want to tell me," Marian ventured to say presently, in pity for his evident distress, yet wondering why he should be so different. "Is it about Nelly?"

"Oh, no," he exclaimed, hastily. "Whatever could make you think that, Marian? Did you imagine I had fallen in love with the pretty child?"

"Yes," she replied, and then her eyes fell before him, and in a moment she was all his again.

"Marian, I love you; you think I am rash, but it seems to me possible that I have loved you all my life. I don't know how to tell you, but I love you."

Who could have believed that Marian, who all this time had cheerfully resigned to Nelly the attention that had been so naturally claimed, had known her mind perfectly well, and, in spite of her surprise, could give her lover her answer without a moment's hesitation.

"Marian, look at Edward and Nelly. Nelly cried sharply, tearing through the deepening gloom at the two figures coming up the garden walk. "What can it mean?"

They came up to the open French window, against which Nelly and her mother were sitting. Their tale was now told. Nelly did not stop to hear it. She had her own room.

Marian found her lying all alone in a perfect abandonment of mind. "Oh, Marian, how could you do this to me? Who could have believed that you would do this to me?"

"My darling, I loved you, and I love you now. I don't know how to tell you, but I love you."

Marian did not speak. Nelly, who had been so much surprised at her lover's declaration, now found herself in a state of perfect confusion.

In the following autumn, when Marian and Edward were married, Nelly had remained in the most devoted manner, and had been so much engaged in her work, that she had not had time to think of her lover.

She was, however, a very different person from the one who had been so much surprised at her lover's declaration. She was now a woman of great strength of mind, and was able to control her emotions.

Marian wondered how Nelly could have been so much surprised at her lover's declaration. She was now a woman of great strength of mind, and was able to control her emotions.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1883.

ILLEGAL PRACTICES.

The disclosures made at some of the recent election trials betray a state of affairs that can not be regarded with satisfaction by Canadians. We are not looking at the matter from a party point of view, for Conservatives and Reformers are both implicated in the cases to which we now especially refer.

In the election in Cardwell of a representative in the Provincial legislature, it was proved by the most conclusive evidence that on polling day the bars were generally kept open, and intoxicating liquors were dispensed in flagrant violation of the law. Conservative and Reform license holders—Conservative and Reform agents, however much they might be at variance in other respects, appear to have been thoroughly agreed as to keeping open the bars and letting the flow of liquor proceed without a check. So completely did this illegal practice prevail that the judges, while acknowledging the innocence of the member elect, had to declare the election void, though to show that it was the general practice that was thus condemned, no costs were given on either side. There was no evidence that either party had gained an advantage over the other, but so tainted with illegality was the whole election that it was, very properly and rightly, declared utterly void.

In Lennox, in the contest for the representation in the House of Commons, there was some difference in the method revealed, but a similarity in the fact that illegal practices were widespread, and confined to neither party. Here it was not so much liquor as money that seemed to be in demand and to find a supply. The few witnesses that were examined proved that there was a general and not unfounded impression that money was going on both sides, and that some of the electors had received money from the adherents of both parties.

Now, these practices are not only illegal, but there is no room for argument that the law should be relaxed in regard to them. They are as utterly opposed to public policy as to the law. It is a farce to talk of a representative government when the choice of representatives is influenced by such means.

These disclosures, however, point to the necessity for some change in the election law, though not in the direction of any relaxation. It is evident that more stringent provisions are requisite to deter too zealous supporters of the rival candidates from breaking the law to influence the electors. At present the law seems insufficient to overawe such offenders, and it should be so amended that the dread of punishment, if no other consideration, will confine them to legal practices.

ACTUAL SETTLERS.

The Hamilton Times remarks touching affairs in the Northwest: "How different it would have been to-day if the Government had kept the land, to be given away or sold at very low prices to actual settlers only!"

Very true. The land, in the absence of a railway, would have been of as much value as now, as so much territory in the moon. No actual settlers would have gone there, but would have kept along the lines of communication and travel incident to the Northwestern States. It is folly to talk of "actual settlers" except in relation to the Canada Pacific Railway. The land in Manitoba and beyond was in the possession of Canada for ten years before the present Government were able to establish its railway policy, for which delay the country has to thank the Grits. And how many "actual settlers" went in during that period. They might be counted, almost, on the ten tips of one's fingers. But since the railway has pierced a continent that was languishing for the advent of industry, "actual settlers" have been pouring in by tens of thousands. The North-West country will number next year more than 300,000 people, and it will be hard indeed if there will not be found among them some of those "actual settlers" the Grits express much concern about. We quite agree with our contemporary that it would be very different to-day if the Government had kept the land and had not built the railway; so different, indeed, that Canada would have been the same unattractive country that it proved to be during the procession of Grit-made misfortune, when a few driftnets of people, from ten to twelve thousand a year, could scarcely be induced to cast their lot with us. How "different" it is to-day—London Free Press.

A False Rumour.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Mail says that there is not the slightest truth in the statement made by the Globe's Ottawa correspondent that the Marquis of Lansdowne has been since his arrival here in the receipt of anonymous letters threatening his life. His Excellency has not received a single letter of the kind.

A FORTUNE IN AN OVEN.

Now Mr. Lieb's Smarminess Cost Him Ten Thousand Dollars.

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 5.—Jacob Lieb, a farmer of West Mill Creek, in this country, has been ruined by too much precaution. For the last month the villages around Erie have been worked pretty thoroughly by a gang of professional gamblers, two ringleaders of whom have been captured. Farmer Lieb never deposited his savings in a bank, but has kept his money and valuables in a safe at home. Removing greenbacks amounting to $5,000, with notes, mortgages, and other valuable documents representing as much more, he concealed them in the oven of the parlour stove, which is not generally used till winter fairly sets in. As an extra precaution, he concluded not to tell Mrs. Lieb, lest in a moment of weakness she should give their "cuteness away in gossip. One morning he discovered that an unsuccessful attempt had been made to break into his residence, but the discovery only served to tickle him. While Lieb was absent during the first snowstorm of the season, considerably thinking of her husband's cold ride home, Mrs. Lieb planned a little surprise for his comfort. She prepared a dainty and tempting supper, and spread it in their cosy parlour, lighting a fire to add to Mr. Lieb's comfort. When he arrived and took in the situation he almost fainted. Rushing to the stove he opened the oven door, and pulled out the charred mass that once represented their fortune, but which was now not worth a cent. On Saturday he brought the ashes to the court house, but obtained no comfort.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MILL SHUT DOWN.

Messrs. R. & G. Strickland's Lakefield saw-mill shut down on Wednesday last, the 7th inst., after completing a very satisfactory season's cut. It is understood that a circular saw will be kept running on custom work through the winter, and that the shingle mill will be started soon and kept going through the winter also, provided that the Lakefield dam still hangs on.

PERFECTLY RECOVERED.

Girtle May, only two years of age, daughter of Mr. Jeremiah Moore, of Lakefield, about a month ago broke her leg while swinging on a gate. Dr. Armour was called in and under his care she has perfectly recovered and is walking around as usual without any assistance.

NEARLY AN ACCIDENT.

On Monday evening last a young man from Smith, who was in the village on business, was going for his team to Peile's Hotel. In passing the corner of Concession and Caroline streets, owing to the darkness he fell into the cellar of Carveth's old hotel which is unprotected. He had a narrow escape and as it was he, had to seek medical aid to get a severe cut on the head dressed.

HUNTING PARTY RETURNED.

Messrs. Giles Stone and W. H. Cassment of this village and five others having been at Jack's Lake camping for a couple of weeks, returned on Tuesday last. They report excellent hunting and a good time generally. They shot 18 deer in 6 days hunting which is hard to beat. The party lost two valuable hounds which were poisoned by some miscreant unknown. There is no doubt but that if the pulley party is found out, much punishment will be inflicted as will be a terror to such evil doers in future.

SMITH.

BUNGALERS.—While Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Scott were returning from Church last Sunday evening, about eight o'clock, they noticed a light in their house, which is situated just across the road from the church. Mr. Scott suspected all was not right, as he had not locked the door. He and Mr. Isaac Milburn, who was with him, started to run towards the house. They had not gone very far before the parties came out of the house into the wood-house, and put out the light and escaped. It is supposed that they had a watch outside who gave the alarm. They had a light with them, as Mr. Scott says their lamps were not lit and he did not miss anything. It is very strange, as the intruders had been at the house over the week.

A SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCE.—On Tuesday evening, just at dusk, as Mr. John Scott was returning from work in the field, he noticed a man in the lane, who, on seeing him, started off on a run to the swamp.

BELLEVEILLE.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of Ontario administered the rite of confirmation to twenty males and twenty-three females at Christ church Belleville, on Sunday night. He also announced that, in accordance with the wishes of the congregation, he had appointed the Rev. Mr. Sibbald as rector of Christ church and St. George's parish.

Disturbances in Ireland.

During the progress of a fair at Rutheale, a town seventeen miles from Limerick, a faction fight occurred, in which forty persons were wounded. The police attempted to interfere, but were stoned by the mob and driven off the ground. Receiving reinforcements the police returned and succeeded in arresting 35 of the ringleaders, but while conveying their prisoners to the station a rush was made by the mob, who rescued twelve of their comrades. The others were imprisoned.

Experimental Shipment.

SARNIA, Nov. 6.—Among the cargo brought down from Duluth to-day by the steamer Quebec, of the North-West Transportation Company's line, was a shipment of Oregon wheat. The first ever sent over the Northern Pacific Railway and by way of the upper lakes to the seaboard. The grain is a handsome sample, though it does not grade as high as Minnesota or Dakota No. 1 hard. The shipment is experimental.

Burnham Beeches.

An autograph letter of Lord Beaconsfield to Mr. Francis George Heath is prefixed to a new edition of his handbook to Burnham Beeches, in which the author of "Lochair," having mentioned that he passed part of his youth in the shade of Burnham Beeches, added, "I am not surprised that the ancients worshipped trees. Lakes and mountains, however glorious, in time weary. Sylvan scenery never fails."

Extremes of Temperature is a never-failing cause of disease. At this season of the year, rheumatism, toothache, and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question, then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Pain's Headline exactly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient, and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10-cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottles only 25 cents. Both at Ormrod & Walsh.

Lecture by Mr. Thomas White.

Mr. Thomas White, M. P., delivered a very interesting lecture in Montreal under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association on "The Origin and the Development of the Newspaper in this City." The able lecturer illustrated his remarks at the beginning by reading copious extracts from the first and following volumes of the Gazette, which he edits at present, and which was established in 1773, to illustrate the infantile ideas held at that time also to show to conduct a newspaper. In those early days there was a censorship established which would not allow any adverse comments on the Government, the judges, or other important subjects. A good idea was given of the small service in those by-gone days, and how long it took to get English news and the like for publication. Mr. White's address was full of unique and novel information of newspaper enterprises over a century ago in Montreal. The Gazette when it commenced was published in French, and subsequently it divided its columns between French and English. The lecture was listened to throughout with the deepest interest. Mr. George Hague presided.—Mail.

The State Elections.

Elections were held yesterday in Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia. The elections passed off quietly, no disturbances having been reported in any section, though intense excitement prevailed in Massachusetts and Virginia. In New York the democrats were successful; in Albany Carr is said to have a majority of 12,000, but the remainder are probably Democratic. In Pennsylvania equally excited feelings prevailed. In Buffalo the honors are apparently equally divided, as is also the case in Michigan. Connecticut and Nebraska show decided Republican gains. Minnesota is remarkably Democratic and Pennsylvania equally Republican. In Massachusetts Butler is defeated, various reports reckon Robinson's majority from 10,000 to 28,000. Virginia is probably Democratic.

A WRONG OPINION.—Many a dollar is paid for prescriptions for some disease that never troubled the patient, and when the sale difficulty was worn, which a few of Freeman's Worm Powders would remove. These Powders are pleasant, safe and sure, contain their own cathartic, and are adapted for children or adults.

The Navy Blue, sea brown, olive green and other rich dark colors of the Triangle Dyes are as perfect as the bright shades. They never disappoint the user. 10cents.

NOVEMBER.

The Month for OVERCOATS and forerunner of colder days to come reminds everyone that heavier Clothing is now wanted. This want we have anticipated, and have now on hand an exceedingly fine line to select from. Go tell your friends, then come yourself, and see that this is the place you have been looking for. Our general line comprises Overcoats, (heavy as well as medium), Men's Fall and Winter Suits in endless variety, Children's and Youths' Clothing in all the Newest Shades and Styles, and at prices that will suit all. Our Goods are all as represented.

Of course low prices have much to do with the success of any business where the competition is great, and especially is this the case with the Clothing Trade. But there is another feature, equally necessary to complete success, and that is the POSITIVE MERIT of the goods sold. It is upon these two absolutely essential requirements that we have established the most extensive business in Peterborough.

Old Friends.

As a proof of this, witness the throng of OLD FRIENDS who daily visit us, bringing acquaintances to introduce, and all convinced that we sell BETTER CLOTHING AND AT FAR LOWER PRICES THAN ANY OTHER HOUSE IN THIS TOWN. An apt illustration of these facts can be found in our present sale of an exquisitely made and thoroughly substantial ALL-WOOL SUIT AT $8; also a BEAUTIFUL $5 FALL OVERCOAT, equal to like coats found elsewhere at $8.

Intending Clothing-buyers will nowhere find such extraordinary inducements awaiting them as these now offering by us.

CUSTOM DEPARTMENT.

Finest Lines of Imported Fabrics—Suttings and Overcoatings—Honest Workmanship and Reduced Prices, are the attractions offering in this department. Particular attention is paid to the Make, Fit and Style of our Clothing, and we acknowledge no superiors in the art of turning out Elegantly Dressed Patrons.

A SIGNIFICANT WARNING.

WASHINGTON, October 18.—The Northwest Lumberman's Association, becoming alarmed at the rapid depletion of the forests of the North-western States, and at the falling lumber market, has resolved that the cutting of timber must be curtailed. Mr. William Little, of Montreal, who was actively engaged before Congress last winter during the discussion of the tariff on lumber, has contributed to an English magazine, just received here, an interesting article upon the alarming destruction of American forests. After quoting from the census reports of the United States to prove that, at the present rate of destruction, the entire white pine of the Northwest will be exhausted within seven or eight years; and from the report prepared by H. G. Joly, late Premier of the Province of Quebec, for the Dominion Council of Agriculture, in which it is shown that the supposed enormous territory of Canada is really confined to a comparatively small area, and that the best lumber is yearly becoming less accessible to the markets, Mr. Little continues:

"It has often been said that there would be found a substitute for wood; if so, it is quite time the discoverer brought it forward, for up to the present the 'everlasting Yanks' have not even touched the subject. Notwithstanding the fact of the use of iron in building, the terra-cotta and straw lumber, the consumption of our old friend wood lumber increased nearly 50 per cent. in the ten years from 1870 to 1880, the former being 12,755,543,000 and the latter 18,091,395,000 feet. And yet we are informed that we are within seven years of the time when the supplies of white pine and spruce lumber must cease.

The value of the lumber now produced in the north exceeds $300,000,000 a year, as it falls from the saw, and to replace it in his own family for Coughs and Colds. Being pleased with results, large sales followed, and it is now the favorite remedy in that neighborhood.

FROM ALL OVER

FOUR million acres of land in Florida are alleged to have been purchased by an English syndicate for $1,250 an acre.

The resignation of the Spanish Minister to France has been accepted, and the post offered to Marshal Serrano.

The reported strangling of the Malagasy envoys on their return to Madagascar is discredited by the British Foreign Office.

CATTLE and sheep to the number of 5,886 and 12,063 respectively were exported to Great Britain during the month of October.

THEY ALL TELL the same story. Mr. W. Thompson, Jeweler, Delhi, suffered for years from Dyspepsia, got no relief until he used Dr. Casson's Bitters. He says it was just the medicine I needed. It has cured me.

An officer detailed to inspect the harbour of San Francisco with a view to its protection in case of hostilities, says it can be made impregnable for $600,000.

THE use of Pills, Salts, Castor Oil &c. and other nauseous, griping Cathartics is unnecessary as a pleasant substitute found in Dr. Casson's Bitters, which act as a Cathartic without griping or causing nausea. All Druggists sell it 50 cents a Bottle.

A QUERT ANSWERED.—People often ask when is the best time to take a blood purifier? We answer, the best time is now. Burdock Blood Bitters does its work of purifying, regulating and toning the system at all times and all seasons. Purity in all things is always in order when required.

MR. JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL, the American Minister to England, has been proposed by the students of St. Andrew's University for the rectorship.

ANOTHER WRITER.—A. Chard, of Sterling, testifies to the efficacy of Hagar's Yellow Oil, which he used for a badly injured knee joint. It is now the great household remedy for inflammation, pain, soreness, lameness, etc., and is used both internally and externally with infallible success.

It is difficult to ascertain how much truth there is in the rumor that Cardinal Manning is in disfavor at the Vatican on account of a difference of view in regard to the reorganization of the American Episcopate.

LORD COLERIDGE has had a consultation with leading members of the English bar on differences of legal procedure in English and American courts.

BAD DRAINAGE.—There is nothing more productive of disease in a neighbourhood than bad drainage. Open the culverts and sluiceways and purify the locality. The objections to the human system may be remedied in a similar manner by Burdock Blood Bitters, which opens all the outlets of disease through the Bowels, Liver and Kidneys.

A LAXATIVE has been made for the release of the Halifax dynamites on the ground that they had been remanded for a longer period than the law allowed. The judge reserved his decision till Wednesday.

FURTHER disturbances are feared in Rat Portage, Brigidine's husband having expressed his intention of arming the Mowat specials to prevent by force the execution of the license law by the Manitoba force.

A GOOD INTRODUCTION.—J. Kennedy, a merchant in Dixie, about three years ago introduced Hagar's Pectoral Balm to his family. He is now a National School teacher at Millie, but were put to flight by the police.

A NATIONAL League meeting was held at Oshkosh, Wis. The attendance of the clergy was prohibited by the recent decision of the Holy See.

THE Marquis of Donaghy, who has just died at the age of eighty-six, has been succeeded by his brother, now eighty-four, and he to his son, now forty years.

THE work on Arklow Harbor progresses favorably. Already 200 feet of the breakwater is completed, and the remainder, 500 feet, is being pushed forward with energy and dispatch.

IRISH labourers do not go to England and Scotland during the summer months to such an extent as they formerly did. In 1880 about 23,000 paid a visit to the larger island, but this large number has fallen to about 15,000.

PROF. BALDWIN estimates that there are not less than 4,000,000 acres of waste lands in Ireland which might easily be reclaimed, cultivated and tenanted. He thinks that these lands would furnish homes for at least 25,000 families. Dr. Hart, who has written on the subject for the Fortnightly Review, takes a similar view, and earnestly presses upon public attention the advisability of reclaiming those waste districts which are capable of being settled.

In acknowledging the receipt of a copy of Mr. R. Barry O'Brien's new work, "Fifty Years of Concession to Ireland"—Mr. John Bright says:—"I wish the book could be read extensively in England and Ireland. Ireland needs to be informed well, and as much as England; but while England is willing to learn, and is now well disposed, a large portion of Ireland is not willing to learn, and has put itself into the hands of men whose purpose is that it shall only learn what is hostile to England, and, as I think, most injurious to itself."

Not Reducing the Cut.

It is very clear that some of the largest operators are going to take no steps to reduce their cut of logs the coming winter. They say they cannot afford to do it. Their money is invested in their business, and they know of no way but to keep things moving. Moreover they claim that they have made a good profit the present season, notwithstanding prices have ruled lower than last year. They bought their pine for little money, and are going to look out for No. 1 instead of the good of the trade at large. All this was foreshadowed at the recent meeting of the manufacturers in this city. They said in a resolution, "we recommend to all manufacturers of lumber in the pine producing regions, each consideration in their eyes, during the coming winter as will tend to restrict the tendency toward an over supply of logs during the year 1884," but care was taken by some of the members of the association present that they should not pledge themselves to reduce their cut. —Western Lumberman.

LITHIUM'S WHEAT, August 22nd, 1883.

Mrs. Churchill & Co., Gents.—I have been afflicted with Salt Rheum for the past three years, and have been treated by some of the best doctors of Eastern Ontario without any lasting benefit. I was recommended by Mr. C. J. Lindsay, of Kars, to try your Fountain of Health. After using five bottles of your Tonic and two bottles of your Blood Purifier, I believe I am perfectly cured. My general health is also much improved, and I now feel like a new man.

Yours truly,
RUTH BOWEN.

MRS. CHURCHILL & CO., Dear Sirs,—I have been troubled with Piles for the last five years, and during that time I have taken medicine, from five doctors which failed to effect a cure. I have used only one box of your Climax Eye Salve, which I purchased from W. F. Ritchie, of Osgoode Station, and can recommend it as a safe cure to all afflicted with the same disease. I consider your Fountain of Health an excellent tonic to build up the system.

Yours truly,
ANNE MCDONALD.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1883.

St. Andrew's Church.
The Rev. Alex. Bell will deliver a sermon in St. Andrew's Church, next Sunday evening, on "Martin Luther and the Reformation."

Removal.
W. J. Green has removed his Liquor Tea Store and Merchant Tailoring establishment across the street to the store formerly occupied by W. H. Anthony, and two doors south of the Calves House.

Police News.
The police report everything quiet during the past two days. The calls were unattended both on Wednesday night and last night, and there was a clean sheet at the Police Court yesterday and to-day.

Mild and Wet.
The weather to-day has been mild and cloudy, and some rain fell. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong south-east veering to westerly winds; fair to cloudy mild weather, with local rains.

Thanksgiving Music.
The Fire Brigade Band turned out on Thursday afternoon, Thanksgiving Day, and gave an open air concert on the post office corner. The music attracted a large audience, who thoroughly enjoyed the musical treat furnished by the band. There was, perhaps, more interest felt in this public appearance of the band on account of the organization of a second such institution in the town, but the friends of the F. B. B. were pleased to detect no signs of weakness in the old band. The E flat and B flat cornets, the slide trombone and first baritone were in capable hands, as were also the other instruments. The programme consisted of new music, and the selections were admirable ones and were well rendered.

"Little John's" Officers.
At the regular meeting of Court Little John, No. 22, C. O. F., held in their Court Room, Water street, on the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 6th, the following officers were duly installed for the present quarter by Bro. John Fanning, P. O. R., of Court Peterborough, No. 29, acting as R. H. H. C. R., Bro. H. W. Watson, P. C. R., as R. W. H. M., Bro. Joe. Barrie as E. S. and Bro. W. Hawkins as N. V. C. R.:— Bro. Thos. Rutherford.....W. C. R.
Bro. Wm. Bridges.....W. C. R.

The Lacrosse Hall.
The first annual assembly of the Lacrosse Club was held in Bradburn's Opera House on Wednesday night. The hall was handsomely decorated for the occasion, among the mottoes being "Our National Game," with lacrosse sticks crossed at each end of the motto, and "God Save the Queen." The stage scenery was so arranged as to add to the effect of those decorations, and the Gilderulph Cup occupied a conspicuous position. There was a good attendance at the hall, there being about sixty couples present. Excellent music was furnished by the "City Band" orchestra, which is composed of efficient musicians. The supper was provided at Fancher's Hotel, and the spread was one that did credit to the house. The tables were laid out in first-class style, and appropriate mottoes were traced on many of the dishes, including that of "Mr. H. LeBrun, President of the Club," "The Peterborough Lacrosse Club," "Our National Game," &c. The supper was certainly an excellent one, and proved that Mr. Fancher understood well how to cater for such an occasion. Dancing was continued until a late or early hour, and the first annual ball was a most enjoyable one. The Lacrosse Club has been very successful during the present season, as witness the results of the matches played by them and their rivals at Bridgton, and this ball in another season added to the list.

The Late Mr. Robert Nicholls.
By the death of Mr. Robert Nicholls, Peterborough has lost one of its oldest residents, and a gentleman who for many years was prominently connected with its business, having amassed great wealth by his transactions. He was born in New York and came to this town in 1832, and in the next year opened a general store on the site now occupied by the Bank of Ontario. After a time he took the late Mr. William Hall into partnership, and the firm continued in existence till 1874, doing a large business in dry goods, groceries, &c. They also owned a flouring mill, and were also large purchasers of grain and other produce. Mr. Nicholls was agent of the Montreal Bank for many years. Since then he has been identified with the Bank of Ontario, of which he was a large shareholder, and for some years was a member of the Board of Directors. He was also a director of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Co., having been one of its founders and chief supporters. For several years he was a member of the Town Council. In 1847 he married Miss Jackson, of New York, whom he leaves a widow with no surviving children. Mr. Nicholls was 73 years of age at the time of his death.

C. E. T. S. Entertainment.
The entertainment given by members of the St. John's Church choir in connection with the Church of England Temperance Society, on Wednesday evening, proved a great success. There was a good attendance, and the programme, which was a lengthy one, was rendered in an admirable manner from commencement to finish. The Rev. J. W. R. Beck opened the entertainment with a neat speech, setting forth in a lucid manner the object of the entertainment, and the benefit to be derived by holding monthly socials of this nature. The Girls' Friendly Society are to unite with the C. E. T. S. in their entertainments, and will materially assist the promoters in effectually carrying out the plan now adopted of doing something to bring the members of both societies together. Mr. John E. Belcher acted as chairman, and performed his duties in a creditable manner. The programme was opened with a vocal duet by Miss Clara Clouston and Mr. Porteous, "When Thou art near me," which was given in good style and with good effect. Miss Millie Beck, a very young lady, played a pretty little selection on the piano, when Mr. Chas. Shaw was called on for "The Midshipman," which he sang in excellent style. Mr. Shaw has a good voice, and is capable of using it to a purpose. The next act was by A. Smith followed with a reading "Marguerite of France." Miss Clara Clouston sang "The New Kingdom" in her usual charming and resolute manner, receiving a hearty encore. The next piece on the programme was a vocal duet by Messrs. C. Shaw and Porteous, "The Pilot Brava." This was perhaps the best piece of the evening, the two gentlemen rendering it in a manner that drew forth loud and prolonged applause. The second part of the programme was opened by a recitation from a little girl, Miss Cor. Miss Clara Clouston and Miss Hattie Choate followed with a charming duet, "Wert thou in the cold blast," which was very effectively rendered. Miss K. Cottingham then gave a solo that captivated the audience, "The songs for me," and in response to a hearty encore, sang "Bonnie sweet Bessie, or the maid of Dundee." Mr. Porteous then sang "The Lost Chord," the rendering of which was faultless. This is a difficult solo, and requires a deep, heavy, and well-trained voice to sing it, but Mr. Porteous, luckily, is the possessor of all these accomplishments. In response to an encore he sang "The Village Blacksmith," in a very creditable manner. Mr. J. E. Belcher then gave a recitation, and the Rector moved a vote of thanks to the performers. Miss Annie Clouston presided at the piano during the entire programme, and played the accompaniments in a finished and thoroughly good style.

Personal.
Dr. E. Benson and wife, formerly of Peterborough and now of Winnipeg, have been in town for the last few days visiting old friends. We had the pleasure of a call from Mr. F. H. Dobbin, of the Lindsay Post this afternoon.

A Grand Concert.
Will be given in Carwell Hall, Trennum's Block, Water street, on Friday, Nov. 9th. A large number of first-class musicians and vocalists have been secured for the occasion. See programmes in two or three days. Don't miss this concert. Tickets only 15 cents. Miss Johnston, organist of the George Street Methodist Church, will preside at the organ. Doors open at 7.30 p.m. Come early and secure good seats.

Dramatic.
Mr. Edward Witting, representing the celebrated William Stafford Tragedy Company, arrived in town yesterday and reported his attraction as doing a large business all along the line. Mr. Stafford will make his first appearance before a Peterborough audience on Thursday evening next as Shylock, in Shakespeare's masterpiece of "The Merchant of Venice," a play in which star and company are said to be at their best. A fine performance may be looked for, and our readers would do well to secure their seats in advance.

New Goods for the Season.
W. Fairweather & Co. are showing at their New Hat, Cap and Fur Store, Novelties in Ladies' Fur Mantles and Jackets, Rich Brocade Satin and Ottoman, Black Silk Fur-Lined Circulars. The Sting Within.
It is said there is a stinging thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in the land of eight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

Tree Culture.

Interesting Address by the Hon. Mr. Joly at Montreal.

The fine hall of La Patrie office, on St. Gabriel street, Montreal, was filled to overflowing on the evening of November 8th, on the occasion of a lecture by the Hon. H. G. Joly, M. P. P., on the subject "Is it wise to encourage the culture of trees in our Province?" Mr. C. A. Geoffroy occupied the chair and among those present were Hon. Mr. Mercier, M. P. P., Hon. Senator Thibault, Ald. James McShane, M. P. P., G. W. Stephens, M. P. P., J. K. Ward, Joseph Drouin, Q. C., J. C. Robitaille, D. Barry, J. E. Robitaille, Ald. Beausoleil, H. Dorion and Dumont. The chairman, in introducing the lecturer, dwelt upon the enterprise of Mr. Beausoleil in introducing such a course of lectures, which he was sure would prove very interesting.

Hon. Mr. Joly, in commencing his lecture, dwelt upon the great importance of this subject to the Dominion of Canada and especially to the Province of Quebec. There were two great objects that should be kept in view in this matter—first, to protect the existing forests, and secondly, to cultivate new ones. The Provincial Legislature had already recognized the importance of the subject, and had adopted special legislation in regard to it. Its great importance would be seen when the fact was known that in the Province of Quebec our forests constituted one of the principal sources of revenue. He spoke of the devastation of the forests by fire and the means that had been taken to prevent their further destruction. He considered it was their duty to amply provide against the destruction of their forests. In the past the trees of the forests had been regarded as common property, and every man's hands were against them until the ravages had become terrible. This, however, was gradually ceasing, and the people were recognizing the importance of their forests. He next spoke of tree cultivation, and advocated its promotion on a more extensive scale. There was nothing of very great difficulty in the cultivation of forest trees. France had seen the necessity of it, and thousands of trees had been planted. What had been done there could be done here. There was nothing that could be done with as little risk and with such a sure guarantee of profit. It should be started on a small scale and gradually worked up. He spoke of the different conditions of soil suitable for tree cultivation, and the ground adapted to each tree, and advocated the cultivation of the more valuable species of wood, alluding especially to black walnut, which would yield a very large profit. He considered, however, that profit was not the one thing to be considered in this matter. They had a duty to perform to posterity, and they should perform it. Some would say that it was for the Government to carry out the work and not for individuals. The life of the individual, it might be contended, was too short to trouble with such matters. But the life of the Government was just as short. (Laughter and applause.) He referred to the services that the Hon. Mr. Lynch, Minister of Crown Lands, had rendered in the direction of tree cultivation, and spoke of the introduction of "Arbor Day," which had been attended with such success. This success encouraged them to make future efforts in this direction. The Province of Quebec, he was of opinion, had reason to be proud of the progress it had already made in the matter of tree cultivation. He had received communications from other countries inquiring what they had done, which showed that their actions were watched with great interest. He was in favor of having tree culture made a branch of the education of the youth of the land, as by this means an interest would be taken by the rising generation in this important matter.

Hon. Mr. Beausoleil proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Joly for his interesting discourse, and said it was an encouraging sign when a gentleman with so much to attend to as Mr. Joly, took an interest in this subject.

The motion was carried amid great applause.

The Hon. Mr. Mercier, who was loudly called for, responded by saying that he had listened to the lecture with the greatest pleasure. Mr. Joly had pointed the Government for the steps they had taken in the matter; but the real credit belonged to Mr. Joly himself, who had never ceased to press upon the Government the importance of the matter, and as usual the Government was forced to carry out the ideas of the Liberals. He congratulated Mr. Joly upon the success that had attended his efforts, and expressed the hope that the course of lectures inaugurated this evening would be eminently successful.

Messrs. Joseph Drouin, Q. C., and A. Buis also made a few remarks and a successful meeting was then brought to a termination.

Another Fatal Collapse.

BUFFALO, Nov. 9.—A heavy gale prevailed all to-day, and about half past two people on William street were startled by a crash, which upon examination proved to be the new cooper shop and store house of Jacob Dold, pork packer. The building was a two-story frame structure, almost finished. Accounts differ as to the number of men in the building at the time it came down. Some say 26, others 13, and still others 12. The building was 120 feet in length by 80 feet in width, four stories in height. At the time of the collapse of the structure, although a high wind was prevailing, it was not sufficient to cause any injury to other property, and it is generally believed that the lower and cheap construction of the building was the cause of its falling, needing only an extra gust of wind to bring about the inevitable. An official investigation as to the construction of the building will be held.

The Springfield Cyclone.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 8.—Seventy houses were destroyed and over one hundred badly damaged by Monday's cyclone. Five more deaths reported, and several of the injured are not expected to live. The sufferers are mostly poor people, and are destitute. A number of children injured in the Hazell school-house are in a critical condition.

Nihilist Incendiarism.

The Imperial Marine Institute, in which the printing press used for the publication of a Nihilist paper was recently discovered, has been burned. It is supposed the Nihilists fired the building to prevent the discovery of treasonable documents.

If you are troubled with a "hacking cough," Down's EXHALE will give you relief at once. Warmed as recommended, or money refunded. Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

A Fresh Lot of Hattie Cloths at Turnbull's, in styles too numerous to mention, bought 30 per cent. below regular prices, therefore we can afford to sell them cheap.

Marvellous of Cheapsides.

Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Coloured Dress Silks, at 50c., 75c. and $1.00 are Marvellous of Cheapsides, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1883.

THE COMING ELECTIONS.

As a consequence of the campaign in the courts, it is now clear that a sufficient number of seats will be vacated to place it within the power of the electors in these vacant constituencies to either confirm Mr. Mowat in his present position for another four years, or to place Mr. Meredith at the head of Provincial affairs before the year 1884 is many days old.

Our readers need not be reminded that the result of the February contest was at best but to leave Mr. Mowat with a very doubtful working majority, consequently a present loss of even a single seat then awarded him would be almost fatal to his position. As a result of the trials already completed and in which the evidence has been taken, and a final decision not rendered, it is not too much to claim, first that the balance of results will be with Mr. Meredith, and secondly that enough of Mr. Mowat's seats will be vacated to transfer, if reversed in the coming election, the majority undoubtedly to the other side of the House. That all the elections to be held in these vacated constituencies will either result as they did in February, or that all Mr. Meredith's will remain true to him and all Mr. Mowat's go back on him we are not so sanguine as to expect, although were the latter to be the result, it is in our opinion no more than the circumstances would justify.

Such a result, however, is, unfortunately, not a necessity for the redemption of the Province from the political hands into which it has fallen. Independently altogether of the reasons which induced so many of Mr. Mowat's former supporters to cast their ballots against him last February, others have either arisen or been brought to light, which we trust, for the sake and fair fame of the Province, will cause a still further desertion from his ranks—especially in the vacated constituencies. We believe the people of this Province are a practical and business people, and as such like to have their affairs managed in a practical and business like manner, and let us add with at least a reasonable degree of honesty and fair dealing. That all these things have been flagrantly violated by the Mowat Government during the last six months is, we are convinced, unquestionable. Let us very briefly refer to some of the facts which lead us to this conclusion.

(1) There is their conduct with regard to the Boundary embroglio. We do not now refer to anything which occurred previous to the Provincial elections, but to what has taken place since. At the close of these elections, say in March last, the Province stood with regard to this matter as follows: It had an award extending its limits very much farther west and north than the line contended for by the Dominion. That award was either, as it stood, a binding award or it was not. If it is a binding award, the way to make it such beyond dispute is to test its validity before the Privy Council, as Mr. Mowat himself did in the case of the award between Ontario and Quebec—whose validity was disputed by the latter Province—and as well sooner or later, in one way or another, have to be done if the Province contends that this award is binding upon all the parties interested therein. But as yet we have to learn that Mr. Mowat has taken the first step in that direction—probably because he is perfectly well aware that the award cannot stand for a moment on its own merits. If this latter should be the reason why he has not done so, why then in the name of common sense does he profess to hang on to a decision, which, if through no fault of his own, is, through the fault of Mr. Mackenzie, valueless? And was it not a crime, as well as the part of a bully, to try, in a law abiding country, and before the strong arm of the law had been invoked to give us our rights, to take forcible possession of territory which, however much it may belong to us, was never in our possession? But within the last six months Mr. Mowat has not only insisted, so far as he could, upon exercising Ontario authority and enforcing Ontario laws in this territory, but he has actually attempted to deal with property, our ownership to which is open to dispute even if it be within the confines of Ontario, and which, if ours, can only be ours subject to our reimbursing the Dominion for the amount paid, and to pay to the Indians on account of their rights therein. And this, too, in the face of a proposition from the other claimants that, pending the settlement of their opposing claims, it should be managed by a joint commission, which would make what was done, be done with the approval of and legally binding upon which ever party proved the rightful owner—a mode of procedure which we believe to be as fair and business-like as Mr. Mowat's has been wrong-headed, bullying and wasteful of Provincial money.

(2) Since February last Mr. Mowat has brought the blush of shame to every honest Ontarian's cheek by his scandalous reappointment of Mr. S. S. Peck to one of the highest judicial appointments in his gift, as is proved by the fact that, so far as we are aware, not even a single Reform newspaper could be found to approve the appointment.

(3) That on the authority of his organs Mr. Mowat has been declared ready and anxious to defraud the electors of their rights by buying members, elected to oppose him, to support him as to wit, in the Prince Edward case; and as a consequence, if permitted to retain power by a narrow majority, we look for the Provincial Treasury being unnecessarily depleted to obtain support for a Government which boasts of its integrity.

(4) That since last February the Mowat Government by the authorization of two new sets of readers for the public schools have involved the Province in a school book war which will cost its people thousands of dollars unnecessarily, apparently for the sole purpose of playing into the hands of political cliques.

(5) That in the elections held during the current year the public money and patronage has been used in the most unblushing manner to coerce the electorate into supporting the Mowat Government. To wit: the expenditure or appropriation for expenditure of the money granted for colonization road purposes on roads neither in or leading to free grant townships; the unauthorized expenditure of the public money in Algoma, and the manipulation of public appointments for purely party purposes, as, for instance, in the case of the Peterborough Registrarship.

(6) That since last February Mr. Mowat has proved himself so anxious to retain office without reference to the people's opinions, that he actually disfranchised, as far as he could, the electors of an organized township because a majority of them would not vote for Mowat—as witness his conduct in refusing Cockburn Island a polling place, to say nothing of his other dark and crooked doings, for the purpose of stealing a favourable verdict in Algoma.

(7) That the evidence given in the election courts goes to show that Mr. Mowat would have been routed horse, foot and artillery, had it not been for the railway and lumber influence improperly exerted in behalf of his candidature, and that the ranks of his supporters did previous to these trials, if they do not still, contain enough men to either put him out or keep him in, who, while nominally representing constituencies, owe their seats to and in reality simply sit as representatives of railway and lumber kings.

Other reasons might be mentioned why the Mowat Government are to-day even less worthy of support than they were last February, but these ought to suffice. The question which the electors of the vacant constituencies, and especially the independent Reformers therein, will soon have to decide is: Is this sort of government which they wish to rule in Ontario. Not very long ago the Grangers passed a resolution that they would support no candidate who would even accept a pass from a railway company. What about a government which owes its position to the influence of the railways, whose chief organ is controlled by a railway ring, which has to be subsidized by the fostering of unnecessary readers upon our schools, and by printing contracts obtained by the use of bogus tenders, and by lumber companies who insist upon their men voting for Mowat candidates because it is in their interest that the Mowat government should be maintained—why their INTEREST—unless it be that they expect favours from Mr. Mowat's commissioner of crown lands and dispenser of timber limits that they could not expect to get except as a quid pro quo for such support.

Those who approve of these things—of Mr. Mowat's bullying and Province against Province arraying in the Boundary matter; of such appointments as that of S. S. Peck; of the condemnation of undue influences at elections, when such condemnation is likely to result in a party gain; of the improper and unauthorized expenditure of the public money; of the disfranchisement of electors because they won't vote for Mowat; and of a government that can be made or unmade by railway and lumber rings, will of course vote for the Mowat candidates in the coming elections, while those who disapprove of these things have no alternative but to record their votes for the opposite candidate. May right, honesty and good government prevail.

Russian Nihilists.

A printed proclamation entitled "The Executive Committee to the Emperor Alexander III," and signed "The Executive Committee of the Narodnaya Volya," was distributed throughout St. Petersburg towards the close of last month. "We address you," it says, "as a citizen and an honest man, and hope that personal ill-feeling will not mother your sense of duty and you desire to learn the truth. We only ask for justice and for what all civilized nations already possess—personal and political freedom. We ask that representatives of the Russian people should be summoned. We ask for a full amnesty, full freedom of the Press, speech, and meeting as the only means of saving Russia from revolution." The proclamation ends with a threat of pitiless vengeance if its demands are disregarded.

STERLING.

Sudden Death.—The New Argus says that Mr. Samuel Mundell, Sr., for many years a resident of Sterling, on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock was seized with a fit of apoplexy in his yard, and expired four hours after.

Singers and public speakers are always benefited by using Downs' ELIXIR, as it removes hoarseness and increases the power of the voice. Take small doses often. Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Nobody wants old goods at any price. Go to Turnbull's, where you can get Fresh Clouds, Squares, Gloves, Hosiery, Silk and Cambric Ties, etc.

CAMPELLEFORD.

A SWEET ITEM.—One of the bee-keepers of this neighborhood has sold 1,000 pounds of honey this season.

THE STAFF OF TEACHERS.—A change in the teaching staff of the public school will take place at the approaching holidays in December. There is a possibility of the entire staff being removed.

HEAVY MEN.—Three brothers—men of large proportions—were weighed on the hay scales one day last week, and balanced the beam thereof with 732 pounds! That's weight, but when we come to measure there are three brothers in the township whose combined measurement would reach close on to nineteen feet.

STILL IN MOTION.—It is very gratifying news and matter of great interest to many, to learn that the woolen mills of this village about the cessation of whose operations so much has been said of late, is no longer a problem. The extensive works, we believe, are to continue in motion, and while the manufacture will not be so large, the operatives will find employment on full time. Some of the employees, however, have been discharged from the Company's service.

SHOT WHILE SHOOTING A DEER.—Mr. Jonathan Vardey, of Seymour, received a very painful wound in the leg while hunting after deer, on North River, one day last week. One of his companions in the chase was Mr. W. Davidson, and the two men had followed the deer to an arm of the river where they stood opposite each other a short distance apart. The deer came up out of the water and Vardey fired but did not kill it. Immediately afterwards, as the deer headed for shore, Davidson discharged his rifle also, but unfortunately in a direct line with Vardey. The rifle was loaded with buckshot, two of which penetrated Vardey's leg, and tore the flesh into an ugly wound. The injury was so painful that Davidson was unable, and Vardey's companions assisted him to the camp, a distance of about three miles, where the wound was dressed.

PORT HOPE.

CUSTOMS STATISTICS.—The Times says that the exports at this port during the month of October amounted in value to $287,022, and the imports to $3,314. The duty collected during the month reached the sum of $1,886.04. During the first five days of the present month the amount of duty collected averaged $100 a day.

THE EXPRESS ROBBERIES.—The Express Company, through its detective, has obtained full information as to the parties who robbed its safe here of $1,000. We are informed the Co. knows the names and whereabouts of the robbers, but the evidence in their possession is not quite strong enough to warrant arrest. It appears the headquarters of the gang of which the fellows who visited Port Hope are members, is at Detroit, where they now are, and it has been ascertained that they are professionals of the most dangerous character.

GAS.—We understand that at a meeting of the directors of the Port Hope Gas Co. on Monday last, a proposition was presented from Mr. W. G. Stevenson, offering to lease the works and supply gas fifty cents cheaper than was being furnished. The statement having been made by several persons interested in the company that the present price of gas to consumers and that of the street lamps, did not yield a reasonable return on the investment. Mr. Stevenson offered the Board an annual payment of $2,800 for the lease of ten years, and was prepared to furnish a bond for the due performance of all matters called for in the lease. This sum amounts to 8 per cent on the capital stock, and was supported by Mr. Stevenson to be a fair return. The directors, however, rejected the proposition, and reduced the price of gas from $3.50 to $3.35 per thousand feet.

NEWWOOD.

PERSONAL.—The Register says that Mr. Fred H. Brennan was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Trinity Medical School Literary and Scientific Society, in Toronto. This is the highest position open to any student of his year.

FOUNDERS FOR AN ELEVATOR.—We learn, from a reliable source, that Mr. S. J. Clydesdale, of Dummer, has purchased a lot opposite the Ontario and Quebec station grounds in this village, from Mr. T. M. Grover, for the purpose of erecting an elevator thereon.

POST-OFFICE IMPROVEMENTS.—Our obliging and courteous post-master, J. A. Butterfield, Esq., is having the post-office overhauled. The changes being made will add greatly to the appearance of the interior of the office, to say nothing of the increased facilities it will afford to the public for transacting business.

OSTER SUPPER.—Mr. H. Stickles, of Stirling, lately engaged as leader of the Norwood Brass Band, was entertained at an oyster supper at the Commercial House, by the members of the band, on Monday evening. The usual toasts, etc., were drunk, and a very pleasant evening spent. The spread was all that could be desired, and reflected much credit on the House.

LITERARY SOCIETY.—A Literary Society for young people has been formed in connection with the Presbyterian Church. The following is a list of the officers:—President, Rev. J. Carmichael, M. A.; Vice-President, J. Davidson, M. A.; 2nd Vice-President, Miss J. Eaton; Secretary, Wm. Finlay; Critic, J. Davidson; M. A.; Committee of Management, Misses E. Richardson, M. Eaton, E. Finlay, E. Kemp, M. Ormiston, and Messrs. J. M. A. Eaton, E. Speer, A. J. Robertson, W. Finlay and J. A. Harper.

ENHORTH.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WEATHER NOTES.—October was ushered in with a cold, clear sky, and on the third we had some dashes of snow, being the first of the season. Although being, I understand, an old Canadian proverb that there never is an October without snow, still it is seldom it comes so early, but it not only came early, for we had some on four different days during the month. Rain fell on seventeen days, but only to the depth of 2 inches and 19-100 of an inch. Our hottest day was on the 5th, being 74° at sunset, and the coldest on the morning of the 17th at sunrise, the thermometer dropping to 15° while on twelve mornings it was either at or below the freezing point. Our average temperature for the month was 17°, while October of 1881 had an average of 18°, and of 1882 an average of 17° taken at sunrise and sunset. Although rain fell on eleven days in October of 1882, it only had the small average of 96-100 of an inch. Thus, although our rain fall was about the average, we had a very low temperature in 1883.

BELLVILLE.

A FIRE.—Fire was discovered in Dorland's block on the east side of Front street, at 1.30 on Thursday morning, and damaged the building and its contents considerably. Mr. G. Davies, who occupied the two stores on the ground floor, lost $1,800; insurance $800. The two upper floors were used as dwellings, and the damage was light. The building was owned by P. V. Dorland, and was insured. Damage $800. Cause of the fire unknown.

Bazaar.
The ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee:—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick.

Rate of Valuable Farms.
Joseph Walton Esq., of North Monaghan has just disposed of his valuable property, his homestead in North Monaghan, containing 100 acres of Smith; 50 acres opposite the homestead in Smith to the same gentleman for $2,000; and his old Kalso farm in Smith to Mr. James Middleton for $5,000.

A New Departure.
A temperance pledge has been opened in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association. The pledge is as follows:—"We the undersigned do hereby pledge ourselves, with God's help, to abstain from the use of all kinds of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and as far as in our power lies, to discountenance their use throughout the community." The pledge book lies open on the reading room table, and a number of names have been signed beneath it.

The Snow and the Walks.
The "shovel brigade" found employment this morning, for the first time this season, in cleaning the snow off the sidewalks. Several snow ploughs, owned by citizens, did good work in this direction, including those owned by Mr. C. Stapleton and Councillor Henry Denna. When Mr. Smith's team was hired by the Town Council for the year, it was understood that the horses would be used in cleaning the walks throughout the town in the winter, but we believe nothing has yet been done towards purchasing a plough for the corporation. It is not too early to do so, and if there is much dilly-dallying over it the winter will be over before it is used. In the meantime the police intend to enforce the snow by-law, and they say they will do it as faithfully as they have enforced the cow by-law.

Week of Prayer.

Throughout the world, wherever Young Men's Christian Associations exist, this week is being observed as a week of prayer. The Peterborough Association arranged for daily meetings according to the universal plan, and on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock a meeting was held in the Association rooms. There was a small attendance and the audience was principally composed of Association workers. Mr. Geo. E. Williams, the Secretary, led the meeting, the subject for consideration being "The Holy Spirit; Have you received power from Him?"—Acts i, 8; iv, 31-33. At 8 o'clock in the evening another service was held, at which there was a very good attendance when the boisterous weather is considered. The Secretary led in the opening exercises, and Mr. J. Frith Jeffers addressed the meeting, the topic being "Questions Worthy of Consideration."—Luke xii, 18-21. The text referred to the foolish rich man, and Mr. Jeffers dwelt on the fact that it was not because the man had wealth, or because he took good care of it, that he was blind, but because he thought himself secure in his earthly possessions and did not make provision for the future life. He concluded with an earnest appeal to the unconverted. Mr. G. E. Williams followed with a few remarks. A meeting for men will be held in the rooms this evening. Subject, "Opportunities: Used. Zacchaeus." Luke xix, 1-10. Mr. D. B. Gardner will conduct the services, at which there should be a large attendance.

THE LONDON EXPLOSIONS.
LONDON, Nov. 11.—It is rumoured that the police have discovered proofs that the recent explosions on the underground railways were the work of New York dynamiters. The rumour is not confirmed. The police are reticent, but seem hopeful that the clues they have obtained will lead to the detection of the guilty party.

FRANCE AND CHINA.
PARIS, Nov. 10.—The Chinese Charge d'Affaires says the American Minister, under instructions from Washington, has offered the mediation of the United States between France and China, but France declined the offer.

THE FRENCH IN TONQUIN.
PARIS, Nov. 10.—The preamble to the Tonquin credit bill states that the total French force in Tonquin at the beginning of November was 8,350 men. The French naval forces in Tonquin and the Chinese sea comprised 32 vessels, their crews numbering 4,500 men.

SERBIAN REBELS DEFEATED.
VIENNA, Nov. 10.—The Serbian rebels have been attacked by the Serbian army under General Nicolic in Castra-Brodica and defeated. Seven rebels were killed and many wounded, and two hundred prisoners captured. The remainder of the rebel force escaped across the frontier.

THE CROWN PRINCE'S VISIT.
MADRID, Nov. 11.—The Emperor William's aide-de-camp, bearing the autograph letter from the German Emperor announcing that Crown Prince Frederick William is about to visit Madrid, arrived this morning. He was received by King Alfonso this afternoon. A Spanish squadron will meet and salute the German Crown Prince off Barcelona.

A COLLISION AT SEA.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—The barque Agar, from New York for the Lizard, collided on Oct. 17th with the ship Florence from Baltimore for San Francisco. The Agar sank. The captain and twelve men were rescued by the Florence.

THE FRENCH AT TUNIS.
TUNIS, Nov. 10.—The French military authorities here have arrested a Maltese and have rejected the demand to surrender him to the British consul.

THE CROWN PRINCE'S VISIT.
BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The North German Gazette says that so far from a Crown Prince's proposed visit to Spain being aimed against France it will be made in the interest of peace. The Crown Prince leaves Berlin on the 14th inst. for Madrid.

DIPLOMATIC PROMOTION.
BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The German legation in Madrid and the Spanish legation in Berlin will both be raised to the rank of Embassies.

ROYAL VISIT TO IRELAND.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Prince of Wales has received many pressing invitations to make a tour through Ireland. Mr. Gladstone is encouraging the Prince to make the tour. The report that the Marquis of Lorne is to be appointed Viceroy of Ireland is denied on good authority.

PNEUMONIA AMONGST CATTLE.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—There is an alarming spread of pneumonia among the cattle in England and Ireland.

THE ACCINGTON EXPLOSION.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—The report of another explosion in the Moorfield colliery at Accington proves untrue. The searchers for the bodies of the victims have been driven from the mine by gas.

BELLEVILLE.
TRENT.—During Thursday night ten seal-skins, valued at $50 each, were stolen from the window of Muir's fur store. The robbers left no clue behind them, the doors being locked as when they were left at closing time.

GILMOUR & CO.—Gilmour & Co., who suspended lumbering operations recently, are again sending men to the woods.

COMING BALL.—Members of the Brotherhood from Ottawa, Montreal, Brockville, Toronto, and other divisions have signified their intention of attending the ball of Locomotive Firemen in the City Hall here, on Tuesday evening 29th inst. The affair is expected to be the most successful in the history of the lodge. The decorations at the hall on that night will be most elaborate.

The November Meteors.
On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday mornings, November 12th, 13th, and 14th, a few hours before daylight are the most favourable times for observing the November meteors. As these little bodies are not distributed evenly in their orbits but chiefly crowded together in a group, it is not till the year 1899 that we shall have an opportunity of seeing a really brilliant spectacle. Only about a dozen of these very magnificent phenomena have been recorded.

Another name for the November meteor is Leonids—so called because they seem to come from the direction of the constellation Leo. That they fall daily, however, is known to the experience of everyone, but few will believe that it is calculated that some four hundred millions fall every twenty-four hours.

A Whale Hunt in Shetland.
At West Voe, Dunrobin, on September 20, early in the morning, a number of six-oared boats were proceeding to the fishing, when they observed a school of whales (twenty-eight in number), disporting themselves close to Sunburgh Head. They immediately gave chase and succeeded in driving them all ashore. The scene of slaughter was wild in the extreme.

Along the head of the Voe were spread the whales, lashing the water into foam in their death struggles, while in the midst of the blood and foam the men were wading waist deep in water, going from fish to fish and plunging lance into the monster's side.

Harford's Acid Phosphate.
FOR FERTILIZERS, INDUCTION, &c.
Send to the Harford Chemical Works, Providence, R. I., for pamphlet. Mailed free.

Marvels of Cheapness.
Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Coloured Dress Silks, at 50c, 75c, and $1.00 are marvels of Cheapness, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

Steamship Collision.
The Allan steamer "Hibernian," at Halifax, was in collision with the barque "M. J. Brady," from New York for St. John's, but sustained little damage.

The New Hangman.
Binna, the successor to Marwood, has done his first job with coolness and success. Marwood's effects were sold by auction at good prices the ropes fetching nearly ninety shillings each.

A Sentence Commuted.
It is considered probable that Maria McCabe, sentenced lately at Hamilton to the extreme penalty of the law for killing her infant, will have her sentence commuted for a term of imprisonment.

Oysters in the United States.
The consumption of oysters in New York is estimated to cost $6,000,000 annually. At Boston the annual expenditure under this item is set down at $1,700,000; and at Philadelphia at $1,500,000.

The Anniversary of Luther's Birth.
Saturday being the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of the great Church Reformer, Martin Luther, the event was celebrated in nearly every country in Europe and in most of the leading cities in the Dominion and the United States.

Wholesale Executions.
Despatches from London dated November 10th, report that a very large number of executions was put in force at Loughrea, Ireland, on the previous day. A good deal of excitement prevailed, but no fears were entertained of anything of a serious character occurring.

Virginia's Negro Excitement.
Later reports state that no conflict has yet taken place between whites and blacks at Southampton, but the whites are still greatly alarmed and are arming themselves. It is reported that the trouble among the negroes of Southampton county is a canard, and that there is no foundation for the story.

New South Wales.
A steady increase is reported in the number of manufacturing establishments in New South Wales. The number of hands employed in the miscellaneous industries is 12,857, of whom 2,096 are females. There has been a great development in manufacturing enterprises. Wages generally rule considerably higher than in England, and steady, experienced workmen have no difficulty in obtaining employment.

Fifteen Hundred Tons of Rails Sunk.
Fifteen hundred tons of iron rails, a portion of the cargo of the vessel Gashin and Glenora, delivered at Gravel Bay, Lake Superior, for the Canadian Pacific Railway, are at the bottom of the lake. The embankment on which they were piled gave way while they were being unloaded and the rails went to the bottom in twenty-five feet of water. They were consigned to William Ross and will be recovered. A number of men had a narrow escape from being carried into the lake also. One came near being drowned.

The Public Health in England.
The Registrar-General's return of births and deaths for the week ending Saturday, October 20, shows that the annual rate of mortality in 28 great towns England and Wales averaged 19.5 per 1,000 of their aggregate population, which is estimated at 8,620,975 persons in the middle of this year. The six healthiest towns were:—Norwich, Halifax, Oldham; Bristol, Portsmouth, and Darby. In Greater London 2,000 births and 1,300 deaths were registered, equal to annual rates of 31.7 and 17.6 per 1,000 of the population.

Irish Emigration.
The Times' London special says:—The Irish Catholic clergy are dissatisfied with repudiation by the government of a plan for wholesale emigration. Archbishop Croke, replying to the Chief Secretary's letter, says there is revealed the prospect of a project to force the poor dependent people to abandon their land under pressure of want and affliction in order to perish amid the snows of Canada. The outcry against further emigration has been strengthened, says the Sun, by a fierce protest from the Archbishop and bishops of Tuam, and the Government has been compelled to announce that it does not intend to spend any more than the fifty thousand pounds voted by Parliament at the last session.

Sporting Notes.
OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—Fully a thousand spectators assembled yesterday afternoon on the Rideau Hall grounds to witness the final struggle for the Championship of Ontario, and the cup given by the Ontario Rugby Football Association. The teams were very closely matched, and great excitement was exhibited throughout the struggle. At the close the match stood:—Toronto, tries, 2; rouges, 1; total 9. Ottawa, tries, 1; rouges, 3; total 7—thus giving 2 in favour of the Toronto, as well as the championship cup.

The Toronto St. Georges were badly defeated by the second fifteen of the Hamilton Football Club on Thanksgiving Day.

There is a possibility of the Toronto Football Club sending a fifteen to Montreal next Saturday to play Montreal for the challenge cup held by the latter.

Port Hope school and the second fifteen of the Montreal Britannia played a draw in Port Hope on Thanksgiving Day, but the school had the best of the match.

The match on Thanksgiving Day between Ottawa College, and the second fifteen of the Montreal Club seems to have been considerable of a walk over for the college. The college is undoubtedly developing a remarkably strong team.

A WHOOP OFFICE.—Many a dollar is paid for prescriptions for some diseases that never troubled the patient, and when the sale difficulty was worn, which a few of Thomson's Worm Powders would remove. These Powders are pleasant, safe and sure, contain their own cathartic, and are adapted for children or adults.

If you are troubled with a "hacking cough," Down's EXHIN will give you relief at once. Warranted as recommended, or money refunded. Price, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 per bottle.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1883.

The Globe repeats its old falsehood that the cost of living is thirty per cent higher than it was five years ago. We defy the Globe to point out anything thirty per cent dearer than in 1878 except farm produce and firewood. For every such instance as it can advance we undertake to give half a dozen cases of a reduction in price. Let us have figures instead of false assertions.

So general seems to have been the practice of treating and of keeping the barn open during the Cardwell election that neither party is in a position to crow over the other very much. It is, however, worthy of notice that among the culprits were Mr. Casserly, the Secretary of the Reform Association, who was specially censured by the Chancellor, and the Mowat Inspector of Licenses.

Mr. W. T. R. PRESTON, writing to the Globe from Port Hope, underestimates the claim of the Review in regard to the Algoma election. We claim, on information received from several trustworthy sources, that Mr. Plummer would have been elected had not Mr. Mowat and his partisan returning officer made arrangements to disfranchise Conservative electors by various devices. The details of these frauds are likely to be divulged in the legal proceedings now set on foot.

The Reform organs persevere in their endeavors to create a panic by asserting that great commercial depression is prevailing. As against this we may instance the fact that the bank authorities state that on Monday, Nov. 5th, when an unusually large number of acceptances matured, there was very little difficulty in the settlement, and hardly a note went to protest, at our great mercantile centre. Such a fact as this outweighs whole columns of lamentations from those who would gladly see the distress which they invent, if by means of it they could return to power.

The Ottawa Free Press persists in misrepresenting us. It says:—

"The Peterborough Review is angry with the Free Press because we chastised it for sympathizing with the objectionable personalities indulged in daily by the Toronto Mail. The Review is not so bad in some respects as the leading organ, but that is probably because it is not included among the list of Copperheads."

We can only repeat that we did not sympathize with the personalities in question, and that we did object to them, but this apparently will not prevent the Free Press from reiterating its falsehood.

LIBERAL LAND LAWS.

ONTARIO Reform journals preferring the supposed interest of their party to those of our country, are never weary of asserting the falsehood that the land laws in the United States are preferable to those in our North-West. Those who are best acquainted with the facts know how inaccurate this is. For instance, the Winnipeg Times says:—

"At this time it may be well to remind the intending emigrant that the Canadian land laws are much more liberal than those of the United States. Here the homestead and preemption adjoint; in the States they must be at least two miles apart. Here the condition of ownership is three years' residence with certain improvements; in the States similar improvements are required with five years' residence. In the North-West, young men of 18 years of age are allowed to homestead and preempt; in the States the settler must be 21 years of age. Furthermore the entrance fees in Canada are about one half those charged in the States. The radical defect in the policy of both countries appears to be that too much land is granted to the settler. There is not one farmer in a thousand on either side of the line who can properly cultivate 320 acres."

Area of the Dominion.

The Dominion of Canada, including Newfoundland, embraces over 3,620,500 square miles, or about 2,317,126,400 acres. The area of the United States and territories, including the immense region of Alaska, only reaches within 40,253 square miles, or 25,780,480 acres of that of the Dominion. Now, if Canada's territory were in one continuous strip of a mile in width, it would encircle the whole earth 145 times. It is considerably larger than Europe, and contains sufficient arable land to feed the entire population of the globe. It is 284 times as large as Japan, and about 24 times as large as British India, with its 265,000,000 inhabitants. Even China proper, with all her territories, scarcely exceeds Canada 25 per cent. With the exception of Russia and China, the Dominion possesses more territory than any nation on earth.

THE CROPS.

The following is a summary of so much of the November Report of the Bureau of Industries as relates to the area and produce of the grain crops of Ontario:—

"The November Report of the Bureau of Industries contains revised statistics of the grain crops of Ontario, based on returns of actual yield made by threshers and correspondents."

"The produce of fall wheat is considerably under the estimate made on the 1st of August, the full extent of the injury done by rust not being realized at that time. The worst reports relate to the west half of the Province, where the bulk of the fall wheat is grown. There the crop was seriously damaged by winter weather, and although a partial recovery was made as the growing season advanced the grain was blighted in the ripening stage with rust. As a result the average yield is low and the quality poor. In the eastern half the plant wintered well and the yield per acre is much higher than in the west, but the rust effects are only less severe."

Spring wheat is generally reported as an excellent crop, the grain being plump and the yield per acre good. Rust and the midge affected it injuriously in some localities, as in the counties of Ontario, Durham and Northumberland, and in all the northern counties late fields were hurt by the September frosts. But for these drawbacks the crop would have been one of the largest and best that the country has produced."

The total breadth of fall and spring wheat this year is 1,876,545 acres, and the produce 21,329,329 bushels. Last year the breadth was 1,775,357 acres, and the produce 40,221,201 bushels. The average yield of fall wheat per acre last year was 26.3 bushels, and of spring wheat 16.5. This year the average of spring wheat is 16.75 bushels, and of fall wheat only 10.54.

The season was too wet for maturing a good crop of marketable barley, and although the berry is plump it is generally discoloured. A large portion of it will in consequence be fed on the farm. The area under crop was 799,822 acres, the produce 18,690,380 bushels, and the average yield per acre 24.57 bushels. Last year the area was 848,617 acres, the produce 24,234,407 bushels, and the average yield 28.6 bushels.

The oat crop has been a large and fine one. The grain is of excellent quality, especially in the western half of the Province, and many correspondents remark that in weight it exceeds the standard bushel by four to six pounds. In the northern counties some injury was done by early frosts, but its extent in the aggregate is not appreciable. The total produce of the 1,423,559 acres in crop was 55,482,797 bushels, or 38.9 bushels per acre. Last year the area was 1,375,415 acres, the produce 50,097,997 bushels, and the average per acre 36.4 bushels.

Rye has been a fair crop both as regards quality and productiveness. The area sown was 183,438 acres, the yield 3,000,680 bushels, and the average per acre 15.9 bushels. Last year the area was 189,031 acres, the yield 3,549,898 bushels, and the average per acre 18.8 bushels.

Peas sown on low land was injured by the rainy weather of July, but on high or well-drained land it was an excellent crop. The bug was less destructive than in former years, and in some districts it seems to have disappeared. The area in crop was 541,713 acres, the yield 10,728,187 bushels, and the yield per acre 19.8 bushels. Last year the area was 557,157 acres, the yield 10,945,355 bushels, and the yield per acre 19.6 bushels.

Corn, buckwheat and beans were so generally destroyed by the frosts of September that it is impossible to estimate their produce. Beans were a partial crop in the localities where they are chiefly grown, but thousands of acres of corn and buckwheat were utterly ruined in the districts most favourable to their maturity.

THE SPECULATIVE SQUATTER.

The speculative squatter is a greater nuisance in the Canadian Northwest than ever the grasshopper was in the old days. In Dakota, the bona fide settlers have taken up arms against him, and the Federal Government is aiding them. A Dakota correspondent of the St. Paul Pioneer Press says the frauds practised upon the Government are of the most bare-faced character. He declares that persons swear to continuous residence who never see their homesteads except when they go on them in the Fall to shoot ducks; that they swear they have thirty acres under cultivation and appease their conscience by showing, when pressed by the honest settler, that the area was 3 acres x 2; that they have a house with a stone foundation, when as a matter of fact they have merely put a big stone under one corner of the shack; that the house has a "board" floor, when in reality it is only a hole bored in the ground. The correspondent says with truth: "The community ought to regard public lands as a precious patrimony, to be guarded with sleepless vigilance, and preserved as the inheritance of the child."

Fictitious residence and improvements mean, generally, a conveyance to some capitalists, and that means the aggregation of great estates; and that means the end of small, independent happy homes, with the owners rooted to the soil, which they will be ever ready to defend.

It is probable that before long important changes will be made in the Dominion land policy by Senator Macpherson, the new Minister of the Interior. Of their nature, this journal cannot speak positively just now; but it is to be hoped the Government will adopt the most stringent measures against the land-grabbers. They are not so bold or rapacious here as in Dakota, but in all conscience they are bad enough.—Winnipeg Times.

Wealth in Winnipeg.

The richest man in Winnipeg, according to the assessment just completed, is the Hon. Senator Schultze, being assessed at $502,300. The highest on the roll is the great firm of the Hudson Bay Co., for $1,057,000. There are in all in the city forty-seven persons or firms assessed at more than $100,000 each. An idea of the Senator's wealth may be gleaned from the fact that only about one-seventeenth of his estate is in the city.

Joy in Every Drop.

This may be truly said of Poina's Nervine, the greatest pain remedy of the age. It brings comfort to the weary sufferer when taken in the least of the most every known remedy. Nervine is an absolute cure for all kinds of pain, internal, external, or local. Perchance a 10-cent sample bottle and try this great remedy. Nervine, nerve pain cure. Don't forget the name of Ormond & Walsh.

The Navy Blue, and brown, olive green and other rich dark colors of the Triangle Dyes are as perfect as the bright shades. They never disappoint the user. 10 cents.

Hard-Headed Practice.
Dr. Walker, President of the Boston Institute of Technology, will have the country much beholden to him if he continues the good work he has so admirably begun of leading youths into useful and practical channels of study. He finds the tendency of the young is toward a professional calling, and as his older experience proves these avocations to be dangerous only overrated, he is striving to correct the fanciful disposition to a common-sense regard of the demands of life. He is inducing many of the boys of that city to pursue mechanics as a study, and is by that means fitting them for life that are not already choked up with futile toilers after fame and fortune. The fact is, this country needs more industrial institutions and fewer colleges of law and medicine. We want more common sense and less idealism, more hard-headed practice and less theory, more workers and fewer puddles. Success in the workshop is infinitely preferable to and more honorable than failure in a profession, and the mere matter of name has come to make but little difference with the estimate of men's worth nowadays. Technical education is what is wanted in our manufacturing, and in them is our life.—Chicago Journal.

Death from Passion.
Cases in which death results from the physical excitement consequent on mental passion are, according to the Lancet, not uncommon. A recent instance has again called attention to the matter. Unfortunately, those persons who are prone to sudden and overwhelming outbursts of ill temper do not, as a rule, recognize their propensity or realize the perils to which it exposes them; while the stupid idea that such deaths as occur in passion, and which are directly caused by it, ought to be ascribed to "the visitation of God," tends to divert attention from the common sense lesson which such deaths should teach. It is most unwise to allow the mind to excite the brain and body to such extent as to endanger life itself. We do not sufficiently appreciate the need and value of mental discipline as a corrective of bad habits and a preventive of disturbances by which happiness, and life itself, are too often jeopardized.

Kram's Fluid Lightning.
Cures Toothache and Neuralgia quick as flash, relieves any pain instantly, the quickest application known. Why suffer with Toothache, Neuralgia, Headache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Sore Throat, or Acute pain of any kind when you can go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a perfect and instantaneous cure for twenty-five cents. Ask for Kram's Fluid Lightning.

A WONDERFUL RESULT.—A single bottle of Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup has frequently destroyed from 100 to 200 worms. It is pleasant to take—no other cathartic being required. Tape worms have also been removed by it, of 15 to 35 feet in length. It is essential for all varieties of worms afflicting both children and adults.

NOVEMBER.

The Month for OVERCOATS and forerunner of colder days to come reminds everyone that heavier Clothing is now wanted. This want we have anticipated, and have now on hand an exceedingly fine line to select from. Go tell your friends, then come yourself, and see that this is the place you have been looking for. Our general line comprises Overcoats, (heavy as well as medium), Men's Fall and Winter Suits in endless variety, Children's and Youths' Clothing in all the Newest Shades and Styles, and at prices that will suit all. Our Goods are all as represented.

Of course low prices have much to do with the success of any business where the competition is great, and especially is this the case with the Clothing Trade. But there is another feature, equally necessary to complete success, and that is the POSITIVE MERIT of the goods sold. It is upon these two absolutely essential requirements that we have established the most extensive business in Peterborough.

Old Friends.

As a proof of this, witness the throng of OLD FRIENDS who daily visit us, bringing acquaintances to introduce, and all convinced that we sell BETTER CLOTHING AND AT FAR LOWER PRICES THAN ANY OTHER HOUSE IN THIS TOWN. An apt illustration of these facts can be found in our present sale of an exquisitely made and thoroughly substantial ALL-WOOL SUIT AT $8; also a BEAUTIFUL $5 FALL OVERCOAT, equal to like coats found elsewhere at $8.

Intending Clothing-buyers will nowhere find such extraordinary inducements awaiting them as those now offering by us.

CUSTOM DEPARTMENT.

Finest Lines of Imported Fabrics—Suits and Overcoatings—Honest Workmanship and Reduced Prices, are the attractions offering in this Department. Particular attention is paid to the Make, Fit and Style of our Clothing, and we acknowledge no superiors in the art of turning out Elegantly Dressed Patrons.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1883.

THE appointment of Mr. C. J. Campbell as deputy Receiver-General, to fill the vacancy left by the death of the late Mr. Alex. Fraser seems to have met with general approval.

THE West Middlesex election petition has resulted in Mr. Johnston (Conservative) being unseated by the Court. A prominent and responsible feature in this case was the practice of extensive betting, as a very thin disguise of unduly influencing the electors.

Col. A. M. Ross, M. P. P., has been re-elected by acclamation for West Huron, on his acceptance of the Provincial Treasurership.
The Reform press urged that the courtesy of an unopposed return should be accorded him by his political opponents, but now after the event they are loudly proclaiming that what they asked as a courtesy is a proof of Conservative cowardice.

WILL THE MOWAT GOVERNMENT FALL?

We take the following from an article in the Hamilton Tribune (Independent):—
"Liberals can no longer dispute the fact that the Mowat Government is tottering to its fall.
A single adverse by-election may create a panic and send the independent members over to the opposition. A change of tactics or the adoption of a robust public policy might alter the complexion of matters; but Mr. Mowat is allowing day after day to slip by without the least sign of a quickened perception as to the public wants. His administration has been long-lived, but its prestige is on the wane; and speculations
as to the date of its demise are not unwarranted."
A policy of inaction is at most times for a Government a dangerous one—such is the record of political history, and it is borne out in Mr. Mowat's case. The Government at first was the reverse of all this, but the growth of these faults has of late years been so rapid as it was a source of grief to its many supporters. To retain office and not to reform has been its ambition. A Liberal Government should be essentially the people's Government, but Mr. Mowat placed too little faith in the people. At a time when the monopoly was stretching its hand over our entire Provincial railway system, the Government offered no protest, but facilitated the work by allowing measures looking in that direction to pass through the Ontario Legislature unchallenged. Its supporters were in two main instances the purchased creatures of the Grand Trunk; and the Government allied itself with some of the latter to out the late management of the Gt. Trunk. The Government has been marked of late for its conservatism of office rather than its reform of public abuses. A Liberal Government should place implicit confidence in the people and take its inspiration from them, but the Mowat administration is seemingly afraid of the people.
It refused year after year to extend the franchise to all male adults; it imposed contemptible restrictions on the votes of those enjoying the income franchise, because the majority were supposed to be Conservatives; it rejected women's suffrage notwithstanding on the second reading it obtained a majority in the Ontario Legislature; it has given all its portfolios, minus one, to the members of a single profession, thus unwisely neglecting, by a judicious distribution of power, to obtain support from every class of the community; it is a farmers government but no farmer is honored with a seat in its midst. The school system of the Province is in the hands of a man who despite the almost unanimous protest of the liberal party, is maintained in office by Mr. Mowat through blind personal friendship. Gratitude is at most times a virtue, but when it threatens to wreck a good political party, there are those who may regard it as a vice. Immobility, job-bery and vacillation have marked that man's administration of the Education Department; and if Mr. Crooks is not bound by him sooner or later drag the whole Government down into a common ruin. The License Department has permitted the local wire-pullers in various parts of the Province to prostitute its operations to advance partisan ends; and the requests of the temperance people for increased stringency in the law have been disregarded. The Government is in danger and its decline is generally admitted. We have merely pointed out the causes which led to that decline, but in doing so we do not deny that the Government has been a great power of good."

Another Explosion.
It is reported another explosion occurred in the Moorfield colliery, while parties were searching for bodies.

A Large Fire.
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10.—The tannery of J.
Colley & Co., of Allegheny City, and a row of brick dwelling-houses belonging to the same firm, were burned this evening. Loss, $125,000.

The New Senate Chaplain.
OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Archdeacon Lauder, of Christ Church, in this city, has been appointed chaplain to the Senate, vice Canon Johnson, deceased.

The League in Australia.
The Irish league has received a telegram from Australia stating the convention of the Irish national league at Melbourne, was a great success. Parnell's programme was adopted unanimously.

Line of Steamers Sold.
The Beaver line of steamers was sold at auction to Robert Most, of Montreal, for $27,500.
They were owned by Isaac May, of London,
Ont., and held under lease by the United States Deputy Marshall.

Standard Time.
Mr. H. P. Dwight, General Manager of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company, has issued an order directing that on and after the 18th inst. standard time will be adopted at all the offices of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company.

France and China.
M. Ferry, in his contemptuous remarks regarding the Chinese, has managed to make war all but an absolute certainty. It is considered now only a question of days as to how soon the Chinese will declare a policy of active resistance to French encroachments. The European press generally is very severe against France.

Bark Stakes.
Prof. Cohn, of Breslau, Germany, has observed that children are obliged to hold dark colored slates much nearer the eyes to read writing thereon than is necessary with white paper, and finds that writing on white paper is as distinct at a distance of twelve inches from the eyes as that on slates at eight inches. It would therefore be well to banish slates from the schoolrooms, for the eyesight of pupils is strained quite enough by other means.

Montreal's Carnival.
At a meeting in the City Hall, Montreal, on Saturday, on the subject of the proposed winter carnival to be held in that city this year, the Mayor said that he was pleased to be able to state that the proposed winter carnival promised to be a great success, and he thought the number of visitors would be even much greater than last year. He thought it probable that his Excellency the Governor-General and Lady Landowne would be the guests of the city on that occasion.

The Wealthy People in the World.
The St. Paul's Gazette (Minnesota) declares that the Crow Indians, computed at 800 families, reckoning 3,000 heads, are the richest people in the world. They are the owners of 6,500,000 acres of good land, which at $1 an acre gives a value of $6,500,000. They have 11,500 horses, worth $20 a piece; that is $230,000.
They receive an annual allowance of $300,000 from the United States Government. Reckoning up all these items, we have a total of $7,530,000, or $3,510 a head.

A Snake With Two Feet.
Richard Decker, a resident of Walkhill Valley, while working in his oak field recently, was surprised by a black snake, which came at him with open mouth, its head elevated from the ground twelve or fourteen inches. He succeeded in killing it with his pitchfork, and in measurement found it to be 5 feet 7 inches in length, with a diameter of an inch and a half at the largest part. The extraordinary feature of the creature, however, was the presence of two well-formed legs with feet attached to the body at a point about 12 inches from the tail. The legs were of a bright pink or flesh color, without bone, and so elastic that when drawn to their full length and suddenly released they would spring back to their normal position at the reptile's side. The feet were about the size of a hazel nut, and were hook-like in appearance and a darker color than the limbs to which they were attached. Upon each one of these feet or hoofs were 33 small claws of white and horny substance. The body of the snake, with the legs attached, was seen by most of the inhabitants of the village before it was put into alcohol and forwarded to the National Museum at Washington.—Port Jervis Gazette.

British Forests.
The forests of the United States have been so mercilessly stripped of trees that a wood famine is almost inevitable in a few years. The lumbermen have been allowed to do practically as they pleased, and they have pleased to reap always and sow never. But an end is coming to that reckless method of procedure, and the lumbermen themselves are beginning to see that "something" must be done. That something can, of course, only be planting on a large scale.
Happily, there is little fear of similar dearth in Great Britain; none, at any rate, until the great landholders are reformed out of existence.
For almost the sole reason that England and Scotland are so richly wooded is the perseverance of the landed class in tree planting.
One family alone, that of the Dukes of Athol, has in a hundred years, planted scores of millions of trees. The "laided duke," who commenced operations in 1774, planted 27,000,000 trees, covering 15,000 acres, principally upon the Dunkeld hills and in their neighborhood.
The present Duke of Athol plants from 600, 000 to 1,000,000 trees every year. The terrible storm which destroyed the Tay bridge blew down 30,000 of the Duke's trees, but the loss was hardly noticeable.—St. James Gazette.

so well known as an enthusiastic follower of the bonds in England and Ireland, is reported to be ill and confined to her bed.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Marquis Tung informed a reporter that the statement that the offer of mediation on the part of the United States in the Franco-Chinese controversy had been declined by France, referred to a circumstance which occurred some time ago, and which, owing to the attitude of France, led to no result. He said that until a reply was received to China's last note negotiations would be at a standstill. If the French attack Beasinh they will meet Chinese troops, when there will be war, in which case it will be impossible to guarantee the safety of foreign trade or the property and lives of foreigners in China.

AMERICAN.

BRADSTREET'S WEEKLY REPORT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The general merchandise movement east and west, as reported in special despatches to Bradstreet's, of moderate proportions only. In such lines as dry goods, millinery, notions, groceries, and boots and shoes, the country merchants appear to be well stocked, and such orders as reach the jobbing merchants are for re-assortment, the marked exception to the above is in boots and shoes at Boston, where many buyers are congregated to make selections for the spring season. One cause of the special dullness at the west is found in bad roads and unfavourable weather. In some sections, where farmers are holding back their grain for better prices, the demand on the country storekeeper has also fallen away. From most leading distributing centres word comes that the aggregate of the business done during the autumn to date will compare favorably with the corresponding time last year, and that the existing dullness in many instances is more conspicuous than was to be expected at this season.
The industrial situation has lost no ground during the week. The Rhode Island woolen and cotton mills, while claiming to be working at the minimum of profit, are nevertheless at work. The pig iron furnaces, since the blowing out of superfluous stocks, have not been piling up stocks. The cut in prices of steel rails of $25 per ton to $35, was the result of the failure of the Bessemer rail mill proprietors to arrange for a restriction of the output on a basis that those continuing should pay those stopping $2 per ton for every ton sold, whatever the price. About 60,000 tons have been sold at the cut rate.
Some western mills only are likely to be affected,
but Ohio pig iron makers have offset this situation by selling their output on the Hudson river. Wheat has been manipulated for a rise, which from November 2nd until the 7th inst.
amounted to an average of 3 cents per bushel.
The loss since amounted to nearly one half the gain. Indian corn acted in sympathy with wheat, gaining in the aggregate between the dates named above 3½ cents per bushel, and losing about 1½ cents since. Provisions also experienced some gain. Pork advanced 50 cents per barrel, and lard gained about 25 cents, the market closing quiet and firmer. Petroleum is firm and practically unchanged. Ocean freights are dull and weak. Consumers of coal have continued to purchase supplies in small lots, as required for current wants. There were 219 failures in the United States reported to Bradstreet's during the week, 24 more than the preceding week, and 70 more than the corresponding weeks of 1882 and 1881.

BELLEVILLE.

THE THUNDERSTORM.—During the storm on Friday the lightning played around the instruments in the telegraph office in a very lively fashion, melting the brass and scorching the woodwork of the switch-board. At one time the fluid entered with a report like a pistol shot, which was heard for a block around.—Ontario.

PROPOSED PARK.

Mr. John B. Ferguson has addressed a letter to the City Council, says the Ontario, offering to sell his four lots—Nos. 22, 23, 24 and 25 on the corner of Banker Avenue and Bridge Street, to the city for the purpose of a park for $4,500. He offers to accept payment in instalments at 6 per cent, or will lease the land for a term of years.

PORT HOPE.

DAMAGE BY LIGHTNING.—The Guide says:—
On Friday afternoon, during the progress of a thunderstorm, the lightning struck the sheep-pen of Mr. William Westington, Lot 28, 8th con., Hamilton, burning up three large barns, a stable and several sheds, together with the produce of two hundred acres of land. The total loss will reach nearly $5,000, without a cent of insurance. During the same afternoon a fire lot of men were threshing on the premises of Mr. A. McMullen, Lot 8, 7th con., Hope, the lightning struck the barn, tearing off the ridge-boards and part of the siding, knocking down Mr. F. Halloran, two other men and a span of horses. They all recovered, but were stunned by the shock.

were elected J. H. Barber, Honorary President, Dr. T. G. Brereton, President, Wm. White,
Vice President, A. P. Walker, Captain, J. J.

the mountain to the south of the village the slide running to the East. This year a new course has been selected that slopes to the west, where there will be a much longer slide, and for safety, convenience, and point of excellence will be ship of the club already exceeds that of last

MARTIN LUTHER.

A Condensed Report of the Rev. Mr. Torrance's Lecture on the Reformation.

The Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., delivered a lecture in St. Paul's Church on Monday evening on "Martin Luther." There was a fair sized audience present. General Hamilton presided, and the Rev. Mr. Bennett opened the meeting with prayer. The chairman introduced the lecturer with a few remarks.

The Rev. Mr. TORRANCE said that as the history of the Church was traced from the Apostolic age, we could not fail to observe that in times of greatest difficulty the Lord had most signally intervened in her behalf. The progress of the church had not been continuous by any means—steady and continuous, like that of the mighty river, which flows on without interruption towards the sea. The church has had her periods of light and of darkness, her seasons of rapid advancement and of rapid decline. Perhaps there was no age in the history of the church where this was more apparent than the age immediately preceding the Reformation. The church had departed from Apostolic teaching, and the doctrine of justification by faith was abandoned. The outward unity of the church was declared to be of the first importance, so that the highest power was invested in one individual man. The lecturer described the clergy as being very ignorant and profligate. Dense was the darkness before the first faint streaks of dawn glimmered on the verge of the horizon. As the anxious watchers perceive the first glimmerings of the morning star before the sun comes forth from his chambers and floods the earth with light, so there were faint glimmerings through the moral darkness of the world before there was the full flood of Reformation light. There had been Valdo, Wickliffe and Huss, and there had been also doctors in the church who truly held the truths brought forward by the Reformers. Bernard, Anselm of Canterbury, and Savonarola, of Florence, like so many Baptists, prepared the way for what was to come, and were the heralds of the approaching dawn.

Martin Luther was born at Eisleben, a small town in Saxony, on the 10th of Nov., 1483. His parents, though poor, gave great attention to his training, and sought to restrain his ardent temperament by a rigorous discipline. John Luther, the father of the Reformer, combined decided literary taste with unusual force of character, while Margaret, his mother, was possessed of every feminine virtue in a high degree. Before Martin was six years old he was taken by his parents to Mansfeld, where his father hoped to improve the circumstances of the family by working in the mines. For some time the family lived in Mansfeld in great poverty, but by thrift and energy their circumstances improved, until John Luther became a Councillor in the town. During these early days the boy Martin seems to have been very severely dealt with—at one time for some trivial offence chastised by his mother until the blood flowed, and at another time punished repeatedly by his school master in a single day. When he was fourteen years of age he was sent to school at Magdeburg, and during his residence there he was often obliged to beg for his bread from door to door. At Eisleben, where he was sent from Magdeburg, he did not at first fare much better, but afterwards he was taken into the house of one of the wealthy citizens.

Anxious to give his son every possible advantage, John Luther sent him in 1501 to the University of Erfurt. There the youthful Martin devoted himself to study with as much zeal that he soon outstripped all his companions. It seemed as if the wishes of his parents were to be more than realized, and Martin Luther to become one of the most learned men of his age. A series of events, however, now occurred to change the whole course of Luther's life. He was attacked by a serious illness, brought on by excessive study, and for some time he lay at the point of death. Not long after his recovery, while on his way home, a sword struck against his foot, causing him to bleed so profusely that he fancied the end to be near. When returning to Erfurt from his home he was overtaken by a violent storm, and he fell to the ground overcome with fear. Deeply impressed with his own unworthiness to appear before the tribunal of a Holy God, he resolved to overcome the world and to enter a convent. Accordingly, after his return to Erfurt he invited his University friends to a supper, and in the midst of their joyous intercourse he announced his intention of quitting them and entering a convent. We may easily imagine the surprise with which this announcement was received. What! Martin Luther, the best student in the University, to forego his brilliant prospects and enter a convent cell! Earnestly did they seek to dissuade him from taking so mad a step. But they soon found that the resolution of Luther was unalterable, for that very night, taking with him only two of his favorite Latin poets, he entered the convent of the hermits of St. Augustine.

There were many circumstances which conduced to make Luther's life in the convent anything but pleasant. He was treated harshly by his superiors, and compelled to perform the most menial offices. He was even sent out with a bag to beg bread from door to door. At the intercession of the University, however, he was relieved of such services, so that he had time to devote himself afresh to his studies, abandoning the subtle reasonings of the school men, he concentrated his attention upon the works of Augustine and upon a Bible which he discovered in the convent. He gave himself rigorously to fasting, mortification and watching, often partaking only of a morsel of bread and a small herring during an entire day. But his sojourn in the convent, far from bringing peace to his soul, served only to increase his misery. He saw something of the requirements of the Divine Law, and he was conscious how infinitely short he came. He felt the working of the disease within, but he had not yet discovered the remedy. His mental distress continued to increase until it began to tell upon his health.

The first who really helped Luther in his difficulties was John Staupitz, the Vicar General of the Augustines for Germany. While on a round of visits to the different convents he came to Erfurt and there met with Luther. At a glance he saw that the young monk had been passing through some struggles and having learned their precise nature, he bade him look to the wounds of Christ. Not yet, however, did Luther find peace in believing. He had yet to pass through many bitter experiences before reaching a state of assured hope. Some time after the visit of Staupitz, he was again attacked by an illness, which brought him to the brink of the grave. His old fear of death revived and one day as he lay in his cell on the verge of despair, an angelic monk came in and repeated part of the Apostle's creed and pausing over the words, "I believe in the forgiveness of sins," these words filled Luther's soul with joy.

In 1508, on the advice of Staupitz, the Elector invited Luther to become a professor in the University of Wittenberg. He accepted the position, and at once began a more extended course of study. In order to enable himself to teach philosophy efficiently, he devoted himself to the study of Aristotle and the schoolmen. At this time, too, he acquired a knowledge of the Greek and Hebrew languages, and lectured to the students daily upon different parts of the Word of God. Staupitz now desired Luther to preach in the church of the Augustines, and after much solicitation prevailed on him to consent. He began to preach in a small wooden chapel at Wittenberg, and great numbers flocked to hear him. The Council of Wittenberg nominated him as their chaplain and invited him to preach in the city church. So great did his reputation become that the Elector came to hear him.

Thus far we may consider Luther to have been undergoing that training which was necessary to fit him for the work of his life. The school in which he was being trained was the school of suffering. Like so many of the Lord's most eminent servants he was being refined, but not with silver, he was being chosen in the furnace of affliction. Was it not in the school of suffering that the most eminent Bible characters passed their early life? It was so with Moses, born in the land of Egypt where his people were in bondage, hidden in the flags by the brink of the river to pass his life a fugitive in the land of Midian from Pharaoh's wrath. It was so with David, object of the hatred and jealousy of Saul, hunted from place to place upon the mountains, a price set upon his head. It was so with Elijah, supported at the brook Cherith by the food which the ravens brought, accused by the widow of being the slayer of her son, and by the king being the troubler of Israel, threatened by the relentless Jezebel and downcast in soul, praying that he might die. And to come down to New Testament times, it was so with Paul, once the persecutor, and finally executed without the gates of Rome. As the mountain storm tears the trees of dwarf growth and feeble strength, but fixes the roots of the stalwart oak more firmly in the ground, so the afflictive dispensation of God's providence may bring out hypocrites in their true light, but will surely increase the strength of the true believer. He is not discouraged if called to pass through this school, for the nobles of the sons of men have passed through it before you.

The next portion of Luther's life considered was his visit to Rome to obtain a settlement in a dispute between the Vicar-General and seven of the convents. He was astonished at the luxuries of the table in one convent at which he lodged while on his journey, but his warnings only irritated the monks. At length he drew near to Rome. A thousand memories must have been awakened in his mind by the sight of the eternal city, of the orators, of the poets, the legislators and warriors, but he must have thought with even greater interest of the position of Rome as the place where the Pope and his Cardinals resided, as the headquarters of the church of God. Luther, however, was greatly disappointed when the clergyman he met there. While climbing Pile's staircase, with the view of obtaining an indulgence, the words, "Thou shalt live by faith," sounded in his ears. It is the language of the historian, it was a creative sentence both for the reformer and the reformation.

After Luther's return to Wittenberg the Vicar-General Staupitz and the Elector Frederick determined to confer upon him the degree of D. D. At first he declined the honor, but afterwards, at their earnest solicitation, he was induced to accept it. Luther's modesty in hesitating to accept this title stands in striking contrast to the generous which some display to attain it. We have known of this title being conferred on ministers as a salute because of the dissatisfaction in their congregations or their want of success in other respects. After all it is what we are ourselves, and not the letters after our names, which makes us worthy of the respect of our fellow men.

At this time Luther left Wittenberg for a short period to take the place of the Vicar-General, who was absent in the Low Countries, but on his return set himself to work with even greater intensity than before. Writing at this time he said, "I have need of two secretaries, for I do nothing else all the day long but write letters to the preachers to the convent, I read the prayers at the table, I am pastor and parish minister, director of studies, the prior's vicar

(that is to say, prior eleven times over), inspector of the fish ponds at Litzhan, lecturer on St. Paul and commentator on the Psalms. I have rarely time to repeat the daily prayers and sing a hymn, without speaking of my struggles with flesh and blood, the devil and the world." Is this not a record of hard work, my brothers? Yet he was not surprised, for without hard work no real success can be achieved. There is no royal road to fame and power. It is by the sweat of their brow that the few rise to preeminence among their fellow men. Would you succeed, my brothers? Have you an ambition to rise to the highest places in mercantile and professional life? Then you must be willing to toil up that rugged path by which alone they can be reached. Hope not for success if you are frittering away your time in idleness, or if your heart is not in your work.

The lecturer then proceeded to consider that part of Luther's life when his work of a Reformer really commenced. It was the sale of indulgences, which was then being carried on in Germany, which caused him to lift his warning voice. The character of Tetzel, an unscrupulous vendor of these indulgences, was laid bare by recounting some of his actions. Luther's attention was first attracted to this man, by those who came to him at festive banquets, declaring they had no intention of forsaking their sins, and showing the letters of indulgence they had received from Tetzel. Luther declared these letters to be worthless, and on August 1st, 1517, he posted ninety-five theses in which he attacked the doctrine of indulgences, and arrested the doctrine of free grace. A great commotion was now raised by Luther's theses, Tetzel had them caused him to lift his warning voice. The character of Tetzel, an unscrupulous vendor of these indulgences, was laid bare by recounting some of his actions. Luther's attention was first attracted to this man, by those who came to him at festive banquets, declaring they had no intention of forsaking their sins, and showing the letters of indulgence they had received from Tetzel. Luther declared these letters to be worthless, and on August 1st, 1517, he posted ninety-five theses in which he attacked the doctrine of indulgences, and arrested the doctrine of free grace. A great commotion was now raised by Luther's theses, Tetzel had them caused him to lift his warning voice. Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1883.

Important Purchase.
We learn that Mr. W. E. Sherwood has purchased "Inglewood," the residence of the late Mr. D. G. Hutton, for the sum of $10,000, and that he proposes to reside there.

Removal.
W. J. Green has removed his Liquor Tea Store and Merchant Tailoring establishment across the street to the store formerly occupied by W. H. Anthony, and two doors south of the Calves House.

Personal.
Dr. R. Ramsay, K. C. T., of Orillia, was in town to-day, being on his way to Brockville and Almonte to institute in those towns chapters of the Scottish Rite, of which he is First Lieutenant Grand Commander.

Standard Time.
The standard great meridional time, as suggested by Mr. Sandford Fleming, is being generally adopted. Toronto among other places makes the change next week and Peterborough will have to keep time with the rest of the world. The change from local time will be about seventeen minutes.

Health Bulletin.
The official report for the week ending November 3rd shows that mumps, measles and whooping cough are prevalent in various districts, but that typhoid fever has markedly decreased. The six most prevalent diseases in their order of prevalence in the district in which Peterborough is included are as follows:—Bronchitis, 11.1; consumption, 7.6; anemia, 7.3; neuralgia, 6.6; fever, int., 6.3; mumps, 6.

Colder, With Gales and Snow.
The weather to-day has been mild, with a steady fall of snow. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, commencing from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Gales from the north-west, with milder, cloudy weather, and areas of sleet or rain, followed by north-westerly gales, and decidedly colder weather, with snow flurries.

Prof. Regalio
having made arrangements with the Peterborough orchestra to furnish music during his class for the remainder of the term, they will commence to-morrow night (Wednesday). It is requested that every member will be present, as the lesson is an important one, being the first for some of the latest dances. Next week the professor will begin to include light calisthenics in his lessons.

Harper's Christmas Number.
The Christmas (December) Harper's Magazine which is planned to be the most notable issue of a magazine ever published, is, nevertheless, intended to be but the forerunner of a remarkable series throughout 1884. The new and novel serial, "Nature's Serial Story," by E. P. Roe, with illustrations by Gibson and Dielman, and William Black's "Judith Shakespeare," with illustrations by Abbey, are only examples, in the one field of serial fiction, of the scale on which the coming volumes are planned. It is intended during the coming year to make a specialty of stirring short stories.

Officers Installed.
The following officers of Carwell Lodge, No. 411, I.O.G.T., were installed at a special meeting held on Saturday evening in their Hall on Water street, by Bro. G. J. Early, Lodge Deputy:—
Bro. Joe McCalland..... W.C.T.
Bro. V. Westcott..... W.T.
Bro. F. Moore..... W.S.
Bro. W. Ford..... W.F.S.
Bro. M. Russell..... W.T.
Bro. D. Baptie..... W.C.
Bro. D. Hendricks..... W.A.S.
Bro. D. Kernahan..... W.M.
Bro. R. Russell..... W.D.M.
Bro. M. Moore..... W.I.G.
Bro. M. Keeler..... W.B.S.
Bro. M. Spencer..... W.L.S.
Bro. J. Matheson..... R.W.C.T.
This Lodge is said to be progressing, and at the last meeting seven persons were proposed for membership.

Bivalves! Bivalves!
Oysters by the can and measure received regularly by express. We are headquarters for finest Bulk Oysters. Great demand for them at CARLTON BRIDGE.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

The Meeting in the Rooms of the Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association.

The meeting at the Young Men's Christian Association Rooms on Monday night, though not large, was one of interest. The subject under consideration was, "Opportunities, Used; Zaccarias." The leader, Mr. D. B. Gardner, dwelt on the desire of Zaccarias to take advantage of the only opportunity he had of seeing Jesus, and on Christ's willingness to let those who so seek Him. The many opportunities for seeing Jesus that men now have were spoken of, and the fact stated, that unless a man has the earnest desire, as Zaccarias had, to see Him, His presence would be of no use. And as Zaccarias got from Jesus far more than he was looking for, so is it with every seeker after Christ now.

Several others took part in the meeting, some urging the followers of Christ to make a better use of the opportunities afforded them of service for the Divine Master.

To-night's meeting will be conducted by Dr. J. A. Fife, and a large attendance of young men is expected.

At the meeting on Saturday night of this week a collection will be taken up on behalf of the International Committee, which overreaches the work in Canada and the United States.

Low Temperature.
By the Rev. V. Clementi's self registering thermometer the mercury fell last night to 14°, being the greatest cold of this season, so far.

To Housekeepers.
Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpets, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

Limit of Age for Officers.
In the Canada Gazette it is announced that, with the view of maintaining the active militia in a state of efficiency, Lieutenant-Colonels who attain the age of 60 years, Majors the age of 55, Captains the age of 50, and Lieutenants the age of 45, may be placed on the retired list. This regulation will apply also to the regimental staff officers according to their "relative rank."

New Goods for the Season.
W. Fairweather & Co. are showing at their New Hat, Cap and Fur Store, Novelties in Ladies' Fur Mantles and Jackets. Rich Brocade Sash and Ottoman, Black Silk Fur-Lined Circulars. The largest variety of Astrachan Mantles ever shown in Peterborough. Ladies' Fur Sets in Seal, Mink, Ermine, Sable, Persian Lamb and Dog Skin. Goat Robes and Buffalo Robes cheap, at Fairweather & Co's.

Military Promotions.
In the militia general orders in the last issue of the Canada Gazette the following announcements appear:—To be major of the Durham Field Battery of Artillery, from 31st May, 1883, Captain William McLean, G.G.; to be Captain of the Battery from June 1st, 1883, 1st Lieut. Edward Sanderson, vice McLean, promoted; the resignation of 1st Lieut. Thomas Benson is accepted. We congratulate Capt. Sanderson on his promotion to the command of the Battery. He is an efficient, energetic and careful officer, and one who takes a pride in having the men under his command make a good appearance both in dress, care of the guns &c., and in drill. Now that the Captain of this Battery resides in, or so close to, Peterborough, would it not be well to have his headquarters established at this town?

Penitents.
—A tramp and a prisoner were in the cells last night.
—Sleighs and wheeled vehicles were used to-day, neither running well.
—New plate glass has been put in the window of China Hall in which the glass was mysteriously broken, some months since.
—The corporation plough to shovel off the snow—let it clean the sidewalks now, or the team will have to go.
—The Grand Junction train was late again to-day, over an hour. The Midland was a few minutes behind time.

—We desire to make an apology which we owe to the fall of snow. We published two paragraphs yesterday in which it was mentioned, but it was not referred to as "the beautiful" in either of them. We therefore offer this apology.

William Stafford.
The following notice of William Stafford, who, with his company, will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on Thursday evening, is from the Binghamton, N. Y., News, of October 27th, 1883:—
"There are but few men who can faithfully portray on the stage the career as well as the finer instincts of nature; who can tread upon the thorns that are scattered along the dramatic pathway, and still smile at the sting inflicted; who can overcome formidable obstacles and reach the stygian of complete success. Among the number who have manifested the tragedian's difficulties and won the plaudits of the masses, is William Stafford, the tragedian who appeared at the Academy of Music last Saturday evening in the 'Merchant of Venice.' Coming to the city virtually unheralded, the notice being brief indeed, he was greeted by a larger house than even the management looked for. So satisfactory was the performance, so faithfully did he portray the character of Shylock, that he was called before the curtain by his appreciative audience. It is safe to predict that when he again visits Binghamton the Academy will be packed from pit to dome. The company throughout is a well selected one, and the equipments and costumes of the troupe excel anything that has visited the city for some time."

THE REGINA ASSAULT CASE.

To the Editor of the Review.
Sir,—The many friends of Mr. Brathwaite in this town, who were like myself somewhat surprised to hear of his having been fined for an assault on Mr. N. F. Davis, at Regina, will be pleased, but not surprised, knowing as they do his thoroughly gentlemanly behavior while here, to learn that there is another side to the case. A private letter from Regina informs me that the citizens of that place, who must have been acquainted with all the circumstances, were so heartily in sympathy with Mr. Brathwaite that they raised the amount of the heavy fine, $50, by subscription the same day, and presented it to him with a complimentary address.

Yours truly, P. B. C.

Peterborough, Nov. 14th 1883.

Week of Prayer.

The attendance at the meeting on Tuesday night at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms was very good. The leader was Dr.
File, who gave a practical address on the subject for the evening, viz.: "Opportunities, Unused."—Agrippa's "Acts xxv. Agrippa's words to Paul—"Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian," were the basis of an exhortation to those who, being convinced of the truth, failed to take advantage of it. The conviction of the truth of the gospel and of the need of salvation might have come in various ways. To some the Holy Spirit may have caused conviction through the preaching of the word. On others, by the death of friends an impression is made of the uncertainty of life and the need thereof of making preparation for the life hereafter. In whatever way it came, it behooved the subjects of such conviction not to neglect the matter of till a more convenient season, but to decide at once. Another opportunity was given them that night of accepting Christ, and it might possibly be the last one they would ever have. At the conclusion of Dr. File's remarks, the hymn "Almost Persuaded" was sung, and an opportunity was then given to any who might wish to take part. Six or eight did so, either by taking up phrases of the subject or engaging in prayer. No meeting will be held to-night on account of the week evening services in the churches, but on Thursday night the meetings will be resumed, the leader for that evening being Mr. J. W. Flavell. The subject will be "Opportunities Abused.—The Husband-man." Mat. xxi., 33-46.

Marvels of Cheapness.

Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade.
The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Colored Dress Silks, at 50c., 75c. and $1.00 are Marvels of Cheapness, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

ENLARGED AND EMBELLISHED.

A Decided Improvement Made in Mr. Sanderson's Jewellery Store.

For some time past, men have been engaged in enlarging and improving Mr. W. A. Sanderson's jewellery store, on George street, and now the effect of their labors can be seen. The work is not yet all completed, but it will be one of the best furnished and fitted up jewellery stores, not only in town, but in the province.

The store has been enlarged by the removal of the rear wall twenty feet back, thus adding that number of feet to the length of the store.
In this rear wall the safe has been imbedded, so that only the door of it is visible.

A double floor has been laid in the store.
The topmost floor is of alternate strips of red oak and walnut, which not only makes a solid and durable bottom, but gives a fine effect.

The wall cases on both sides of the store are supported on brackets. On the one side the brackets and shelf on which the cases stand are of walnut. There are eight large cases for silver ware on this side, constructed of walnut and handsomely finished. The glass fronts of the cases, in place of opening out in the usual way, slide up from the bottom, which is by far the best way, as they do not require so much space, and,
besides, they are so tightly fitted in that dust cannot penetrate into the interior. The interior of the cases is lined with red cloth, and the walnut woodwork is handsomely carved and engraved. The tops are especially handsome, being finished in the Queen Anne style of architecture.

On the sliding doors 600 pounds of iron is suspended in weights for the purpose of facilitating the raising of them and for holding them in position. Between the cases there are three large mirrors, 30 by 48 inches, set in handsome walnut frames. This side has indeed a beautiful appearance, and gives evidence of good workmanship, reflecting credit on Mr. A. Clegg's furniture and cabinet establishment, as it was there that the work was done. Mr. Clegg also did the work of the other improvements in this store. On the opposite side of the store shelves are constructed, stained the colour of walnut, on which musical instruments and clocks are displayed.

Four new and large glass cases for the display of jewellery have been added to the store. The old counter has been removed, and new walnut tables have taken its place, upon which the show cases stand. A new work bench is among the improvements, and it is of the same durable and expensive wood as the other additions, namely walnut, and it is enclosed by an enamelled glass screen.

Among the other improvements are two new handsome gas pendants, brightly burnished, with glass globes ornamented with hanging glass plates. The walls have been papered with fancy gold paper and the ceiling with cream and gold colored paper. The ceiling is also paneled and has two centre pieces of handsome design and colors. It is also intended to have plate glass put in the front door and in the side light, and a new floor will be laid in the workshop.

Altogether the store is now a very handsome one. No expense has been spared in the improvements, and they give evidence of superior workmanship.

St. Luke's Temperance Society.

A very successful entertainment under the auspices of the above society was held in the school room, Ashburnham, on Monday evening last. Although the evening was somewhat unpleasant, the attendance was very good indeed, and all were highly delighted with the programme, which was both varied and interesting.
The opening piece was a duet, the "Anvil Polka," by Miss Lech and Mr. J. Butcher which was well rendered and heartily received.
Then followed a song by Miss Frankie Ricker, which met with hearty applause. A duet, "I Would that my Love," by Miss Cottingham and Mr. C. Shaw, was rapturously encored. Later on in the evening several songs were sung by Miss Cottingham, whose sweet and well-trained voice literally charmed the audience. She was again and again encored. Mr. C. Shaw was also an especial favorite, his rendition of "My Home is on the Boundless Sea," and "One Sweetest Soliloquy," being almost faultless.
An instrumental trio, by Messrs. Sanderson, Best and Lech was greeted with rounds of applause, and they were twice recalled. Readings were given by the President of the Society—Mr.
Bradenhaw, and by Mr. A. Russell, which were well done. Miss Grundy gave a beautiful recitation. But the feature of the programme was some most charming music which Mr.
Joseph discoursed from—"tell it not in Gath"
—a coffee pot!! He was most enthusiastically applauded, and responded to a hearty encore by rendering with perfect time and inimitable manner, "The Mocking Bird," upon the same wonderous instrument. The next entertainment will take place on Monday evening, the 26th Nov., in the St. Luke's school house, Ashburn-ham, at 8 p.m.

New Goods for the Season.

W. Fairweather & Co. are showing at their New Hat, Cap and Fur Store, Novelties in Ladies' Fur Mantles and Jackets. Rich Brocade Satin and Ottoman, Black Silk Fur-Lined Circulars. The largest variety of Astrachan Mantles ever shown in Peterborough. Ladies Fur Sets in Seal, Mink, Ermine, Sable, Persian Lamb and Dog Skin. Goat Robes and Buffalo Robes cheap, at Fairweather & Co's.

To Housekeepers.

Fairweather & Co. are selling rapidly Carpets, Blankets, Bed Quilts, Comfortables, Window Curtains, Bed and Table Linens. What surprises every one is their cheap Black and Colored Dress Silks. Every day they sell three or four Silk Dresses, which is a proof that they are the best value in the trade.

POLICE COURT.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 14.—John Connors, James Connors and David Crowley, of Harvey, were charged by George Cochran, Fishery Inspector, with having on the 23rd of October fished for maskinonge and bass with a spear, contrary to law. They pleaded guilty.

DAVID CROWLEY was sworn and examined in reference to the ownership of the outfit. He stated that one Chase said he owned the junk and spear; they got them in the woods.

GEORGE COCHRAN was sworn and testified to discovering the parties in a boat with a light and spearing apparatus. There were also about fifty stones in the boat. One of his assistants had, he said, been stoned at this place before this.

The MAGISTRATE said that the fact that they had a spear and junk, which were concealed in the woods in a convenient place for use, showed that this was not the first time that illegal fishing had been indulged in. Whether the law was a good one or a bad one, it was, like all other laws, intended to be obeyed, and it was enacted for the benefit of the defendants as well as for all the people. He would make the fine somewhat light, as the defendants were young men and had probably not properly considered their responsibility in the matter and as this was their first offence. He fined each of them $10 and $4.39 costs or twenty days in gaol. It was not long since he had fined a man $50 for a similar offence, so they could think that they had got off cheaply.

John and James Connors paid their fines.

Terrible Accident.

SAVANNAH, Nov. 13.—This morning the West Shore construction train was thrown from the track by a broken journal, and three box cars loaded with workmen went down the embankment, thirty feet. Thirty men were hurt.
Several had legs and arms broken and skulls fractured, and one man was horribly mutilated.
He is still under the wreck. The wounded were brought here.

Snubbing a Jew Barber.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Lord Mayor in refusing to allow Stocker, the Court Chaplain of Germany, to lecture in the Mansion House, stated that he could not disregard the feelings of the Jewish community by giving prominence to Stocker, who had excited hostility against the Jews. Karl Blind, the Socialist, in a communication to the papers, says every man with a spark of humanity ought to protest against Stocker's detestable attitude against the Jews.

To Attain Long Life.

Some one wisely says that he who strives after a long and pleasant term of life must seek to attain continual equanimity, and carefully to avoid everything which too violently taxes his lungs. Nothing more quickly consumes the vigor of life than the violence of the emotions of the mind. We know that anxiety and care can destroy the healthiest body; we know that fright and fear, yes, excess of joy, becomes deadly. Those who are naturally cool and of a quiet turn of mind, upon whom nothing can make too powerful an impression, who are not wont to be excited either by great sorrow or great joy, have the best chance of living long and happy after their manner. Preserve, therefore, under all circumstances, a composure of mind which no happiness, no misfortune, can too much disturb. Love nothing too violently; hate nothing too passionately; fear nothing too strongly.

Two Terrible Fires.

SHERMANSBURG, Pa., Nov. 12.—A fire broke out at noon to-day in the United States Hotel, a large three-story frame structure, on the corner of Main and Centre streets. The flames communicated with the block on the opposite side of the street, and at three o'clock sixteen street fronts were destroyed, including hotels, halls, an opera house, and three newspaper offices. Over two hundred and fifty families are homeless, having lost everything. The loss is variously estimated at from three-fourths to one million dollars. It is impossible to give the amount of insurance, but it is supposed to be large. But few serious accidents happened. An appeal to the public was drawn up, and a relief committee formed.

Removal.

W. J. Green has removed his Liquor Tea Store and Merchant Tailoring establishment across the street to the store formerly occupied by W. H. Anthony, and two doors south of the Cassio House.

The Sting Within.

It is said there is a rattling thorn in every heart, and yet this thorn would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a covetous man, and in this land of light there is a very common complaint. A Painful Core Extirpator is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove it affected. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

AN AGRARIAN OUTRAGE.

COZE, Nov. 13.—Ten disguised men, some armed with revolvers, attacked the house of farmer Morgan at Cowlaney early this morning, and demanded his money and gun. He shot at his assailants, wounding one. Fear of the party were arrested. The attack is supposed to be due to agrarianism.

SOCIALISTS IN LONDON.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The correspondent of the Plymouth Mercury reports the police of London prevented a Socialist's pygmalion with a black flag inscribed "Starvation" from approaching Guildhall on Friday night during the Lord Mayor's banquet. The Socialists afterwards held a Midnight meeting, at which incendiary speeches were made.

GREAT STRIKE THREATENED.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—At a joint meeting of manufacturers and weavers held to-day in Manchester the latter reported that the result of the ballot taken last evening was largely in favor of a strike rather than submit to a reduction of wages. The meeting thereupon dispersed.
A great strike is probable.

ELECTRIC LIGHT IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—It is stated that the Edison Electric Light Company has purchased the right for the Faure, Salton and Falckmar electric accumulators throughout Germany.

FRANCO-TURKISH RELATIONS.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The Republique Francaise
says the relations between France and Turkey, which have been impaired for six years, have been completely restored.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

MADRID, Nov. 13.—It is reported that the French residents at Barcelona have determined to hoot the Crown Prince of Germany on his arrival. The Government will send a large force of detectives there to prevent hostile demonstrations.

TROOPS SENT TO GARRISTOWN.

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—A troop of lanciers have been sent to Garristown to enforce, if necessary, the order prohibiting the Nationalist and Orange meeting announced to be held there on Thursday.

THE CROWN PRINCE'S VISIT.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The Standard's correspondent at Berlin says a detachment from King Alfonso's Uhlan regiment will accompany the Crown Prince to Spain.

SEIZURE OF EXPLOSIVES.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Three cases of sheepskins containing explosive machines, apparently belts filled with percussion caps, have been seized at Birmingham. A later dispatch says the seizure has no significance. The cases were seized because they were not labelled "explosives."

A COTTON MILL ON FIRE.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Burton Tidyly cotton mill, near Bolton, Lancashire, is burning.
The damage will amount to many thousands.

FRENCH REINFORCEMENTS.

NOVO KORO, Nov. 13.—Three thousand French reinforcements arrived at Annam, and will be sent to Hanoi immediately. It is expected an advance will be made on Sontay in a fortnight.

SIEGE IN SERBIA.

BELGRADE, Nov. 13.—Five districts have been declared in a state of siege. All available troops have been sent to the front. The rebels no longer retreat from the troops, but encounter them in a determined manner. Some desperate fighting has occurred. The insurgents hold Alexinsatz.

THE TRIAL OF POOLE.

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—The trial of Poole for the murder of Kenny was continued to-day. The defence called no witnesses. Poole's counsel contended that the charges against the prisoner were founded upon the merest suspicion. The case was given to the jury, which, after a three hours' consultation, announced that it could not agree. The judge discharged the jury, and Poole's counsel contended that the case will be retried.

THE PRESS IN RUSSIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 13.—Simultaneously with the departure of M. DeGiers, the Secretary of Foreign Affairs, for Berlin, the editors of St.
Petersburg newspapers received orders forbidding them to discuss the probability of a war with Germany.

ARREST FOR THE EXPLOSIVES.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The police at Woolwich have arrested Augustus Smith, who has been drinking and accusing himself of being concerned in the explosions on the underground railway.

ORANGE PROCLAMATION.

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—The Orangemen of Fer-managh have issued the following notice:—
"The Government have resumed the function of keeping order by stopping rebel meetings. We herewith summon Orangemen to obey the law and remain at home."

RIVAL IRISH FACTIONS.

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—It is understood that Earl Spencer has been instructed by the Cabinet to keep the peace in Ireland between Nationalists and Orangemen by discouraging meetings and prohibiting them by both parties when trouble is expected.

CHURCH AND STATE IN AMERICA.

ROME, Nov. 13.—The American Catholic bishops held their first meeting to-day at the college of the Propaganda. All the cardinals of the Propaganda were present. The principal question discussed was that of addressing a demand to the Government of the United States that the relations between Church and State shall be based upon the canon law.

National Debts.

Canada's national debt is only about $30 per head of the population, while that of the United States is $40; Brazil, $40; Australia, $43; Turkey, $51; Belgium, $54; Italy, $72; Portugal, $88; The Netherlands, $96; Great Britain, $109;
France, $118; Spain, $125.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1893.

Safe Postponed.
The sale of Mr. Lafayette Reid's property in Berleigh, which was announced for Tuesday Nov. 20 has been postponed till Tuesday, Dec. 4th.

S. S. Anniversary.
The anniversary services in connection with the Sunday School of the George Street Methodist Church will be held on Sunday and Monday, the 9th and 10th of December.

At Boston.
The Ontario Canoe Company of Peterborough exhibited a fine canoe, which was much admired, at the Boston Foreign Exhibition. So we learn from a representative of the Montreal Gazette, who was there.

Bazaar.
The ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee:—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick.

Journalistic.
The Belleville Intelligencer has for years been one of the foremost dailies in Ontario outside of the city of Toronto. Its local and news columns are well supplied, and its editorial department is in capable hands. This week it comes out in an attractive new dress of type, which greatly improves its appearance. We are pleased to see this evidence of its prosperity, which is well merited, and which we hope will continue to increase. The City of the Bay has reason to be proud of its Conservative journal.

Legal.
The following case is reported in the Toronto papers as being heard at that city:—
"FERNANDEZ v. LARROU—Hudgins, Q. C. (Lindsey), appeared from the report of the Master at Lindsey. Mow, Q. C., for the plaintiff, objected that seven days' notice had not been given, but instead that the Master in Chambers had given leave ad hoc to serve short notice, which could not be done under the decision of Wilson, C. J., in Donovan v. Routledge. Objection allowed and appeal dismissed with costs without prejudice to a motion for leave to extend the time for appealing."

An Unprofitable Investment.
A member of our staff has received from a so-called banker in Hamburg, Germany, (whose name we will not publish, as we have no intention of giving him an advertisement), a circular offering tickets in a lottery. As it is probable that other copies have come to town, we would caution their recipients against being led into this form of gambling, for to say nothing of the immorality and injurious nature of the practice the chances must be greatly against the purchaser, who has at least to pay the enormous expenses even if the drawing is conducted fairly. We hope our authorities will refuse postal facilities to this scheme and return all correspondence to the writers.

The World Jew.
The Shakespearean drama "The Merchant of Venice" will be produced at Bradburn's Opera House to-morrow evening by William Stafford and his company. The Toronto Globe says of this actor:—
"Mr. William Stafford made his appearance last evening before an audience to whom he was wholly unknown, but succeeded in producing an impression more favourable than many other artists in the same line who have visited Toronto with representations already made. There was a large audience present, and it was appreciative to the extent of calling Mr. Stafford before the curtain. The recipients of this compliment certainly deserved it. Mr. Stafford's ability was the more clearly made evident in the trial scene. Here the passions of hate and despair required the strongest, clearest delineation, and Mr. Stafford was so completely successful that a spectator while feeling intense sympathy at one moment towards the wretched money-lender, in the next was moved to pity by his misery. Mr. Stafford was frequently applauded, and fairly won every demonstration of approval which marked his progress through his part. The support, generally, was good."

Oysters by the can and measure received regularly by express. We are headquarters for finest Bulk Oysters. Great demand for them at CARTON BROS.

Low Temperature.
The thermometer fell last night to 12°, or twenty degrees of frost, as recorded by the Rev. V. Clementi's self-registering instrument.

University of Toronto.
The Mail publishes in full to-day the report of the Committee of the Graduates Association of Peterborough, and the address of the Association to the Graduates of the University of Toronto, which were lately noticed in our columns.

Hosiery, Gloves and Underclothing.
W. Fairweather & Co. have just opened a splendid variety of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Fine Wool Hosiery, of a superior make and quality. Ladies' and Gents' Underclothing Black Goods a specialty, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

Fair and Cold.
The weather last night was very cold, and today it has been cold and windy. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong wind and gales from the west and north-west; fair, colder weather, with light local falls of snow.

Railway Notes.
Port Perry is moving for connection with the Ontario and Quebec railway. At a meeting held to discuss the matter the promise of a liberal bonus to the company was made.
The C. P. R. authorities allow any person injured in their employ board and lodging and medical attendance while absent from work, and guarantee them employment after recovery.
The new time table for the Midland Railway will come into force either on Thursday, the 22nd, or Monday the 26th of November.

The "En Avant."
A propos of the Salvation Army, we have just come across a copy of the En Avant—their French newspaper, published in Paris. This is the second year of its existence, and, although smaller than its English confrere The War Cry, is superior to that sheet in its type and woodcut. The number before us gives a very good drawing of the Neuchâtel prison in which La Marchale and "captains" Bequet and Kate Patrick "passed twelve days with Jones." A long account of the arrest of La Marchale, several hymns composed in prison by Miss Catherine Booth, and a plan of the surroundings of the Salvation Army Hall in Paris, are amongst the interesting features of the paper.

Standard Time.
On and after Sunday, the 19th of November, the eastern standard time, which is based on the 75th meridian time, and is seventeen minutes slower than Toronto time, will be adopted by all the railways now using Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Toronto and Washington times, as their standard. In consequence the clocks and watches on the Midland Railway will be put forward seventeen minutes on Sunday next, and the trains will commence running on the new standard time on Monday. Unless the town time is changed, there will be a difference next week between the town clock time and the railway time, which would be inconvenient.

Concert Recalled.
On Tuesday evening Mr. Chas. Ewing gave a private concert in Bradburn's Opera House, being assisted by a number of his pupils. There was a good number of ladies and gentlemen present, who had kindly been invited by Mr. Ewing, and that they thoroughly enjoyed the treat was evident from the applause that greeted each of the performers as they finished their different parts of the programme. Miss Annie Claxton opened the concert with a piano solo, which was splendidly and efficiently executed. Miss K. Cottingham followed with a vocal solo, "The Old Cathedral," which was given in good style and with this lady's usual taste and feeling. Mr. Chas. Shaw's "Sires and Sons" drew forth prolonged applause, and deservedly so, as it was rendered in fine style, and gave evidence of Mr. Shaw's unusual compass of voice. Miss Eliza Johnston then sang a beautiful and touching solo, "In the Cloisters," in her well known style. Miss Clara Claxton followed in a solo that at once made an impression on the audience, "O, had I Jubal's Lyre." This piece of music is very difficult to sing, and requires a voice that is well trained. Miss Claxton sang it in a finished manner, her rapid execution being good and her voice indescribably sweet. Miss Davidson's piano solo was next on the programme, and was very correctly played. She has good taste, judgment and precision, and will make a pianist of rare excellence. Mr. G. Leach's solo, "Best of All," was admirably sung. Miss Annie Choate followed with a thrilling song, "Lover and Bird," which she sang with splendid effect. Miss K. Cottingham then sang "Callie Harris" in a decidedly good manner. A fine solo, and one that was listened to with great attention, was then sung by Mr. Porteous, entitled, "Thou Art Fading Hence." We have before spoken of this gentleman's good qualities as a vocalist, and it is not necessary to repeat what has been said. Miss Clara Claxton then sang Gounod's "Serenade" in her best style, and considering the peculiar composition of the music, for it was really difficult to manipulate, did herself credit. Miss Millie Beck, a very little lady, played a nice selection on the piano, when Mr. Chas. Shaw followed with a good military song, entitled, "The Outpost." Miss Annie Choate's solo, "Some Day," was rendered in a very creditable manner. Miss Eliza Johnston then sang an Italian piece (translated), entitled "Ever Near," in a sweet and pathetic voice. Mr. Ewing presided at the piano in his usual superlative manner. It is this gentleman's intention to give one more of these pleasant entertainments, after which he will bring out the above performers, with many others, in a grand concert, the date of which has not yet been decided.

Choice Pickles.
A large assortment of favorite brands of Pickles by the bottle at various prices. Mixed Pickles by the measure very cheap and good. Also full line of Groceries at CARTON BROS.

Extremes of Temperature.
Is a never-falling cause of disease. At this season of the year neuritis, catarrhs, and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question, then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Fowler's Nerve Tonic regularly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient, and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10 cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottle only 25 cents. Both at Ormond & Walsh.

Harper's Magazine.
ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Magazine begins its sixty-eighth volume with the December Number. It is the most popular illustrated periodical in America and England, always fully abreast of the times in its treatment of subjects of current social and industrial interest, and always advancing its standard of literary, artistic, and mechanical excellence. Among its attractions for this year are: a new serial novel by WILLIAM BLACK, illustrated by ASSET, a new novel by E. P. ROSS, illustrated by GIBSON and DUNN, descriptive of the life of General H. B. BOYNTON, FRANK D. MILLER, C. H. FARHAM, and others; important historical and biographical papers; short stories by W. D. HOWE, CHARLES READE, &c.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1883.

Mr. D. CROUGHTON, M. P. for North Grey (Conservative) has successfully passed through the ordeal of an election petition, having been declared by the court to be duly elected. The petition against Mr. K. Mackenzie, M. P. for East Middlesex, is now being heard.

THE FEDERAL VIEW.

THE Independent Toronto World has the following editorial remarks under the above heading. We must observe that we think the boundary question to be the very one as to which the Liberal party is most astray, since their Ontario leaders refused to enforce our rights by legal measure, and their Quebec leaders advocate the award because it does not give us all we may successfully claim. The World says:—
"The Marquis of Lorne in his paper in the Contemporary Review takes the federal view as against the provincial, and so must all those who are genuine nationalists. The Liberal party make a mistake in committing themselves to provincial rights to the extent they have done. They are right on the boundary award, but on many other questions their views are at the bottom of disintegrationists. We must have a strong central power if we are to build up a nation, and the tendency is as the Marquis points out to an increase in those powers."

WESTWOOD.

SUCCESSFUL EXAMINATION.—It gives us pleasure to chronicle the fact that Mr. H. P. Leader, of Westwood, has passed the necessary examinations for admission as a cadet into the Canadian Royal Military College. The fact was announced in the last issue of the Canada Gazette. Congratulations are in order and we extend them.

Ploughing the snow.

On Wednesday afternoon one of the horses hired by the corporation was engaged in drawing a snow plough over the sidewalks, clearing off the snow. The plough was one belonging to Mr. Peter Hamilton. Two of these large scrapers are now being made at Mr. Hamilton's implement manufactory, which were ordered for the town and will be used for the benefit of the citizens. In the meantime Councillor Rutherford has secured from Mr. Hamilton the use of his plough, and when the two new ones are made and in use, we may expect to have more comfortable walking.

Thieves at Work.

Sneak thieves appear to be operating in the township of Smith. On Tuesday night Mr. W. Pearson, of that township, lost a couple of hams and a quantity of side pork by these midnight prowlers. The pork was in a shed at the rear of the house, and was taken out some time after 12 o'clock. This is the third time that the presence of sneak thieves has been made manifest on this line of Smith, and suspicion points to certain parties. If the practice is not dropped at once, someone may find that part of the country too warm for comfort, even with the temperature fooling around zero.

The Cotton Factories.

The correspondent of the Mail, writing from Montreal under date of November 14th, says: As already stated, the suspension of the cotton mills will not be of as long duration as was expected. The great Hudson factory at Hochelaga will commence with some of its operatives on Monday next, and the others will be taken on immediately after. The prospect for continued activity is very promising, as orders have been already received that will keep the mill going for at least four months to come. The machinery for the mill at Magog, which will turn out entirely new fabrics not manufactured here before, has arrived from Europe, and the factory will be in operation early in the new year. The outlook for the cotton industry is getting better every day.

Marvels of Cheapness.

Great excitement in the Dry Goods trade. The store of W. Fairweather & Co. is thronged from morning to night. The Cheap Dress Goods, New Mantles and Jackets are the attraction. The Black and Coloured Dress Silks, at 50c., 75c. and $1.00 are Marvels of Cheapness, at W. Fairweather & Co's.

The Bishop Elect of Huron.

Arrangements have been made for the Rev. Dean Baldwin's consecration on St. Andrew's day, the 30th. Nov., in Christ Church-cathedral, Montreal, the Rev. Canon Dumoulin, of St. James', Toronto, preaching the sermon. The officiating bishop or bishops are not yet settled, but the Metropolitan will not be there.

The Blindfold Chess Tourney.

The exhibition of blindfold chess playing by Dr. Zuckertort, which began at the Manhattan club rooms, New York, on Saturday night, did not terminate until 4 o'clock Sunday morning, by which time the doctor was very much fatigued. Had he chosen to rest content with drawn games he could have finished his task by midnight. As it was, he overworked himself, and in consequence lost six of the twelve games. He won four and had two drawn.

Hanlan's Movements.

Edward Hanlan writing to the Mail says:—I leave for San Francisco on Wednesday, where I have engagements for the 29th and 30th of this month. After this I start for Australia, and expect to be away from home about six months. I have leased my Island hotel to Mr. James Mackie of the American hotel. Under his management I feel certain the citizens of Toronto will find a summer resort second to none on the continent. While away my business matters will be looked after by my agents, Messrs. Pearson Bros.

Land Slide at Port Arthur.

A Port Arthur despatch of the 9th says:—At 2.30 p. m. to-day the inhabitants of McKay's Harbor were surprised with what they supposed to be an explosion, but which proved to be a land-slide. The C. P. R. dock offices slid into the lake, and a large boarding house at a considerable distance was demolished. The warehouses are still on the land but badly wrecked, and a great amount of supplies are lost. The inhabitants are fearful of further disaster. About three acres of land slid into the lake. No lives were lost or persons hurt.—Winnipeg Times.

A Lesson From Ohio.

The action of Mr. Mowat's returning-officers at Thessalon and Spanish River, in refusing the votes of Liberal-Conservative electors, recalls to mind the conduct of a bluff old German judge of election in Ohio, who never allowed a Republican vote to be cast in Marion township prior to 1883. Vallandigham and Brough were running for Governor, and when they were counting the tickets they came across one for Brough. The German took it up and after scanning it closely said:—"I don't dare put it in, for some mistake about this. No body vote dot dicker here," and he tore it up and threw it away, when a bystander named Cook said:—"Hold on, I voted that ticket because I don't like Vallandigham. I want that vote counted, sir." "Oh, no, no," said the judge, "you can't come dot here, Mr. Cook. Dis isn't Van Wert County, I led you know. We are leddle two schly for dot kind of foolishness, Mr. Cook." The political principle of the German judge survive in Algoma, where the Grit returning-officers disfranchised a whole township, comprising eighty electors.—London Free Press.

American Fashions.

"We are informed," says the London Standard, "that a decision has just been taken by the ladies of New York to have no more gowns from Paris, but to devise skirts, bodices, corsets, bonnets, gloves, boots, shoes, dress improvers, 'combination' garments, and other articles of female attire which it might be difficult to procure from the French capital, and to make them independently of any foreign aid," and on this information, the Standard waxes highly satirical. "It is obvious that the American gown of the future will be as striking and as original—and possibly as grotesque—as some other things of the future—poetry of the future, music of the future, art of the future."
"The new American costume, which is to leave the Parisienne in the position of an old world dowdy, is to be 'elegant and original, characteristic of the youth of the Great Continent, and typical of its leading position among the nations of the world.' Could anything be more promising? Young, elegant, and superior to every body else. No more delightful programme could be imagined; and when it is carried out we shall all emulate en masse to New York, and follow Mr. Irving, Mr. Matthew Arnold, and Mr. Oscar Wilde, without, like them, ever dreaming of returning."

Insanity in France.

One of the most striking features of modern French life is the rapid increase of insanity, the number of cases of which, and especially those induced by alcoholism, is becoming larger each year. During 1882 there were 13,424 admissions to the asylums, of which 10,194 were new cases, the total number under the treatment in the year being 58,760, of which about 27,000 were men and 31,000 women, showing that females are the most liable to the disease. This increase is influenced by treatment is shown by the fact that the average duration of treatment for men is 276 days, while for women it is 295.

New French Steamship Line.

Reports are current in Montreal that the French Government has authorized a new direct steamship line between Rouen and that port to commence running on the opening of navigation next spring. There is no definite information as to who the promoters are beyond that the company is exclusively French.

Kram's Field Lightning.

Cures Toothache and Neuralgia quick as flash, relieves any pain instantly, the quickest application known. Ask for Kram's Field Lightning.

Another Witness.

Testifies to the efficacy of Haggard's Yellow Oil, which is used for a badly injured knee joint. It is now the great household remedy for inflammation, pain, soreness, lameness, etc., and is used both internally and externally with infallible success.

A QUERRY ANSWERED.—People often ask when is the best time to take a blood purifier? We answer, the best time is now. Burdock Blood Bitters does its work of purifying, regulating, and toning the system at all times and all seasons. Purity in all things is always in order when required.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

BLACKBALLING AN IRISH M.P.
DUBLIN, Nov. 14.—Mr. Healey, member of Parliament for Monaghan, who is seeking admission to the Irish Bar, has been blackballed by the Dublin Law Students' Debating Society.

TREATY WITH THE STATES.
MADRID, Nov. 14.—The new Spanish Minister to Washington has been instructed to arrange a commercial treaty with the United States, in which due attention is to be paid to the interests of Cuba.

UNITED STATES CATTLE.
LONDON, Nov. 14.—Mr. Chaplin, member of Parliament for Lincolnshire, proposes to continue his efforts to induce the Government to restrict the importation of cattle from the United States, which is steadily increasing.

HERR STOCKER'S LECTURE.
LONDON, Nov. 14.—Dr. Stocker lectured upon German Socialism to-day at Memorial Hall. A large crowd was present, which frequently cheered, hissed and groaned at the lecturer, and interrupted him with insulting cries and epithets. Finally the disturbance became so great that Herr Stocker indignantly left the hall, and the meeting ended in confusion.

VICTORIES IN SERBIA.
BELGRADE, Nov. 14.—The royalist troops have everywhere been victorious against the insurgents. Gen. Nicolae has subjected all the places which have been declared in a state of siege.

THE FRENCH PRESS.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The Berlin correspondent of the Cologne Gazette, referring to the hostile articles of the French press in regard to the German Crown Prince's projected visit to Spain, alludes to an article in the Paris National, which, he says, is plainly intended to incite the Spanish Republicans to commit an act of revolt as an answer to Spain's reception of the German Crown Prince. The correspondent adds that money has been sent to Barcelona from France with this object.

PRINCE WILLIAM'S VISIT.
BERLIN, Nov. 14.—It is stated—with how much authority is not known—that the Crown Prince of Germany will be asked to land at Valencia instead of Barcelona, as at first intended, as the turbulent element of the latter place, composed mostly of foreigners, might boot him.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY.
BERLIN, Nov. 14.—M. de Giers says he was instructed to convey to the Emperor and Bismarck the expression of the Czar's friendly feeling towards Germany.

OUTRAGE OF AMERICANS.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 14.—The English Ambassador and the United States Consul-General have presented a note to the Porte demanding the punishment of the persons who committed an outrage on American missionaries in Armenia.

FENIAN SCARES IN LONDON.
LONDON, Nov. 14.—There was considerable excitement yesterday, caused by the publication of statements that the Customs officials had seized several packages of explosives consigned from Adelaide, that a loaded ship had been found near Lambeth, near the residence of an Irishman, and the arrest of a man named Smith at Woolwich for complicity in the underground railway explosion. Upon investigation it was shown that the explosives seized were iron bolts with detonators, and the intention of the shippers in Adelaide was merely to avoid the heavy rate for freight which is imposed on explosive materials.

O'DONNELL'S TRIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Preparations for O'Donnell's defence are well advanced. Gen. Pryor had a long and satisfactory interview with the prison authorities today. Counsel Molloy has brought from Ireland a mass of evidence, and feels confident of a verdict of not guilty or wilful murder. Witnesses from the Cape of Good Hope are expected on Saturday. The secretary of the American Legion, in the absence of Minister Lowell, has visited O'Donnell, and ascertained the fact of his American citizenship. General Pryor was not allowed to see O'Donnell until he made personal application to the Home Secretary. The trial is fixed for the 22nd inst.

FOUR ENGLISHMEN ATTACKED.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Four Englishmen of the Swan Electric Light Factory were yesterday maltreated in Paris on Monday. While playing billiards, an alarm was raised in the street, and, on rushing out, they found four men attacking an Alsatian. They interfered and saved the half-strangled man. His assailants however returning attacked and stabbed all four of the Englishmen. They now lie in a precarious state.

FRANCE AND THE MALAGASSYS.
TANANARIVE, Nov. 14.—The French have declined the proposals brought by two Malagasy officials for a compromise of the pending difficulties.

BRITISH CONSUL MISSING.
CAIRO, Nov. 14.—It is reported that a detachment of Egyptian troops have been surprised and routed near Tokar or Sineut. The British consul at Suakin, who was with the Egyptians, is missing.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—It is reported that the Marquis Teung is prepared to present an ultimatum to the French Government and demand his passport if the French attack Bac Ninh and Sonay.

ANOTHER ROYAL MEETING.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—It is reported that the Crown Prince will meet King Humbert of Italy on his return from Spain.

THE BULGARIAN CRISIS.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The political crisis in Bulgaria has been settled by mutual concessions on the part of Russia and Bulgaria.

NIHILIST ATTACK ON THE CZAR.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 14.—The editor of a Nihilist paper at St. Petersburg has published a poem attacking the Czar, and bitterly commenting on the splendour of the court life and the misery of the nation.

Our Canadian Silk Industry
is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1883.

The World mentions the fact of labourers having been enticed to go to the Lake Superior section of the Canada Pacific railway, and might have added that they were deceived by agents in the States who seem to have sent them on without authority and to have fished them thoroughly. If $3 a day for labourers, which we are told was offered, is only "a myth," we would like to know what our contemporary calls "large pay."

The London Advertiser, which seems not to have the slightest regard for truth, accuses Mr. Thos. Kelly, M.P., of advising the hotel keepers of Cardiff to keep open house during the day of the Provincial election. Mr. Kelly repels this slander, and it is to be remarked that no effort was made to obtain evidence of such advice from the numerous hotel keepers who were called as witnesses, though it would gladly have been elicited if possible. Does the Advertiser wish people to believe that it was through the advice of Mr. Kelly that Mr. Casserley, the Secretary of the Local Reform Association, defied the law by keeping his hotel bar open on polling day?

PARLIAMENTARY DEPUTY HEADS.

We notice that there has of late been some criticism of the practice of giving portfolios in the Dominion Cabinet to Senators as well as to members of the House of Commons. Reform journals, and even some that profess to be independent, are arguing that when a Senator is at the head of a department there is no one specially authorized to give an explanation of its working, or to answer questions authoritatively in regard to it in the popular House.

We may in passing remark that these critics found no objection to Reform Senators holding portfolios when their friends were in power, but we are not disposed to lay much stress upon this fact, for the important question is what is now required for the due administration of public affairs, not whether Reformers are grumbling about the following of their own precedents.

It is no doubt very desirable that full information should be given to both Houses of the Canadian Parliament in regard to the public business by members who are specially charged with the administration of the particular department in question. Especially important is it that such authoritative information should be afforded to the House of Commons, which holds the purse strings of the Dominion, and represents public opinion in all its changes. How are these objects to be attained?

So far in Canada, following the precedent of the mother country, the practice under both parties has been to choose the members of the Cabinet from both Houses, though the larger number of portfolios and those of the greatest importance, have been entrusted to members of the House of Commons. If any departmental information is required in the House where its head has not a seat, the reply has to be given by a colleague, whose knowledge of the subject, complete or incomplete, is probably only second hand. Of course in theory the whole administration is responsible for the action of any colleague, but still it is very natural and very proper that Parliament should desire the full details that can hardly be supplied except by the particular department having the supervision of the business in question.

How is this to be obtained? We cannot agree with the suggestion that a remedy is to be found in changing the practice so as to give all the important portfolios to the House of Commons. This would be to leave the Senate altogether without detailed information from the heads of departments. Would it not be a preferable course to follow still further the precedent of the Mother Country? There the practice prevails of having Parliamentary deputy heads of Departments, sitting in the other House from their chiefs, and prepared to answer any questions or to make any official announcements. If we adopted this plan several advantages would arise. Both Houses would obtain full and authoritative information. Our younger politicians of promise would have an opportunity of "winning their spurs," would have that official training which is so necessary in a system of responsible representative Government, and would have their record to facilitate the choice of the Ministry when there might be a vacant portfolio to bestow. Though these deputy heads would not be of Cabinet rank they would fill positions of considerable importance, and thus in a measure would satisfy the claims for representation that are constantly urged by the smaller provinces, by important districts, by nationalities, denominations and special interests.

We believe that the experiment would be worth a trial.

COLONIZATION COMPANIES.

The Toronto Globe, dealing with an article on the work of the colonization companies, which appeared in these columns, asks: "Would not these men have settled in the country if no one of these companies had ever existed?"

The question is ably answered by Mr. Armstrong, managing director of the York Farmers' Co. He says many of the companies have sent special agents to Great Britain, and secured excellent settlers from there. The Primitive Methodist Co., for example, despatched Rev. Mr. Ebb, who delivered a series of lectures, distributed pamphlets and wrote to the press. The Dominion Lands Co. was represented in the Old Country by Mr. Gillespie, its manager; this winter the Saskatchewan Land Co. will send an agent to the United States, England and Germany; last winter the York Farmers' Co. had an experienced agent in Scotland: Mr. Armstrong, speaking more directly of the operations of his own company, says:—"Our tract of land consists of about 175,000 acres, and during the past season we have had four resident agents, who are paid a commission by us for each entry they take, busy piloting intending settlers through these lands and guiding them to a choice of any untaken homesteads, which when made, the agent at once takes the settler's legal entry and gives him a printed interim receipt with the Government stamp thereon. Moreover, we have outside agents bringing in settlers and handing them over to these four entry agents. Thus do we not only bring settlers into the country, but by affording them facilities for inspecting and exploring the lands and becoming legally entered from home, stand and pre-emption, do we retain them as citizens of Canada."

The companies, in short, perform work which would otherwise have to be done by the Government. They do more, in fact, for the settler than the Government would or could do, for they built roads and sawmills, open stores on the co-operative principle, and advance him money. The Globe always forgets that the scheme of colonization by companies was first introduced by Mr. Mackenzie and received its cordial support.—Winnipeg Times.

MR. WATTS ON THE HASTINGS STAR.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir.—Your daily Review of the 10th as copied from the Hastings Star, gives me "information," which could not truthfully be given by any one. The Hastings Star is not correct in giving the public facts, as was the "star" in the east. As per arrangement between me and the exhibitor of the cushion, I took charge of it at the close of the exhibition, when the relatives of the exhibitor, (not knowing otherwise), went to get it and found it gone.

It was not "stolen," or "found behind a pile of turnips" as stated by the Star but in my possession. In reference to the buffalo, the Star says "it was also found and returned to Mr. Burgess." It was never stolen as that journal would have the people believe. Mr. Burgess's son being in Warsaw, and wanting to go on to Peterborough, took the buffalo from his father's rig, and used it, and returned it to his father. That the Star is not justified in using the words "casual pilfering" will appear from the following: The cheese exhibited at Warsaw three years ago, by the Westwood man, was taken from the fair grounds at the close of the exhibition by the owner, and I believe was lost after. What has Warsaw or the exhibitors to do with that? Has the Star any evidence that it was stolen by any person living in or around Warsaw? Why not hold Hastings and the Star responsible? It would be just as reasonable to do so.

Six years ago a person was charged with taking apples here, but that individual came from near the Hastings Star office than from Warsaw. The shells were taken from the exhibition six years ago, and as the Star states, were paid for. And these shells are the only articles lost, as far as I know, at any exhibition here, with the exception of a little fruit, which is hard to protect.

As the Star has not given any evidence to show that those shells were taken by any person from this vicinity, where, I ask, is the Star justified in using such strong terms towards the exhibition when held here?

What is asked of the Star is to be truthful in statements, and give home where it is due. Yours truly,
ALEX. WATTS,
President E. R. A. S.
Warsaw, Nov. 13, 1883.

Ottawa Notes.
A numerous company of political and other guests dined at Government House on Monday.

It is understood that whatever legislation may be necessary to give legal force and effect to the standard time in connection with commercial matters will be passed next session.

The lowest tenders for clothing for the militia forces have been accepted. Formerly the clothing, etc. were purchased outside of Canada. This year the Minister of Militia, believing that the Canadian manufacturers had made sufficient progress to undertake the work required by the department, decided upon trying the experiment, and the result has justified his patriotic belief. The accepted tenders were from firms in Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec and Toronto.

Hon. Mr. McLellan has received a cablegram from Sir Clive Owen, manager of the Kensington Museum, London, asking that the specimens of food supply from Canada recently exhibited at the International Fisheries Exhibition should be allowed to remain at the museum, and that further additions be sent by April next for an exhibition to be held there under the presidency of the Prince of Wales.

Loss of Voice.
Miss Wray, Freeman P. O. Ont., has been successfully treated by the surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute and Dr. M. Souville's wonderful invention, the Spirometer, used for the cure of Catarrh, Croup, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption in its first stages. Miss Wray had severe Laryngitis, Bronchitis, and COMPLETE LOSS OF VOICE for over seven months, was very much reduced in flesh and debilitated, severe cough and abundant expectoration. She now talks distinctly and is improving every day. If you cannot call personally and be examined, write for a list of questions and a copy of International Views, published monthly, to 173 Church St., Toronto, or 12 Phillips Square, Montreal.

Marauding Half-Breeds.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 13.—Col. Whistler, at Fort Buford, reports that Lieut. Bell, of the 7th Cavalry, overtook a party of marauding Canadian half-breeds, and captured the entire band and outfit, including 46 ponies, carts, tents, and other property. The party was composed of 11 men, 12 women, and 34 children. Whistler says that if they are sent across the line without transportation, it is feared the women and children will die of exposure and starvation. Gen. Terry has directed that they be sent at once to the British possessions, and be permitted to retain such property as will prevent actual suffering.

Standard of Education.

According to Ruskin, an educated man ought to know these things: First, where he is—that is to say, what sort of a world he had got into; how large it is, what kind of creature lives in it, and how? what it is made of, and what may be made of it. Secondly, where he is going—that is to say, what chances or reports there are of any other world besides this; what seems to be the nature of that other world. Thirdly, what he had best do under the circumstances—that is to say, what kind of faculties he possesses; what are the present state and wants of mankind; what is his place in society; and what are the readiest means in his power of attaining happiness and diffusing it. The man who knows these things, and who has his will so subdued in the learning of them that he is ready to do what he knows he ought, is an educated man; and the man who knows them but is uneducated, though he could talk all the tongue of Babel.

Lightning and Steamships.

Some months ago when entering the Bay the Pacific Steam Navigation Company's steamship Columbia was struck by lightning. The vessel was not injured, as the conductor on the foremost conveyed the flash into the sea, but the forward part of the vessel was so powerfully magnetized by the current that alterations have to be effected. When running on certain courses the compasses are untrustworthy, and the movement of the wheel is sufficient to deflect them. Captain Bass, who is now in command of the Columbia, believes the steering chains and the wheels they travel on have been magnetized by the electric current, and when the vessel reaches Callao they will be changed. The magnets on board were all demagnetized and reduced to the condition of ordinary iron. The circumstances in case if not entirely new, will attract the attention of seamen.—Panama Star and Herald.

EXECUTOR'S AUCTION SALE

VALUABLE

Freehold Property

There will be offered for sale by Public Auction, ON THE PREMISES, in the Town of Peterborough,

ON WEDNESDAY,

The 21st Day of November, 1883,

A portion of the ESTATE of the LATE DAVID GEORGE HENTHORN

Situate on George Street, Peterborough, and being

Lots Numbers Four and Five, East of George and North of Hunter Streets, in the said Town of Peterborough, according to Registered Plan Number Five of Sub-Divisions of Lot Number One, East of George and North of Hunter Streets.

In the said town, and which parcel is more particularly described as follows:—Commencing on the eastern limit of George street, abutting at a point distant sixty-seven feet nine inches north from the south-west angle of the said Lot Number One, thence north along George street sixty feet three inches, thence east parallel with Hunter street fifty-eight feet one inch, thence south parallel with George street sixty feet three inches, thence west to the place of beginning, with the right to the use and enjoyment, in common with all others entitled thereto, of the yard to the rear of said lands, and all right and rights of way thereto and therefrom, appurtenant thereto.

On the property are one double and two single brick shops, occupied by tenants. The double shop has plate glass front windows, and is temporarily leased to Adam Hall, at $7.00 per week, and the single shop to Charles B. Smith, at $50.00 per annum, payable quarterly in advance, and whose lease expires on the first day of January, 1884. There is a right of way leading from Water street to the rear of the shops. The property will be offered subject to the lease to Mr. Smith.

TERMS OF SALE:

One-tenth of the purchase money to be paid to the Executors on the day of sale, and the balance within one month thereafter without interest. Upon payment of the purchase money the purchaser will receive a deed of conveyance of the said lands, subject to the said lease to Mr. Smith, and will be let into possession and an appointment of rent will, on payment of the purchase money, be made to him. There will be a reserved bid.

civilized portion of the globe as a season of special prayer by and on behalf of the Young Men's Christian Association, perhaps an account of the work might be of interest to our readers.
There are now 2,500 of these associations in all parts of the world, Canada having 50 and the United States 800. Great Britain has 400, Germany the same number, Holland 335, Switzerland 225, the balance being distributed over France, Sweden, Russia, Spain, Italy, Syria, Japan, India, South Africa, Australia, &c. In Palestine there are Associations in Nazareth and Jerusalem.

The first Young Men's Christian Association was formed in London, England, in the year 1844 by George Williams, at the time a dry goods clerk in the large establishment of which he is now the head. This work has grown in such a manner that there are now 37 Associations in London and its suburbs alone. Seven years later, in 1851, the first Association on the Continent of America was formed at Montreal.
They soon began to multiply, so that at the first American International Convention held at Buffalo in 1854 there were sixteen Associations represented.

The work in the northern part of America is superintended by an International Committee, having its headquarters in New York, but having members from all parts of the continent.
This Committee employs ten Secretaries, whose whole time is given to the work of advising with and helping existing Associations and organizing new ones.

The growth of the work during the last ten years has been marvellous. There were only about ten paid Secretaries in America, and now there are three hundred and twenty. A fair idea of the growth may be gathered from the fact that the American and Canadian Associations own property to the value of three and a half million dollars.
Since the time mentioned, work has been organized among various influential classes of young men, such as college students, commercial travellers, railroad men, Germans and colored young men. There are now Associations in 170 colleges on this continent, and one result of this branch of the work is that many of the students have devoted themselves to foreign missionary labor, who had no idea on entering college of giving their lives to the service of God.

The only thing that binds this large number of Associations together is the fraternal feeling existing between them, as each organization is quite independent.
The work in Ontario and Quebec is supervised by a Committee located in Toronto, of which Sir W. H. Howland is chairman and Mr. John J. Gartshore is secretary. This Committee has a Travelling Secretary in the field in the person of Mr. Thos. S. Cole, who devotes his time at present to the strengthening of existing organizations, and bringing them up to such a standard that they may be able to support general secretaries.

The Peterborough Association has participated in, and bids fair to have a greater part, in the general progress of the movement. The rooms occupied by this Association at present are generously given by Mr. Geo. A. Cox.
They are, however, rather small, and it is to be hoped as the work advances they will have a building of their own, as this is a necessary step towards permanent success. As our town increases in size there will be a greater number of young men in it away from the privileges and restraints of home, and if the association is to be in its proper sphere, doing its proper work, it must be provided with a place where young men can meet in a social manner, surrounded by refining influences. Not only must the spiritual welfare be looked after (though that is, of course, the chief object), but care should be taken for the development of the whole man—physical, intellectual and social, as well as the higher nature.

The Association made a step forward when they secured a Secretary to take charge of the work, and they were fortunate in securing the services of the young man who now fills that position. This officer is giving his whole time to the work, and would be pleased to welcome at the rooms any young men, whether strangers or residents in town.

Besides having a reading room open all the time, and providing opportunities for social intercourse and Christian fellowship, the Association have a Bible class for young men on Tuesday evening (conducted by the Secretary), and a young men's social religious meeting on Saturday night. For the general public a gospel meeting is held on Sunday evening at half-past eight. The workers have a prayer meeting at nine o'clock on Sunday morning.

A considerable amount of mission work is conducted, services being held at Smith School House, Nassau Mill and Auburn Mills every Sunday evening. Two cottage meetings are held weekly in English town, and a meeting for railway men is conducted on Sunday afternoon at the Midland station. All this work is not without fruit, and the workers are being greatly encouraged by the manifestation saving power. Much yet requires to be done, and we urge the workers not to relax, but to redouble their efforts.

In conclusion, we give an extract from the Toronto correspondent of the Montreal Witness in a late issue, referring to the remarkable religious activity prevailing at present in the former city:—

"The Ministerial Association are arranging for the holding of a series of union evangelistic meetings, which will be conducted by the members in accordance with a regular programme. It is safe to predict that this series of meetings will be well attended and that the clergy will, as a result of holding them, find their own influence on the people greatly increased. These new forms of co-operation mark an enormous advance in the direction of liberalism on the part of the clergy of Toronto, and there can be no doubt that much of it is due to the leaders of such non-denominational societies as the Young Men's Association and the Bible Society."

CAMPBELLFORD.

DRAUGHT CLUB.—The Herald says that a Draught Club has been organized in this village with Mr. J. W. Johnston as its President.
There are twelve members who sit over the board, and their rooms are in the Queen's Hotel.

BROKEN BY A FALL.—On Friday, as the workmen in Mr. Smith's flouring mill were in the act of lowering a large water wheel to the place prepared for it, the chain which suspended it snapped under, and it fell below several feet, and was broken. The accident will cause considerable delay, besides extra expense.

A NEW SPRAY DRY.—The Company now operating the Paper Mills have just made an important and valuable addition to the machinery of their establishment by the purchase of a new steam dryer. By the help of the dryer operations may continue without cessation, winter and summer alike.

DEER HUNTING.—Mr. W. Atkinson, of Campbellford, and Mr. A. Denmark, of Seymour, took a long and laborious journey for the sport of deer hunting, last week, and returned with three deer, which they killed in a few hours.
The two hunters report deer as being unusually numerous in the Burnt Lake section, and they might have been surfeited with sport had they been able to remain longer.

KEENE.

HORSE RACE.—The race did not come off,
and a large crowd was sadly disappointed.
Some are mean enough to say that both parties are afraid.

THE BAND.—The Victoria Brass Band continues to improve and grow in favor with the public. Prof. Freeman is bound to become a bandmaster of the first quality.

WEDDINGS.—A fair Otonabee blossom and an Allandale bride decided on Wednesday last to put their troubles together for life. Report says that another couple in this village are going to do likewise. We wish them both a long and happy life, &c.

HORSE LOSE.—The Rev. Mr. Andrews, while driving from Peterborough last Friday lost his horse. "It stopped short (at Ord's Corner), never to go again."

THE STORM.—The severe wind of Sunday night last blew down fences and trees, but otherwise did not do much damage.

CONCERT.—Look out for the grand concert to be held by the V. E. B.

Fear of a Family Browed.

CHATHAM, Nov. 14.—Intelligence reached here this afternoon of the sad fate of a family named Tetrault, who were drowned in attempting to cross Mitchell's Bay during the fearful hurricane of Sunday night last. It appears that Tetrault, his wife and two children—a boy of ten and a girl, a baby in arms—had been to a bee at Big Point, and started at five o'clock on Sunday afternoon for home. When last seen they had rounded the point and were well out in the lake. Being missed, search was made, and all four bodies were found on the beach covered with ice. The boat was also washed ashore high and dry. They leave a family of five who were left at home.

Kram's Field Lightning.
Cure Toothache and Neuralgia quick as flash, relieves any pain instantly, the quickest application known. Why suffer with Tooth-aches, Neuralgia, Headaches, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Bone Throat, or Acute pain of any kind when you can go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a perfect and instantaneous cure for twenty-five cents. Ask for Kram's Field Lightning.

ANOTHER WITNESS.—A. Chard, of Sterling, testifies to the efficacy of Haggard's Yellow Oil,
which he used for a badly injured knee joint.
It is now the great household remedy for inflammation, pain, soreness, lameness, etc., and is used both internally and externally with infallible success.
A QUACK ANSWERED.—People often ask when is the best time to take a blood purifier? The answer, the best time is now. Bardock Blood Purifier does its work of purifying, regulating, and toning the system at all times and all seasons. Purity in all things is always in order when required.

TORPEDO BOATS FOR GERMANY.
BERLIN, Nov. 15.—It is reported that the German Government will ask for a grant to build fifty torpedo boats.

A MONSTER TRIAL.
VIENNA, Nov. 15.—A monster trial will begin in Hungary shortly, the prisoners being one hundred and eleven persons accused of participating in the recent anti-Jewish riots. One thousand four hundred witnesses will be called by the prosecution alone.

AN AMBASSADOR FOR THE U. S.
MADRID, Nov. 15.—The Council of Ministers has finally reached a decision with reference to the Spanish legation at Washington. The new incumbent, whose nomination has however not yet been signed by the King, is Senator Juan Valera, formerly Minister to Lisbon. He is an academical, and one of the most distinguished novelists in Spain. Several of his works have appeared translated into French in the columns of the Paris Journal des Debats. Senator Valera is a man of most agreeable presence and of a very conciliatory disposition.

SUPPOSED EXPLOSIVES.
LONDON, Nov. 15.—The supposed explosives seized by the custom house officials on Tuesday, on their arrival from Adelaide, Australia, have turned out to be burglar alarms.

THE MAYOR OF DUBLIN.
LIMERICK, Nov. 15.—The Lord Mayor of Dublin has arrived to speak in support of Mr. Mc-Mahon's candidature for Parliament. He was met on his arrival by ten thousand people.

ANGLO-FRENCH TREATY.
PARIS, Nov. 15.—Le Temps makes the statement that Sir Charles Dilke, British Under Foreign Secretary, while recently in France prepared a new programme for an Anglo-French commercial treaty.

PAPAL NUNCIO FOR THE STATES.
ROME, Nov. 15.—It is reported the American bishops have suggested that a Papal Nuncio be appointed to the United States.

FRENCH REINFORCEMENTS.
PARIS, Nov. 15.—The French squadron in Chinese waters will be reinforced, as the Viceroy of Canton is assisting the Black Flags. It is reported that several towns in Madagascar will be bombarded by the French.

FANCE AND GERMANY.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—The North German Gazette, referring to the declining trade of France, up-braids the anti-German press of that country for keeping the people in fear of an impending war with Germany, which has the effect of paralyzing every branch of business.

GERMAN MEDIATION.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Bismarck is endeavoring to bring about a reconciliation between France and China, fearing, in the event of war, a serious reverse to the French arms would lead to the downfall of the Republic.

CARDINAL Hohenlohe.

ROME, Nov. 15.—Cardinal Hohenlohe, who was summoned by the Pope to Rome for the purpose, as understood, of offering him the alternative of yielding or being expelled from the College of Cardinals, has refused to comply with the summons.

THE BISHOPS IN ROME.

ROME, Nov. 15.—Cardinal Simonini, Prefect of the Propaganda, will give a banquet on Sunday in honour of the American bishops at Rome. Cardinal Jacobini, Pontifical Secretary of State, will give them another banquet on Tuesday.

THE ST. ANDREW'S RECTORYSHIP.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Conservative students of St. Andrew's University have nominated Mr. Edward Gibson, member of Parliament, for the rectoryship, against Mr. Lowell, the United States Minister.

THE GARRISTON MEETINGS.

DUBLIN, Nov. 15.—At Garristown to-day 1,000 Nationalists assembled. The Magistrate, at the head of the police force, read the Government's proclamation forbidding the meeting. Mr.
O'Brien, M. P., and editor of United Ireland, advised the people to respect the law. The crowd thereupon dispersed.

STOCKER AGAIN ROOTED.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Dr. Stocker was announced to speak at Memorial Hall to-night on "Christian Socialism." Although the admission was by ticket, large numbers of socialists took possession of the hall and created great disorder. They hooted Stocker, unfurled red flags, rung the Marseillaise, and the platform was carried with cheers for the "Next Revolution." Stocker finally was obliged to retire. The meeting afterwards dispersed.

The Marquis of Lansdowne and the Farmers.

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—In reply to the address which was presented to Lord Lansdowne this forenoon, by the County Council of Carleton, his Excellency referred at some length to the pleasures which it afforded him to accept of such a hearty country welcome, the more especially so seeing it came from the farmers. He said,
"Perhaps I am prejudiced in my favour, for I have been some years a farmer myself—not always a very successful one, I am afraid, but that is to be explained by the fact that I have not attended as closely to my business as I might, and have allowed myself to neglect it for political and other distracting pursuits.
When a man leaves some one else to manage his land and travels about the country he will generally find that the seasons are against him at home." He concluded by referring to the successful system of local self-government established in Canada, and by thanking the deputation for their kind remarks to Lady Lansdowne.

Lumber Yards on Fire.

OSHEO, Nov. 15.—The lumber yards of Stanhiller, Ames & Co., and A. D. Peck caught fire this evening, and a fire broke out in the Morgan block nearby. The flames got beyond control, and the Mayor telegraphed to Ford du Lac for aid. It burned over a large territory and consumed a large amount of lumber. G.
W. Pratt's yard was consumed. Their loss is $75,000. The other losses are unknown.

Joy in Every Street.

This may be truly said of Peter's Hermitage, the greatest pain remedy of the age. It brings comfort to the weary sufferer when failure has attended the use of every known remedy. Hermitage is an absolute cure for all kinds of pain, internal, external, or local. Purchase a 10 cent sample bottle and try this great remedy Hermitage, nerve pain cure. Don't forget the name of Ottawa & Walsh.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1883.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We have for the last few days been sending out subscription and other accounts. There is a very large sum on our books in these small amounts, which, though of trifling importance, taken singly, make altogether a very considerable aggregate. We would therefore invite those who are in our debt for these small sums, which they can pay individually without inconvenience, to remit the amount to us promptly, and thus collectively give us the benefit of a very satisfactory account at our bankers'.

It may be seen how large the total of these comparatively insignificant amounts must be, from the fact that we have sent out about 1,500 of these amounts during the last fortnight.

Another reason why we desire a prompt settlement, is that in pursuance of the arrangement by which our business is to be conducted after the end of this year by the Peterborough Review Printing and Publishing Company (Limited), it is necessary that the books of our firm should be closed as soon as possible.

We feel confident that under these circumstances our request will meet with ready and speedy compliance.

TOKER & CO.

THE PROVINCIAL TREASURER REPORTS HIS CONSTITUENTS.

The newly appointed Provincial Treasurer—Mr. A. M. Ross—in presenting himself for reelection had of course to make a speech to his constituents, and in doing so not unnaturally referred to the financial affairs just placed under his immediate direction and control, and with which he is presumed to be at least reasonably familiar. In the course of his observations Mr. Ross made some statements which we propose to show are contrary to fact, and unjustified by our actual circumstances.

The first to which we shall refer is that "the Province of Ontario under Reform management has no debt and is to-day possessed of a surplus of nearly $5,000,000." A statement which we dispute, Ontario has to-day a debt, and has not a surplus of nearly $5,000,000!

Let us to the proof. First as to our having no debt. To begin with, Ontario has a nice little debt of her own. Besides certain undefined liabilities which we are not in a position to state with precision, she has for a number of years been issuing certificates entitling the holder to certain half-yearly payments extending over 20 years from the date of issue. It is now about twelve years since the first of these certificates were issued, so that the whole amount now outstanding has at least from eight to twenty years still to run. A statement appended to the Provincial Treasurer's financial statement for 1882 gives the "total payments due annually on certificates" at $198,969.14, while the public accounts for 1883 show a total payment under the heading of "Railway Subsidy Fund" of $264,446—a sum which represents five per cent per annum on $5,068,900 or more than the whole of Mr. Ross's claimed surplus. But of course as the certificates run only for a fixed period, they do not represent the capital sum we have named. What they do actually represent on any fair principle of calculation at the present moment is out of our power to estimate, inasmuch as we are not possessed of the data necessary for such a calculation. However, it is obvious that our liability in this respect is very considerable, and no one will dare to argue in the face of intelligent men that the issue of these certificates was not a very practical but insidious mode of borrowing money for Provincial purposes.

Again the Province has a direct and substantial liability to the common school fund, as admitted by Mr. Wood on the 11th of January last, of $681,107 and of which Quebec's share is no less than $396,537.

Yet again this Province has directly received half yearly over since confederation, the benefit of five per cent interest on the $124,685 distributed or to be distributed to the municipalities under the Land Improvement Fund Act of 1867, and which, up to the 1st January 1883, aggregated the sum of $90,306, or, if compounded at five per cent interest, as it ought to be in all fairness to the municipalities, it would aggregate the sum of $130,471, as still due the municipalities intrusted, out of Mr. Ross's surplus. And yet with these facts staring him in the face, our new Provincial Treasurer has the audacity to tell the people of this Province, that it "has no debt!"

Next as to this surplus, what does Mr. Ross mean by surplus? Is it a surplus of receipts over expenditures since 1867, or since 1871, or is it a surplus of assets over liabilities, or what? We are not particular in what way he takes it, because no matter what the way or what the meaning, Mr. Ross cannot unfortunately make good his statement. From the 1st July, 1867, down to the 31st December 1882, the gross Revenue of the Province has only exceeded the gross expenditure by $1,511,518.16! So that it is utterly impossible that we can have a surplus of "nearly $5,000,000" of revenue over expenditure since confederation.

Again it cannot be a surplus of revenue over expenditure since 1871, because the gross expenditure for the eleven years ending with 1882 exceeded the gross revenue by $2,309,415.1

As for his "nearly $5,000,000" being the surplus of our assets over liabilities, the thing is so absurd that it is unworthy of serious consideration.

The fact of the matter is that Ontario is financially in an unenviable position. Under the Mowat regime we have been burning the candle at both ends. We have been realizing our assets as fast as we could, our timber wealth has been drawn upon to an extent which never can be replaced; the Municipal Loan Fund debt has been realized and dissipated; we have been collecting trust funds to the tune of a million dollars and have spent it, instead of applying it to its proper purpose, like the unfaithful stewards that our rulers are. We have been receiving the benefit of interest on moneys belonging to local municipalities and it has disappeared; we have since 1873 had nearly $200,000 per annum of extra subsidy from the Dominion, and it too has gone. Although the Mowat Government has got rid of about $10,000,000, or nearly a million a year more than their predecessors did.

THE LONDON "TIMES" ON CANADA.

We take the following from the daily London Times' article on the Marquis of Lorne:—

"He leaves Canada as he found it, a contented, loyal, law-abiding country, well satisfied at its connection with the British crown; the least costly, the least troublesome, and the greatest of our colonial possessions. Five years are a short time in the history of a nation. For Canada the last five years have gone quietly by. No great events have been crowded into them; no great disaster has cast a shadow over them; the uniform tenour of life has been kept unbroken to the last. Change there has been, and very marked change, but only in one direction. Canada is a young country and a growing country, but it is quite recently that its rate of progress has been at all equal to its opportunities, and that the ample gifts of nature in its more distant provinces have even begun to be turned into account. The stir of life in the United States, the growth in numbers and in wealth, the spread of population from point to point over an ever-increasing area of territory have for a long time past been a lesson of American citizens, not least on account of the contrast offered by Canada. The day is over now at which Canada can be held up to the scorn of its enterprising neighbours. The immobility of Canadian life, the slow, steady development within the old lines, and the seeming incapacity to extend beyond them are at an end. Canada has begun to move, and to move rapidly. The Canadian Northwest is already known to the settlers. Dakota and Minnesota have found a rival in Manitoba. Canadian railway enterprise is fast pushing its way to the Pacific coast. New towns are springing up along the route. New acres are being brought under the plough, and are showing results which may challenge comparison with those of the most fertile prairies of the South. The movement had begun before Lord Lorne's time; it has been going on most markedly during the five years just ended, and it is, even so, only at its commencement. The possibilities of the future must be set down as incalculable. The signs are that the spread of population will go on until the whole remaining waste of unoccupied land has been settled, and until civilized life stretches in an unbroken line from the Atlantic to the Pacific shores."

Mr. Allison's Confession.

Mr. Allison, the Reform candidate in Lennox, let the cat out of the bag when he addressed the convention which nominated him. He said "he had had men come to him since the last election and say that they had expended money on his account and wanted to be recompensed, but he had not heeded them." The evidence in the election trial revealed the fact that one agent spent money for Mr. Allison's property; but Mr. Allison's statement goes to prove that the corruption was not committed by one man on his behalf, nor by a few, but by many. Sir John Macdonald had a bad gang of bribers to fight against.—West.

Submarine Cables.

The conference of representatives of the maritime powers, deputed to prepare the draft of a convention for the protection of submarine cables has terminated its labours. The chief difficulty has arisen with reference to the article to provide for operations of war. A protocol was signed recommending to the Governments the draft convention as revised to meet objections and wishes on legal and technical details. It was signed by the various representatives including Sir Charles Tupper, who represented Canada.

London's Models.

A little pamphlet, issued by a religious body, has attracted great attention by its graphic description of life in London among the poorest classes. That it had been considered in official circles is evident from the announcement now made that Sir Charles Dilke is personally engaged in the inspection of the London slums. It was signed by the various representatives of the poor classes, and their needs in the way of remedial legislation.

The Sting Within.

It is said there is a racking thorn in every heart, and yet that some would exchange their own for that of another. He had it in his mind, the sting of the heart of a corn in real enough, and in this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a most useful remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, and pleasant. Try the genuine and use no other.

Capture of a Sturgeon.

A sturgeon, weighing between 50lb and 60lb, was caught at Portmouth recently by a waterman. Seeing it in shallow water he jumped out of his punt and catching hold of the fish by the tail succeeded in landing it.

The Next Dominion Exhibition.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Globe states that Mr. C. J. Brydges intends having an interview with the Government in regard to the holding of the next Dominion Exhibition at Winnipeg, and will also urge the desirability of securing a site upon which to erect permanent buildings. The Canadian Pacific Railway, he asserts, have intimated their intention of carrying passengers to and from Winnipeg on the occasion at single fare.

Mrs. Patti's Golden Note.

Some people have ventured the remark that because Madame Patti has not been engaged to sing in Montreal our local managers are lacking in enterprise. The great Diva can be secured, as the following telegram received by Mr. Thomas shows:—"Patti for one concert in Montreal if $10,000 is guaranteed." The prima donna would sing say three times, full perhaps eighteen or twenty minutes, which would mean about $500 a minute, a sum the public of Montreal are not likely to pay.—Montreal Gazette.

Loss of Voice.

Miss Wray, Freeman P. O., Dn., has been successfully treated by the surgeon of the International Throat and Lung Institute, Dr. M. Souvielle's wonderful invention, the Spirometer, used for the cure of Catarrhal Deafness, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption in its first stages. Miss Wray had severe Laryngitis, Bronchitis, and cough, and loss of voice for over seven months, was much reduced in flesh and debilitated, after cough and abundant expectoration. She can now talk distinctly and is improving every day. If you cannot call personally and be advised, write for a list of questions and a copy of International Vices, published monthly, to 73 Church St., Toronto, or 12 Phillips Square, Montreal.

Pimples and Blisters.

Call at John McKee's Drug Store, and get a package of McGregor & Park's Carbolic Cerate. It is composed of Vaseline, Carbolic Acid and Cerate, and has never failed to remove Pimples, Blisters, Ulcerated Sores, Rough Skin. It cures when all others fail. Try it.

A WRONG OPINION.—Many a dollar is paid for prescriptions for some disease that never troubled the patient, and when the safe difficulty was worn, which a few of Freeman's Worm Powders would remove. These Powders are pleasant, safe and sure, contain their own cathartic, and are adapted for children or adults.

A WONDERFUL RESULT.—A single bottle of Dr. Lewis' Fleas and Worms Syrup has frequently destroyed from 100 to 200 worms. It is pleasant to take—no other cathartic being required. Tape worms have also been removed by it, of 15 to 35 feet in length. It is effective for all varieties of worms afflicting both children and adults.

The Navy Blue, seal brown, olive green and other rich dark colors of the Triangle Dyes are as bright as the bright shades. They never disappoint the user. 10 cents.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

The Annual Meeting—Satisfactory Reports—Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough St. Andrew's Society was held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 14th, in the room adjoining the Council Chamber, Mr. T. Telford, President, occupying the chair.

This Society has not been as strong numerically during the past year or two as it was previously, or rather some of its members have not taken as active part in its proceedings and interest in the Society that they once did. The Society, however, is in a flourishing condition financially, as, although a considerable amount has been expended in charity during the past year, the Treasurer's report showed a balance in hand of $166.88, and a number of the old members and others are rallying round it, so that the St. Andrew's Society will no doubt reach its former standard, or even gain greater strength and prominence.

After the reception of the officers' reports, the following officers were elected for the present year:—

PRESIDENT—Duncan McLeod.
1st VICE-PRESIDENT—John Erskine.
2nd VICE-PRESIDENT—D. Gallaty.
3rd VICE-PRESIDENT—George Munro.

TREASURER—John Stewart.

SECRETARY—Chas. Cameron.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Thos. Telford, Wm. Cumming, John Logan, Peter Hamilton, Geo. Noble, W. Fairweather, Andrew McNeil and Melville Millar.

A vote of thanks was passed to the retiring President, Secretary, Treasurer and other officers for their services during the past year.

The matter of arranging for the annual sermon and the celebration of St. Andrew's Day was left in the hands of a committee.

Low Temperature.

The Rev. W. Clement's self registering thermometer marked four degrees above zero last night. The long continuance of low temperatures thus early in the season is remarkable.

Removal.

W. J. Green has removed his Liquor Tea Store and Merchant Tailoring establishment across the street to the store formerly occupied by W. H. Anthony, and two doors south of the Calver House.

Bazaar.

The ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick.

Personal.

Mr. W. Osborne arrived from the North West, on Friday.
Mr. T. Cavanagh received a telegram from Mr. S. A. Potter, of Port Arthur, informing him that James Lewis, from this vicinity, was dead. Mr. Cavanagh forwarded the word to Norwood.

Bishop Jamot is to assist in the services to be held in St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, on the occasion of the twenty-fourth anniversary of the consecration of His Grace Archbishop Lynch, on Tuesday next.

We have not a very high opinion of Mr. Mowat as a politician, but we must protest against the indecorous language applied to him by the Toronto Globe, which speaks of him in its leading article of Nov. 15th, entitled "Our Opinion" as "that incarnate Bull Pup" who "wont bodge an inch."

Still the Express Parcel trouble off at Turnbull's door. A full range of these Beautiful Black Dress Velveteens just received.

POLICE COURT.

FIVE DRUNKS.

SATURDAY, Nov. 17.—The Chief and the two police constables, marched into court this morning with five drunks, making quite a little procession. John Neil, whom Chief Johnston charged with drunkenness, "guessed he had been very sober or he wouldn't be there." Alex. Townsley, whom P. C. Adams had arrested, supposed he had been drunk, but said it was the first time he had been in that state in Peterborough; Martin Mitchell, who had been arrested by P. C. Pidgeon, promptly answered, "Guilty, sir;" Robert Burns, who had been liberated on Friday morning from gaol and arrested the same evening, while under the influence of P. C. Adams, couldn't say anything, and Murdoch Mackenzie, who had also been incarcerated in the cells by officer Adams, thought it most likely that he was guilty. Two of the prisoners were grey-headed men, one was a middle aged man and the other two were young men. They were each fined $3 or ten days in gaol, except Robert Burns, who was fined $3 or twenty days. All the fines were paid, except that of Burns, and he was again committed.

A Benevolent Journalist.

Property in Washington valued at one hundred thousand dollars is reported to have been devoted by its owner, a well-known female journalist, for the purpose of founding a school of girls.

Closure of Iron Works.

Many of the Cleveland iron works will make either a total or partial stoppage on the first of next month, ostensibly for repairs, but really in accordance with the order of the two companies at Milwaukee closed their works yesterday.

Wrecked by a Broken Rail.

PETERSVILLE, Ala., Nov. 16.—Last night an accommodation train on the Alabama and Great Southern railroad struck a broken rail near here. Three cars were thrown down an embankment, and several persons seriously injured.

The Presidency of the Rifle Association.

The Minister of Militia, the Speaker of the House of Commons, and Major-General Lawrie are spoken of in connection with the presidency of the Dominion Rifle Association, vacant by the resignation of Col. Gzowski.

The Columbia Presidency.

Panama advices state that the question of the Presidential succession of the Republic of Columbia will probably lead to bloodshed, the opponent of Dr. Nunez, the President-elect, declaring that he was not fairly elected. Both sides are making overtures to the army to secure its support.

Feel or Knave—Which?

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 14.—Edward Ellis, under arrest for wrecking a train on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad last week, has made a full confession. He was ejected from the train for non-payment of fare, and misplaced the switch to get even with the conductor. He did not mean to hurt any one, only to bother them to get back on the main line.

Canadian Pacific Connections.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 15.—It is rumored that the Boston, Maine, and Canadian Pacific railroads have entered into negotiations with a view to making eastern connections of the Canadian Pacific via the South-Eastern, Lake Shore, and Boston and Maine railroads, and providing satisfactory arrangements are made with the Boston and Maine railroad to make Boston the terminus of the above named combination, they will proceed to immediately construct the famous Lake Shore road from Alton Bay to connect with the Boston, Concord, and Montreal railroad.

Public Breakfast to Dean Baldwin.

As an example of the Christian unity and brotherly toleration that exists in Montreal among the Protestant clergy of all denominations, a movement is now inaugurated, with Rev. Mr. Potts, of St. James' street Methodist Church, Rev. Dr. Black, of Erskine Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Dr. Stevenson, of Emmanuel Congregational Church, three of the foremost ministers of the city, at the head, to get up a public breakfast on Monday, 26th inst., to the Very Rev. Dean Baldwin, the generally beloved rector of Christ Church, as a farewell demonstration on the eve of his departure. It is thought there will be no ball large enough to hold the crowd of citizens who will attend the painful parting with a citizen who is so generally esteemed.—Mail.

SPRINGVILLE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHURCH SERVICE.—Centerville L. O. L. No. 41, attended Church at Springville on Sunday Nov. 11th, on which occasion the Rev. F. Johnston preached an historical and instructive sermon, intended to be commemorative of the gunpowder plot. We learn that the lodge have since given the reverend gentleman a vote of thanks.

REMOVED.—Mr. Chas. Cromie, who has resided for some years in this village has removed to Millbrook. He goes to occupy a position in Needler's flour mill. Mr. Cromie proved himself a quiet and industrious citizen, and will be missed here.

SYMPATHY EXTENDED.—Much sympathy is felt for the relatives of Mr. Wm. Thompson, who is supposed to be missing in the North West, they being residents of this village.

THE STORM.—A great deal of fall ploughing and other work has been arrested by the snow storm. It was expected at first that it would soon pass over and good weather would come, but the genial influence of soft weather seems to be withheld for a season.

THE CROWN PRINCE'S VISIT.

MADRID, Nov. 16.—The Prime Minister has received telegrams from various public bodies in Barcelona expressing regret that the route of the Crown Prince of Germany has been changed, and assuring him that Raynona would have given the Prince an enthusiastic reception.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR M. FERRY.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—A young man about 18 years of age asked to see M. Ferry at the Senate Chambers, and forced his way into the reception-room, holding in his hand a revolver, which he kept pointed, as if ready to fire. An official seized him, and after a struggle overpowered him. While being held he shouted "Vive La Republique Sociale!" "Vive La Commune!" The revolver was fully loaded, and thirty cartridges were found on the youth, who gave the name of Currie. He said he was a baker by trade, and that the murder of the French Ministers had been agreed upon at a meeting of a secret society at Lille. A physician has examined Currie, and pronounced him a lunatic.

REPORTED DEFEAT IN TONGKIN.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—It is reported on the Bourse that Admiral Courbet has been defeated in Tongkin. The French press has been similar news. The Liberte contradicts the report, but it is generally believed, however. The French have commenced their advance. A man has been arrested on the Bourse for spreading alarmist news. Admiral Peyron, Minister of Marine, purposes to defend him by blockading Canton, but this would involve the sending of a formal notification of the blockade to the maritime powers, and therefore a declaration of war against China, a measure from which the Chamber shrinks.

RUSSIAN OFFICERS IN BULGARIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 16.—An agreement regulating the position of Russian officers in Bulgaria has been signed by Prince Alexander. The Prince is to appoint the Minister of War, with the consent of the Czar, and all Russian officers in the Bulgarian army will owe obedience to the Prince.

O'DONNELL'S TRIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—It is believed the prosecution in the O'Donnell trial intends to treat the case as an ordinary one of murder, as nothing of a political nature will be introduced unless rendered necessary by the defence.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—It is asserted that Admiral Courbet has advised the Government to declare war against China, and that the Government has ordered the admiral to act in accordance with the requirements of the situation. Another report is to the effect that there is no basis for this rumor.

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—It is said in London that the Duke of Edinburgh intends to turn his attention to agriculture and to introduce into England some novelties in that line from Russia.

ELECTION OF A PARNELLITE.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The election to-day in Limerick for a successor to Mr. O'Shaughnessy (Liberal), who resigned his seat in the Commons resulted as follows:—Edward MacMahon (Parnellite and Nationalist), 922; James Spraight (Conservative), 473.

AMERICAN BISHOPS IN ROME.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1883.

MR. MOWAT'S OFFICIAL ELECTIONS.

We have no intention of discussing the disclosures of bribery, treating and other corrupt influences in favour of Mr. R. McKenna, the Reform member elect for East Middlesex as divulged in the pending election trial. There is however one view of the case upon which we may comment without the slightest impropriety.

In this case as in so many others we have proof of active interference in the election by the officials of the Mowat Administration. It is from no hostile witness, but from the mouths of the Reform candidate and the Secretary of the Reform Association of the Riding that we learn how actively Mr. Niles, the License Inspector and Mr. Jarvis the Clerk of the Division Court and License Commissioner, were engaged in the contest. It is the Reform candidate who tells us that a meeting early in the campaign was held in the office of the Reform License Inspector, one of the License Commissioners being also of the party. It is the Secretary of the Reform Association who tells us that the Reform Clerk of the Division Court got up a subscription for an election fund. And from other evidence we learn that these two official worthies were in the very thick of the fray.

This is only a fresh instance of a most reprehensible practice that is evidently reduced to a system by the despising administration of Mr. Mowat. Even if these officials were guiltless, which cannot be admitted of any actual corrupt act, what can be more utterly indefensible, more grossly indecent than such action by men in their position. Here we have, once more, license officials, who by the admission of the department have as a body neglected their duties, finding time to attend to that more important duty in the eyes of their masters, working for their political benefit. With the enormous power that these officials have over the very livelihood of a whole trade, who can doubt that such power is abused and that without a chance of redress, for the very complaint of undue influence would ingratiate them with their chiefs, who appointed them for that very purpose. Their duty to enforce the laws in favour of temperance may be neglected, but if they render the expected political service they need fear no rebuke from the Mowat administration.

Then again, conceive the indecency of a Clerk of the Division Court going round with a subscription list for an election fund, and otherwise taking a leading part. Without impropriety he might record his vote like his brother electors, but to use his official position to enforce contributions of cash, and to coerce votes is most unbecomingly to say the least.

What can the people of Ontario think of an administration that is forced to descend to such practices in order to falsify in their favour the verdict of the electorate? Well they know that without such influences their condemnation would be pronounced.

THE POPULAR LEADER.

Very suggestive is the confession of Mr. Allison, the Reform candidate in Lennox, that since the election he had had men come to him and say that they had expended money on his account and wanted to be recompensed. This fully bears out the testimony even of the witnesses for the petitioner, who proved that bribery by Reformers was rampant. That Mr. Allison has refused to recognize these claims may clear him, but cannot remove the imputation upon the Reformers of Lennox.

Under these circumstances, though we cannot hold blameless, any misguided conservative, who was tempted to meet his opponents with their own weapons, still all must admit how strong must have been the temptation to "fight the devil with fire," however lamentable it may be that weak human nature should yield.

But there is another aspect of the question. Those whom envy of Sir John Macdonald's exalted position and firm place in the hearts of the people of Canada, induce ever to pursue him with bitter animosity, are pointing to Lennox as a proof that he could not be elected by the unbiassed voice of the people. As a matter of fact this is not the case. Any breach of the laws committed by an over-zealous friend, did not really bias the result in favour of Sir John Macdonald, but as is now abundantly proved only served to counteract partially the corrupt influences used to falsify the expression of public opinion in regard to the great Liberal Conservative Leader. If the free votes of the electors had been allowed to prevail without interference, it would have been still more markedly in favour of Sir John Macdonald, in Lennox as in Carlton.

PORT HOPE.

A MAN ADRIPT ALL NIGHT.—"About five o'clock on Wednesday evening" says the Guide, "while the tug Nithdale, at Newcastle harbor was out in the lake with a mud scow in tow (the wind blowing a stiff breeze), the line parted and the scow with a man named Barney McGovern on board, drifted out, and the lake being so rough that the tug was unable to go after it. A telegram was sent to Capt. Baltes, of the tug Albert Wright, here, who immediately went in search of the drifting scow, who after being out until near midnight, returned without it. On Tuesday morning, Mr. W. Clemes, a sailor with a glass, discovered the scow out in the lake. The tug Albert Wright went out and captured it and towed it into Cobourg harbor about noon the same day. Barney, apparently was none the worse for his trip.

A GLIMPSE BEHIND THE SCENES.—While Wm. Stafford was playing "The Merchant of Venice" on Wednesday, a part of the scenery fell twice much to the annoyance of the audience and the discomfiture of the actors.

The Coming Forestry Exhibition.

The regulations of the Forestry Exhibition to be held at Edinburgh next year state that the exhibition is intended to include everything connected with, or illustrative of, the forest products of the world, and that it will be open to exhibitors from all countries; that the entries will close on the 1st of March, 1884, and that exhibitors will be charged 1s. per square foot of floor space. Arrangements will be made by the committee for the reception of exhibits at a date to be fixed, but all flammable and explosive substances and dangerous materials will be absolutely forbidden to be sent. Medals, money prizes, and diplomas for exhibits and essays will be awarded by competent jurors. Contributors to the loan department are requested to communicate with the secretary Mr. G. Caldwell, 3, George IV. Bridge, Edinburgh, who will supply special forms to be filled up. The committee, it is further stated, will endeavor to obtain from the various British railway companies special terms for the conveyance of exhibits to and from the exhibition, and such arrangements as will be duly intimated to exhibitors.

A Scathing Criticism.

The last number of the London Engineer contains a scathing criticism of the work of the United States Naval Advisory Board, in the design of the cruiser Chicago. It says:—"An English engineer and naval architect will find at every turn something defective. It is not easy to see for what she is intended. Against ironclads she would be helpless, and it is difficult to understand what purpose the inch and a half steel deck is to serve. It is too thick for a deck and too thin for defence. There is no manner of protection provided for the men, save trumpety shields on the guns. There is good reason for doubting if the Chicago can ever be a fast vessel. Her engines are revivals of devices long since obsolete and all the vices of American marine engineering manifest themselves. No English engineer in his senses would dream of putting in a compound beam engine to drive two screws. Defective as the engines are, they are admirable when compared to the boilers. To go to sea with such boilers is simply to court destruction."

Horrible Treatment.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 15.—Peterson Olsen's house, at Petersburg Grove, seven miles from the city, last night was visited by four disguised men, who seized Olsen, threw him on the floor, and demanded to know where his money was concealed. He replied that he had none. After thoroughly searching the house to no purpose the robbers got willow switches and whipped his bare feet and legs until covered with blood. Still refusing they built a large fire in the back yard and carried Olsen out, and proceeded to execute their threat to roast him alive. They placed his feet in the fire and literally roasted them. Even this terrible treatment would not open his mouth. The old man was then compelled to walk back to the house, where a scuffle ensued, during which the stove was overturned, disclosing the money-box containing $600, which the robbers took and decamped.

Nobody wants old goods at any price. Go to Turnbull's, where you can get Fresh Clouds, Squares, Cloves, Hosiery, Silk and Chamois Ties, etc.

Two Brave Canadians.

BUFFALO, Nov. 15.—Captain Edward Stretch, who bravely stuck to the steam barge Ackley, and went down with his vessel off Holland, on Lake Michigan, was a Canadian, having been born and raised in Port Colborne. Capt. John Kingston, first mate of the Ackley, who also went down with her, was Capt. Stretch's boyhood friend. He was accompanied by his son Willie, a lad aged 17, whose fate is unknown. Both men stuck to the vessel to the last refusing to leave her with the twelve who were saved. Side by side they helped the latter into the Ackley's yawl and then side by side they went down into the depths. Both men have families. Capt. Stretch at Port Haven, Mich., and Capt. Kingston at Port Colborne.

The Mississippi Dams.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 15.—The Leak Lake and Pillager Indians threaten to destroy the Mississippi river dams unless they are paid $500,000 a year. In 1881 a government commission awarded them $15,000. They refused to accept it. The dams cost $30,000 and could be destroyed by the Indians in a few hours. They claim the dams will overflow the marshes and their means of obtaining a living will be destroyed.

Females Enfranchised.

PORTLAND, Or., Nov. 15.—A bill striking out the word "male" from all election laws, has passed the Council of Washington Territory. It passed the lower house several weeks ago. Governor Cox has expressed his intention of signing the bill. An enthusiastic ratification meeting was held by woman suffragists last night.

The Cascade Coal Mine.

An expert in mining matters recently visited this mine, and calculates the seam to be worth 100 tons a day for eighty years. Practically the mine is exhausted.—Calgary Herald.

Pimples and Blotches.

Call at John McKee's Drug Store, and get a package of McGregor & Park's Carbolic Cerat. It is composed of Yaseline, Carbolic Acid and Cerat, and has never failed to remove Pimples, Blotches, Ulcerated Sores, Rough Skin. It cures when all others fail. Try it.

The use of Pills, Salts, Castor Oil &c. and other nauseous, griping Cathartics is unnecessary as a pleasant substitute is found in Dr. Carson's Bitters, which act as a Cathartic without griping or causing nausea. All Druggists sell it 50 cents a Bottle.

The Navy Blue, seal brown, olive green and other dark colors of the Triangle Dye are as perfect as the bright shades. They never disappoint the user. 10 cents.

Loss of a Michellian Steamer.

Another steamer of the Michellian Company, the Abyssinian, has sunk in twenty-four feet of water at Sorel. Her loss will be much greater than the steamer Athenian, which also went to the bottom near the same place, but had no machinery in her hull, and was a worthless old vessel. Workmen are engaged in taking out the Abyssinian's machinery.

The Removal of Lincoln's Remains.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 15.—Gentlemen claiming to be familiar with the details of the removal of Lincoln's body, says considerable difficulty attended the transfer, as the embalming process had not proved a complete success, and the remains had to be handled with the greatest care. When the thieves attempted to steal the body they left the coffin partly drawn out of the marble sarcophagus.

Loss of Voice.

Miss Wray, Freeman P. O., Ont., has been successfully treated by the surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute and Dr. M. Scoville's wonderful invention, the Epilometer, used for the cure of Catarrh, Otitis, Deafness, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption in its first stages. Miss Wray had severe Laryngitis, Bronchitis, and complete loss of voice for over seven months, was very much reduced in flesh and debilitated, severe cough and abundant expectoration. She can now talk distinctly and is improving every day. If you cannot call personally and be examined, write for a list of questions and a copy of Interpretation of Vices, published monthly, to 173 Church St., Toronto, or 12 Phillips Square, Montreal.

NOVEMBER.

The Month for OVERCOATS and forerunner of colder days to come reminds everyone that heavier clothing is now wanted. This want

we have anticipated, and have now on hand an exceedingly fine line to select from. Go tell your friends, then come yourself, and see that this is the place you have been looking for. Our general line comprises Overcoats, (heavy as well as medium), Men's Fall and Winter

Suits in endless variety, Children's and Youths' Clothing in all the Newest Shades and Styles, and at prices that will suit all. Our Goods are all as represented.

Of course low prices have much to do with the success of any business

where the competition is great, and especially is this the case with the Clothing Trade. But there is another feature, equally necessary to complete success, and that is the POSITIVE MERIT of the goods sold. It is upon these two absolutely essential requirements that we have established the most extensive business in Peterborough.

Old Friends.

As a proof of this, witness the throng of OLD FRIENDS who daily

visit us, bringing acquaintances to introduce, and all convinced

that we sell BETTER CLOTHING AND AT FAR LOWER PRICES THAN

ALL SAINTS.

A Sermon Preached in St. John's Church, Peterborough, on All Saints' Day, 1883,
by the Rev. John Carry, D.D.

"For though they be punished in the sight of men,
yet is their hope full of immortality."—Wisdom III, 4.

These words, from the beautiful lesson for this morning, may be aptly termed an abridgement of the history of the Saints down to the last judgment. It consists of two chapters, the first describing the outward life, the second the inward. (1) In the outward life they are a suffering race—"they are punished in the sight of men." The second morning lesson is a most clear commentary upon my text, and the whole first lesson. Very terrible, but very glorious, is the apostolic summary of the life of the Saints "in the sight of men." "They had trial of cruel mockings, and scourgings; yea, moreover, of bonds and imprisonment; they were stoned, sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the sword; they wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented, they wandered in deserts and in mountains, and in dens and caves of the earth."
So much for the Saints before Christ, while of those who call upon that name St. Paul says in general, "Through much tribulation we must enter into the Kingdom of God." St. Peter tells those who "do well and suffer for it" that "even heretofore they called;" in this only echoing the words of the Master, whose last and highest and all-comprehending benediction is, "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness sake; blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake."

And of the white robes thrown before the throne of the angel in the Apocalypse says comprehensively, "These are they which came out of great tribulation." All these voices of earth and heaven but speak in harmony with our lesson: "As gold in the furnace hath he tried them, and received them as a burnt offering."
verse 6.

The young, the inexperienced, the innocent, are lost in amazement at this. It is because they have not yet learned the depravity of the unregenerate heart, and the lengths of wickedness to which it can proceed. But the Wisdom of God says to us, "Because ye are not of the world therefore the world hateth you;" and the wisdom of the loving St. John cries, "Marvel not, my brethren, if the world hate you." Yes, it is no marvel! The contrary of the mind of Christ to the wisdom and spirit of the world is so great that not more odious, indifference, or even antipathy is the result, but positive
"hatred." The world will be excellently contained, my dear brethren, that we should wear Christ's livery, provided we walk in its own counsel; that we should be called Christians, provided we are worldlings. Under these conditions the world will smile on us and flatter us.
But let us once try in earnest to be Christian;
let us aspire to any special holiness; let us go beyond the measure of self-sacrifice around us, and we may simply expect the scorn and hate of the smiling and deceitful world. In a word, any degree of earnest piety the world will not put up with, because it is an intolerable rebuke to its own easy, self-indulgent life of duty.

But, my dear brethren, let us not be ashamed of the example of the King of the Saints, or the hard ways of his scorned and glorious followers.
Jesus is indeed a King, but now He is the head of a Suffering Kingdom. St. John, who occupies no inferior place in this kingdom, being even at the King's right hand, thus describes his relation to the whole brotherhood: "I, John, who am also your brother and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ." O Christians, what can we do but agree with St. Paul and say, "It is our glory?"

Such, then, is the outward life of the saints—
"in the sight of men."

(2) But the saints have an inward life, and the second chapter of our epitome describes it—
"a hope full of immortality." What a glorious life is that! a life of hope! Hope is indeed one of the most beautiful and precious productions of Divine thought. What would men be without it? Even in its lower form, looking not beyond the horizon of time, with what a graceful charm does it invest our mortal life. Truly it is a most inheritance. And it was no mean reply of the munificent Emperor, who being sick in the midst of his lavish bounty what he referred for himself, answered—"Hope."

But a hope full of immortality! Think of that, ye children of the dust! Upon that may ye turn all your wonder, and never adequately marvel at its glory and its greatness. What is indeed more wonderful than a life of hope in the midst of all the sufferings that have marked the way of the Saints: than hope on the cross, hope in the flames, hope amid the triumphant scorn of the persecutor, hope when the shadow of death seems to the unbeliever settling down in the blackness of despair. But a hope "full of immortality" is the very climax of wonder. The hope of the Saints is not the expectation of some short respite here, some temporary relief.
Nay, he "accepts not deliverance, that he may obtain a better resurrection." Oh what a picture, what a fullness of bliss is in that one word "immortality"! Ever blooming youth;

an eternal farewell to decrepitude and pain and sickness; the ardours of an untiring devotion; the perpetual flood-tides of joy from the Beatific Presence; and, to say all in word, "an eternal weight of glory"! And the hope of the Saints is not faint but full—"full of immortality."
Immortality leaves no vacancy in it for any measure of worldly desire. The highest longing of a Christian's hope is simply occupied with immortality, and will one day be still more amply satisfied: "When I wake up in the likeness, I shall be satisfied with it." We shall be like Him—this is the Christian's hope.
This is the main part of "the hope which is laid up for us in heaven." Hope, my brethren, is the constant companion of the human spirit, though manifesting itself in various ways, according to our varying conditions of life. "Now abide faith, hope, charity; these three"—and eternally. Hope indeed, no less than charity, advice it is sure and certain. It becomes joyful anticipation, though the end is not yet fully attained. For St. Paul, triumphing in highest and most assured hope, says, "I am now ready to be offered and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will give me at that day"—but not before.

In the evening Lesson from the book of Wisdom we have what may be fairly regarded as the source of the Apostle's splendid exhortation, as it is a remarkable parallel to it. "The righteous live for evermore; their reward also is with the Lord, and the care is with the Most High. Therefore shall they receive a glorious kingdom, and a beautiful crown from the Lord's hand; for with His right hand shall He cover them, and with His arm shall He protect them."
—(Wisdom, v., 15-16.)

Because the reward in full is not until that day—that great day of final judgment, and because all the intermediate time is one of waiting, and all the intermediate state is one of imperfection, therefore the Church in her burial office prays "That we, with all those that are departed in the true faith of Thy Holy Name, may have our perfect consummation and bliss, both in body and soul, in Thy eternal and everlasting glory"—where only is absolute perfection. So in the petition, "Thy kingdom come," we include, and cannot help including, the faithful departed, as by far the largest, and most important, and the most honorable part of that kingdom. So, too, always prayed the ancient Church in her innumerable liturgies, in varying phrase, but to the same effect, as for example in the liturgy of St. Basil: "Bring these and collect them in the place of greening, by the water of comfort, in the paradise of pleasure, where grief and misery and sighing are banished in the brightness of Thy saints."

We may from hence infer what injury is done to the Saints departed by the Romish doctrine of purgatory, which certainly is not a place, according to Romish fancies, "where grief and misery and sighing are banished," but where they prevail in highest measure. And hence the wholly unauthorized character of all Romish prayers for the dead, founded as they are upon this uncomfortable and audacious fiction of purgatory. Yes, and a second injury is done to Saints both living and departed by the same mischievous fiction, namely that doubt and suspicion are thrown on any prayers at all for the faithful departed, in the hands of such uneducated persons as cannot distinguish between the primitive piety of the Catholic Church and the comparatively late superstition of the Romish Church.

The Festival which the Church celebrates to-day is the inevitable outcome of the Christian faith in the Communion of Saints. The common participation of the great Brotherhood in the inheritance of immortality is any blank silence, any dark forgetfulness of the Saints departed. Do we see generous soldiers, animated by only natural feelings of honour, forget their fellows in the fight, who have fallen nobly in the very arms of victory?
Do we see the peaceful brotherhood of scientists and scholars speak without enthusiasm of the pioneers of science, whose genius opened, whose patience explored the ways which led to the secrets of nature, or the recovery of the long lost knowledge of man's early life? Do we see people soon forgetting and ceasing to celebrate the patriot worthies who have procured freedom for their country or shed the enduring lustre of beneficence on posterity? And how much more shall Christians celebrate the memory of the Saints, those illustrious citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven, who have glorified God, who have made the name of Christian honorable, and who have taught all subsequent ages by their great and magnanimous example how the "conqueror, and to triumph against the world, the flesh, and the devil." Yes, "the memory of the just is blessed, and the righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance."

Permit me, my brethren, to draw your attention to the inestimable value of this festival in other points of view.

First, it is a support and comfort to Christians. Do we not feel that all of us, what a prop it is to the sacred sentiment, so hard to be formulated in words, yet so very real and so strong, which binds us so tenderly to the dead, as those who, we feel, are really living, yea, a truer life than ours?

We are conscious that they are in some way with us, "a great cloud of witnesses encounpassing us," that they are interested in us, that they lovingly pray for us, that in answer to our Eucharistic intercessions they obtain such benefits of Christ's passion as best their waiting state, and that we have a common interest in the final sentence and the rising again, and that neither they without us, nor we without them, shall be made perfect in glory.

In the second place, this Festival is a witness against materialistic unbelief. Here, amid the jargon of the world's wise men about "pro-toplasm," and their theories of the origin of bodily life, we are admonished that the body is not all,
that man's existence is not bounded by the earth,
that spirit is mightier than matter, lies beyond it in thought, and by irresistible impulse of nature and God's spirit, enters into another sphere of being, associates itself with a spiritual world, feels one with it, and lives in commerce and communion with its honored denizens, in the interchange of holiest acts and affections.

The history of the Saints is a puzzle to the world. No sharpened of human wit can explain it away or explain it at all. It is simply "terrible" or "amazing," according to the earthly standpoint, but it stands the irrefragable proof to Christian and worldling, that the servants of Christ triumph mightily over the mighty of the world, overlay all its barriers, and rise at last to that world of reality where material shadows obscure no more, but all is penetrated with the life and immortality of the Spirit of God.

John R. Vert, Hamilton, says: "McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia and Indigestion is cheap at fifty times the price asked for it. I am a commercial man, and travel continually, and would no more think of leaving home without a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure in my valise than I would of leaving my team at home and going on foot." Free trial bottles at John McGee's Drug Store. Regular Size fifty cents.

THEY ALL TELL the same story. Mr. W.
Thompson, Jeweller, Delhi, suffered for years
from Dyspepsia, got no relief until he used Dr.
Carson's Stomach Bitters. He says it was just the medicine I needed. It has cured me.

THANKSGIVING FOR VICTORY.

We love thee, Lord, we praise thy name,
Who, by thy great almighty arm,
Hast kept us from the spoil and shame
Of those that would our causeless harm.
Thou art our life, our triumph-song,
The joy and comfort of our heart:
To Thee all praises do belong,
And though the God of Armies art.

This song we therefore sing to Thee,
And pray that Thou for evermore
Wouldst art our Protector deem to be,
As at this time and heretofore:
Thy continual favour show
May cause us more to Thee incline,
And make it through the world be known,
That such as are our foes are Thine.

Failing!

That is what a great many people are doing. They don't just know what is the matter, but they have a combination of aches and pains, and each month they grow worse.

The only sure remedy yet found is SULPHUR and IRON BITTERS, and this by rapid and thorough assimilation with the blood purifies and enriches it, and rich, strong blood flowing to every part of the system repairs the wasted tissues, drives out disease and gives health and strength.

This is why SULPHUR and IRON BITTERS will cure kidney and liver diseases, consumption, rheumatism,
neuralgia, dyspepsia, biliousness, intermittent fevers
&c.

Dear Sirs,—For over twenty years I have suffered greatly from Nasal Catarrh; sometimes being unable to smell or taste properly.
The disease caused a severe pain over the eye,
and frequently stopped my writing on account of dizziness. The phlegm in my throat gave me much annoyance, especially in company, balls of which would occasionally fall down into my throat, and I could seldom breathe through my nose. I have taken quarts of various medicines without any apparent benefit, until I was induced, by your agent of 66
Muter street, to try your Fountain of Health
after using five bottles I am prepared to give as my honest opinion that for the cure of Catarrh it is a grand success. I have recommended it to many of my friends, one of whom

Wishing you deserved success,
I am gratefully yours,

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1883.

An Old Resident Gone.

The death of Mr. Templeton Brown, which will be lamented by many of our readers, has removed from among us one of the oldest settlers in the county, where he arrived more than half a century ago.

Fair Weather.

The weather to-day is milder and fine. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong winds and moderate gales from south and north-west; fair, milder weather, with areas of light snow in northern portion.

Entertainment.

The Girl's Friendly Society of St. John's Church is to have an entertainment in the school house on Nov. 22nd. It will consist of vocal and instrumental music by members of St. John's Church choir and others, readings, recitations, &c. From the programme we feel convinced that an entertainment of unusual merit may be expected, and there should be a full attendance.

Mr. Stafford as Othello.

The tragedy of Othello was beyond the powers of Mr. Stafford and his company. Undoubtedly they should confine themselves to comedies and comediettes. The characterisation which suited Shylock told to disadvantage in Mr. Stafford's rendering of the valiant Moor, and the force which was excellent in the Merchant of Venice not seldom descended to veritable rant. Mr. Scott's Jago, however, was fair, as was also Mr. Tingay's Cassio. Miss Foster lacked Desdemona's tenderness. Perhaps the best impersonation was that of the Duke by Mr. Mahoney, probably because his chief part was a dignified silence.

Winter Prices.

Under the august presence of Jack Frost our oyster trade has become very brisk. We are having a lively run on our superior large bulk Oysters, which we are now selling at 35c per quart. Our customers tell us that they are the best for the money in town. Canned Oysters at all prices according to quality. Try our Selects, 40c per can. When once used they will recommend themselves. The public can rely at all times on getting nice fresh Oysters, as we import direct from the packers in Baltimore, therefore we are always sure of getting fresh stock. Don't forget the place, north store, opposite the express office; south store, opposite the market square, George street.

CARTON BROS.

The Southern Block.
We would call the attention of the public to the advertisement of the sale of the three shops owned by the estate of the late D. G. Henthorn on George street. This is the most central and valuable property that has for some time been placed in the market, and is at present probably the only property that can be purchased on this street for some distance from what is pretty certain to continue the centre of the business part of the town. We should think the purchase could not fail to prove a desirable investment at a good price, as it is almost certain that an advance beyond the present value placed on it will soon be reached. Our town shows evidence of prosperity, and we expect it to be a good sized city before many years.

Railway Notes.

The Midland Free Press says that the trains on the Midland were delayed several hours on Monday by a washout near Waukegan.
The Kingston News says that one of the largest railway cuttings yet made in the whole Dominion has just been completed at Wexford, Ont., on the line of the Ontario and Quebec Railway. It has just been worked down to grade, and is at that place that the most formidable difficulties in the nature of earth works were met with on the new line. At this point Messrs. Booth, Congrove & Co. commenced last May with cutting 4,700 feet long and a grade about 25 feet deep to be formed; the embankment continuing the grade westward is about a mile long, and for a considerable distance 30 feet high.

THE GILDERSLEEVE CUP

PRESENTED TO H. LEBRUN BY THE PETERBOROUGH LACROSSE CLUB.

An Address Accompanied the Gift.—An Oyster Supper at the St. James' Hotel.—A Very Pleasant Evening.

At a recent meeting of the Lacrosse Club it was decided by a vote to present Mr. H. LeBrun with the Gildersleeve Cup, which is now the property of the club, on account of the great interest he has taken in the game and the assistance he has rendered in bringing the first twelve up to the high standard at which they are at present. This was certainly a good idea, as it is a great measure owing to Mr. LeBrun's efforts, even although he did not take part in actual play, that the Peterborough Club won and held this trophy.

The cup has been seen, no doubt by a large number of our readers and need not be described. It bears the following inscription:—

"The Gildersleeve Cup. Won by the Kingston Lacrosse Club in 1875 and held until Aug. 1880, in five matches with the athletes of Kingston, the Otta and Altona, of Belleville, and the Niagara Club. Won by the P. L. C. and held for three years, thus becoming their property. Presented to H. LeBrun, by the team Nov. 16th, 1882."

On Friday evening all the members of the Club now in town who had played in matches for the cup, with some of their friends, assembled at the St. James' Hotel, where they sat down to an oyster supper. Mine host of this hotel furnished a good spread. Mr. W. A. Sanderson, Captain of the Club, occupied the chair, and Mr. John Hackett, Vice-President, the vice-chair. On the left of the chairman was Mr. LeBrun, the President, and on his right Mr. E. H. Fortye, 2nd Vice-President.

After justice had been done to the bivalves and edibles, the chairman proposed the toast, "The Queen," and the vice-chairman followed with "Lord Landsdowne, our Governor-General," both of which were highly honored.

The CHAIRMAN then read the following address, being frequently interrupted by applause while doing so:—

To Mr. H. LeBrun, President of the P. L. C.:

Dear Sir,—During the three years you have filled in so satisfactory and successful a manner the position of President of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club, we, the members, have seen with pleasure the daily repeated evidences of your interest, not only in the noble sport itself and the success of the club as a whole, but also in the success and progress of each individual member.

We now wish, dear sir, to express, as far as words can, the fullest recognition of the important part you have played in making this club the first in the Midland District. Your exertions have been untiring, your active example has developed in the club an enthusiasm and love for the sport that chiefly accounts for our successful career. You have always stood by us; you have spared neither personal effort nor your purse to promote the success of our endeavors, and we regard with pride the Gildersleeve Cup as a permanent evidence of our success at the game.

Remembering, then, that to your active exertions, your constant courtesy, your enthusiastic example and open-handed liberality our tenure of this trophy of victory is largely due, we beg your personal acceptance of this cup as the most agreeable token of our gratitude can suggest of our thanks for all your kindness, and of our recognition of your valued services as President of the club.

May you live long to retain the respect of your fellow citizens you now enjoy, in the health which an active life and a clear conscience gives. As for ourselves, you have always had and shall always have our respect and esteem, and your name in lacrosse circles will ever be "familiar in our mouths as household words," and in "our sewing cups" freshly remembered.

Signed on behalf of the club,
W. A. Sanderson, M. McDonnell,
J. Hackett, G. H. Groux,
R. H. Fortye, M. H. Halpin,
Jas. J. Sheehy, Harry Phelan,
M. Tierney, Jos. Groux,
Wm. Rudkins, C. Rutherford,
W. J. Morrow.

The CHAIRMAN then presented Mr. LeBrun with the cup, and gave the toast "Our Guest, Mr. LeBrun," which was received with enthusiasm.

Mr. LeBrun, in responding, said that he was surprised to hold the Gildersleeve Cup in his hand to-night. Three years ago he had received it from the hands of the Mayor of Kingston, and although he believed then that the boys of Peterborough were able to hold it for a time he scarcely thought that they would hold it for the three years. He thanked them for the gift, and said that it would be well preserved. He thought it too much for him to receive the cup, as he had not played for it (saw of "no, no,") but he had always felt an interest in the game. He was pleased to say that they had all nationalities in the Peterborough club, English, Irish, Scotch and French, and that they always worked together harmoniously. He had intended to retire from the club, as they were now the champions of Central Ontario, but after this night he would stay with them until they were the champions of the Province of Ontario. The challenge they had received this year in regard to this championship came too late in the season for them, but they would play for it next season. Kingston had tried pluckily to again get possession of the cup, but had failed, and other clubs had evidently thought there was no use of trying. He returned thanks to the first twelve and all who had played for the cup. Some were now absent, but they might be all seen the next year. He hoped they would all see the Peterborough Club the champions of Ontario. Mr. LeBrun was frequently cheered, and at the close of his remarks was loudly applauded.

Toasts and speeches followed, and the enjoyment was uninterrupted for hours. The toast of "The Captain" was honored, and responded to by Mr. W. A. Sanderson, "The First Twelve" was enthusiastically received, and was responded to by Messrs. W. Rudkins, M. Halpin, and M. McDonnell, and Messrs. C. Rutherford and G. Groux sang songs. "The Learned Profession" was responded to by Mr. Jas. Henry; songs by Mr. J. J. Sheehy and Mr. W. J. Morrow; "The Mercantile Interest," Messrs. R. W. Muncester, Jas. Griffin, Jas. Dolan, M. Groux and John Hackett; "The Mechanics," Messrs. T. Hickey and F. Ferris; song by Mr. LeBrun; "The Ladies," Messrs.

G. W. Rubidge and M. Tierney; Mr. A. Elliott, a song, "The Press," responded to by the Review representative; Mr. M. Tierney, a song; "Our Host," Mr. E. Brown responded, and Mr. Muncester sang a song. The "Good-bye" and the National Anthem were sung, and the company separated after spending a most enjoyable evening together.

Men for the Shamrock.

On Friday fifty six men, hired by Mr. T. Cavanagh in this vicinity and at Ottawa, departed from here for Mr. John Dollar's shanties on the French River. They were at the Stewart House for dinner, and 102 persons took dinner at that hotel on that day.

Midland Railway of Canada.

The traffic of the above railway for the week ending Nov. 10th, 1883, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $7034.30; freight, $19910.65; Total, $26944.95 as compared with $24692.70 for the corresponding week of 1882, being an increase of $2252.25; and the aggregate traffic to date is $971417.29, being an increase of $3361873 over 1882.

Week of Prayer.

The Rev. Mr. Torrance leads the meeting to-night in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, the subject being, "One more opportunity."—Luke xlii, 6, 8. As this is to be the last of this series of special services there should be a large attendance of young men. A collection will be taken up on behalf of the International Committee. The work of this Committee is very important and it needs for its sustenance $35,000 annually.

By Express to-day, a Large Lot of these scarce Goods, Ladies' Black Jersey Gloves, at a reasonable price, at Turnbull's.

Not Probable.

The Port Hope Times says:—"On Friday a weary tramp was sent down for three months. His name is R. Norris, and it is just possible he belongs to Peterborough."

As it was recently stated that all the prisoners in the Cobourg goal, were from Port Hope, the Times is now trying to palm off the vagrants of that town as belonging to other places. It won't do. It "is just possible" that the man mentioned belongs here, but it is more probable that he does not.

Our Canadian Silk Industry is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap dress must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of those different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

U Kan's Korr.—Climate cough cakes. Quick, sure cure; of all dealers, 15cts.

ITS OWN GUARANTEE.

SPEAKING of the guarantee of the Dominion Government of interest on the Canadian Pacific Railway stock, and of the deposit by the company to enable the Government to meet the payment, the Monetary Times says:—

"The company is, in reality, its own guarantor. It is in the position of a man who pays a sum of money into court to meet a future claim. The Government is the intermediary; and the money being deposited with it, will give assurance that it will be there when wanted. The company could not have kept so large a sum idle, at its credit in the bank; and if it could, the effect would not have been to inspire the public with the same degree of confidence."

BOBCAYGEON.

MILL CLOSING.—The Independent says the Little Bobcaygeon Mill was closed down on Nov. 10th, and, as usual, has made a very successful run. Mr. M. M. Boyd, and Mr. W. Boyd being present when the mill ceased work, a happy exchange of good feeling took place between the firm and the employees. The foreman, Mr. Wm. Gidley, called for three cheers for Mr. Boyd, who in response complimented the men upon the season's work, and also took the opportunity of thanking them for the handsome presents they recently made to himself and Mrs. Boyd. The health of Mr. Wm. Boyd was warmly given, to which that gentleman appropriately replied. Mr. M. Boyd, in speaking for the foreman, spoke in the highest terms of the management of the mill, and the careful attention to their work that had been given by the men. He regretted very much that they could not have their annual party, on account of reasons that they knew, but hoped that next year they would all be there to enjoy a double measure of party. Mr. Gidley, in response, thanked the men for their kindness and diligent work during the past season, and stated that the majority of them had not lost a day, which was gratifying to him, and no doubt a double measure of party. Mr. Gidley, in response, thanked the men for their kindness and diligent work during the past season, and stated that the majority of them had not lost a day, which was gratifying to him, and no doubt a double measure of party.

Narrow Escape from a Burning Steamer.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18.—The steamer S. H. Parrott was burned this morning at Belle's Bayou, above Natchez. No lives lost. The Parrott left Vicksburg yesterday for New Orleans with 2,100 bales of cotton, 1,300 sacks of oil cake, and 800 barrels of oil. The loss is over $200,000. The flames spread so rapidly that the destruction of the boat appeared inevitable. Alarms were sounded, and the pilot headed the steamer for shore. As the boat struck the bank lines were cut. Nearly all the passengers, of whom there were a large number, were still asleep, but the work of arousing them occupied but a few minutes. Had not this time been well utilized the casualty would have been as great as when the steamer Levi was destroyed. The passengers rushed to the bank in their night clothing, carrying other garments in their hands, abandoning to the flames all their baggage, including valuable jewellery and large sums of money. They left the burning boat none too soon, for before the crew got safely off the lines were burnt, and the doomed vessel, enveloped in flames, drifted into the stream.

From the Northwest.

The following letter, which was received by Mr. John A. Ellis, of Fenelon Falls, was published in the Gazette of that village:—

TROT, N. W. TERRITORY,

November 4th, 1883.

DEAR FRIEND,—We received your kind and welcome letter some time ago, and were glad to hear from you. I hope this will find you well, as it leaves us at present. I like the North-West very much indeed, and would rather live here than at Fenelon. I worked out all last winter at Fort Qu'Appelle, drawing my salary from five to ten miles. We had not much very stormy weather, but some very cold. We had very fine weather from the middle of February until spring; the snow began to go in the 8th of April, and melted off the ground in three days. We had a fine spring and summer, and warm with very little rain. My brother-in-law had in 55 acres of oats and wheat, and we had it all cut and stacked in two weeks. It's fine fun harvesting here with self-binding. He had the threshing machine, and had 20 bushels of grain to the acre. The grain was grown on breaking done the year before, harrowing in the spring and sowing with broadcast seed. He also put up 100 tons of hay, and another young man and I drew it in with two yokes of oxen, and I stacked it all. We also put up ten tons for myself. I am living on my own farm now. I bought a yoke of oxen and a plough this spring, and have ten acres broken, and my house is about finished. The land is fine here; I never saw anything like it down there. I have a half section of 320 acres. I had a letter from John Cooper about a week ago. He took up a farm this spring, and grew 200 bushels of oats and 250 of wheat. He lives down the C. P. Railway about one hundred miles; your brother Thomas is down the Qu'Appelle valley somewhere about thirty miles.

I remain, your friend,

CHARLES PARRISH.

A QUERY ANSWERED.—People often ask when is the best time to take a blood purifier? We answer, the best time is now. Burdock Blood Bitters does its work of purifying, regulating, and toning the system at all times and all seasons. Purify in all things is always in order when required.

A GOOD INTRODUCTION.—J. Kennedy, a merchant in Dixie, about three years ago introduced Hayward's Federal Balm to his customers by trying it in his own family for Coughs and Colds. Being pleased with results, large sales followed, and it is now the favorite remedy in that neighbourhood.

Another Circular from the Customs.

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—The customs department have issued circulars to the various collectors in towns and cities, intended to define the proper method of collecting duties, or establish the value of certain goods imported into Canada from Great Britain and Ireland.

The C. P. R. Government Deposit.

MONTREAL, Nov. 18.—It is stated that the $5,000,000 deposited for the Government guarantee of interest on the Canadian Pacific stock was made up of $5,000,000, contributed by the Montreal and New York syndicates, and $10,000,000 of stock, making $55,000,000 loaned and lodged by the company with the Bank of Montreal as security for the $4,000,000.

Our Manufacturing Industries.

An extensive bolt factory is to be established at Berthier by a city firm. The Municipal council of that town has granted them a bonus of $4,500 and exemption from taxation for ten years, on condition that employment be given to at least forty men. The firm has announced its intention of employing a still larger staff. The building which will be 60 feet long by 100 wide, will be erected immediately. The manufacture is expected to be in full operation about the 1st of March next.

The Transportation of Potatoes.

The problem of safely transporting potatoes in cars during the winter, which always been a serious one to many of the Northern railroads, is said to have been solved by the Eastern road. Hitherto the custom has been to place an ordinary stove in the car, and trust to luck for the maintenance of the fire during the journey. The new box cars on the Eastern road have an oil stove under the centre of the car, with an oil reservoir just above, by which the fire is fed. An ingenious system of pipes leads through the car, and by a patented kind of valve the hot air is kept constantly circulating around the sides and roof. The potato dealers expect that the general introduction of the car will materially decrease the price of potatoes.

Overhead Telegraph Wires.

The question of overhead telegraph wires is attracting the attention of the London public. The Postmaster-General recently took out seventeen summonses against the Local Board of works of Wandsworth for refusing to allow the erection of posts and wires in certain districts. Although the Government in this case triumphed, the Telegraph is of opinion that in view of the multiplication of telephones and the transmission of electric light and electric motive power, we shall be compelled to establish subways through which the insulated wires may pass, and although the total clause of overhead wires in some places and for short distances is not to be expected, such wires will be the exception and not the rule.

WRECK ON THE DUTCH COAST.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 17.—The British steamer Hymettus was wrecked in a storm on the Dutch coast. But few of the crew escaped. The British steamer Condor, from Liverpool, sank off Minden, Holland, to-day in a violent storm, eighteen of the persons on board were lost, including the engineers, who were killed by the bursting of the boiler. Eight were saved.

M. FERRY'S WOULD-BE ASSASSIN.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—The most conflicting rumors are abroad concerning Curien, who endeavored to shoot M. Ferry. Physicians state that he is suffering from the effects of a recent attack of typhus fever, and that he does not belong to an Anarchist society. Later inquiry into the antecedents of Curien shows that the prisoner is not a madman, but a fanatic holding ideas of a violent nature. It is known that he frequented meetings of Anarchists at Lille and Roubaix.

NEW SUEZ CANAL.

CAIRO, Nov. 17.—A syndicate of bankers represented by the Anglo-Egyptian Banking Company has offered to provide the capital necessary to construct the new Suez canal if the Government will build it.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—According to the best information the probabilities are that China has no intention to declare war officially. Neither will France if she can help it—at least not at present. Both sides are playing bluff, much to the disgust of Europe, who would like to see the matter settled one way or the other. She is weary of the everlasting interviews with the Marquis Tseng, and the bombast of French journals about a question of which they know so little.

THE SUEZ CANALS.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—M. de Lesseps, in a speech at Liverpool yesterday, said the second canal across the Isthmus of Suez could only be constructed alongside the present one with a liberal margin intervening for the strength of each. One of the canals could then be used for ships bound to and from the other for ships returning from the Red Sea. This was the only solution of the difficulty.

AFFAIRS IN TONQUIN.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Official advices from Tonquin state that the military situation is unchanged. Admiral Courbet will remain within his lines, as the result of an attack on Sonlay and Bacanin appears doubtful.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT BY CHINA.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 17.—An aide-de-camp of Yang-Yeh has arrived at Hankow to raise a force of twenty thousand volunteers for military service in the event of war between France and China. Foreigners in China are uneasy, while the "Lily Society," a secret organization, is reported again active.

ANOTHER EARTHQUAKE.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A shock of earthquake was felt yesterday in the island of Ohio, but no damage was occasioned.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE PRINCE.

MADRID, Nov. 17.—Preparations are being made at Valencia to give the German Crown Prince a hearty welcome. Precautionary measures against a revolutionary outbreak were taken last week at Cadix, Ferrol, San de Urege, and Pamplona.

BELLEVILLE.

THE MAYORALTY.—The probable candidates for the Mayoralty are Aldermen Dickson and Dunnet.

ACCIDENT.—Senator Reed was on Friday afternoon thrown from a wagon on his farm and seriously hurt about the neck and shoulders. He is confined to his bed.

Two hundred and sixty emigrants arrived at Montreal on Wednesday evening on route for Ontario.

Joy in Every Deep.

This may be truly said of Folger's Nervine, the greatest pain remedy of the age. It brings comfort to the weary sufferer when failure has attended the use of every known remedy. Nervine is an absolute cure for all kinds of pain, internal, external, or local. For a cure of 18 cent sample bottle and try this great remedy. Nervine, nerve pain cure. Don't forget the name of O'Connell & Wals.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

DEPARTURE OF THE PRINCE.

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—The Crown Prince left Berlin this morning upon his trip to Spain.

FLOODS AT PORTSMOUTH.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A heavy squall to-day caused considerable damage in the vicinity of Portsmouth, and a high tide flooded the lower portions of the town.

THE EVACUATION OF CAIRO.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The evacuation of Cairo by the British was the result of the persistent demands of the Egyptian Government.

COLLIERS' DEMANDS.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The North Wales colliers have demanded an advance of wages of 15 per cent, and the Staffordshire colliers of 10 per cent.

O'DONNELL'S TRIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—O'Donnell's trial will probably be further postponed, as the defence requires more time. Mr. D. Sullivan is still seriously indisposed, and may not be able to appear.

NUNCIO FOR THE STATES.

ROME, Nov. 17.—It is stated that the Vatican has consented to appoint a nuncio to the United States, in accordance with the wishes of the American bishops. Il Diritto expresses the opinion that the American Congress will approve such an appointment.

FRANCE SECURING TRANSPORTS.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Many vessels have recently been bought or chartered in London and Liverpool by merchants and shippers who have intimate commercial relations with French houses. It is believed the French Government are quietly arranging for an extensive transport service in view of war with China.

BRITISH MEDIATION.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Morning Post learns that, China having manifested her readiness to accept English mediation upon the questions at issue with France, Premier Ferry has notified the French ambassador to England that he will inform him shortly of the conditions upon which France would accept mediation. Later despatches, however, deny that England intends any such mediation.

WRECK ON THE DUTCH COAST.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 17.—The British steamer Hymettus was wrecked in a storm on the Dutch coast. But few of the crew escaped. The British steamer Condor, from Liverpool, sank off Minden, Holland, to-day in a violent storm, eighteen of the persons on board were lost, including the engineers, who were killed by the bursting of the boiler. Horses Purchased.
Last week Mr. T. Cavanagh purchased a fine team of horses from Mr. David Toole, of Emily. They are of a dash brown color, and weigh 2,800 pounds. The price paid was $400.

Temperance Meeting To-Night.
Mr. Thomas McMurray will address a meeting in St. Paul's Church this evening on the subject of temperance. Chair to be taken at 8 o'clock. A collection will be taken up in aid of the lecture fund of the Grand Division.

Weather.
The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong south-west to south-east winds; fair to cloudy, mild weather.

Week of Prayer.
The last of the series of meetings in connection with the week of prayer was held in the Young Men's Christian Association rooms on Saturday evening. There was a fair attendance, and the Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., delivered an instructive address on the "Power of the Holy Spirit."

Legal.
The Mail of Saturday contains the following reports of legal cases heard at Osgoode Hall:—
"MORAVY v. MURRAY; DEMOREST v. MURRAY.—Judgment on question of costs on motion to commit the president of the company and sequestrate the effects of the company. No costs allowed to either party. Motion for the motion. A. H. Marsh contra."
"FERGUSON v. HARRIS.—Wilson, for the defendant, moved to amend the time for appealing from the Master's report. Hoyle contra. Order made extending the time for two weeks. Costs to plaintiff in any event of the cause."

Personal.
The Lindsay Post of Friday last says:—
"Rev. H. Sherin, the popular young Methodist minister, who has filled several appointments in this district, was in town on Saturday on his way to Peterborough. Mr. Sherin has been off duty for a year to recover from an ailment of the throat. In this respect he has had good effect."
The Rev. N. Clark, of Lakeside, occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's Church on Sunday night.

The Rev. A. H. Munro, of Montreal, preached in the Baptist Church at the morning and evening services on Sunday.

Football.
The Toronto Mail, in reviewing the football season, says that supporters of Rugby have reason to be satisfied with the aspect the season has given to the game. Referring to a protest entered by the Ottawa club, it says:—
"Many of the other clubs have had occasion to curtail their season, and have done so. The Peterborough men, drawn at the outset to play a powerful club like Toronto, and misled by the Mail into the belief that they would at least have their match in Peterborough, were eventually forced to come up to Toronto, and were thrown out of the cup contest in the first round. No discontent was expressed."

Condemned.
At a meeting of Carwell Lodge, No. 411, I. O. G. T., the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—

"Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our late esteemed brother, Thomas Waterbrook, who for the time he had been with us as an upright and honest member, he is therefore resolved, that in the death of him, Waterbrook the lodge has lost a firm and energetic member, and the cause a zealous advocate; that we deplore the loss with feelings of deep regret, and trust that his spirit is with those in a better world. We tender to his bereaved wife our heartfelt sympathy in the loss of a kind husband and loving father, and hope that what has been our loss will be his gain. Resolved, that one chapter be draped in mourning for thirty days, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to Mrs. Waterbrook."

SKATING AND CURLING.

The improvements at the rink—Drains Constructed and Other Work.

The cold weather of last week made those who love the good old Scotch game of curling hope that soon the ice would be formed on which they could enjoy the game, and it was hoped that the walls of the curling rink would soon resound with the well known cries peculiar to curling, "soup 'er up," etc., and the youth of the town were also becoming hopeful that soon they would be able to use their skates on the rink, where so much fun and enjoyment was had in former years.

Perhaps it will not be long before the wishes of both the curlers and skaters will be realized, but the soft weather of Saturday and the following days makes the winter sports more distant.

Meanwhile the company have taken steps to prepare the curling and skating for a good season of sport. In previous years they have been bothered by surface water coming into the rink and raising and injuring the ice, and they determined that such would be the case no more. On Wednesday last Mr. JOHN KENNEDY, who had charge of the work, commenced operations. He had five teams and as many as thirty men engaged digging drains and leveling and walking the surface floor of the rink.

A drain was constructed on the west side of the rink, the full length of the building—two hundred feet—and another on the south side was constructed to connect with the large running to the river. It is said that water soaked through from the mill race, as well as the surface water, and injured the ice, but these drains will prevent that in future. The drains are the drains of the character sometimes called French drains—having cobble stone boxed bottoms.

The work inside the rink will make an improvement, as the company do not intend to expend a large amount of money to no purpose, and the benefit of the expenditure will be seen when the stones are laid and the skating begins over the new ice.

When the season sets in it is to be hoped that the rink will be largely patronized. The Directors withheld the dividend which the surplus profits would have returned for the express purpose of making these improvements, and that action and its results will no doubt be appreciated by the lovers of the manly and exhilarating sports of curling and skating.

WHAT TIME IS IT?

The Town Clock Put Forward—Standard Time Generally Adopted.

On Sunday at about the same time as the Midland Railway were put forward to correspond with the "standard time." The trains on the Midland Railway had been run by Toronto time, and the change made the time later, and arrive 17 minutes and 34 seconds earlier.

Nearly all the railways on the continent have adopted standard time; that is, each belt of country covering fifteen degrees of longitude will have its own time for each belt, and the time in each belt will be given by the railway. Peterborough lies in the fifteen degree belt, which extends from 67 deg., 30 min. to 69 deg., 30 min. This belt practically extends from Quebec to Sarnia. According to a table in the Globe, the clocks in Quebec will have been put back 15 minutes and those in London put forward 24 minutes.

The question arose, when it became known that the Midland would adopt standard time, whether the town would follow the lead of the leading cities and do the same. There was no meeting of the City Fathers to decide the question, but by a resolution adopted last July by the Town Council they had apparently decided the question beforehand. As there was a difference then between the railway and town times, the following resolution was adopted on the 16th of July:—

"Moved by Councillor Patterson, and seconded by Councillor Rutherford, That Mr. McClelland, caretaker of the town clock, be requested to keep the town time the same as railway time."

Acting on these instructions, Mr. McClelland, at two o'clock on Sunday last, put the correct standard time by telephone and put forward the town clock twenty-five minutes, which made it correspond with the railway time.

The business houses generally have adopted the new time, and the factories have done the same. The Auburn Woolen Mill, Central Iron Works and Fitzgerald's clothing factory are among those that have adopted standard time. At Brodie's Woolen mill, Peterborough's foundry and Wm. Hamilton's foundry the men went to work by the old time this morning, but the standard time will be adopted to-morrow.

Some confusion was caused at the churches on Sunday evening. The services all began at 7 o'clock by the old time, and consequently many were, perhaps for the first time, too early in attendance. This morning many workmen were late when work commenced by standard time, and where the old time was used, many were too early.

The banks in the town will open and close by standard time, namely the Toronto Bank, Bank of Commerce, Ontario Bank, and Bank of Montreal. Their business hours will be regulated by the town time.

It may not be generally known that a gentleman well known in Peterborough, and who has relatives here, took a principal part in bringing about this revolution, and we therefore clip the following from the Globe:—

"The credit of having first brought the matter forward is due to two men—Prof. Cleveland Abbe, of the United States Signal Service, and Mr. Stanford Fleming, late Chief Engineer of Government Railways, and former Chancellor of Queen's University, Kingston. It does seem that both the gentleman who proposed the same without consultation with each other. The practical difficulty was toward the reform, however, and all have done it. Mr. Fleming, his scheme was a world-wide one, and part of it is that which comes into effect now. He proposed that the whole world should be divided into time belts, making a standard time for all nations."

POLICE COURT.

Drunkenness.

MONDAY, Nov. 19.—Three prisoners appeared in the Court this morning to have justice dealt out to them on charges laid by P. C. Pidgeon. James Wilford was charged with having imbibed too freely of the cup that intoxicates, and George Northay and Thomas Murphy had the additional charge of having acted in a disorderly manner to answer for. They pleaded guilty and were each fined $2 or ten days in gaol.

The Cells.

Three prisoners occupied the cells on Saturday and Sunday nights. On Sunday night they had the company of a tramp.

Removal.

W. J. Green has removed his Liquor Tea Store and Merchant Tailoring establishment across the street to the store formerly occupied by W. H. Anthony, and two doors south of the Calico House.

Winter Prices.

Under the august presence of Jack Frost our oyster trade has become very brisk. We are having a lively run on our superior large bulk Oysters, which we are now selling at 30c per quart. Our customers tell us that they are the best for the money in town. Canned Oysters at all prices according to quality. Try our Selects, 40c per can. When once used they will recommend themselves. The public can rely at all times on getting nice fresh Oysters, as we import direct from the packers in Baltimore, therefore we are always sure of getting fresh stock. Don't forget the place, north store, opposite the express office; south store, opposite the market square, George street.

The Sting Within.

It is said there is a stinging thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in this land of eight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove it. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

BAD DRAINAGE.—There is nothing more reductive of disease in a neighborhood than bad drainage. Open the culverts and sluiceways and purify the locality. The objections to the human system may be remedied in a similar manner by Burdock Blood Bitters, which opens all the outlets of disease through the Bowels, Liver and Kidneys.

ANOTHER WITNESS.—A. Chard, of Sterling, testifies to the efficacy of Haysard's Yellow Oil, which he used for a badly injured knee joint. It is now the great household remedy for inflammation, pain, soreness, lameness, etc., and is used both internally and externally with infallible success.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1883.

The Globe is glowing over an article in the London Standard full of falsehoods to the detriment of the credit of Canada. As the Standard has obtained its erroneous information more or less directly from the Globe and its friends, the leading Reform journal may well rejoice in the success of its unparliamentary effort to injure Canada in the hope that the blow will also wound those statesmen to whom the people of Canada have entrusted the administration of its affairs.

THE FRIENDS OF DAKOTA.

The omicron organ of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues is paying for past and prospective favors in a zealous but most dishonest manner. In its last issue Grip has a cartoon representing a young man, "an actual settler," in doubt between a typical Yankee and the Hon. Mr. Macpherson, Minister of the Interior for Canada. The settler says: "Other things being equal I prefer to remain in my own country. Will you make other things equal?" The obvious answer, which however Grip does not give, is that Mr. Macpherson will not make other things equal, seeing that at present the land regulations in the Canadian Northwest are far more favorable for settlers than in Dakota, and that he has no intention of taking a retrograde step. Instead of this truth, Grip gives a series of outrageous falsehoods displayed upon papers held by the rival bidders for settlers. As a specimen of these misrepresentations we may say that the Minister of the Interior is made to state that the Canadian land regulations allow no second homesteading though this is the exact reverse of the truth, for the taking up of a second homestead is allowed in our Northwest and is not allowed in Dakota. What could be more disgraceful than such falsehoods in favour of a foreign country and to the disadvantage of one's own, in the vain hope of injuring political opponents and manufacturing political capital?

LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT.

We are told that in one of his most celebrated speeches Mr. Dismal remarked that:—"Local government is the best safeguard of political liberty."

And that in the same speech he further said:—"The instinct of the British nation makes it feel that on local government political freedom depends."

It is a pleasure to a Conservative to quote these Conservative ideas, uttered by a great Conservative statesman. At the very foundation of the British constitution and of the derived constitutions of the Dominion of Canada, and other colonies of the Empire, including the United States, is this principle of local self-government. It is as it were the birthright of our race, which we have retained in the old country or in newer lands, in spite of all the changes of time and clime. It had its origin in the characteristic peculiarities of our people, and its exercise has fostered those qualities of which we have so much reason to be proud. Our combined independence of spirit making us spurn all tyranny, and regard for law and order making us render cheerful submission to the legitimate rule of those we have placed in authority, alike call for and render feasible the privilege and duty of local self-government. Some races may require and may welcome the rule of a "paternal government," but we are able and willing to manage our own affairs in an intelligent and orderly manner, giving to each man his rights, while acting for the good of the whole community. And so from the very beginning of our history to the present day we have rejoiced in municipal self-government and the local management of local affairs. Our municipal corporations, our school boards, our local authorities to look after our firemen, our roads, our sanitary arrangements, our municipalities local affairs, have been, under slightly varying forms, our birthright, alike in the mother land, and in the new homes of our people across the seas.

No true Conservative would consent to part with such an inheritance, or tamely to submit to its curtailment.

One of the heaviest charges to which Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have laid themselves open, is their persistent attacks upon this cherished principle of municipal and local self-government, and their constant efforts to centralize power in their own hands. The old powers, the old privileges, the old control of our town municipalities, of our county councils, of our school boards, have been usurped by these Reformers—these illiberal Liberals, to increase their influence and strengthen them politically. Such local officials as County Judges, Sheriffs, &c., have been stripped of their patronage that these petty tyrants might reward their partisans, or secure political services at the expense of the people.

Well may the people of Ontario condemn Mr. Mowat and his colleagues for such invasions of their ancient rights. It is not only Conservatives who, seeing these things, repeat approvingly the saying of the great Conservative statesman:—"ON LOCAL GOVERNMENT POLITICAL FREEDOM DEPENDS."

THE VACANT REGISTRATION.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Having been informed upon the most reliable authority that Mr. Timothy Hurley, merchant, of the village of Hastings, had been appointed Registrar of the County of Peterborough, I would humbly ask through your columns if there is any possibility of my being placed on the list of names to be placed on the back of the Registrar's seal, and if I am so placed, I would be glad to know what the Registrar's seal is, and if I am so placed, I would be glad to know what the Registrar's seal is, and if I am so placed, I would be glad to know what the Registrar's seal is.

Yours, &c.

JUSTICE.

Asphodel, Nov. 17, 1883.

THE FORESTRY EXHIBITION.

We referred a few days ago to the International Forestry Exhibition proposed to be held next year in Edinburgh. The forest productions of Canada are such as to enable her to take a very high place, if not the highest, in some of the departments embraced within the scope of the Exhibition. In this connection it may be interesting to refer to the report of the Royal Commissioners upon the exhibits made by Canada at the International Exhibition held in London in 1882. The Commissioners say that "in point of size of specimens, excellent selection and information given, the Upper Canada collection of models is undoubtedly the finest in the exhibition building. It is constructed by sixteen individuals, and consists of planks, logs, squared logs, transverse sections, polished specimens, veneers, and a very extensive series of scientifically collected and named leaves, flowers, spores, &c., &c." This collection the Royal Commissioners refer to in very high terms of praise, "such as 'magnificent,' 'beautiful,' 'noble specimens.' Some of the wood specimens were five feet in diameter. One of white oak which reached London to late for exhibition, was six feet in diameter and six feet long, from a tree with a trunk sixty to the first limb. There were planks of extraordinary dimensions, one of white pine and one of ash, each fifty inches broad; black walnut, thirty inches; hickory, thirty-six inches; and a beautiful plank of soft maple twelve feet long by forty-five inches broad. Of the scientific collection the Commissioners speak in equally high terms of praise. Amongst the exhibits was the Hon. James Skead, of this city, who sent five specimens of timber from the Ottawa region. Samples of these were given to the leading Government of Europe, to the scientific societies, the Admiralty, to the British Museum, to Kew Gardens, to Lloyd's, and to several other kinds of Canadian woods to their A. N. 1 ships. The Key Gardens authorities erected a building expressly for the woods from the exhibition, giving the Canadian woods the place of honour. The Royal Commissioners state that the Canadian collection derived much of its exactness and scientific value to the attention of the commissioners, Dr. Huxley, and they refer to the collection generally as one of the most complete illustrations of the resources of a colony ever exhibited. It is of the utmost importance that Canada's forest products should be properly represented at the Edinburgh Exhibition. There is not too much time at present for making the necessary arrangements and for giving those interested to go to work to prepare their specimens. If the Government decide that the country shall be represented at the exhibition, and to submit their will to do so, we feel sure that Parliament will cheerfully vote the necessary sum of money to pay the expenses of the exhibition. These arrangements are a history of our country when so much attention was paid to Canada and her resources at the present. The Dominion is being advertised in the United Kingdom and in Europe as it was never advertised before. The visits of prominent Englishmen; the favourable reports of agricultural delegates and of such high standing as Professor Tanner, which we have noticed recently; the varied services of our late Governor-General; the exertions of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company; and the Canadian display at the International Fisheries Exhibition, all have had the effect of bringing Canada and Canadian affairs before the British public. The approaching Forestry Exhibition will afford another favourable opportunity for making the country still better known. When ever it is to be done for having the Dominion represented on the occasion should be done without delay.—Ontario Outlook.

British Warships at Abok.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, commanding the British fleet on the west coast of Africa, states that recently 150 English sailors were sent to the Niger to punish the natives at different points on that river, for outrages upon explorers and traders. After shelling the town of Abok, at the head of the Delta, they proceeded to Egba, a large town 300 miles from the mouth of the Niger. There they landed, and were at once attacked by the natives. A severe fight ensued, in which three seamen were killed and several wounded. The attacking party of natives were driven to the bush, and the sailors returned to the fleet.

Big Fire in a New Jersey Village.

RABBIT, N. J., Nov. 18.—A house from a locomotive fired a dwelling in the poor quarter of the city to-day. The flames were fed by the high wind. Seven houses were burned and 27 families rendered homeless. Loss $100,000. This morning a fire was started in a carpet weaving establishment. The high wind carried the flames to five brick buildings, which were destroyed. Loss $200,000.

A Bombar in the City.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18.—The cold weather has caused a lively demand for coal. Small stores in so scarce that the price of coal for this month is taken. The City of Philadelphia will restrict supplies from the coal mines.

THE use of Pills, Balm, Ointment, &c., and other nascent, prime, and secondary, is necessary as a pleasant substitute for food in Dr. Casson's Bitters, which not only cleanses the system of impurities or causing nausea. All Druggists sell 50 cents a Bottle.

A Horrible Story.

A fearful story comes to us from the Hastings Road, to the effect that a woman whose husband had gone to the shanties to work, a few nights ago attempted to eat her youngest child. An older child alarmed some neighbors in the night, but before they got to the house the mother had badly bitten and torn the young one. The unfortunate woman was no doubt temporarily insane.—Madoc Review.

Terrible Railway Accident.

OTTAWA, Ill., Nov. 17.—A passenger train on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad collided with a freight train yesterday afternoon near Straster. The freight engine struck the rear of the passenger coach and completely telescoped it. There were twenty persons in the car, and few escaped unhurt. The engine completely imbedded itself in the car, the passengers being thrown forward, and then the boiler exploded, one piece being forced entirely through the car. Six persons were killed and many suffered injuries that may prove fatal. The floor of the car, seats, and windows were smeared with blood. None of the forward cars or persons in them were more than badly shaken up. The freight train was, contrary to rules, running nearer than five minutes behind the passenger train, but had an order from the train despatcher to do so.

Our Canadian silk industry is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belling, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor stitching. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belling Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

No Fat Dress.—It is simply impossible for a fat man to be a real dude. He may sport the regulation collar, he may wear coats so short that his vest shows beneath it, but he can't be a successful dude. A dude must have thin legs, and a head shaped like a pineapple. He must have dimples behind his ears and can big enough to hide them. Now, a fat man, a chubby, plump round youth, can never answer to these specifications.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1883.

It is claimed that Mr. Mowat is always has been a gallant man. This can only be in forgetfulness of the fact that Mr. Mowat was a member of a body that invited a lady to give a decision on a disputed point, that the lady gave her decision as requested, and that Mr. Mowat repudiated the lady's decision because he could gain a personal advantage through his breach of faith. We cannot think it a good excuse for Mr. Mowat that the lady that he thus insulted was his Sovereign.

Mr. Duncan McIntyre, Vice President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, has made the following official statement:—

"The guarantee is, on the whole outstanding capital of the company, of which there is now $25,000,000. The remaining $25,000,000 has been deposited with the Government, and will be issued if or when the progress of the company's work renders it necessary. If it is ever issued in whole or in part it will have the same guarantee as that outstanding, and without that guarantee it cannot be issued."

This fully explains what the New York "Herald" and their Canadian allies of the Reform party pretended to look upon as a discrepancy in the various accounts. There is an actual guarantee on the outstanding stock, and there is an arrangement for the guarantee of the remaining stock as it is issued, the Government meantime holding it. Both statements are thus in harmony.

A MOWAT INVASION.

"Local government is the best safeguard of political liberty."—Disraeli.

We quote this saying of the great Conservative leader because, though it is in fact a truism, it states concisely an idea that is cherished by all English speaking communities. Our people are not behind their fellows in appreciating the benefits of local management of local affairs, and it is greatly in consequence of his systematic invasions of this principle that Mr. Mowat is in his present position of being condemned by a majority of the electors of Ontario.

Our educational system is a matter of which we boast, and it will be generally conceded that it should not be perverted to political and partisan objects, that its management should not be unduly centralized, to the impairment of the local management by our school boards, our county councils and our county inspectors.

Mr. Mowat, however, in pursuance of his policy of centralization, of invasion of local government, and of grasping at political influence, has not only made our educational system a political department, but he has usurped a control formerly enjoyed by the local authorities.

We will give one instance of his mischievous usurpations. Formerly the County School Inspector, assisted by a local board of examiners, had power to hold local examinations and to give second and third class certificates, both the examination papers and the certificates being subject to the review of the Department. This was most beneficial, especially to the remote and poorer school sections in the county, which were thus able to obtain, at moderate salaries, teachers suited to their requirements. The county inspector and local board were also well qualified to judge of the personal fitness of local applicants, and of the existence or not of a local demand for teachers of this grade, so they could act as a check for the locality.

Mr. Mowat and his colleagues were unwilling that local authorities should have any such power, and they usurped this very salutary privilege. The local certificates were abolished, and the Central Department retained supreme in this matter, which it took into its own hands. The natural consequence was that our poorer school sections, being unable to secure the services of these teachers with local certificates, found themselves compelled to pay higher salaries, to the impoverishment of their slender resources, or to do without teachers for a time. What did Mr. Crooks or his subordinates at Toronto know of local applicants or of local requirements? What did they care for either? But the inferior and more costly system was adopted, because Mr. Mowat, as a sham Reformer, did not believe in local management, in local self-government, and did believe very strongly in centralizing power in his own hands. If he could attain this end any "safeguard of political liberty" might go.

Remember the Grand Re-opening of the Ontario House this Evening by Daily Review, the new proprietors. The Band will be in attendance.

UNITED STATES LAND LAWS.

The other day we referred to the fact that the United States land laws, which are so much admired by some of our esteemed contemporaries, do not work in practice quite so beautifully as they appear in theory, and that some of them are likely to be soon repealed. The Territory of Dakota has been frequently cited as a paradise that was being rapidly peopled by the operations of these land laws, and in proof of their marvellous efficacy some of our contemporaries published statistics of the millions of acres of land that have been taken up in Dakota every year for the past three or four years. Mr. Blackford, the Special Agent of the Dakota Land Office, however, has been lately throwing some light on this matter which rather tends to reduce the enthusiastic feeling with which these large "sales" of public lands might otherwise be regarded. In the first place, he has been employed in his office, as he is termed "land rings." He states that one half the public lands are irregularly taken up annually. Actual settlers, however, are but a small number of these "rings," and the rest are speculators, who are not to be taken into account. This retarded settlement, and puts the public lands at a disadvantage. In one township where the past showed twelve actual settlers under preemption and homestead laws there were actually single inhabitant houses and but one habitation, who was living in a tent. Many townships in the Blackfoot district, which, according to land office plans, are fully settled, have not to be taken into account. In one township, in which all available land had been taken, there were only four inhabitable houses. Under the present system sixteen men get control of all the valuable land in a township. The township thus remains a wilderness until the original settlers are bought out. Most original settlers are mechanics, professional men, and barkeepers, residents in neighboring towns, who never intend to live on their claims. In some places perjury is almost universal. In thirty-eight claims from the Blackfoot Land Office, upon which final proofs were to be filed, Agent Blackford found only ten inhabitable houses. When the claimants discovered he was informed, twenty-two refused to take the oath and seven of the other claims were rejected by the Land Office. None of the claimants appealed to the commissioner. It is so throughout the Blackfoot district. The land offices are slowly peopled. They instruct claimants that, monthly visits to their claims, constitutes legal residence. Agent Blackford says he cannot see a redeeming feature in the timber-culture act. Responsibility is not required, and compliance with the law is cheap and easy. Of the vast number of these claims, extended there were not a dozen successful. The law does not require the cultivation of "acres." A Chicago drummer by filling a declaration and paying $14 gets possession of 100 acres under the timber-culture act, and by small yearly expenditures retains it for four years, trees or no trees. Meanwhile the country is settled and he can sell his tree-claim for ten times its cost. Yet these are the model laws which some people desire Canada to imitate!—Montreal Herald (Reform).

FROM THE OLD COUNTRY.

More than 22,000,000 steel pens are made every week, two-thirds of them being produced at Birmingham. The Prince of Wales has been admitted to the degree of Master Mason by the Grand Master Lodge of England and Wales. Mr. W. S. Gilbert is to construct a two-hundred-thousand-dollar palace at Kensington, which is to be decorated by his artistic friends. A volume containing Petrarch's songs, printed in Venice about the end of the fifteenth century, was recently sold in London for the sum of $9,750. There is not a copy of the work in this country. Again the fear of consuming the Isle of Wight to the mainland by means of a tunnel is resuscitated, and it is proposed to tunnel the Channel. A fifteen-year-old girl, a pupil in one of the industrial schools of York, England, was brought before the magistrates on a charge of insubordination. On being ordered to perform some task she had replied "I won't," and "I shan't." Moreover, she had been three days out of school for sewing. She was sentenced to a month's imprisonment with hard labour. The use of the razor in the British army has been abolished by order of the War Office, and conscription has been ordered. The conscription of his face which nature may have intended him to grow, or frequent shaving may have induced. The following incident seems hardly credible even when told of a Cockney born and bred and yet it comes to us on good authority. An English master says that when examining the head class of one of the ancient schools in England he asked a youth of seventeen the question, "Why, in England, is it colder in winter than in summer?" The astonishing answer was given, "Because in winter the sun is kept up above the horizon." There was no mistake at all in his meaning.

IRELAND.

The Local Board of Guardians at their meeting on Oct. 24th, resolved to erect one thousand labourers' cottages, with half an acre of land attached to each, under the provisions of the Labourers' Act.

At the meeting of the Newry Board of Guardians on Oct. 20th, the rate collector was accused of religious and political partisanship in connection with the preparation of the "present occupiers" list, and the discussion that ensued was of a somewhat "stormy" character.

Captain O'Shea, M.P., has made an abatement to the rate collector in his own case. He has asked for a reduction of rate, and he referred the matter to arbitration. Mr. Milward, Esq., for the landlord; Mr. Michael, Esq., for the tenant. The result of the arbitration was that the rate collector's reductions ranging from 25 to 40 per cent.

At the Trade Board of Guardians on Oct. 24th, a letter was read from the Local Government Board, inquiring what steps the Guardians were taking to encourage the emigration of certain families from the Union to Australia. The Board repeated their determination to have nothing further to do with emigration. If the Government wish to emigrate any parties, let them do it themselves.

The Registrar-General, in his report, says that the very low marriage rate in Ireland as compared with other countries, is largely to be attributed to the extensive emigration which takes place among persons of marriageable age. It appears, however, that those who remain in the country marry later than is customary in England and Scotland, a fact which in itself would go far to explain the difference in the marriage rate referred to. Exact ages of couples are, it appears, not required, but the law requires a statement whether they are of full age or not. Hence it is known at least that the percentage of persons married in Ireland who were under age, is very far below the corresponding rates in England and Scotland.

FROM ALL OVER.

The G. T. R. have discharged one hundred men from their works at Point St. Charles.

It is expected that Frank Arthur will deal with the tariff question in his next message. A two-run fly-wheel was turned out in two sections in Crowe's foundry, Guelph, on Saturday last.

Lands have been allotted in the North-west for colonization purposes to James Armstrong and J. J. Cook.

NOTICE is given in the Gazette of application for a charter for the Canadian Bank of Commerce, with headquarters at Toronto.

Letters patent have been issued to the Dominion Combination, Parisian, and sleeping Car Company, of Halifax; capital $100,000.

Treaties of Egypt and Bulgaria to negotiate treaties of commerce with foreign powers on their own behalf are disputed by Turkey.

New York Treasury officials are looking for $20,000 worth of diamonds which, it is reported, have been recently smuggled into that port from France.

The Trades and Labor Council of Toronto have adopted a resolution asking the Government to discontinue assisted immigration.

THEY ALL TELL the same story. Mr. W. Thompson, Jeweler, Delhi, suffered for years from Lymphatic got so red, until he used Dr. Casson's Kidney Pills. He says it was just the medicine I needed. It has cured me.

THE Canadian case of Hodge Queen involving the constitutionality of temperance legislation has been argued before the Privy Council. Judgment was reserved.

ANTI-POLYGRAPH societies are forming at Salt Lake, and every gentle camp meeting in Utah and Idaho. They will be extended to other Pacific States and Territories.

The presence of white ants in the State House at Boston causes some alarm. It is feared that they may have attacked the wooden girders or stairway supports.

DURING the last fiscal year the increase of retail liquor licenses in Maine compared with the previous year was 124. Vermont 27, New Hampshire 116, Rhode Island 14.

The postal note does not seem to grow in popularity. Reports from all sections are that as a substitute for the money order the postal note is a failure. The sales do not increase.

John R. Vert, Hamilton, says: "McGee's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia and Indigestion is cheap at fifty times the price asked for it. I am a commercial man, and travel continually, and would no more think of leaving home without a bottle of McGee's Speedy Cure in my valise than I would of leaving dry shoes at home and going on a long journey without a pair of McGee's Dress Shoes. Regular Sixty-five cents and one dollar."

Governor Cleveland will travel the states of Washington on the Sub-treasury steamer on Evacuation day, and President Arthur will accept it on behalf of the United States.

A RELIABLE ARTICLE.
Dr. E. Cowen, Boston, Mass., says:—"I found it to realize the expectations raised, and regard it as a reliable article."

Our Canadian silk industry is prospering. The great difficulty to be overcome with the low grade of goods required, in nothing is so more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread may be a bad one. Messrs. Holding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Holding Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

No Fat Dudes. It is simply impossible for a fat man to be a real dude. He may sport the regulation collar, he may wear costume shoes that his feet show beneath, but he can't be a successful dude. A dude must have thin legs, and a sharp, pointed, like a pinapple. He must have diamonds behind his ears, and a big enough to hide them. ON THE RIVER.

CONCURRENCE.

Vane renews his attentions to Queenie, but she, from some perverse instinct of coquetry, bestows all her favors upon the girl, whose grave aspect and somewhat repulsive features in general, and who, to the other girls, smile, as if she were a thing of the other world, only by some 18 years, and recall the day when Nina Forrester had been so confident in the knee of the shy young clerk.

"You will let me sail up the river Mrs. Fairfax," says Vane as he puts down his teacup. "I have not forgotten," (here his voice takes a more tender inflection), "one last expedition to Hampton Court."

Mrs. Fairfax looks doubtfully toward her other guest, who somewhat firmly observes: "Don't let me be any hindrance to your plans. Or perhaps you will allow me to take an ease in your service."

Vane's face darkens, but the widow claps her hands and answers gaily: "Faint! I would really have been hard work on one like this."

So Queenie runs to fetch her mother, but at the last moment finds the charm of her favorite kitten's society irresistible, and sits to remain on terra firma herself.

Vane pulls stroke, and the boat glides smoothly away from the emerald bank and out into the glassy expanse of water, amid scores of others gaily laden with a similar freight, and looking as if playing their part in some holiday scene.

"This has been very hard on me," murmurs Vane, bending forward, so that his words are audible to the fair steersman only. "My pleasant afternoon all spoiled, because—"

"Because you are a fool," answers the little four years his junior, who sits at maternal ease. "If you are a fool, I am a blue! I am agreed, and I will dine with you."

"With us?" "Yes, I will dine with you," answers the little four years his junior, who sits at maternal ease. "If you are a fool, I am a blue! I am agreed, and I will dine with you."

should have been taken, and little me left to face life alone!"

"You are a child," Unconsciously his tone has grown a little stern again.

"Darling Queenie. Yes. But it is dull sometimes, and one wants some one to consult—to lean on."

"And you think to find that some one in Reginald Vane?"

He is sorry the next moment to have blurted out the words, but it is too late to recall them. She flashes a glance at him, and he meets it steadily, expecting to be assailed with a torrent of feminine wrath, but is taken aback at meeting instead a sudden burst of tears.

"Mrs. Fairfax—what a brute I am!—forgive me. I have lived so much alone that I have fallen into a dreadful habit of speaking my thoughts aloud."

"But how come you to be so lonely?" "Could I help it? Only last night I found your names coupled together by the voice of common gossip, and to-day here I receive such confirmation of the report!" And I would not presume to find fault, though I was once only Jack's friend, but almost a rough elder brother to you in the forgotten days of long ago."

"Not forgotten," murmurs a stifled voice, "only I wondered why you never came to see me."

"It was best not to," Jack breathes and trusts to his mentor, as he used to call him, poor boy! But now—now, Nina, I cannot but take an irrevocable step with one whom I cannot but think worthy."

"You are jealous! Our guests—Colonel and Mrs. Fairfax—what a brute I am!—forgive me. I have lived so much alone that I have fallen into a dreadful habit of speaking my thoughts aloud."

"His dishonorable conduct towards another woman. Forgive me, Nina—Hester knew I would sooner bite my tongue out than say that he is playing a double part in this—making up to you for your fortune, while his heart beats for her, and to-day here I receive such confirmation of the report!" And I would not presume to find fault, though I was once only Jack's friend, but almost a rough elder brother to you in the forgotten days of long ago."

LAMP CHIMNEYS!

Owing to the number of Inferior Chimneys in the market, and the demand for a really good article, we have had manufactured to our own order, one hundred barrels of "EXTRA FLINT" CHIMNEYS, doubly annealed and stamped "China Hall, Peterborough," which we offer to the public with confidence, knowing by a personal test that they will not break with the heat, besides being much clearer than ordinary Chimneys. Try them once and you will use no others.

Medium Size 10c., or 3 for 25c.; Large Size 15c., or 2 for 25c.

SIMPLE REMEDIES.

Common Salt.—Half a teaspoonful of common salt dissolved in a little cold water, and drunk, will generally relieve "heart burn" or dyspepsia. If taken every morning on an empty stomach, increasing the quantity gradually to a teaspoonful of salt and a tumbler of water, it will in a few days cure any ordinary case of dyspepsia. If, at the same time, due attention is paid to the diet, a cure will be effected. It is an excellent remedy for bilious and indigestion. It is a valuable astringent in hemorrhages, particularly for bleeding after the extraction of teeth. It is also a good remedy for all kinds of eruptions, and is a most useful application for superficial ulcerations.

MUSTARD.—Mustard is another valuable remedy. Two or three teaspoonfuls of ground mustard stirred in half pint of water and applied to the chest, will relieve any case of cough, cold, or croup. It is also a good remedy for all kinds of eruptions, and is a most useful application for superficial ulcerations.

Another remedy is a mixture of equal parts of ground mustard and flour, made into a paste with warm water, and spread on a thin piece of muslin with another piece of muslin laid over it, forms the often indispensable "mustard plaster." It is also a good remedy for all kinds of eruptions, and is a most useful application for superficial ulcerations.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1883.

The Cells.
Two tramps were sheltered in the police cells last night.

Personal.
His Lordship Bishop Jarnot, of Peterborough, was in Toronto on Tuesday, the anniversary of the consecration of Archbishop Lynch.

Dividend Declared.
The Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company has declared a dividend for the current half year at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum on the paid up capital.

Important Sale.
The Hanthorn property of three stores, on George street, was sold at auction on Wednesday afternoon by Mr. C. Stapleton to Mr. Jas. Stenson for $12,000, after very lively bidding.

Sale of Real Estate.
A valuable property—the estate of the late David Carlisle, Sr.—will be sold by order of the Court of Chancery at noon on Saturday, December 1st, at C. A. Waller's law office, in this town. This will be a good chance to secure a handsome property in a flourishing part of the town.

Commercial Men will find ample accommodation at the Calumet House, Daily Bree.

Mild with Rain.
Rain has been falling since about 8 o'clock this morning, and it is mild and warmer. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, commencing from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh south to west winds; cloudy to fair mild weather, with local rains.

Social.
The Women's Foreign Missionary Association in connection with St. Paul's Church, will hold a social on Thursday evening next, in the basement of the Church, to commence at half-past seven. Refreshments will be served during the evening. A good musical and literary programme will be provided. Admission 25 cents.

Bazaar.
The ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th of December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick.

Good Advice.
The Orilla Packet, which, by the way, is an honor to its town, contains the following:—"Honor your own town; take every opportunity of saying a good word for it and your fellow townsmen. Discourage every attempt to lower it in the estimation of others, or to belittle its most spirited and enterprising public men. What inducement can there be for any man to devote his time and talents to the public interests, if his only reward is to receive abuse, and be slandered as if he had committed some dreadful crime? It is no wonder that respectable, capable men refuse to come forward for public positions, when they are liable to be treated as scoundrels, without having done a single act to merit such condemnation."

The Central Ontario Railway.
If the following despatch from Cleveland can be relied on, it is not improbable that the Ontario and Quebec Railway will have the running of the Central Ontario Railway, in addition to those roads of which it has already obtained control. This is of especial interest to this country, as it might effect the iron mines in eastern Peterborough:—

"CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 20.—A matter of considerable importance to a number of capitalists has just leaked out. Canadian parties are here endeavoring to purchase the Central Ontario Railway of Canada, now being completed to the Hastings line near. It is thought without doubt that the would-be purchasers represent the Canada Pacific Railway. Mr. Ritchie, President of the Central Railway, was interviewed, but refused to give any information on the subject further than the fact that parties had offered to purchase the road."

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

New Time-Table—The "Link" to be opened on Monday.

The new time table—No. 35—for the Midland Railway has been issued. It is to take effect on Monday next, the 26th of November, when the trains will run over the new Omnesse line known as the "Missing Link." A time table for a complicated railway system is not an easy thing to understand, and we therefore give some of the principal points of this one, as to the time at which travellers should leave Peterborough to reach the principal points on the road, or leave those places to come to Peterborough. It will be seen that the new order of things will give this town better train service than it enjoys at present. The small train from the west will arrive nearly an hour earlier, and will not depart in the afternoon until over an hour later than the present hour for its departure.

TO AND FROM TORONTO.
The first train to Toronto leaves Peterborough at 7.35 a.m., instead of 6.15, and arrives at Toronto at 11.30 a.m. The afternoon train leaves here at 4.50 and arrives at Toronto at 8.45. The morning train from Toronto leaves this city at 7 o'clock, and arrives here at 11.05, and the afternoon train leaves at 4.30 and reaches Peterborough at 8.30. In addition to these express trains, a mixed train leaves here at 11.30 a.m., and arrives at Toronto at 6.55 p.m.

LAKEHEAD.
The morning train from Lakehead leaves this village at 6.30 o'clock, arriving in Peterborough at 7.10, where it connects with the Toronto and Belleville train, and proceeds by Midland to connect with the train to Port Hope. Another train leaves Lakehead at 3.30 p.m., and arrives here at 4.15, also connecting with the afternoon train to Toronto and Belleville. The train to Lakehead leaves Peterborough at 11.30 a.m., and 8.40 p.m.

Trains for Port Hope leave here at 7.35 a.m., 11.05 a.m., and 8.30 p.m., arriving at Port Hope at 9.15 a.m., 12.45 p.m., and 10 p.m. The express train from Toronto passes through here to Port Hope instead of by Bathurst, and a mixed train from Lindsay gives the village better service. From Port Hope trains leave this town at 6 a.m., and 3.25 p.m., arriving here at 7.35 a.m., and 4.50 p.m.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.
Trains leave Peterborough for Belleville at 7.35 a.m. and 6.00 p.m., arriving at Belleville at 10.35 a.m. and 8.05 p.m. From Belleville the trains depart from that city at 7.30 a.m. and 4.15 p.m., arriving at Peterborough at 10.40 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. The forenoon train crosses at Campbellford and the afternoon train at Hastings.

MIDLAND.
To reach Midland travellers will leave here at 7.25 a.m. on the Toronto train, and arrive at Midland at 2.35 p.m. In the afternoon they will depart at 4.50 p.m. and arrive at Midland at 11 p.m. Coming from Midland the train leaves that village at 4.30 a.m. and 1.25 p.m., arriving here at 11.05 a.m. and 8.30 p.m.

HALIBURTON AND OSBOCOK.
To reach Haliburton, passengers will leave Peterborough on the Toronto mixed at 11.30 a.m. and arrive via Fessenden Falls and Kinmount at Haliburton at 6 p.m. Coming this way the train leaves Haliburton at 4.30 a.m., and connects with the express train that arrives here at 11.05. Going to Osboconk, by leaving here at 7.35 a.m. passengers will reach that village at 12.15 p.m., and by leaving at 4.50 p.m., they will arrive there at 9.30 p.m.

WHITBY AND PORT PERRY.
By leaving Peterborough at 7.35 a.m. travellers will arrive at Whitby, via Manilla, Port Perry, etc., at 12.30 p.m., and by leaving on the afternoon train at 4.50 p.m., they will arrive there at 9.25 p.m. Trains depart from Whitby at 6.30 a.m. and 5.25 p.m., and connecting with the trains that arrive here at 11.05 a.m. and 8.30 p.m.

Prompt attention to the requirements of customers will be one of the characteristics of the Calumet House under the new management. Daily Bree.

Legal.
The Med of Wednesday contains the following in re the Bothwell election:—"H. T. Beck for the respondent moved for an order nisi to commit the Hon. David Milne for contempt of court in publishing certain articles and editorials in the London Advertiser which tend to prejudice the fair trial of the petition. Reserved."

Curtains.
We notice to-day in A. Clegg's show window the most beautiful curtains we have ever seen consisting of sizes suitable for both doors and windows. They consist of Tuscanese cloths and heavy patterns in fine Silk and Cashmere Wools. These curtains are deserving of notice; they are certainly the finest ever offered for sale in Peterborough.

Further Predictions from Mr. Vennor.
Mr. H. G. Vennor thus writes to the Montreal Witness under date of November 17th:—"Although I still firmly adhere to my early prediction of a mild and open winter in the majority of sections in Canada and the United States (excepting the far West and North-West), I cannot stop my eyes to indications of the approach, from the North-West, of a 'polar wave' of extreme severity. This may reach us by the 24th or 25th and last steadily until the entry of December. The later it is in arriving after the 24th the further it will continue into December. I am of the opinion that this cold snap will extend over the greater portion of the North American continent, and that there may be a general ice locking of waters. It is not probable that this cold term will extend beyond the 10th or 15th of December, after which wet and open weather will set in and continue through much of the remaining portion of the winter. The month of December is likely to be, on the whole, a warm month—on back with some periods of unusual warmth, and the year will, in all probability, close with little or no snow anywhere here in the far West and North-West, where the temperature will be extremely low."

The most incredulous are forced to admit that for perfection in color the Triangle Dye has no equal. Ask for three colored patterns, and see that you get it. 10 cents.

POLICE COURT.

CHARGE OF THEFT.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 21.—Mary Barnhart was brought up on remand, charged with stealing a watch and chain from Mrs. Ann Newman. The evidence of Mrs. Newman and of Mr. Ranton, a watchmaker with whom it was left for repairs, was taken, and the prisoner was again remanded until to-morrow.

ACQUITTED.

John Poulette was also up on remand, on a charge of having received the watch and chain knowing them to have been stolen. Mary Barnhart gave evidence, and stated that Mrs. Newman had given her the articles in payment for work done and that she told Poulette she had received them in that way. Poulette was acquitted.

Removal.

W. J. Green has removed his Liqueur Tea Shop and Merchant Tailoring establishment across the street to the store formerly occupied by W. H. Anthony, and two doors south of the Calumet House.

Visitors to Peterborough who seek comfort and convenience, a Table well supplied, and a Hotel complete in all respects, should stop at the Calumet House. Daily Bree.

Winter Prices.

Under the august presence of Jack Frost our oyster trade has become very brisk. We are having a lively run on our superior large bulk Oysters, which we are now selling at 35c per quart. Our customers tell us that they are the best for the money in town. Canned Oysters at all prices according to quality. Try our Selects, 40c per can. When once used they will recommend themselves. The public can rely at all times on getting nice fresh Oysters, as we import direct from the packers in Baltimore, therefore we are always sure of getting fresh stock. Don't forget the place, north store, opposite the express office; south store, opposite the market square, George street.

ANOTHER WITNESS.—A Chard, of Sterling, testifies to the efficacy of Haggard's Yellow Oil, which he used for a badly injured knee joint. It is now the great household remedy for inflammation, pain, soreness, lameness, etc., and is used both internally and externally with infallible success.

A WRONG OPINION.—Many a dollar is paid for prescriptions for some disease that never troubled the patient, and when the sole difficulty was worms, which a few of Freeman's Worm Powders would remove. These Powders are pleasant, safe and sure, contain their own cathartic, and are adapted for children or adults.

A WONDERFUL RESULT.—A single bottle of Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup has frequently destroyed from 100 to 200 worms. It is pleasant to take—no other cathartic being required. Tape worms have also been removed by it, of 15 to 35 feet in length. It is effective for all varieties of worms afflicting both children and adults.

Mrs. J. McPhee, Appleton, writes:—"During the last eight years I have used almost every medicine recommended for Biliousness, but found nothing equal to Carson's Bitters. If you suffer try it. Price 50 cts."

THE STREET GAS LAMPS.

To the Editor of the Review.
SIR,—Last night the lamps at the south end of George Street, the one near Dalhousie Street and the one near the O. & Q. R.R. crossing might just as well have been in Patagonia as where they were, they were of no possible benefit to those who used the streets in that vicinity. If the Gas Company is paid for gas that is not used in these lamps it is I think the duty of the company to see that the lamps are promptly lighted and when lighted that the lamps are in such a condition that they will remain so. If the company does not do its duty in the matter, then I think it is the duty of the town officials to pay the gas account when presented for payment.

Yours truly,
A RATEPAYER.
Peterborough, Nov. 22nd, 1883.

Canoes for Shipment.
The Ontario Canoe Company, Ashburnham, have prepared for shipment to England a fine lot of Canoes. The consignment consists of eleven boats. Two of these are American sailing canoes, decked, the first of the kind built here. They are of the patent cedar rib make, with cherry decks, and are supplied with water-tight compartments of canvas. The larger of these two canoes is a very fine one indeed, and for this pattern there will no doubt be a lively demand. The company are also turning out a new design, between the open and the decked canoes, that is, they are partly decked, and are adapted for either sailing or paddling. This fine lot of canoes will be at the company's establishment for a few days, where they may be seen.

Mr. English's Canoe Factory.
The canoe building industry appears to be flourishing in Peterborough. Mr. Wm. English has made changes in his factory on Charlotte street, which gives increased room, and adds to the facilities of the factory for turning out his famous canoes. The part of the building recently occupied by a forge has been converted into a workshop, thus giving an increased space of about 30 feet by 35 feet. The work benches have been removed from the second story to the ground floor, and the upper story is now used solely for painting, varnishing and finishing. A new floor has been laid in the factory and other improvements made. With the additional room and the tools and other facilities now in the factory Mr. English could turn out canoes at the rate of three a day. He is at present finishing ten boats for shipment to London, England. This factory has enjoyed a prosperous season, large orders being received from all parts, keeping the factory going steadily.

BEDEVILLED.
VOTERS' LIST.—The Voters' List Court for the City of Belleville will be held at Balre Hall on December 3rd.

SENATOR READ'S ACCIDENT.—The injuries which Senator Read received by falling from a wagon on his farm a few days ago are not likely to prove of a serious nature.

SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES.—The County Treasurer's sale of lands for taxes took place at the court house on Thursday, when a whole farm of 100 acres in one instance was bought for $2.

GRAND BALL.—The ball on Tuesday evening by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was largely attended. Members of the Brotherhood from several other cities in Ontario were present. The supper was furnished at the Queen's.

HASTINGS.
RAILWAY MATTER.—The Midland railway authorities under the impression that there was more business done at Campbellford than at this station, and therefore that the situation was more valuable, and desiring to reward an efficient servant, offered the position to Mr. Paton, the courteous agent here. Mr. Paton, however, elected to remain with us, and on the representation of several of our business men an increase of salary, to make it equal to that of our sister village, was allowed; and it was more readily granted as it was discovered that it equalled if not exceeded that of Campbellford.

MR. MOWAT'S CIVIL WAR

ANOTHER COLLISION AT RAT PORTAGE BETWEEN THE RIVAL FORCES.

The Ontario Constables Overpower the Manitoba Force—Talk of Despatching the Winnipeg Battery to the Front.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 20.—The Free Press publishes a sensational despatch from Rat Portage, trying to make it appear that Attorney-General Miller's visit there was for the purpose of bulldozing the Manitoba Council into a course calculated to cause resistance by Mr. Mowat's officials.

The following despatch to the Times gives the facts regarding the trouble foreshadowed in the Mail telegram some days ago, when it was announced that Brigadier Burden was buying up all the firearms and arming the Grit special constables. "At a Council meeting held last night, at which Mr. Miller was present, it was resolved to take proceedings to restrain the Grit Council from acting in municipal affairs. The liquor licenses were also regulated.

"A summons was issued by the Manitoba Magistrate Brerton, against Malcolm McQuarrie, for selling liquor without a license. McQuarrie ignored the summons, whereupon a warrant was issued for his arrest. Chief of Police Creighton, with four men, went this morning to arrest McQuarrie, when eighty of the Grit special constables stationed in the rear of the building rushed into the store and resisted the Manitoba force, handcuffing Chief Creighton and taking him to the Ontario jail. Afterwards McQuarrie made his appearance on the street, when he was arrested by Policeman Campbell. The signal was given by the ringleaders of the Mowat band, and Campbell was immediately surrounded and pounced upon by forty men, who dragged him to the Ontario jail.

Action will be taken by the Manitoba force to make a test case, but the Grit forces prefer to let it remain an open question. They have adopted the rioting principle to sustain themselves. The greatest excitement prevails, and indignation is freely expressed at the proceedings of the Mowat authorities. More trouble is momentarily expected. The news has caused much excitement here. Premier Norquay, when interviewed, said: "Our sole object is to get Mr. Mowat's Government to consent to reference of the question of jurisdiction to the Superior Court or some other competent tribunal as a preliminary step towards the settlement of the boundary question. We wish to protect the Municipal Council of Rat Portage, which is incorporated under Manitoba jurisdiction. We shall be happy to have a reference agreed to by the Mowat Government, the result of which will relieve both parties of the uncertainty of the jurisdiction claimed by them, and if the Mowat Government will submit to a friendly investigation before a competent tribunal we shall be only too glad to consent. We are not acting in a hostile spirit, but merely wish to test our jurisdiction."

There is talk of sending out the Winnipeg Field Battery. Nothing will be decided until the Manitoba force has been heard from. However, until Mr. Miller is officially heard from.

Attorney-General Miller returned from Rat Portage to-night. He says the disturbance to-day will hasten the settlement of the Boundary question, and has no doubt as to Manitoba's position. Unless new and serious trouble takes place the military will not be sent.

Walter Reddon, a Grit constable, accidentally shot himself below the knee this morning. He will be laid up for a week or so.

Constable Campbell has been badly shot, so has Nixon, who was arrested about the same time. Chief Creighton has been remanded to jail.

THE RAT PORTAGE OUTRAGE.
WINNIPEG, Nov. 21.—A Rat Portage despatch says: "The excitement caused by the arrest of the Manitoba chief of police and two of his officers has not subsided. The more intelligent law-abiding citizens denounce the action of the Grit authorities in the severest terms. Nixon and Campbell have been admitted to bail; Chief Creighton was committed to jail. It is said the Manitoba authorities will make an effort to have him released by a writ of habeas corpus."

THE NEXT MOVE.
All kinds of rumours are afloat as to the next move to be made by both parties. The Mowat carpet-baggers are in communication with their Government, and as their constables, now numbering one hundred and fifty, are armed to the teeth, it is probable they will be prepared to fight to the bitter end. It is stated by one who is believed to be in the confidence of the Mowat party that Brigadier Burden would soon openly defy the Manitoba and Dominion Governments, and that the Grit would not even tolerate Manitoba jurisdiction here.

BURDEN'S BLOODTHIRSTY ORDERS.
Attorney-General Miller, answering the question if he believes the story that Burden had bought all the firearms in Rat Portage said, "Yes, he had done so, and had every man he could procure armed, and instructed to shoot down any officer who attempted to enforce the warrant or proceed against McQuarrie. Mr. Miller and Premier Norquay are consulting Governor Atkins regarding the situation."

A FALSE RUMOUR.
The Sun says the Attorney-General will not return to Rat Portage as soon as he had intended, a rumour having reached the city that he would be arrested on his arrival there. Mr. Miller denies this story, and says it has been started because he declined to say what the future action of his Government would be, not wishing to play into the hands of their opponents. He says the Manitoba Government will pursue such a course as will show the Dominion that they only desire the settlement of the whole boundary question.

Sentence Commuted.
OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—The death sentence passed on the Hamilton girl McCabe for the murder of her child several weeks ago has been commuted to fourteen years' imprisonment in the Kingston penitentiary. The papers in connection with the case were forwarded to Hamilton by this evening's mail to the sheriff there.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Moody and Sankey began at Wandsworth yesterday the second week of their mission. Three thousand persons were present at each service, and much enthusiasm was exhibited.

THE SECRET SOCIETY.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The Standard publishes a long letter from a correspondent, whose good faith it says is beyond question, who professes to be a member of the "American Irish Secret Society." The writer expresses regret at having joined the organization, and says every one is watching the other; that he is a paid officer; that he must keep himself acquainted with the whereabouts of 228 men, to whom he is required to hand sealed orders; that everything in the society is done with the greatest secrecy by ballot, and that no one knows the other's business although several may have similar tasks to perform. The writer believes some employees of the post-office are members of the society, as it is known at headquarters when a member receives a letter whence and from whom it comes. He says the "old man" has recognized everything since the last great failure, and that some movement is contemplated, as thirty of his party have left for an unknown destination. All of them have received English money. The writer concludes as follows:—"It is cruel tyranny, and when once the oath is taken a man has no liberty, and spies watch his every step."

ACTIVITY OF CHINESE PIRATES.

HONG KONG, Nov. 21.—Pirates are displaying great activity along the river banks. Junks and launches are frequently fired upon, and water communication with Hanoi is threatened. The pirates are badly armed, but are spreading terror among the villagers. Four villages have been destroyed in the vicinity of Haiphong. The military authorities are helpless. Scattered bands of Chinese, supposed to be Black Flags, have been observed in the vicinity of Haidong.

DE BRAZZA AT STANLEYPOOL.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—M. de Brazza, the French explorer, has arrived at Stanley Pool, after encountering many difficulties which, it is said, were placed in his way by Stanley. At last accounts a conflict was expected between De Brazza and Makuba's successor, who is devoted to Stanley.

ANOTHER EGYPTIAN DEFEAT.

CAIRO, Nov. 21.—It is reported that the Egyptians have been again defeated by the Abyssinians.

NORWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.—The entrance examination for promotion to the Norwood High School, will be held on the 30th and 31st of December.

OUR BRASS BAND.—The Norwood Brass Band under the leadership of Mr. Stickles, of Stirling, is making great progress. On Saturday night last they gave an exhibition of their knowledge of music, by playing on the streets. Their performance was highly praised and showed that should the same progress be maintained they will at an early date be able to compete with some of our city bands.

DEER HUNT.—Our Reeve, Mr. Theo. Frazer, and party have again returned home without any better success than formerly. The reason for their failure seems to be on account of aiming low, and shooting high.

TOWN HALL.—The new Westwood Town Hall was opened on Thursday evening last by a grand ball which was a great success, about forty couples being present. The building is larger than the Norwood Town Hall, but not so well furnished, costing $1,000, a little more than half that of Norwood. The work was performed by Messrs. Humphrey and Welch.

SKATING RINK.—The Norwood Drill Shed is being fitted up for a skating rink by Mr. J. McKelvie, and will be opened on Monday or Tuesday next should the weather prove favourable. The Norwood Brass Band will be in attendance. They have also been engaged to play at the rink once a fortnight during the skating season, and all carnivals except one, when the Peterborough "City Band" will be in attendance.

BAND CONCERT.—The Norwood Brass Band purpose holding a grand concert, in the course of two or three weeks. The very best local and foreign talent will be engaged for the occasion.

MISERABLE MEETING.—A miserable meeting was held in the Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening last. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. Messrs. Fleming, Buchanan, Bell, Gies, and the pastor Mr. Carmichael.

SERENADE.—The Norwood Brass Band serenaded Mr. Smith and Mr. Gough, merchants of this place. The boys were well pleased with the treatment they received. Their financial report is very encouraging, amounting to a few X X X and V V V. Call around again boys.

THE O. AND Q. RAILWAY.—The ties are already centred along the track of the Ontario and Quebec Railway to Norwood from the east, and the track layers are about ten miles distant. We suppose our band and city fathers will turn out in full force to welcome the "Iron Horse." Hurrah for Norwood.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1883.

MR. MOWAT'S "ECONOMY."

LORD BRACONFIELD, a great Conservative statesman, thought that "Local Government is the best safeguard of political freedom." The Hon. Oliver Mowat, a self-styled Reformer, does not agree with him, or if he does, he desires to do away with the safeguard. His policy is to grasp from the local authorities their power, their patronage, and, if possible, their funds. Wishing to support his party organs, it occurred to him that it would be very pleasant to get other people to supply money for this purpose. Accordingly he called upon the county council to take county printing to his organs. Peterborough County Council thought that county printing should be taken where it seemed best to the representatives of the people of the County, who had to pay the bill, and set Mr. Mowat's mandate at naught. Other counties followed the example, and Mr. Mowat failed in his attempt to support himself in power at other people's cost. Still the fact remained that Mr. Mowat had attempted to usurp the powers of the municipalities, to invade their patronage, and to appropriate their funds for his political advantage. No local self-government for Mr. Mowat, if he can help it, and as little as possible of political freedom.

HE SHOULD BE PROMOTED.

In the endeavor to defend Mr. Mackenzie, and to prevent him from being unelected for the corrupt practices of his agents in East Middlesex, his counsel, Mr. S. Blake, was compelled to "give away" Mr. Jarvis, one of Mr. Mowat's pet electioneering officials, being at once license commissioner, clerk of the division court, collector of a local election fund, part of which only he handed over to his candidate's financial agent, adviser of license holders as to reporting votes, &c. Mr. Jarvis was compelled to fly while the court was sitting, so that he could not be forced to divulge the full measure of his iniquities. In arguing that respondent was not responsible for this absence, Mr. Blake said, according to the Globe's report:—

"It must be remembered that Jarvis is a Division Court clerk, and that he may have thought the part he took in the election would deprive him of his office, and thereby absented himself."

This is a clear admission of the very improper part taken in an election by one of Mr. Mowat's officials. The fear of Mr. Mowat stripping him of any of his various appointments for perverting the influence they give him, in Mr. Mowat's favor, is an absurdity. Mr. Jarvis is more likely to be promoted, in fact he only needs to show that in addition to his other offices he has embezzled funds entrusted to him, to be qualified for an appointment by Mr. Mowat to the Bench.

A POLICY WANTED.

The independent Toronto World says:—"Mr. Blake believes a great deal in organization. He intends organizing the country for the next election forthwith. The dominion is to be marked out into sections, certain speakers assigned to certain sections and a steady stream of political stump speaking to be poured over each section. So far so good. But what are the stump speakers going to say? Is it to be something new, or merely what the Globe gives us daily?"

How the Customs Duties are Evaded.

In the days when high-heeled French boots were the pride of fashion, there was a shoemaker in London who made a fortune by the sale of the best Paris boots at a price which all his fellow-traders declared ruinous. He understood the trade and obtained troops of customers. These boots must have been stolen, said his rivals; but there was no evidence that they were; certainly they were not smuggled boots, for any one could satisfy himself that the full duty was paid upon them at the customhouse. The shoemaker retired from business with a fortune. Afterwards his secret was accidentally discovered. Although he had paid duty for the boots, he had not paid for everything that was in them. There was a heavy duty payable on foreign watches, and every boot consigned to him from Paris had contained in its high heel a cavity large enough to hold a watch. The great profits obtained by the trade in smuggled watches made it possible for this tradesman, when he had filled up their heels, to sell the boots under prime cost. This was worth while, again, because of course, by the extension of his heel trade he increased his power of importing watches duty free.

Prompt attention to the requirements of customers will be one of the characteristics of the Calcutta House under the new management. Daily News.

MR. MOWAT'S PROTEGE.

How Our Attorney General Adorns the Bench—Rewarding Crime.

The following document, which is published by the Lindsay Warder, speaks for itself. It was forwarded to Mr. Mowat, who, however, having placed S. S. Peck on the Bench, still maintains him there in spite of decency or honesty:—

HALLIBURTON, July 17th, 1883.

To the Hon. Mr. Mowat, Toronto:

Moved by Mr. GOULD, seconded by Councilor AGNEW.—That the Council of the Municipality of Dysart, in the Provisional County of Haliburton, do respectfully request your Honorable Government to displace Samuel Stanley Peck from the office of Stipendiary Magistrate of the said County, for the following reasons:

1st. That the said S. S. Peck, when County Treasurer of said County, did take one thousand dollars of county money and appropriated the said sum to his private use.

2nd. That the said S. S. Peck was tried by the court and found guilty. He is now a defaulter to this county to the sum of seventeen hundred dollars.

3rd. That this Council did pass a motion to have him removed from office as a criminal. Although that motion saved him from being arrested as a criminal, nevertheless he is a criminal, and the residents of this county look on him as such.

4th. That the said S. S. Peck is not a resident of this county; he has neither home nor office in this county; he is only a lodger; his place of abode is in the United States, where his family now reside.

5th. That the said S. S. Peck cannot hold five dollars worth of property in his own name anywhere in this county.

6th. That the said S. S. Peck did, unknown to this Council, dictate and persuade our assessor to assess the municipality of Dysart below its real value in favor of the English Land Company, for the purpose of destroying the credit of the county by defrauding the railway debenture holders and bondholders of this county, altogether against the wishes of the ratepayers and against the welfare and prosperity of this municipality. We consider that your Government have done a great injustice to the honest and industrious people of said county by placing therein the said S. S. Peck as Stipendiary Magistrate, a man whom the people have no confidence in whatever.

We would humbly request your honorable Government to appoint an honest man to the office of Stipendiary Magistrate for the Provisional County of Haliburton, or to appoint Mr. Whitlock, a gentleman who has the confidence of the population of the whole county.

And your petitioners will humbly pray.

SAVED FROM THE FLAMES.

One of the most thrilling adventures that has taken place in Montreal occurred on Saturday last, in which a little girl named Mary Cheney, living at No. 10, St. Martin street, was saved from a horrible death by the bravery of a boy. The circumstances of the case are as follows:—The little girl started from her home as usual that morning, to attend the Royal Arthur school, on Workman street, and on her way she passed a house on St. Joseph street, between Belgrade and Chatham streets, where some men were busy tarring the roof. Seeing a fire on the roadside and a large pool of tar she thought she would have some fun, so dipping a stick in the tar and then in the fire, she found some amusement herself by running about with her self-made firework, until at last the thought struck her that it was nearly school time, and dropping her fiery plaything, rushed off to her duties, quite ignorant that a spark from the burning stick had ignited her dress. On approaching the school house some of the boys noticed that her clothes were smoking, and with one accord they took off their caps and tried to put out the smoldering fire, but their action only made matters worse, and very soon the fire broke out and the little girl was

ENVELOPED IN FLAMES, which would soon, perhaps, have ended in a most fearful tragedy had it not been for the presence of mind of a little son of Police Sergeant Parker, who lives on the other side of the street and who, happening to be looking out of the window at the time, took the whole thing in at a glance. Running out he told the girl to come to his father's house at once, and, laying hold of her, the little fellow, who is only eleven years of age, pulled her inside, and ran up the stairs at the same time calling his mother, who at once saw the state of affairs, and immediately pulled off the victim's smoldering jacket, when the cruel flames, now having a larger space became more furious than before. The child seemed nothing but but Mrs. Parker's presence of mind did not forsake her; she threw the child upon the floor, and ran to the water-tap, and obtaining a bucket full of water, she dashed it over the child, and very soon had the flames in subjection. The girl was at once stripped, and although her clothes were nearly burned off her, the only injuries received were on the legs, which were scalded by some slight burns. The rescued child, after recovering from her fright, was wrapped up and sent home. Great credit is due to the presence of mind of the brave little fellow who rushed from his father's house first in the nick of time to save the girl from a horrible death, for his father told our reporter that nobody else but he seemed to realize her danger. While he was taking the child upstairs a piece of her burning dress fell upon the carpet and ignited it, which, however, was speedily attended to, and the fire extinguished. Being asked by his mother what he would have done, had the house been burnt down through his act of bringing the little burning girl there, at once replied: "What do I care as long as I have saved the little child's life."

Charles William Selmons, D.C.L., F.R.S.

Charles William Selmons, who died in London on Tuesday last, was born at Lenthe, near Hanover, in 1825. He was educated at Göttingen; went to London in 1843 and founded there in 1853 a branch of the Berlin establishment, making telegraph instruments at Woolwich, and having steel works at Ludlow, in Wales. He was the author of numerous inventions, of which the principal are a process of "anastatic printing," a chronometric governor for controlling the motion of astronomical instruments, a regenerator for recovering the heat emitted at the exhaust port of color engines, a water meter extensively used in Europe (in connection with his brother Frederick), a regenerating gas furnace for the production of high-quality steel, and a rotary furnace for making iron and steel direct from the ore. He has been connected with telegraph engineering since 1848. He has published works "On a Regenerative Steam Engine," and a work on electrical resistance in conductors. He was a D.C.L. of Oxford, a Fellow of the Royal Society, and a member of all the great technological and scientific bodies of England and the Continent of Europe.

THE ADIRONDACK FORESTS.

The forest region popularly known as the Adirondack wilderness extends over a territory of nearly 2,500 square miles, including within its limits large areas of swamp, lake, and bare mountain tops. Nearly 1,000 square miles of this territory are probably already owned by the State of New York, which has gradually become possessed of the lands through the failure of former owners to pay taxes upon them.

It has long been the custom among owners of Adirondack forest property to cut off the forests as rapidly as a market could be found for the logs, and then abandon the worthless land to the State. It follows that the State lands are not in one or more large, compact bodies, but are widely scattered throughout the wilderness, and are not now covered with any considerable forest growth. The possessions of the State, therefore, great as they are in the aggregate, cannot at present greatly influence the water supply of the upper Hudson basin. In spite of the fires, however, which have swept over such portions of the wilderness as now belong to the State, destroying a little fertility the soil once possessed, forests will grow up again upon these lands in the natural course of events. Years, however, must elapse before these new forests, even if successfully protected from further damage by fire, can be expected to exert any considerable influence upon the water supply of the State.

The law which prohibits the sale of any portion of these lands is a step in the right direction. It is only a step, however, in order to insure a permanent flow of water from the northern part of the State, the whole Adirondack region must be preserved in perpetual forests. As long as bodies of timber, the property of private individuals, remain scattered among the State lands, it will be hopeless to undertake the preservation of the detached portions of the forest belonging to the state. Fire follows the axe of the lumberman, and nothing can prevent the spread of fire from private to public lands. If the private owners of the forest in the Adirondack region continue the lumbering operations now projected, the destruction of the entire wilderness is inevitable. The fires, which will find abundant material in the dry tops and branches of trees scattered by the lumbermen about their camps, will sweep year after year over the entire territory now occupied by the northern woods, gradually converting it into a barren desert, incapable of producing again even the most insignificant forests, until the growth and decay of generations of humble plants shall have returned to its former portion of its lost fertility. Nature heals such wounds made on the earth's surface very slowly even in a climate of our own, and centuries, perhaps, will elapse before the forests of northern New York, once thoroughly destroyed by fire, can be made to flourish again. During such a transition period, possibly extending through many years, the Erie Canal will remain useless for the want of water; the upper Hudson will no longer be a navigable stream; towns and villages now rich and prosperous will be deserted; and the commerce of a mighty nation will be diverted from its natural channels.

If it is desirable to prevent such far-reaching calamities, no half-way measures should be adopted. If our water supply is to be maintained, the state must speedily acquire control of the whole Adirondack wilderness, and govern it in a manner to insure it against the danger of total destruction by fire. Nothing short of entire, absolute control can produce the desired result. The Erie Canal and the Hudson River cannot be saved by any ill-considered measures or the makeshifts of mistaken economy.—*N. Our Canadian Silk Industry is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Reid, Wilk, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly bear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to examine the goods of their own brand, and see that their names are on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

HARPER'S BAZAR.

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is at once the most brilliant and useful Household Journal in existence. It is the acknowledged arbiter of fashion in this country. Its fashion plates are the newest and most stylish; and its pattern sheet supplements and economic suggestions alone are worth many times of the cost of subscription. Its illustrations of art, portraiture, and the like are of the highest order. Its stories, poems, and essays are but the first American and European authors. Its choice art pictures would fill portfolios, and its humorous essays are the most amusing to be found in any Journal in America. A host of brilliant novelties are promised for 1884.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1893.

To-Night.

The social which will be held in the school room of St. Paul's Church this evening promises to be a very pleasant and successful one. Do not fail to attend.

G. F. A. S.

The Girls Friendly Aid Society in connection with St. John's Church, will give a musical and literary entertainment in the chapel this evening. A good programme has been provided, and the best local talent secured.

Poultry Association.

The annual meeting of the Midland Central Poultry Association will be held this evening in the room adjoining the council chamber at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is particularly requested.

Personal.

The tenth anniversary of the Baptist Chapel in Belleville, of which the Rev. E. J. Stobo is rector, was held on Monday evening. Satisfactory progress was reported. Sixteen members were added to the church which is now out of debt.

St. Andrew's Society.

The annual sermon in connection with the above society will be preached by the Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., in St. Paul's Church on Sunday evening, the 25th inst., at seven o'clock. A collection as usual will be taken up for the charitable fund of the society.

Anglo-Israel.

The Rev. Jas. Cleland, of Port Hope, will deliver a lecture in St. Andrew's Church on the evening of Thursday, Dec. 6th, on the "Anglo-Israel" theory. The reverend gentleman takes an opposite view to that held by the Rev. Dr. Wild, and an instructive lecture may be expected. Tickets 25 cents.

Commercial Men will find ample accommodation at the Calico House, Daily News.

Organ Recital.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Chas. Ewing, organist of St. John's Church, assisted by the choir, will give a grand organ recital in the church, on or about the 12th of December. This will be a rich musical treat, as were the two recitals given last winter, and the event will be looked forward to with pleasure.

Peterborough Presbytery.

A special meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough was held on Wednesday in the First Presbyterian church, Port Hope, at 10.30 a.m. The calls from Orangeville and Guelph to the Rev. E. J. Beattie were considered. Delegates were present from both the above named churches and from the Presbyteries of Toronto and Guelph.

Anniversary Services.

The anniversary services in connection with the George Street Methodist Church will be held on Sunday and Monday, Dec. 30th and 31st. The Rev. A. Carman, D.D., General Superintendent, will preach the anniversary sermons on Sunday and deliver a lecture on Monday evening.

Literary Society.

A meeting was held in Curwell Hall on Wednesday evening to organize a young men's literary society. Officers were appointed pro tem., and the question, "Should women be allowed to vote at Parliamentary elections?" was discussed and decided in the affirmative. The next meeting will be held in the same hall on next Wednesday evening.

The Baptist Church.

At a meeting of the congregation of the Baptist Church held on Wednesday evening it was decided to extend a call to the Rev. A. H. Munro, of Montreal. Mr. Munro, who occupied the pulpit of this church on Sunday last, is an able and eloquent speaker. There was great unanimity of feeling in regard to the call, and it is hoped that the reverend gentleman will see his way clear to accept it.

Wm. Bow & Co's
Celebrated Indian Pale Ale on draught at St. James' Hotel. Try it.

The police cells were tenanted by two tramps last night.

Prof. Segalies'

Dancing class in the Orchestra Rooms is a success, and the evening is changed from Wednesday to Monday in the future.

Theft in Lakeside.

The police on Wednesday evening received a telegram from Joe Stabler, of Lakeside, giving the description of a man whom the despatch stated had stolen fifty odd dollars that morning.

Rare Birds.

Four birds of a rare kind have recently been brought from the neighbourhood of Apsley to Mr. O. G. Langford, to be dressed. They are known as the imperial woodpecker, and are a large bird with a red head, much larger than the common woodpecker.

A Grand Chance.

On the first day of December next there will be offered for sale at the office of Mr. C. A. Weller, that valuable house and lot on Antrim street, known as the late David Carlsle property. It is situated in the healthiest and most picturesque portion of the town, and all those desirous of purchasing town property should be on hand at the sale.

Bound Over to Keep the Peace.

On Wednesday afternoon Alexander Ritchie, of Galway, who had been committed by Mr. Mansfield, J. P., was brought before His Honor Judge Dean, at the Court House, charged with having assaulted his wife. There were two charges preferred against him, and he was convicted and fined twenty cents on each of them. He was also bound over to keep the peace for one year, bonds in sums of $100 each to be given by two securities and he to give bonds for $200 himself.

A Runaway.

A runaway occurred this morning on George street. A horse belonging to Mr. George Ward was standing at Mr. Wainwright's butcher shop, and a boy was holding it by the head. Mr. Ward got into the buggy, and while straightening the robe over the seat the horse became frightened. It made a plunge, and Mr. Ward was thrown out over the back of the buggy, but he escaped with a severe shaking by the fall. Having broken away from the boy, the horse ran down George street, and at the corner of Brock street the buggy was overturned. The animal proceeded down Water street to Hunter street with the shafts, and was caught near the Temperance House. One wheel, an axle, the dash board of the buggy were broken, but the horse was apparently uninjured.

Money Stolen.

During the afternoon, on Saturday last, a sum of money was stolen from the till in Mr. L. Laplante's butcher shop in the market building. Although the theft was kept quiet for some days in the hope that something might turn up to point towards the thief, no clue has been discovered. On that afternoon there were several persons in the stall, and Mr. Laplante stepped out into the corridor, where meat was hanging up, and it is supposed that while he was thus engaged the drawer was opened and the money extracted. There is a combination lock on the drawer, but Mr. Laplante thinks that he might have closed it in his haste and not turned the combination. There were three ten dollar bills and three five in one compartment, and these were taken, while two $2 bills in another compartment were untouched, which appears to show that the thief had not much time to spare.

A Popular Pastor.

The Rev. R. J. Beattie, of Port Hope, appears to be a popular clergyman, as he is wanted by more than one congregation. His congregation at Port Hope wishes him to remain there, and he has received calls from Orangeville and Guelph. The Presbytery of Peterborough met in Port Hope on Wednesday. There were eleven ministers and two elders present. The two calls extended to Mr. Beattie occupied the attention of the Presbytery from 10.30 a.m. until 2 p.m., and it was finally unanimously agreed to translate him to Guelph. There is, of course, disappointment felt at both Port Hope and Orangeville. Two representatives were present in support of the Orangeville call and four from Guelph. Mr. Beattie was heard by the Presbytery, but left the matter entirely in their hands. It is expected that Mr. Beattie will preach his farewell sermon on the 2nd of December, which date will complete the fifth year of his pastorate. The Rev. Mr. Carmichael, of Norwood, will proclaim the pulpit vacant on the following Sabbath. The Rev. Mr. Cleland has been appointed moderator of sessions during the vacancy.

The Late Templeton Brown.

Mr. Templeton Brown was fifth son of the late Rev. Wm. Brown, of Leith, Scotland. His father moved to Belfast, Ireland, where he died, leaving a widow with six sons and one daughter, who was advised to come to Canada. Mr. Templeton Brown was born in 1830 and came to Canada in 1852. On their way out they were shipwrecked, losing everything but their lives. On arriving in Montreal, his mother and eldest brother died of cholera, after a few hours illness, leaving the others to strangers. Mr. Templeton Brown was placed in Savage and Lyman's establishment, where he remained until 1849, when he came to Peterborough, where his surviving brothers had already settled. Shortly afterwards he married Miss Flood, daughter of the late Major Flood, County Louth, Ireland, and resided at the Hon. T. A. Stewart. Going to the States for a time their eldest son died. They subsequently returned to Peterborough, and continued in business up to the time of his death. He will be long remembered for the pleasure ever enjoyed whether in public or private from his talent for music. He leaves a widow, three sons, and one daughter to mourn his loss and many warm sympathizing friends.

The most incredulous are forced to admit that the perfection in colors the Triangle Dye has no equal. Ask for three colored packages, and see that you get it. 10 cents.

POLICE COURT.

SENTENCED.

THURSDAY, NOV. 22.—Mary Barabart was again brought up on remand, charged with theft. She was sentenced to one year's confinement in the Mercer Reformatory at Toronto.

A Large Membership.

The Temperance Society and Band of Hope in connection with St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, have a membership of 112.

Cooler Weather.

The weather to-day has been clear and fine. It was cooler this afternoon.—The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong south-west to west winds, clearing and cooler weather.

Visitors to Peterborough who seek comfort and convenience, a Table well supplied, and an Hotel complete in all respects, should stop at the Calico House, Daily News.

Winter Prices.

Under the august presence of Jack Frost our oyster trade has become very brisk. We are having a lively run on our superior large bulk Oysters, which we are now selling at 35c per quart. Our customers tell us that they are the best for the money in town. Canned Oysters at all prices according to quality. Try our Selects, 40c per can. When once used they will recommend themselves. The public can rely at all times on getting nice fresh Oysters, as we import direct from the packers in Baltimore, therefore we are always sure of getting fresh stock. Don't forget the place, north store, opposite the express office; south store, opposite the market square, George street.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1883.

THE Toronto World, an independent journal, that often proves to be well informed, withdraws its statement copied from another paper that Mr. Crooks is restored to health. It has learnt on good authority that Mr. Crooks' retirement from his law firm was only precursory of his retirement from the Government and probably from the House. It also states that there has been much cabinet discussion as to his successor, and that the names of Mr. G. W. Ross and Mr. Harcourt have been mentioned. While regretting the cause of Mr. Crooks' retirement, we must say that his management of the Educational Department has been most prejudicial.

After the above was in type we learned that Mr. Crooks had resigned, and Mr. G. W. Ross had been appointed Minister of Education.

THE independent press is often very severe upon party journals for being too much swayed by political motives. We may remark that there may be far more objectionable influences than political partisanship, for instance personal interests. The Montreal Star has been severely attacked by Mr. Monseigneur, without bringing definite charges that can be refuted, in reference to the Citizens' Gas Co. of Montreal, in which the Star has a large pecuniary interest. Mr. Alex. Jacques, well known in printing offices, under the sobriquet of "the old man" now writes to the Ottawa Citizen to enquire if the Mr. Graham who is most conspicuous in this attack, is the same as the person who dined him out of $200 due for services rendered by him.

THE RAT PORTAGE OUTRAGE.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—Provincial Chief of Police Constantine left this morning for Rat Portage to serve a writ of habeas corpus obtained by Attorney-General Miller in the case of Officer Creighton, arrested by the Grit special. The writ is addressed to Stipendiary Magistrate Lyon and Gaoler Mackay. Brigadier Burden was in Winnipeg to-day, in an interview he said, "We intend to hold the territory in the face of everything. The Manitoba and Dominion Governments may do what they please in the matter, but Mr. Mowat intends to hold the territory independent of any action that may be taken by the others. I did arm my men, and instructed them to shoot under certain circumstances, but did not tell them to make wholesale slaughter."

POLICE COURT.

INTOXICATED.
FRIDAY, Nov. 22.—John Holland was charged by P. C. Adams with being drunk on the evening of Thursday, Nov. 22. On being asked what he could say for himself, the prisoner could furnish no valid excuse. On his asserting that he had not even fifteen cents about him by which to pay any fine, the Magistrate remarked that it was too bad to incarcerate so able-bodied a man, and after extracting from the now penitent culprit a promise never to be caught again, and threatening the utmost severity should he break it, John Holland was allowed to depart.

MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

A CORRESPONDENT KILLED.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—It is believed the correspondent of the London Graphic, who accompanied Hicks Pasha, was killed.

HICKS PASHA DEFEATED.

CAIRO, Nov. 22.—Hicks Pasha's army has been destroyed by the forces of the False Prophet. The intelligence of the disaster was brought to Khartoum by a Coptic official. The fighting continued from the 3rd to the 15th inst., and resulted in the complete annihilation of the Egyptians. It is stated that a European artist is the only person that escaped. Hicks Pasha's army, early in the battle, was divided into two bodies, but subsequently re-united and formed a square, which the forces of the False Prophet broke after three days' desperate fighting.

STRENGTH OF HICKS PASHA.

CAIRO, Nov. 22.—Official accounts state that Hicks Pasha had ten thousand five hundred men.

TROOPS AT KHARTOUM.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A council of Ministers has decided to concentrate at Khartoum what Egyptian troops remain at Dumm, Gobi, and other places in the Sudan. Hicks Pasha had 25,000 men. There were ten British officers. O'Donovan, of the London Daily News, and an artist connected with a German paper, accompanied him.

ABANDONMENT ADVISED.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—It is understood that Sir Evelyn Wood has advised the Egyptian Government to abandon the Sudan and establish a strong frontier line from Khartoum to the Red Sea. It is reported that orders for the evacuation of Egypt by the British troops have been countermanded, and that they will remain to fight El Mahdi's forces. An extra detachment of British troops will probably be sent for at once.

WAR VIRTUALLY DECLARED.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The members of the Chinese Embassy have completed preparations to leave Paris. What was probably their last communication with France was the delivery of the ultimatum that the attack upon Bacunib will be regarded as a declaration of war. All the powers have received notification of the ultimatum. It is considered probable that the embassy has private information that the French have already marched upon Bacunib, and that war has actually commenced.

CHINA'S ATTITUDE.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A Berlin despatch says China has issued a circular declaring she has done her utmost to preserve peace, but the demands of the French are so exorbitant that she can only maintain her present attitude and abide the result.

A CONSERVATIVE VICTORY.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Mr. Milner (Conservative) was elected to Parliament for York to-day, to succeed Mr. Leaman (Liberal), deceased.

DISORDERS IN PRAGUE.

PRAGUE, Nov. 22.—A violent German demonstration took place at the opening of the Czech theatre here last night, and was suppressed by the police and military.

FRENCH POLITICS.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Times says:—"M. Chasselain-Lacour's resignation has at length cleared France of the bilious attack for which she has been making Europe suffer." The same paper says, "When the King of Prussia speaks of peace there is little likelihood of war, though the watch dogs of French and German journalism snarl fiercely." M. Le Roy Beaulieu, the famous French accountant, tells his countrymen:—"Seldom in the whole course of history has the situation of France from the international point of view been more precarious."

THE FARNELL BANQUET.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—At the forthcoming banquet to be given in Dublin to Mr. Farnell, speeches will be delivered in the native tongue by two members of the Gaelic Union.

THE ENGLISH RACING SEASON.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The English racing season, which closes to-morrow, is only remarkable for the deaths of Lord St. Leonards, Prince Batthyany, and Mr. Sterling Crawford, by which many promising nominations become void.

THE VIENNA EXHIBITION.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—The Electrical Exhibition here has resulted in a deficit of 30,000 florins, and half the guarantee fund is lost.

DR. STOCKER'S LECTURE.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Dr. Stocker's lecture in St. Stephen's club has caused trouble among the members, some of whom have resigned.

EVIDENCE FOR O'DONNELL.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A young woman who was with O'Donnell on the steamer Melrose Castle, and witnessed the whole affair between Carey and O'Donnell, is expected to give important evidence.

MATCHES IN AMERICAN COTTON.

GENEVA, Nov. 22.—Large importations of American cotton have found their way into matches in boxes, which were evidently placed there with incendiary intent.

THE FRENCH IN TONGKIN.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—It is reported that the French troops in Tongkin are suffering from dysentery. The latest news confirms the report that Sontay is powerfully fortified by the Chinese.

AN AMERICAN EDITOR HONORED.

ROME, Nov. 22.—The Pope has created F. W. Dawson, editor of the News and Courier of Charleston, Sir Knight of the Order of St. George, for the stand he has taken in his paper against duelling.

MR. LOWELL ELECTED.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Mr. Lowell was elected Rector of St. Andrew's University, defeating Mr. Gibson by eighteen votes.

MORRIS RANGERS' LIABILITIES.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The unsecured liabilities of Morris Ranges, the bankrupt cotton broker, are £200,000; assets, £9,000.

MURDER BY A BEPOY OFFICER.

ACCOUNT OF THE DISASTER IN EGYPT.

CAIRO, Nov. 23, 4 a.m.—Merchants arriving at Dumm bring accounts of a terrible battle between the troops of Hicks Pasha, and the followers of El Mahdi, the False Prophet. General Hicks Pasha's army is utterly annihilated. When Hicks Pasha reached Nimus, near the Obeld hills, he divided his army into two parts, sending one-half to demand the surrender of the fortress. El Mahdi, advancing from the south-east, met this portion and sent forward detachments saying, "We, like you, are Mussulmen. Why fight? Surrender to the dervishes." They were received with a volley and fighting then began. Hearing the fighting General Hicks came up, and his whole force formed a square. The Arabs attacked with reckless valour. The camels stampeded and confusion was caused among the camp followers, who numbered two thousand. The Egyptians fought well, and at evening the Mahdi fell back. Next day he found allies in the soldiers captured at El Obeld. The battle raged all day. On the third morning the square was broken, and General Hicks' force was annihilated. The name of the one surviving European is given as Power. Others say it is O'Donovan, others Merriville. The Standard of this morning publishes the following despatches from Cairo:—"El Mahdi is now near Khartoum. If he must—Khartoum there is no good defensible point between him and Cairo. The situation is desperate. Even if it is possible to concentrate all the Sudan troops at Khartoum, they would form a garrison of only four or five thousand men. General Wood's small army is needed at home. There are no elements of resistance to El Mahdi's hosts. The general belief is that Turkey will reconquer the lost provinces. Egypt alone is incompetent. Should the powers refuse Turkish intervention, they must agree upon joint action or let England undertake a definite protectorate. El Mahdi will not rest content with the conquest of the Sudan."

The London Financial Association.

The action brought on Tuesday by the London Financial Association for $1,000,000 is expected to become historic as the largest on record.

Twenty Million Dollar Suit.

A suit involving twenty million dollars was commenced at San Francisco on the 20th, the widow and heirs of John Bowle Gray, against the Quaker Oats Company. Gray, one of the original proprietors of the mine, died in New York in 1881. The action is based on fraudulent administration of the property by Robert J. Walker, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, partner of the deceased.

Electric Light for Parliament.

Workmen from the Edison Electric Light Co. of New York have arrived at Ottawa for the purpose of making arrangements for the establishing of the electric light in the Senate corridors. The United States Electric Light Company will put the light in the lobby of the House of Commons. After six weeks' trial the Government will either make a contract with one or both as to supplying the light in the future, if the test proves satisfactory.

The "Globe" and the C. P. R.

The Montreal Herald, a reform journal says:—"It would be more creditable to the Toronto Globe if, instead of giving everything to party, it would yield something to patriotism. Canada has entered into a contract with certain capitalists to build a great national highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The highway is being built with a rapidity that is amazing to the Globe and its friends, who predicted a very different result."

A Dangerous Madman at Large.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 21.—A strange man has been terrorizing the people of the southern part of Ohio county. Yesterday morning he went to the home of George Powell howling like a wild beast and frothing at the mouth. He fractured Mrs. Powell's skull with a club and ran off with her little son. The neighbours started in pursuit and found the child's body five miles from the house. The man is still at large.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

KINCARDINE, Nov. 21.—About 2.30 this afternoon a loud report like a twenty-one-pounder was heard in the town, and while the citizens were conjecturing the cause word was received that the tug Erie Belle, owned by Odette and Wherry, of Windsor, which arrived at this port on Tuesday morning to take off the beached schooner Carter, had blown up and all hands were lost. On going to the scene of the disaster it was found that the boiler of the tug had exploded and the vessel itself was shattered to pieces, but fortunately the lives of eight of the crew of twelve had been saved. It is supposed that the pumps which supplied the boiler became choked in some manner and this was not noticed by the first engineer, who was in charge, the water got low, and when the water did find its way into the boiler the explosion occurred.

A Lawyer's Opinion of Interest to All.

J. A. MOWAT OFFICIAL.

"The instinct of the British nation makes it feel that on local government political freedom depends."—Dissent.

Not only in the British Islands but in the greater Britain beyond the seas, is implanted this instinct, which the great Conservative leader values so highly as a basis of political freedom. Certainly Canada, and its leading Province, Ontario, are not recent in this respect, hence the strong feeling of condemnation that has been evoked by Mr. Mowat's deliberate attempts to foster centralization at the expense of the principle of local self-government.

In the recent trial of election petitions we have had fresh proof of the fact that by the loss of local government political freedom is endangered. In every case there has been evidence of the influence exerted by the officials, the right to appoint whom Mr. Mowat has wrested from local authorities, in order that the power thus centralized might conduce to his political benefit. Especially is this true of the liquor license officials. Last year the Department had to issue a general circular, warning them that the law was not being properly enforced, and inviting better attention to their duties. Yet these officials, who could not find time (or inclination) for their proper work, had ample leisure and will be to most active electioneers. In case after case we read of license officials in the thickest of the fray for their political masters; now it is a license inspector holding a political caucus in his office, then a license commissioner treating, a license inspector canvassing license holders, a license commissioner encouraging a repealer, a license inspector sanctioning open houses on polling day, a license commissioner flying from an election court, and so on, in almost infinite variety of the use of their official influence for the political advantage of their centralizing masters.

Formerly the control of the license was a local affair. With the salutary growth of a temperance sentiment, the necessity no doubt arose for improvements both of the law and of its administration. A true Reformer would have availed himself of what was good in the existing system, and have introduced the requisite amendments. But Mr. Mowat, being only a sham Reformer, with a hatred alike of local self-government and political freedom, seized the opportunity of centralizing more power in his own hands for his political aggrandizement. He pledged himself that in carrying the power of appointing these officials, he would not be guided by political considerations. What, however, was a pledge worth when his political existence was at stake? Last session Mr. Mowat showed his regard for his word, and insulted the Conservative temperance men, by claiming that he was obliged to appoint officials of his own party, as he could not otherwise get the law enforced.

His subterfuges cannot hide the truth. Mr. Mowat was not actuated by a desire to encourage temperance so much as by a craving to wrest from the local authorities a larger share of the license fund to add to his depleted treasury, and above all to usurp from them patronage to be used in the partisan manner that has become a by-word.

With a proper law to regulate the liquor traffic, its administration may most advantageously be left in local hands. By such means can local opinion most readily have its due weight and local requirements receive intelligent consideration. In the Mother Country the licensing is thus left to local authorities. There the most advanced temperance advocates do not clamour for centralization, but they are agitating for a permissive bill—for local option, so that a local temperance feeling, where existing, may be put in action.

Mr. Mowat, on the other hand, wishes to do away with local management, that by a system of centralization he may secure official electioneers at the expense of the localities thus deprived of a voice in the management of their own affairs. He wants neither local government nor political freedom, but the power in his own hands to secure his political supremacy.

It is stated that M. Tirard will resign the French Ministry of Finance, and that M. Leon Say, the well-known economic writer, will succeed him.

The Allan Ship Company.

The Allan Shipping Company has withdrawn any further proceedings against the Winnipeg and will pay all the costs, estimated at $4,000.

INDEPENDENCE FOR THE NORTH-WEST.

Through the aid of their correspondents in Winnipeg, the American papers have been able to announce with a flourish of trumpets that the residents of the Canadian North-west are ripe for secession from the Dominion Confederation. The Chicago Tribune even goes so far as to ask them, when they do secede, to become a part and parcel of the United States, so that several more stars can be tacked on to the "star spangled banner." This does not, however, seem to be what the so-called secessionists want. They seemingly desire independence, which a weekly paper published in Winnipeg, hopes to see an accomplished fact not later than the year of grace 1890.

The correspondent of the St. Paul Pioneer-Press in Winnipeg, was one of the first to set the ball rolling, by the dispatch of the following special to that paper:— "Within the last few days an agitation has been inaugurated in favour of secession from the Dominion Confederation. It is the association of Manitoba and the North-West that is being advocated, and the movement will be properly organized next week, when meetings will be held and officers appointed."

The accredited correspondent of the Pioneer-Press in Winnipeg is a reporter on the staff of the Sun, who is noted for being always ready to turn an honest penny, and knowing that anything relating to secession, or annexation on the part of the British Colonies to the United States, would be eagerly seized on by the press of that country as particularly interesting to the American people, he did not lose the opportunity thus afforded of turning the penny, whether he thought the despatch was entitled to credence or merely humbug.

One of the chief causes of complaint among the agitators, the principal one of whom is some obscure lawyer, is said to be the tariff, "which is crushing the settler," but how the North-West would be benefited by annexation to the United States in this regard, we are at a loss to see. Perhaps the agitators are not aware that a protective tariff exists in the country lying south of Manitoba, but it exists all the same.

Then again they would be willing that the Canadian Pacific contract "should be foregone," and the portion of the line around the north shore of Lake Superior and across the Rockies be abandoned. If this were done Manitoba would be left, at least through the greater part of the year, at the mercy of the American railways, who could, as they have heretofore done, charge what freight rates they chose. This has always been a great cause of complaint among the residents of the North-West, who in summer by way of lakes and Canadian Pacific railroad, have to haul their goods at their doors for one-third less than by the St. Paul route.

The obscure lawyer referred to above goes on to say:—"Our mines are given to people who do not belong to the country." We venture to say a census of the mines has been taken in the country than the lawyer, and we are certain they have more to state there. No doubt the extent of his holding is a small rented office on Main street, and a meal ticket which he is made to do duty by in raising the funds from one of his clients in the Police Court to purchase another one. If the object sought to be obtained by these bogus despatches is to depreciate in value the stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway—and we can see no other—the work of the Winnipeg special correspondents and the so-called agitators will have been labor in vain.—Toronto Evening Canadian.

THE PETERBOROUGH WATER CO.

We have been requested to publish the following letter from the President of the Peterborough Water Company. The request it contains cannot be considered unreasonable, whether as regards the interests of the Company, or of those ratepayers who are paying a special rate for the use of the water to protect their property from fire. So far the Company has certainly been very liberal in allowing the use of its water, and also in supplying telephonic communication with the pump-house night and day at their own expense. While on the subject we may suggest that all that is now necessary to perfect the system is to have proper electric fire alarms. The following is the letter:—

Mr. Thomas Rutherford, Chief of Fire Department:—

SIR,—I think it cannot fairly be said that the Peterborough Water Company has been negligent with its water. Last summer the use of the hydrants was freely given to facilitate the watering of the streets without any charge to the town or the ratepayers. There was a great comfort to the inhabitants and a large saving of expense to the town; and at the same time the water was freely supplied without hesitation, and by that means large conflagrations were prevented. I think I may safely say that if water had been taken from the hydrants in the first place, instead of waiting till the steam fire engine had steam up at the tank, Fitzgerald's large brick factory would today have been intact. When at last the firemen threw water on the building from the water tanks the fire was soon extinguished. Fitzgerald's shops and Halpin's stables were both outside of the limits in which ratepayers are paying for water for fire protection, and the company was not, in any way, bound to supply water or attempt to stop these fires from spreading. But the Board has a duty to perform to the shareholders of the Company, and hereafter their interest must, in the first place, be considered.

The Company has WATER TO SELL, AND NOT TO GIVE AWAY. The cost of maintaining the works in running order both night and day, independent of the large capital invested in the works, is very large, and the Company must receive some remuneration for the water supplied, or shut down. Therefore be good enough hereafter not to take water from the hydrants for fire purposes unless permitted by the directors or officials of the Company; that is, when the fire is outside of the limits fixed by the town by-law, where the ratepayers are assessed for the use of the water.

I remain yours truly,

W. CLUXTON, President.

Excesses of Temperance.

Is a never-failing cause of disease. At this season of the year, however, it is a most common cause of disease. The great question, then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Fowler's Serrilline exactly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient, and most economical, for it cures in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10 cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottle only 25 cents. Both at Ormond & Walsh.

DEATH IN A HOSPITAL OF A RICH MIAER.

The Kingston News says:—

Of late we have had several sensations in Kingston—one a day for the last week. To-day a fresh one has come to light, in the shape of the death of a miser. It appears that some time ago an old man named Patrick Gardiner arrived in the city from Smith's Falls and sought admittance to the hospital. It was learned that he stated he was unable to maintain himself in his sickness and therefore wanted a place of refuge in which to spend his old days and probably the remainder of his life. He was under the impression that he would not get better of the disease from which he was suffering. He was admitted and made as comfortable as possible, and shortly after he was confined to his bed, and unable to walk out. It is said that when his clothes were off he kept his eyes constantly on them, fearing they might be stolen. On Sunday night he died, and, of course, his effects were searched with a view to discovering his friends and notifying them of his death, so that his body might be removed. The finding of the surprise of the authorities, on opening a dirty old piece of cotton, to find that it contained a deposit receipt for $1,680 and $148 in hard cash. The directors of the hospital were sent for on Monday morning and the patient's affairs related to them. They could hardly believe the story, but when they saw the receipt and the money their doubts were removed. They at once took possession of Gardiner's effects and took steps to find out his friends. The finding of Smith's Falls has been communicated with, and asked to hunt up Gardiner's people. It is said the deceased owned a valuable farm in the vicinity of the place named. It is not often that alleged poor people die, under the circumstances surrounding Gardiner's death, with so much wealth in their possession.

Success of Temperance in America.

At a meeting of the Church of England Temperance Society in London, on Tuesday, the Bishop of Dorchester alluded to the success of the temperance movement in America, where, he said, the cultured classes are rapidly increasing.

That popular hotel, the Caluso House, will be thoroughly overhauled and renovated at once by the new proprietors, Daly Bros.

Our Canadian Silk Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Hall & Co. use three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Hall & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

A WRONG OPINION.—Many a dollar is paid for prescription for some disease that never troubled the patient, and when the sale difficulty was worms, which a few of Freeman's Worm Powders would remove. These Powders are pleasant, safe and sure, contain their own cathartic, and are adapted for children or adults.

A WONDERFUL RESULT.—A single bottle of Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup has frequently destroyed from 100 to 200 worms. It is pleasant to take—no other cathartic being required. Tape worms have also been removed by it, 15 to 35 feet in length. It is effective for all varieties of worms afflicting both children and adults.

Harper's Bazar is at once the most brilliant and useful household journal in existence. It is the acknowledged arbiter of fashion in this country. Its fashion plates are the newest and most stylish, and the pictures about supplements and economic suggestions alone are worth many times of the cost of subscription. Its illustrations of art needlework are of the highest order. Its stories, poems, and essays are but the first American and European authors. Its choice art pictures would fill portfolios, and its humorous cuts are the most amusing to be found in any journal in America. A host of brilliant novelties are presented for 1884.

ARREST OF A SOCIALIST.

Internal Machines Found in His Possession —Composition of the Instruments.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The police at midnight arrested a man named Wolf, a member of the Advanced Socialist Club, in London. Two infernal machines, of sufficient power to demolish any building, were found in his house at Westminster. One consisted of a large zinc pail nearly filled with blasting powder and gun cotton covered with scrap iron, with a fuse at the bottom. The second was a large tin cooking utensil similarly prepared. It is reported the machines were intended to blow up the German embassy.

THE PRISONER'S HISTORY.
Wolf is a chemist and one of the leading Socialists of the metropolis. The machines were fitted with time fuses. There were ten pounds of explosive matter in each machine. Wolf is reported to be of German or Polish extraction, and has been engaged for some time at the wax-work exhibition of the Royal Aquarium. A violent explosion occurred four months ago at his residence, which he reported as an explosion of gas.

AT THE POLICE COURT.
Wolf was arraigned in court to-day, charged with knowingly having in his possession explosives for unlawful purposes. The prisoner asked for a German interpreter. Superintendent Williamson deposed that the prisoner had the infernal machines and was unable to give a satisfactory reason for the possession thereof. A policeman testified that the prisoner started to run when he approached. There were also found in his lodgings fourteen empty cans such as are used for powder and some documents. Including a letter to Count von Munster, the German ambassador, which says:—"If you wish freedom you must give us equality." It is signed "Proletarian." The prisoner said the things found must have been placed there by a Frenchman. A Frenchman named Bolderne gave the police information which led to Wolf's arrest.

CRICKETERS COMING TO CANADA.
The London Echo says:—"It is stated on the best authority that Lord Harris intends taking at the close of next season a team of English gentlemen cricketers to Canada. Besides Lord Harris the team will include the popular Lancashire captain, Mr. A. N. Hornby, and other well-known gentlemen players. The team will in every sense be a strictly amateur one, each member paying his own expenses, and the proceeds of the matches which will be arranged over time. The rest pursued the even tempo of their way. Of those which either stopped or lessened production two have gone on again, and the rest will follow suit forthwith."

THE IRISH NATIONAL LEAGUE.
The Irish National League convention at Syracuse last week was attended by upwards of 100 delegates from Irish societies throughout the State. The object is to organize the State of New York for assistance to Ireland's distress.
Dr. Wallace stated that the executive of the National League appealed for the fulfilment of its pledge by the Philadelphia convention to extend aid to Ireland, and that half a million Irishmen should be enrolled for Ireland's relief in this State not to use English manufactures as chairman. Upon the reassembling of the Irish convention in the afternoon Father Cronyn, of Buffalo, Chairman of the Comm. Com. on Resolutions, offered a series of resolutions, which were adopted. The resolutions, after reaffirming the principles of the Philadelphia platform, pledged the united support of all Irish organizations in this state to Mr. Parnell in any policy he may adopt for the advantage of the Irish cause. The resolutions continue:—"As the manufactures of Great Britain are the chief source of her material greatness, and are already declining under the influence of American competition, we earnestly counsel our countrymen
in this State not to use English manufactures themselves, and to discontinue their use in the sphere of their influence, and that a pledge to this effect be the condition of admission to membership of this National League." The resolutions recommending the postponing of the close of the American contributions to the Parnell fund until next St. Patrick's day. Father Cronyn, of Buffalo, offered a resolution, which was adopted, declaring that a special testimonial fund of $25,000 from the State of New York should be raised for Mr. Parnell. This fund is separate from the one being raised by the National League.

Killed by a Blast Explosion.
A blast exploded at the Levant mines on Thursday, when A. Tomkins, boss of the gang, had a leg blown off and his body injured. He was brought to the city and placed in the hospital where he died late last night. He leaves a wife and one child, and was an industrious young man.

Home Testimony.
Many hundred recommendations similar in character to the one given below have been received, and give proof of the great value of Parnell's Nervine as a pain remedy. Try it. At Ormond & Walsh's.
"I have used Parnell's Nervine, and have found it a most reliable remedy for cramps in the stomach, also for headache, and externally for rheumatic pains. No house should be without this invaluable remedy."
—Lulu Cole, Elkhart, Ind., U.S.A.

Mr. Drummond's successor.
Mr. Gaudry, of Halifax, formerly of New York, has been appointed manager of of Montreal, in Ottawa, vice Mr. Andrew Drummond, resigned.

Smallpox in Pennsylvania.
Smallpox is a malignant form has broken out at Otterville, Pa. Two girls named Higgins died yesterday, and another girl is in a precious condition. The disease is spreading.

Assault on a Salvationist.
A member of the Salvation Army from Kingston, named Loney, was badly beaten the other night at Harrowsmith by a crowd of roughs, and has since been confined to bed.

Constables for the Salvation Army.
Kingston, Nov. 22.—The police commissioners have sworn in nine Salvation Army constable, who will in future be on duty at the meetings. They will be supplied with badges by the commissioners.

Iron Ore shipment.
The first shipment of iron ore from the Cala-bogio mine was made on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway on Friday morning. There were two car loads. The line now connects with the mine, and a siding has been built for the accommodation of the company.

Renouncing The World.
An interesting event occurred in the House of Providence, Kingston, lately. Three young ladies made their final vows, giving up the pleasures and frivolities of the world for the service of God. Right Rev. Mr. Farrelly officiated, assisted by the Revs. Fathers Twibey, Spratt, and Deshaunes. The names of the young ladies were Miss Mary Cunningham, Kingston; Miss Leroy, Williamstown, and Miss Manion, Pittsburg.

An Unfortunate Enterprise.
At a meeting of the stockholders of the New Brunswick Steamship Company (Limited) held at St. John, N. B., on Wednesday, it was decided to wind up the affairs of the company. About $40,000 had been sunk by the venture. The stockholders will be refunded the amount of their investment after the loss has been deducted. The charter of the company will not be surrendered. This company was organized to run steamers between St. John and Liverpool. Their first steamer, the Cedar Grove, was lost on her first voyage out.

Cotton Industry of the Dominion.
Says the Ottawa correspondent of the Mail:—
"The great cry and little wool policy of the Opposition was never more clearly exhibited than in the noise they have made about the cotton factories. There are twenty-one cotton factories in the Dominion. Of these two supported operations for a time, and one worked over time. The rest pursued the even tempo of their way. Of those which either stopped or lessened production two have gone on again, and the rest will follow suit forthwith."

THE BRITISH ADMIRAL.
CAIRO, Nov. 23.—Orders have been sent to the British admiral commanding the East Indian station to support Egyptian interests in the Red Sea. He will be reinforced by gun-boats from the Mediterranean squadron.

THE SOUDAN LOST.
VIENNA, Nov. 23.—In a recent letter from Major Schuchman, who was with Hicks Pasha's ill-fated expedition, he says:—"If our cavalry officers for on-post duty, success is possible; otherwise the issue will be very disastrous. If we are defeated not a soul will return, and the entire Sudan will be irretrievably lost, since all the natives will believe El Mehdí is the Messiah."

nearly a hundred years. They are about twenty feet high.

THE English Fishing Gazette in noting the Canadian exhibit as "among the best" in the London International Fisheries Exhibition speaks well of the show of fishing tackle made by the Toronto firm, Alcock, Laight & Westwood.

An Englishman named Philip Bentley lost his life near Manchester lately in an attempt to save a lad from drowning. Residents of Manchester and Salford, assisted by several of the London swimming clubs, have raised $5,000 for Bentley's widow and children.

Explorations indicate that the district of Holderness, in Yorkshire England, may yet become celebrated for its exhumed lake dwellings and their relics. The district was once undoubtedly characterized by numerous lakes, but the sole water space now remaining is Hutton Mere,
a broad sheet more than a mile in length.

Some English judges are adopting the plan recommended by Mr. Howard Vincent at the social science congress—that is, in a case of a first offence, after extenuating circumstances, to suspend sentence, and require the accused to find one surety for his coming up for judgment
after a period of probation, when, if he is behav-
ing well, he is discharged.

A new clock has been erected in the tower of the royal courts of justice, London. The bells weigh respectively 12, 15, 21 and 47 hundred-weight. The hour bells weigh 68 hundred-weight. From the height of the tower and the size of the bells it is expected that the striking of the hours will be distinctly heard all over London.

Travellers received $240 for his first production and $35,000 for one of his last. Captain Marryat received $100,000 for one of his works, and Lord Lytton $150,000 for the copyright of the cheap edition of his works by Messrs. Routledge & Sons, in addition to the large amount paid at the time of their publication, while it is well known that Messrs. Longman paid Lord Beaconsfield $50,000 for "Eudymon."

MR. GLADSTONE'S reading of the lessons in Hawarden Church still attracts strangers on Sunday mornings, but many of them arrive at the church only to be disappointed, for he does not read the lessons regularly. Stephen Gladstone, the rector of the church, and the son of the statesman, writes to one of the Liverpool
papers that his father gives his assistance "only occasionally when needed," and that, therefore,
strangers who go to the church run the risk of disappointment. He adds that it is "obviously undesirable to announce when he will read the lessons."

FARNELL REFUSED A HALL.

COX, Nov. 23.—After a warm discussion the Board of Trustees refused the use of Exhibition Hall to Mr. Farnell for the delivery of an address to his constituents. Owing to his inability to obtain Exhibition Hall, Mr. Farnell has sent a telegram suggesting that the meeting be postponed. At a meeting this evening it was resolved to request Mr. Farnell to adhere to the original programme, and to notify him that a hall would be available.

SUFFERINGS OF PRISONERS.
ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 23.—A Nihilist organ gives harrowing details of the sufferings of political prisoners in the Peter and Paul fortress,
where it states they are treated like murderers.
No distinction is made between men and women between the sick and healthy. Several prisoners have gone mad and committed suicide.
Corporal punishment is frequent.

THE SOUDAN IN A BLAZE.
CAIRO, Nov. 23.—Kordofan is virtually lost.
Col. Custodian, who was at Duen, at once proceeded to Khartoum, which he is arranging to defend. He is also arranging to suppress the expected revolt by calling in all the outlying garrisons. All the Sudan is in a blaze. It cannot muster 4,000 regulars, all told. It will try to reach Suakin. The population of Khartoum is disaffected, and a crisis there is expected.

FRENCH ALLIES DISBANDED.
PARIS, Nov. 23.—Private advices from Saigon, French Cochinchina, state that Dr. Harmond, the French Civil Commissioner at Tonquin, disbanded the force of Yellow Flags on account of their barbarity and acts of rapine.

WAR CERTAIN.
PARIS, Nov. 23.—The Marquis Tseng has notified Earl Granville that war between China and France is certain.

COUNCIL OF WAR.
CAIRO, Nov. 23.—A council of war met yesterday to examine into the military situation, and to decide whether Khartoum or a point further north was tenable. No decision was reached, but the Government favours sending a strong force to Khartoum.

SUAKIM IN DANGER.
CAIRO, Nov. 23.—Unless very speedy action is taken it is feared that Suakin will fall into the hands of the tribes acting with the Fais Prophet. The latter is thought to be near Khartoum.
If Khartoum is captured there will be no good defensible position between Mahdia and Cairo, except Melich.

THE BRITISH ADMIRAL.
CAIRO, Nov. 23.—Orders have been sent to

to suspend sentence, and require the accused to find one surety for his coming up for judgment
after a period of probation, when, if he is behav-
ing well, he is discharged.

A new clock has been erected in the tower of the royal courts of justice, London. The bells
weigh respectively 12, 15, 21 and 47 hundred-weight. The hour bells weigh 68 hundred-weight. From the height of the tower and the size of the bells it is expected that the striking
of the hours will be distinctly heard all over London.

Travellers received $240 for his first production
and $35,000 for one of his last. Captain Marryat received $100,000 for one of his works, and Lord Lytton $150,000 for the copyright of the cheap edition of his works by Messrs. Routledge & Sons, in addition to the large amount paid at the time of their publication, while it is well known that Messrs. Longman paid Lord Beaconsfield $50,000 for "Eudymon."

MR. GLADSTONE'S reading of the lessons in Hawarden Church still attracts strangers on Sunday mornings, but many of them arrive at
the church only to be disappointed, for he does not read the lessons regularly. Stephen Gladstone, the rector of the church, and the son of the statesman, writes to one of the Liverpool
papers that his father gives his assistance "only occasionally when needed," and that, therefore,
strangers who go to the church run the risk of disappointment. He adds that it is "obviously undesirable to announce when he will read the lessons."

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1883.

Police News.

A tramp was the sole occupant of the police cells last night, and there was a clear sheet at the Court this morning.

The Late Mr. Keeler.

We learn from the Brighton Ensign that it has been determined to erect a monument over the remains of the late Mr. Keeler, M.P.P., the cost to be defrayed by subscription, not exceeding one dollar. The secretary is Mr. G. A. Payne, of Colborne.

A Good Investment.

Any person having a few thousand dollars to invest should not fail to attend the sale of the late David Carlisle property, which takes place at the office of Mr. C. A. Waller, on the first of December next. The brick dwelling house is large and in a good state of repair, while the garden is not surpassed by any in Peterborough.

Bazaar.

The ladies of St. John's Church intend holding a bazaar in aid of the organ fund on the 12th and 13th December. The assistance of the congregation is most earnestly solicited. Any contributions will be gratefully received by the ladies of the committee:—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Hammond; Secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick.

A Good Commencement.

The new time table came into force on the Midland this morning, and a good commencement was made, as the trains were all pretty much on time. The morning train from Toronto was eight minutes late, arriving here at 11.13 a. m., but this was a considerable improvement on the old time. Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, President; A. White, W. B. Ferguson, and J. G. MacMillan went west on the train in the morning in the official car. At Blackwater the train coming from Toronto was met, and the official car having been attached to it the party returned to Peterborough. Coming over the new line between Osnese and this town, the smoothness of the road, for a new line, was favourably commented on by the passengers. The new time table apparently gives satisfaction all along the line.

Winter Prices.

Under the august presence of Jack Frost our oyster trade has become very brisk. We are having a lively run on our superior large bulk Oysters, which we are now selling at 35c per quart. Our customers tell us that they are the best for the money in town. Canned Oysters at all prices according to quality. Try our Selects, 40c per can. When once used they will recommend themselves. The public can rely at all times on getting nice fresh Oysters, as we import direct from the packers in Baltimore, therefore we are always sure of getting fresh stock. Don't forget the place, north store, opposite the express office; south store, opposite the market square, George street.

Large Fire in Hespene.

NAPLES, Nov. 25.—At 11.20 last night the grocery store of Peter S. Hicks, next door to the post office in the Campbell house block, was discovered on fire. The fire brigade turned out promptly, and after two or three hours work succeeded in confining the fire to the west wing of the hotel block, which is a three story brick building, although the main body of the hotel is badly damaged by fire and water. The hotel has just been extensively repaired. The loss on the building is probably $14,000; loss on hotel contents, $5,000 or $6,000.

AMERICAN BISHOPS BANQUETTED.

ROME, Nov. 24.—Cardinal Jacobini, Pontifical Secretary of State, gave a banquet to-day in honour of the American bishops. Among the guests were the cardinals belonging to the Congregation of the Propaganda, rectors of the American colleges and several foreign prelates. The Americans met a cordial reception.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

HONG KONG, Nov. 24.—Three thousand Chinese troops attacked Haidong on the 17th. The French garrison was supported by a gunboat, and held out from nine o'clock in the morning until four p. m. when the Chinese retreated. The loss of the French land force was twelve killed and wounded. The French gunboat had its hull penetrated by the enemy's shot in several places, and eight of the crew were wounded.

CHINESE REINFORCEMENTS.

CANTON, Nov. 24.—Chinese reinforcements continue to arrive. War with France is regarded as inevitable.

A FRENCH OUTRAGE.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The British man-of-war Dryad, arrived at Zanzibar from Madagascar, reports that a French man-of-war bombarded the unfortified town of Vohemar, on the north coast of Madagascar, on November 8th, without giving any previous notice. Five British subjects were killed, and much property belonging to neutrals destroyed or plundered.

THE FENIAN COMMEMORATION.

DUBLIN, Nov. 24.—The authorities forbade the procession to the Dublin cemetery announced for to-day to commemorate the execution of Allen, Larkin and O'Brien. Crowds, however, marched to the cemetery, and small groups walked around their graves.

GUARDED BY POLICE.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Since the discovery of the infernal machines in Wolf's house the German Embassy has been guarded by police.

A FENIAN DEMONSTRATION.

DUBLIN, Nov. 24.—A great demonstration was announced for to-morrow to celebrate the unveiling of a memorial near Luttwal, County Kerry, to Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, but a proclamation has been issued forbidding it.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—M. de Lesseps, replying to an address from workmen, said:—"Great as our success has been in the Suez canal venture, I see more good for the future in the proposed Panama Canal."

FRENCH OPERATIONS.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Admiral Courbet, the French commander in Tonquin, telegraphs that all available troops have been ordered to Hanoi in order to begin operations. The enemy attacked Haidong on the 13th, but were repulsed. At the time of sending the despatch of the 17th cannon were heard in the direction of Haidong. A telegram from Saigon says the French began operations in Tonquin on the 20th inst.

THE CROWN PRINCE IN MADRID.

MADRID, Nov. 24.—At the conclusion of the opera last evening, which was attended by the Crown Prince of Germany, King Alfonso, and the royal family, the German anthem was performed by the orchestra amid tremendous cheering. The Prince acknowledged the compliment.

OPINION IN BERLIN.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—The defeat of Hicks has caused a painful sensation here, as eight German officers were with the expedition. It is the unanimous opinion that England cannot withdraw her forces from Egypt, and that she must avenge the murder of Commander Moncrieff, her consul, at Suakin, and others who were active opponents of the slave trade.

ASSAULTING MISSIONARIES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 21.—In his note to the Porte United States Minister Wallace insists that the person guilty of the assault on American missionaries be tried at Constantinople, as the Governor of Bitlis cannot be trusted to punish them.

THE SUDAN DEFEAT.

Cairo, Nov. 24.—Intense excitement prevails everywhere in Egypt; the country is not safe above the Second Cataract of the Nile. The Khedive has ordered the evacuation of the military posts in the Blue and White Nile, and the troops from these posts will be massed at Senaar and Khartoum. Three of the principal officers at Khartoum have been ordered to consult and adopt defensive measures. If necessary Senaar is to be abandoned and the troops are to be massed at Khartoum. All recognize the necessity of immediately re-opening the road between Suakin and Berber.

WITHDRAWAL POSTPONED.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The English Government has ordered a postponement of the evacuation of Cairo by the British. The Greek consul at Khartoum has telegraphed to Greek merchants to send no goods there.

THE FRENCH PRESS.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—A portion of the French press expresses delight at the defeat of Hicks, because, it is said, the success of a section of Muslim barbarians in Egypt threaten England's Indian empire, and France, by force of events, will be called upon to assume her old position in Egypt.

A CHARTER FOR RUSSIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—There is good ground for believing that the Czar some time ago selected Count Tolstol and Privy Councillors Pobedonostoff and Katkoff to elaborate a constitutional charter for the empire. The charter, it is said, will contain an organization more adapted to the spirit of the age. Representatives of the people are to be constituted as advisers of the Government. These reforms are granted in order to do justice to the universal desires of the people.

THE FREETHINKER.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Rameay, the proprietor of the Freethinker, who was sentenced to nine months imprisonment for publishing blasphemous libels, was released to-day. He was escorted from gaol by Bradlaugh and a large crowd, who cheered him. A public breakfast was then given him at the Science Hall.

AMERICAN PORK IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—It is expected the decree forbidding the importation of American pork will soon be withdrawn. Doctors state that the trichinosis in Saxony is produced by German meat.

THE SPANISH AMBASSADOR.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—President Grévy to-day received Senor Serrano, the new Spanish ambassador, with full military honours. A large crowd surrounded the building, but there was no untoward demonstration.

SINGULAR ASSAULT.

A Young Lady's Back Hair Cut off in Broad Daylight.

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 23.—This afternoon, in broad daylight, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Collins Burritt, while walking home from school, was seized by a ruffian, who covered her eyes with his left hand and out of the whole of her back hair with a knife he held in his right. He threw the hair on the ground saying, "Here, take that!" and ran away. No mother is known. The citizens are excited, and the police are hunting for the perpetrator.

MILLBROOK.

FIFTY days have passed since the Algoma election and still the returning-officer makes no sign of making the statutory return of the writ. It is whispered, however, that the party party dare not face the courts lest with the corruption of this contest, therefore, to evade the exposure, no return is to be made, and a new election ordered to be held next spring. The reported canvassing of voters here by Ontario officials gives color to this supposition. —Algoma Pioneer.

The Algoma Fraud.

Fifty days have passed since the Algoma election and still the returning-officer makes no sign of making the statutory return of the writ. It is whispered, however, that the party party dare not face the courts lest with the corruption of this contest, therefore, to evade the exposure, no return is to be made, and a new election ordered to be held next spring. The reported canvassing of voters here by Ontario officials gives color to this supposition. —Algoma Pioneer.

The Culpable Conflagration.

QUELLEN, Nov. 24.—By the intervention of a thick stone wall, the doors which were lined with sheet iron, one wing of Spence's large flouring mill was saved from destruction. This wing comprised but a small part of the mill, however, and will reduce the loss comparatively little. The total loss is estimated at upwards of $60,000, which is covered by an insurance of $45,000. There were about fifteen thousand bushels of wheat and between five and six hundred barrels of flour in the mill, none of which was saved. The origin of the fire is a mystery, there being no stove or heating apparatus where it is supposed to have first broken out.

Port Ferry in Flames.

At 1.15 this morning, Ald. Farley, Chairman of the Fire and Gas Committee, Toronto, received a telegram from the Reeve of Port Perry, stating that the whole town was in flames, and asking whatever assistance he could give as early as possible. Ald. Farley at once decided to send help to the burning town. He communicated with the Grand Trunk Railway, but that line had no car in readiness to convey the fire engine and hose, and would not be in a position to send them till half-past three o'clock. Ald. Farley wired the Reeve of Port Perry of the state of affairs, and asked if assistance at that time would be of any value, but had not received a reply up to 2.30. The Bay street station engine and hose were held in readiness to move.

Fair Play.

"Sir, you predicted a frost for the night of the 21st of September!" said an old farmer as he entered the Signal Office at Cleveland two or three days later.

"Yes sir."

"And it didn't come?"

"No, sir."

"Well, that prediction caught me with 800 bushels of apples on the trees, I sold the lot for half-price."

"Sorry, sir, but the bureau is sometimes mistaken."

"Well I want you to help me out of it. The chap who got my apples has 40 bushels of taters. If you will only predict a regular freeze-up for to-morrow night I'll get them taters for ten cents a bushel and come out all solid!" —Wall Street News.

A Good Man's Bad Luck.

Mark Twain's account of the good boy, who, unlike his prototype in the story books, is occasionally getting into trouble by behaving his best, is paralleled by the following recent report of the misadventures of a doctor in Lyons. As Dr. Monnet, the good man referred to, was passing along the streets he saw a drunken man fall down, and seriously injured himself. The benevolent physician hurried to the fallen and stupefied man, helped him up, and led him to a neighboring drug-store, where he bound up his wounds, and gave him a soothing potion. Scarcely had he finished his work, when the drunken man turned and struck him violently in the face. The doctor left in disgust; but as he was hurrying on his way the druggist came running after him with a bill of one franc and eighty centimes for the medicine given to the patient. The doctor refused to pay it, and went his way. Some days after the doctor received two official letters; one calling on him to pay the druggist's bill, the other summoning him to court to testify with regard to his drunken patient. The doctor, who was a busy man, neglected both letters. He was soon after visited by a bailiff, and compelled to pay a fine of forty-eight francs, and also, for the prescription, a total of forty-nine francs eighty centimes. Worse than all, the anecdotal anecdote by the visits of the police so damaged his reputation before a prospective father-in-law, that he missed an beau mariage.

THE FAITH CURE.—One who tried the faith cure declares she was cured—"cured of her faith"—Burdock Blood Bitters cures by works, not by faith alone. It is the grand specific for all diseases of Liver, Kidneys and Blood, purifying, regulating, and strengthening the vital fluids.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?—What is meant by "overdone" in a medical sense? "The secretions" are the powers of certain glands and organs of the body to hold and distribute the beautiful fluids of the system, such as bile from the liver, etc. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates all the organs of the secretions to make pure blood.

Mrs. J. McPHEE, Applin, writes:—"During the last eight years I have used almost every medicine recommended for Biliousness, but found nothing equal to Carson's Bitters. If you suffer try it. Price 50 cts."

THE use of Pills, Salts, Castor Oil &c. and other nauseous, griping Cathartics is unnecessary as a pleasant substitute is found in Dr. Carson's Bitters, which act as a Cathartic without griping or causing nausea. All Druggists sell it 50 cents a Bottle.

The Navy Blue, seal brown, olive green and other rich dark colors of the Triangle Dyes are as perfect as the brightest shades. They never disappoint the user. 10 cents.

A Timely Warning.
It is announced that Mr. G. W. Ross is again in the field for the House of Commons, and that "his friends mean to elect him in spite of all opposition." If that determination is carried out it may become necessary in the interests of purity and morality to have another election trial. The announcement should not have been made so boldly.—St. Mary's Dispatch.

A Medical.
In his cross-examination of the surgeon, the lawyer said that a doctor ought to be able to give an opinion without making a mistake. The surgeon replied, "They are as capable as lawyers." The lawyer said, "A doctor's mistakes are buried six feet under the ground; a lawyer's are not." "No," said the surgeon; "but they are sometimes hung as many feet above ground."

What to Teach the Girls.
A girl should be taught to detect two things thoroughly—idleness and silliness. These two enemies have given birth to ennui, which is pain. If she be a child of fortune, instruct her, even more carefully than if she were poor to work in some definite manner, and to do her own share. More than all, train her hands and stir her brain with the constant assurance that she will find her sweetest satisfaction in that which she is to accomplish in life.

Art Treasures in Antwerp.
The town of Antwerp recently ordered an investigation to be made of the art treasures contained in the city's museums. A number of pictures by the greatest masters of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries were found, rolled up in the garrets. About one hundred of them were well enough preserved to be cleaned, and they will for the present form a special collection in the chapel of the former orphanage, Rue de l'Hopital. The opening of the museum is looked forward to as an artistic event of considerable interest. It contains pictures by Rubens, Van Dyck, Holbein, Jan
Metsu, Jordaens, and others.

A Fair Question.
If, as is asserted, "the issue of license and the control of the liquor traffic are more police matters, and therefore should be left to the Provincial authorities," why did the Provincial authorities deem it necessary to take away from Police Commissioners in cities the supervision of the issue of licenses? Undoubtedly they did so in order that a contingent of Juries and Nurses might be created to go about with agents to tyrannize wherever they have authority. If this is the case that the "Mowat and Farquhar" are making of the "police matters" under their jurisdiction, it is high time that a check was put to such proceedings.—London Free Press.

A Printer's Hand.
A Russian statistician has amused himself calculating the distance traveled in a year by the hand of a printer. He takes the principle that a skillful compositor working ten hours a day, allowing for distributing and correction, sets up 12,000 letters. In counting the year at 300 working days, he makes them a total of 3,600, 000 letters. Consequently the distance from the case to the stick and from the stick to the case being estimated at two feet makes in all 7,200, 000 feet, there being 5,280 feet in a geographical mile, so that the distance made in a year under these conditions by a printer's hand is in the neighborhood of 300 miles, or a mile a day.

Three Times Married.
A paper in Mount Carmel, Mo., records the marriage, last Sunday, of a gentleman and lady for the third time, though they had never been divorced, and had lived together for seven years.
The first time they were married they procured their license to marry in Edwards county, and unhappily crossed over the line into White and had the ceremony performed. Learning of their mistake they the same day returned to Edwards and a second ceremony was gone through with. The man is a Roman Catholic, and as those of that faith do not regard a marriage as binding unless performed by a priest (and Sunday being the first time they had found it convenient to find such a person), to please him another ceremony was performed.

Fast Time.
The Democrat, of Carrollton, Mo., says Jim Lawton invited fifty neighbors to see him beat his own time of two years ago, when his wife baked bread in eight and a quarter minutes after the wheat was shelled in the field. At 6 minutes and 10 seconds after 4, the bakery reaper stood at the corner of the growing wheat.
Men were stationed every foot along the line of grain ready to seize an armful as it fell from the reaper and to rush with it to the threshing cane by. The mill was just 16 rods distant.
At the drop of the hat, the mules sprang to work and in a minute and a half about a peck of threshed wheat was in the sack and on a horse that began a race for the mill. A minute and seventeen seconds later, the flour was delivered to Mrs. Lawton, and in 3 minutes 5 seconds from the starting of the reaper, the first graddle cake was eaten. In 4 minutes and 40 seconds from the starting of the reaper, a pan of biscuits was passed out to the spectators.

FROM ALL OVER.

The municipal authorities of Glasgow have conferred the freedom of the city upon the Marquis of Lorne.

The Marquis of Lorne is said to have notified Earl Granville that war between France and China is certain.

In England, Birmingham, at the suggestion of its mayor, has decided to establish public city gymnasiums.

The Department of Marine and Fisheries is considering a project to light the channel between Montreal and Quebec by means of gas buoys.

Several forged five dollar bills of the Bank of British North America were found in Montreal.
They are of July, 1877, but the day of the month is omitted.

THEY ALL TELL the same story. Mr. W.
Thompson, Jeweler, Dahl, suffered for years
from Dyspepsia, got no relief until he used Dr.

The Bishop of Toronto has not decided when he will call together the chapter of the Cathedral of St. Alban the Martyr. During the month of the Lordship intends giving the cathedral a good deal of attention, for the purpose of consolidating the plans. His Lordship is at present waiting to receive copies of the regulations of Truro and Lincoln cathedrals in England.

Mrs. ELIZABETH MARSH—Dr. M. Souville & Co. Gentlemen.—Yours of last week to hand, and in reply to your enquiry I have much pleasure in stating that from the first time of using the epimeron and the medicine I have improved very much. The bronchitis has entirely left me. I sleep well and have good appetite. I must also add, that coming to you as I did as a last resort, the cure effected has been wonderful. Gratefully yours,
Mrs. E. MARSH.

House Plants.—Many a beautiful rose has been nipped in the bud by an undrained warm, and many a young life has been sacrificed to the destructive power of worms in the human system. If you would save those tender house plants, your children, give them Freeman's Worm Powders, they are safe and pleasant, and are warranted effective.

A FAILURE IN COPIES.—A species of worm is eating all the leaves from the chestnut and hickory nut trees in many sections, and the crop will be a failure. Worms that afflict children or adults will prove a failure if Dr.
Lew's Pleasant Worm Syrup is used. It is a safe and sure cure for all worms that lurk in the human system, tape worm included.

Advice to Mothers.
Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest
by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINDLEY'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.
Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dentition and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs.
Windley's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Prompt attention to the requirements of customers will be one of the characteristics of the Calumet House under

LOCAL NEWS

Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. Macdonald, the contractor for the Trent Valley Navigation works at Fenelon Falls, has made satisfactory progress. He has just obtained the services of a diver to prosecute the work under water. At Buckhorn Mr. Goodwin, the contractor for that section, has completed the excavation for the locks and canal, and has a large force of men quarrying stone for the locks.

The Ontario and Quebec.

Mr. Hugh Ryan, Chief Superintendent of Construction of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, made on Saturday, by a special locomotive, an official visit of inspection of the line from Peterborough westward for 23 miles to Postville, and found the track laying progressing in a very satisfactory manner. He was accompanied by Mr. T. D. Balcher, C. E., and Mr. McDermid, the contractor.

Special.

Christmas is only a few weeks off, so that it is time to make your selection of Christmas Cards. Messrs. J. Salisbury & Co. will open out their immense stock of cards on Wednesday next. As most of these cards are imported direct from the manufacturers in Germany and England, our prices will be extra low. Every person should see them before making their purchases. No trouble whatever to show them. Go early and secure a good selection.

Fall of Snow To-night.

The weather to-day has been cool with falls of rain. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—East to south gales, with mild, cloudy to rainy weather to-day, followed to-night by west to north-west gales, and decidedly colder weather, with local falls of snow.

Commercial Men will find ample accommodation at the Calumet House, Daily Free.

A Narrow Escape.

Mr. Thomas Morris had a narrow escape from a serious if not fatal injury on Saturday. While working in the foundry of Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, his pants caught just above the knee in the turning of a lathe, and only that his clothing did not bear the strain put upon them but gave way, he would have been severely injured. As it was the machinery tore a portion of his clothing, including underclothing, off him, but he escaped without personal injury.

Y. M. C. A. Lectures.

The Association have secured the services of the Rev. Hugh Johnston, B. D., of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, to deliver a lecture on the 13th December. The reverend gentleman's ability as a lecturer is very favorably commented on by the Toronto press, and he is well known as a writer through his lately published work, "Towards the Seneca." His subject will be "From London to Jerusalem." The lecture will be delivered in the George Street Methodist Church, and will no doubt be a very interesting one.

Personal.

The Rev. Mr. Therrien, of the Grande Ligne Mission, province of Quebec, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church on Sunday. He is on a tour through Ontario soliciting aid for the mission field.

Mr. A. v. Hagel, Mayor of Port Hope, was at the Oriental Hotel to-day.

Mr. T. S. Cole, the travelling secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of the Dominion, arrived in town on Saturday night, and gave an address at the evangelistic meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms last night. He is the guest of Mr. G. M. Roger.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

THE ANNUAL SERMON TO ITS MEMBERS
PREACHED IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

The Rev. E. F. Torrance in the Pulpit—Practical Religion—True Patriotism and Benevolence—Who is our Brother?

On Sunday evening the annual sermon for the St. Andrew's Society was preached in St. Paul's Church by the Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A. There was a large congregation present and a number of the members of the society.

After the opening exercises, Mr. Torrance chose for his text the 7th and 8th verses of the 58th chapter of Isaiah:—

"Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? When thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from the eyes of the poor? Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thine health shall spring forth speedily; and thy righteousness shall go before thee, the glory of the Lord shall be thy reward."

There was a tendency among the Jews, he said, to lay great stress upon rites and ceremonies, while neglecting the weightier matters of the law, and the prophets and afterwards Jesus Himself labored to correct this error. When Saul smote the Amalekites he spared Agag the King, and the cattle, but Samuel, the prophet, assured him that in sparing the cattle he disobeyed the command given him, even though it were for a profane purpose, he had done wrong, for "to obey is better than sacrifice." In the first chapter of Isaiah the Lord told the Jews that He had no pleasure in the services they performed, and urged them to put away the evil from among them and be charitable. In the chapter from which the text was taken He spoke in a similar way:—"Is it not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burden, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?" and in the words of the text he says:—"Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? When thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from the eyes of the poor?" The doctrine which Jesus taught was in accord with this. He exposed the hypocrisy of the Scribes and Pharisees, who relied on the ceremonies alone. The religion of the Lord Jesus Christ is an intensely practical thing. That religion that is not practical is useless.

The poor were worthy of their special regard on account of their abiding existence as a class in the community. They were commanded to open their hands to the poor, for they should never cease in the land. When the woman anointed Jesus with ointment some thought it was a waste, but Jesus said, "The poor ye have always with you, but Me ye have not always," and that they had the poor always with them was true at the present time. The poor were also worthy of special regard, because they existed as a large class. For persons rise to fame and power; the majority go on in the state in which they were born. A large majority of the people can scarcely eke out a livelihood. In the large cities of England and Scotland a large class are absolutely dependent upon others for their daily bread. This was the case in every country which had long been settled, and where large fortunes had been accumulated by a few. The poor were also of great value in the sight of God. The millinaire and the nobleman were of no more value in His sight than the beggar in rags. Though the beggar is degraded he is capable of being elevated, and he possesses a soul of infinite value. The poor are capable of being possessed of infinite riches, and in the Bible God has made many promises to them. Jesus Himself was emphatically a poor man, and He identified Himself with the humblest class. He was the child of a mechanic's home and when at the age of thirty He left the work of a mechanic to become a teacher. He was dependent upon others for what He needed. Finally, He was crucified as a malefactor and laid His head in a borrowed sepulchre. Christ became poor for their sake. If God gave up the possession of all things, and became poor for their sake, should they not be willing to assist the poor? If God favored the poor, who were they to despise them?

The poor were their brethren. There existed a brotherhood among men, as they had descended from the same first parent and were of the same blood, but the brotherhood of nationality was closer than that. Many of the eminent characters of scripture were patriots of the highest type, among whom were David and Paul, and Jesus Christ was a patriot. The tears that Jesus shed over Jerusalem were the tears of the patriot as truly as they were tears of mourning shed over lost men. Then could there be anything wrong in their cherishing patriotic sentiments? There was different kind of patriotism. There was the patriotism of the soldier, who desired his country to have military renown. Such was the patriotism of Julius Caesar and Napoleon Bonaparte, but there might be a great deal that was selfish in such patriotism. A higher kind of patriotism was that of John Howard, who strove to elevate the social position of his fellowmen, and Dr. Barnardo, who devoted his time to rescuing homeless waifs of the streets, was a true patriot, true in the sense that he was a patriot of the world. A higher kind of patriotism was that of John Howard, who strove to elevate the social position of his fellowmen, and Dr. Barnardo, who devoted his time to rescuing homeless waifs of the streets, was a true patriot, true in the sense that he was a patriot of the world.

How could they best show their regard for the claims of the poor? To both the Old and New Testaments the claims of the poor were prominently brought before them. In the description of the judgment given in the New Testament it appeared that their destiny depended upon the help given to the needy. Paul ever brought to the attention of those to whom he preached the claims of their poorer fellowmen, and he devoted two chapters of one epistle to a discussion of benevolence. James, the practical Apostle, supposed the case of one coming into an assembly and telling his needs, but he is told to depart. Such a faith as that, he says, will not profit. Indiscriminate giving is not a good thing. Many who give indiscriminately are imposed on, and do not do justice to themselves or to those whom they would help. They should know that their gifts would be used in a good way. A victim of intemperance should not be given money to enable him to gratify his appetite, as it would be an injury to him. They should take pains to find out the needs of those who apply for help. And this was how such a society as the St. Andrew's Society was valuable. Efforts were always made to find out the needs of applicants. They should also provide for the spiritual wants of the poor. This was of the greatest importance. There were multitudes of persons in our land who never heard the gospel preached. Many who in Scotland attended the means of grace, did not do so now when they were in this country. It was a lamentable fact that as people declined in temporal circumstances they neglected the church. This was not as it should be, for in the church rich and poor should meet together for worship. They should speak a kind word to them and invite them to the means of grace, thus showing that they were interested in their spiritual welfare. Harken to the claims of the poor by supplying them with the Bread of Life. The result of thus attending to the requirements of the poor was shown in the 8th and following verses of this chapter:—

"Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thine health shall spring forth speedily; and thy righteousness shall go before thee; the glory of the Lord shall be thy reward. Then shall thou call and the Lord shall answer; thou shalt cry and He will say, Here I am. If thou take away from the midst of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the finger and speaking vanity, and if thou draw out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted soul, then shall thy light rise in obscurity, and thy darkness be as the noon day." If God's words were true, they might take such promises as these and apply them to themselves. The benefits derived from doing charitable deeds were manifold. There was the immediate benefit they derived in their own souls; their hearts were enlarged, and they were better and nobler men than they otherwise would be. Many persons complain that time hangs heavily on their hands who could find true happiness in the luxury of doing good. He urged them to harken to the call for help from their Scottish friends. Many who left home with high hopes and bright prospects, because of circumstances over which, perhaps, they had no control, are obliged now to ask for help. Think of the many who are weary by the sea lakes and climbed the heather hills at home, as they attended church and studied God's word and learned to love the Psalms, and think of them now in this land in poverty and sorrow, and they would acknowledge the goodness to the strongest kind. They would find a satisfaction in stretching out to them the helping hand.

JOHN HACKETT.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1883.

The result of the Lennox election was still undecided at the hour of our going to press. Mr. Prunty had a majority, with Amberst Island to boot from, with a prospect of the Conservative majority being increased.

It is semi-officially announced that in the elections for West Middlesex, West Simcoe and Cornwall, the nomination will take place on Friday December 7th and the polling on Friday December 14th.

THE DISPUTED TERRITORY.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 26.—The Manitoba Chief of Police Creighton has not yet been handed over by the Grit authorities. It is also said by those who should know that the carpet baggers, acting under instructions from Mr. Mowat, have decided to send Creighton to Winnipeg on Monday. In that case the Grit authorities will be asked to show cause why Creighton was arrested, and if they are unable to do so judgment and costs will go against them. The Government are making extensive preparations to go into the case in a most elaborate manner. Maps of the territory, the evidence taken on the award, and all matters that can be secured from the time of George IV, and up, and which bears on the disputed territory are being collected with the intention to go into the boundary question, and the case, if not settled here, will be taken to the Supreme Court at Ottawa, and if no satisfactory conclusion be arrived at there it will be carried to the Privy Council. The intention is to take Creighton along, and leave no stone unturned to arrive at a settlement to the question.

The Rat Portage Progress, answering the insinuation of the Grit Press that the Attorney-General's mission there was a failure, says: "It was well known that resistance would be made by an armed band of Grit specialists, and in order to guard against serious trouble, which might arise should any of the Manitoba force lose their temper they left all their arms behind." The Progress concludes as follows:—"The intriguing infernal triumvirate which has infested the town will soon have a chance to answer for the deeds they have done and it is hoped that suitable punishment will be meted out as compensation for the sufferings which Rat Portage people had to endure for the past few months."

A Good Investment.

Any person having a few thousand dollars to invest should not fail to attend the sale of the late David Carlisle property, which takes place at the office of Mr. C. A. Waller, on the first of December next. The brick dwelling house is large and in a good state of repair, while the garden is not surpassed by any in Peterborough.

Christmas is only 4 weeks off, so that it is time to make your selection of Christmas Cards.

Messrs. J. Sallibury & Co. will open out their immense stock of cards on Wednesday next. As most of these cards are imported direct from the manufacturers in Germany and England, our prices will be extra low. Every person should see them before making their purchases. No trouble whatever to show them. Go early and secure a good selection.

The Montreal Winter Carnival.

The Ice Palace will be a castellated structure one hundred and sixty feet by forty, and will have a tower eighty feet high. During the Carnival week it is proposed to have fireworks every night and the palace is to be lit up with electricity. On the first night it was proposed to have an attack and defence of the palace by the volunteers. It was decided to hold trotting races on the new track in Point St. Charles, and to give purses to the amount of $1,500. The committee decided to correspond with Ottawa, Brockville, Kingston, Belleville and Toronto trotting clubs so as to form a circuit and bring better horses from the United States.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 24.—M. H. Cochrane of

Compton, Quebec, sold 19 head of Hereford and 24 head of Aberdeen Angus cattle at the Fat Stock show here yesterday afternoon. Buyers from most of the Middle and Western States and some of the Territories were present. The Herefords realized the very high average of $375. C. H. Harnsey of Mustangs paid $1200 for Lily second of Stockton and $1000 for Tulip third. These were the highest sums realized. The Aberdeen cattle did not sell so well and a lot of Galloways was withdrawn.

How They do It.

So-called respectable people would hesitate considerably before pilfering your pockets in a crowded thoroughfare. That would be too bad. The same discrimination is not indicated by the so-called respectable druggist when that wonderful corn cure, Putnam's Corn Extractor, is sold for. He will pilfer your pocket in the most graceful manner by substituting cheap and dangerous substitutes for genuine Putnam's Corn Extractor. Watch for these gentlemen, and take none other than Putnam's Corn Extractor. Sold by druggists everywhere. N. C. Putnam & Co., Kingston, proprietors.

The most incredulous are forced to admit that for perfection in color the Triangle Dye has no equal. Ask for three colored packages, and see that you get it. 10 cents.

MR. CROOKS' TROUBLE.

Humored by his Colleagues and Thrown Overboard by his Partners.

Mr. Crooks was forced out of the Mowat cabinet. Indeed one of his friends said last night that the first intimation he had of it was on Thursday when on his way to St. Thomas a fellow passenger handed him the Globe. Mr. Crooks thereupon got off the train at Harrisburg and wrote a long telegraphic despatch to Governor Robinson to the effect that he had not resigned his position in the cabinet, did not intend to resign his seat, and that his colleagues had no right to dismiss him. He at once returned to Toronto, and so it is said gave the Mowat a copy of his despatch to the governor, which that paper ought to publish to-day. A reporter called at Mr. Crooks' house last night and was told that he was out of town and would be ten days or a fortnight.

But Mr. Crooks' troubles are not only with his late colleagues in the government. His partners in the law firm of which he was head gave him the bounce, so to speak, in July, although the announcement thereof was not made till a few days ago. The best client of the firm is the Canada Southern Railway, and Mr. Crooks, it is said, was on his way to St. Thomas to put in a remonstrance with the railway officers against the action of his late partners, when the Globe, announcing his retirement, was given him.

Those who ought to know say that Mr. Crooks has lost his head.—Toronto World.

OUR EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Mr. Lech's letter on the above subject, in your issue of this evening, is an excellent one and must commend itself to the sympathies of the Ratepayers at large. It is so good that I should not care to add anything to it save for the purpose of endorsing the sentiments it contains. It is, in my opinion, outrageous that we should be called upon to pay for a higher education than that afforded by the common schools, of the sons of gentlemen who are personally able to pay for such education themselves. I think that a common-school education is all that the ratepayers should be called upon to support by taxation.

There are a large number of ratepayers of the town, many of them widows, who experience some difficulty in paying their taxes at all, and it is really monstrous that they should be compelled to pay for teaching Greek, and Latin, and the higher branches of mathematics, etc., to the sons of gentlemen owning large and valuable properties.

But, Sir, I will go further, and express my belief that even our common school system is a mistake. It is not an educational system, properly so-called, but a cramming system. The boys and girls are taught, or crammed with, a number of subjects that can be of no possible use to them in after life; but they are not instructed, more especially the girls, in such matters as are likely to render the latter good housewives, and therefore helpmates to their husbands. They are, in fact, taken out of their proper sphere, and they thus eventually become disaffected with their lot in life.

Trusting that the ratepayers, now that the subject has been submitted to their notice, will be more likely to attract attention than a long one, and I abstain.

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,
R. H. CROOKS.

Peterborough, Nov. 16, 1883.

The Ottawa Lumber Season.

During the past season the lumber mills in Ottawa cut 350,000,000 feet, and the mills outside of the city in the Ottawa Valley cut 400,000,000.

Negotiations with Bedouin Chiefs. Negotiations are progressing with the Bedouin chiefs of Upper and Lower Egypt. The aim of the expedition will be to keep open the road between Suakin and Berber, and thus ensure an avenue for the retreat of the Egyptian troops from Khartoum and Sennar. The first 600 will start immediately.

Egypt and Abyssinia.

The Khedive has solicited friendly offers of England in the question at issue with Abyssinia. He has intimated his readiness to rectify the frontier between Abyssinia and Egypt, if King Menelik of Abyssinia remains inactivity. The Khedive gave audiences to-day to the members of the Legislative Council, and made an encouraging speech. The Council of Ministers has decided to send 2,000 gendarmes and 6,000 Bedouins to Suakin.

The Surveying Season.

The Dominion Government has had a hundred and twenty surveying parties, or over 1,200 men, at work surveying the North-West during the past season. As a result fourteen hundred townships have been subdivided, the greatest area ever gone over in one season on this continent, or on any other for that matter. The section of country surveyed extends from Moose Jaw and the Touchwood Hills to Calgary. Besides this the principal base lines and meridian outlines have been run throughout the greater portion of the whole prairie region.

Cochrane's Cattle.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 24.—M. H. Cochrane of Compton, Quebec, sold 19 head of Hereford and 24 head of Aberdeen Angus cattle at the Fat Stock show here yesterday afternoon. Buyers from most of the Middle and Western States and some of the Territories were present. The Herefords realized the very high average of $375. C. H. MIDNIGHT TELEGRAMS

CABLE.

PANIC INCREASING AT KHARTOUM. CAIRO, Nov. 26.—The latest reports confirm the defeat of Hicks Pasha. The panic at Khartoum is increasing, owing to rumours that the False Prophet with a large force is advancing upon the city and has cut off all supplies. Official advice admit that Europeans are leaving Khartoum by boats. Two transports with gendarmes will leave Suakin to-morrow for Suakin. Baker Pasha will probably command the expedition. Plans are being prepared for the fortification of Assuan, on the right bank of the Nile.

TROOPS FOR SUAKIM.

CAIRO, Nov. 26.—The Khedive to-day reviewed a number of troops about to start for Suakin. Military critics were not favourably impressed with their appearance. Embassies of El Mehdí have arrived at Tripoli and Algeria. The report that Hicks' army is safe has again revived.

KHARTOUM IN DANGER.

CAIRO, Nov. 26.—A dispatch from Khartoum says:—"Arabs report a large force of rebels close to Khartoum. They have food for a month. There are only 2,000 men here to defend nearly four miles of lines of communication. It is perfectly useless to attempt to hold Khartoum, where the population is a starving volcano. The land line of retreat is closed, and the river line may be stopped to-morrow. The rebels hold the cliffs overhanging the river at Bahak."

THE HAIKUONG FIGHT.

HONG KONG, Nov. 26.—Further particulars from Haiduong show that in the combat of the 17th inst., the French losses were four auxiliaries killed, two auxiliaries wounded, and eleven regulars of the garrison wounded, in addition to those already reported wounded on the Carabine. The enemy is believed to have lost from two to three hundred killed and wounded. The entire Red river delta is reported to be revolting against the French occupation, and in addition that the Black Flag and the pirates, their allies, have assumed the offensive, it will become a serious difficulty to occupy the towns already taken, and to have sufficient troops in the field to capture Hauchin and Sontay. In the meantime active preparations are being made for the assault of those places. Perhaps, indeed, they have attacked already, and perhaps fighting is now going on.

EL MEHDI ADVANCING.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—It was rumoured last night that the False Prophet was rapidly advancing towards Lower Egypt.

Bradstreet's Weekly Report.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The mild and unseasonable weather which has visited the Atlantic coast during the week has been felt West and South, and has had a noticeably injurious effect on the movement of general merchandise. In a number of instances this reflected in a falling away in the collection of country accounts, while in others it has interrupted the demand from merchants at interior points as to issue the orders from the latter to the West has been from fair to very good indeed. Hats, caps, boots and shoes have been in only moderate request, and general trade on the whole cannot be reported as good as in the preceding week. In case of reasonable goods, of course, the weather is to some extent responsible for this. Iron is as dull as ever, and those in the trade admit that a shading of current rates for pig is more than likely in the near future. Bar iron is selling at less than 3 cents a lb, which is a sufficient explanation of the distressed condition of that industry. Since the cut in steel rail prices to $35 per ton, about 150,000 tons have been contracted for. Announcements of shading on present nominal quotations for steel rails are premature, and reliable dealers say none is expected. Stocks of pig are 30 per cent less than on July 1st. Petroleum is still higher and quite active. The reductions of stocks and failure of new wells, added to the steady decline in production is the basis of the bull movement. Wheat is off from 2 to 3 cent on the week, but corn is from 1-8 to 5-8 higher. The fluctuations in these grains for the week have been due mainly to manipulations, no new basis for changes in quotations having appeared. Provisions show relatively more gain in price than wheat or corn. This is legitimate in that the exports of the first are steadily gaining as well as the home demand, while the foreign shipments of breadstuffs continue at quite as low an ebb as ever. Some excitement was caused in prices of the latter owing to rumours of war between France and China, but no special change is noted. Ocean tonnage is scarce and firmly held. Anthracite coal is dull and prices are shaded more than ever. This has revived the agitation for half time or less at the mines in December. The comprehensive demand for wool is moderate but steady, and with light stocks in all the markets values are well sustained. There were 228 failures in the United States reported to Bradstreet's during the past week, 23 more than the preceding week, 87 more than the corresponding week of 1882, and 113 more than the same week of 1881. Canada had 24, an increase of 6.

The Greatest Healing Compound.

Is a preparation of carbolic acid, vaseline and cerate called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It will cure any sore, cut, burn or bruise when all other preparations fail. Call at John McKee's Drug Store, and get a package. Twenty-cents is all it costs.

Cure Free.

Any reader troubled with Dyspepsia, Constipation, Headache, Liver Complaint, etc., should call at John McKee's Drug Store, and secure a free trial bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure at once, which will convince you of the merits of the medicine. It cures permanently where all other medicines have failed. As a blood purifier it has no equal. Remember it costs nothing to try it. Regular size 50 cents and $1.

This one of Pills, Salts, Castor Oil &c. and other nauseous, griping Cathartics is unnecessary as a pleasant substitute is found in Dr. Carson's Bitters, which act as a Cathartic without griping or causing nausea. All Druggists sell for 50 cents a Bottle.

The Navy Mine, and burns, olive green and other rich dark colors of the Triangle Dye are no perfect as the bright shades. They never disappoint the user. 10 cents.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1883.

ONTARIO'S FINANCIAL POSITION.

"He is rich who has but $20 a year and spends but nineteen. He is poor who has $20,000 a year and spends twenty-one."

Let us see how the above axiom applies to the Province of Ontario. The Provincial Treasurer in his last financial statement estimated the expenditure for the current year at $2,559,283.63, and the revenue for the same period at $2,586,769.43, thereby showing an estimated surplus of $27,485.79. This we claim is not a correct statement of the financial position.

1st. As to expenditure: Nowhere in the items which make up the expenditure provided for in the estimates, will be found any provision for the $26,000 which we have been paying the Province of Quebec for several years past as interest upon moneys improperly retained by this Province from the common school fund. These payments being in reality interest on borrowed money, should, without doubt, be included in the ordinary expenditure of the year. Neither is there any provision made for the payment of the annual subsidies to railways, to which the credit of the Province is pledged, and none of which expire for about seven years, and which amounted to over $250,000 in 1882. These two sums aggregate $276,000, and must be paid either out of income or out of the revenue producing capital of to-day. As the Treasurer's own estimate (if realized) only shows a surplus of $27,485, it is obvious that on this account alone capital will have to be drawn upon for this purpose to the extent of $247,514, a sum which will of itself swallow up the whole of the cash surplus accumulated since Confederation in five years, and which in 1882 yielded the Province a revenue of $72,500. Consequently in four years from the time of writing our revenue will, as a consequence, be decreased by $72,500 per annum, and it will have thrown upon it an additional burden of $250,000 yearly, even should the improbable happen and the revenue and expenditure of the year to come be kept at precisely the figures estimated for 1883.

2nd. As to Revenue. Here we think the Provincial Treasurer's estimate is quite as much astray as in the case of the expenditure. Under the heading of Crown Lands Revenue, he estimates for the current year (1) from Crown Lands, $100,000. This is obviously an over estimate because in no year since 1874 have these receipts amounted to $90,000, while in 1880 they fell as low as $38,867, and in no year during the last five have they reached $75,000. Of the estimated receipts from clergy and common and grammar school lands more need not be said than that being trust funds they do not properly belong to ordinary revenue, and that they are only permissible under such a heading so long as the item of refunds is included under the heading of expenditure. Lastly there is the timber revenue, which is placed at the enormous sum of $600,000. In only one year since Confederation have the ordinary receipts from this source reached $500,000. In 1873 and 3, and in 1881 and 2 these receipts were much larger, but these were the years when large sums were obtained by the sale of new territory. They have often fallen very much below the sum estimated. In 1875 they were less than one half of that amount, while the average of the last decade, apart from special sales, does not much exceed $400,000 per annum. The estimate of $600,000 for the current year was therefore merely electioneering clap-net, and in view of the present depressed state of the trade is likely to turn out one-third too much.

(3) Interest from investments being placed at $110,000 is obviously over estimated, seeing that last year's receipts only footed up $101,927, and that the financial result of 1882 was to reduce the investments from which this item is derived by $30,710. Increased revenue from decreased capital, is a doctrine that even the most gullible will scarcely endorse.

(4) The revenue of the year is swelled by an estimated receipt of $30,000 on capital account from Drainage Investments, while nothing is allowed on the opposite side for reinvestment. Practically as well as theoretically such book keeping is a quiet way of transferring money from capital to income, and is dishonest, inasmuch as it is designed to deceive the electors as to the true position of their affairs. For example, in 1882 there was received from this source $48,425, while there was invested $37,518. Looking simply at the creditor's side of the account, this "investment" more than accounted for the whole deficit of the year, but when both sides of the account are taken, as they should be, the result is that the deficit of the year is nearly $11,000 more than it appears to be—that being the amount realized from Drainage Investments on capital account, and applied to the ordinary services of the year.

From the foregoing statements, and without going into further detail, it must be obvious to the reader that the transactions of the current year stand to reduce the capital of the Province by about half a million of dollars. We believe that when the public accounts for 1883 are brought down this prediction will be fully verified. This is a state of financial affairs which must continue so long as the present policy of the Mowat Government is pursued. The estimates of the current year contain no extraordinary items. The whole amount in them for Public Works and buildings on capital account, and for colonization roads, only foots up to $325,309, considerably less than the probable deficiency. Now every body knows full well that this sort of thing cannot go on for ever. Either Provincial Expenditure must be curtailed or the Provincial Revenue must be increased. Mr. Mowat and his friends say that the present expenditure is wise and economical. If so it should be maintained. Mr. Meredith and his friends say that in many respects it is unwise and extravagant, that those portions of it that are such should be curtailed, and that every effort should be made to postpone and lighten the burden of direct taxation, which Mr. Mowat's extravagance and wilful waste of Provincial resources has so materially hastened.

Whether Mr. Mowat's policy shall be maintained for another four years, or Mr. Meredith's introduced now depends very largely upon the result of the by-elections about to take place. From a party point of view we could wish that Mr. Mowat should remain where he is for another four years in order that he might be made to lie in the bed he has made, but the interests of the Province are of more consequence than those of party and that being the case it is to be desired by every true lover of his Province that Mr. Mowat should at once give place to a man who is governed by other considerations, than mere power and pelf.

A JOB ROOM JOB.

The Last Great Deal of Edgar and Jaffray—Grip Buys the Globe Job Room and Gets the Government Printing.

The Globe has decided to abandon a practice, now obsolete as far as first-class papers are concerned, viz., that of hanging out a sign "Job Printing Done Here." They have sold their job printing department to Grip, and all the type and presses will be moved into a building on Front street, and the accumulation of years in the Globe office, and the remains of the Grip fire, together with some new material, will be combined into a "mammoth book and job printing house."

They do say that a job has taken place in the deal, the movements whereof may be described thus:

1. The Ontario government have a printing contract of $40,000 a year for five years to let to put where it will do most good.
2. S. F. Wilson is a specialist bidder for this printing and therefore puts in the lowest bid.
3. Grip Printing company is an ambitious bidder for the same and puts in the next lowest bid.
4. The Globe Printing company is a concern not out of trouble, with a non-paying job room on its hands, and very anxious to get rid of it.
5. Mr. Edgar and Mr. Jaffray are political managers of the reform party, and directors in both the Globe company and Grip company.
Now here are five points and these two clever men set their heads together to effect the purpose of each of the five movements. That is to be effected of course by combination. And Grip being the middle movement, is chosen as the basis.

Accordingly Grip goes to S. F. Wilson, the specialist bidder (contract broker) is what the Globe used to call Charles Mackintosh, of the Ottawa Citizen, and offers him $5,000 to turn the contract over to him. He accepts. Then the wily two turn the other way, and see the prospect of doing under the weight of his job room. So they send Grip to the Globe and offer a great price for the job room, which is greedily accepted. But before making either of these combinations moves they of course have an understanding with the Ontario Government that Grip will be given the printing contract at S. F. Wilson's figures.

So the whole deal has been about consummated. For the Ontario Government have put the contract where it will do most good.
S. F. Wilson has made a haul.
Grip will get lots of printing, and there will be no more bad pictures of the Grip. Indeed they have ordered a new heading—"Grip."

The Globe will get rid of its unproductive job room.

And Edgar and Jaffray will be entitled to the thanks of all the other four for their tact and qualities for combination.

And all the other job printers will be pleased that instead of Grip opening a new office there will be two less in the city.

But what will the public say, and the preaching of morality say?—Toronto World.

Mr. George Stephen, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., has published a letter in the New York papers, dated the 21st November, 1883, stating that 30 days after the above date the company will issue the balance of their authorized capital stock, amounting to $45,000,000, pursuant to the agreement of the 12th November instant, whereby a guaranteed minimum dividend of three per cent per annum for ten years is granted by the Canadian Government on the entire capital stock of the company, amounting to $100,000,000. The letter concludes by stating that the deposit of $35,000,000 remains with the Government.

FIRE PROTECTION.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In Friday's DAILY REVIEW I observed a letter from Mr. Clutton, President of the Peterborough Water Company, to Thomas Rutherford, Chief of the Town Fire Department, respecting the use to be made of the hydrants taken by the town for fire protection. Upon reading Mr. Clutton's letter, I determined to bring the matter up in the council, expecting that there would be a meeting last evening, as there had not been one for five weeks, but I was disappointed in this, the government of the day considering, no doubt, that sufficient business had not accumulated to warrant the calling of a meeting. As the matter is such an important one, and one, I think, not clearly understood, with your permission I will take this means of discussing it. To understand the matter thoroughly it will be necessary to go back to the time when the petition for these hydrants was spoken of. Some time last June Mr. James Stevenson came to my office to discuss fire protection and explain to me a scheme which he thought would meet the requirements of the main portion of the town and be acceptable to the Water Company. This scheme was that 20 hydrants should be taken; 17 to be placed on George street, between Smith and Sherbrooke streets, and 3 on Aylmer, between Brock and Charlotte, these to protect property lying between 400 feet on each side of George street and 400 feet on each side of Aylmer. We agreed that such a number would protect the most valuable portions of the town and that an effort should be made to get the matter properly before the people and the Council. We then laid this plan before Mr. John Burnham, one of the Directors of the Water Company, to see if it would be acceptable to the Company. Mr. Burnham intimated that he had authority to arrange about it, and that the Company would agree to give the district mentioned fire protection with the twenty hydrants. A petition was got up in accordance with this understanding and very numerous signed, not only by outside parties, but by Mr. Clutton, Mr. Burnham, Mr. Morrow and Dr. Boucher, officers and principal stockholders of the company. Mr. Stevenson had charge of the petition, and informed me some days before it was presented to the Council, that he had more than a sufficient number of signatures to it, that only two or three had refused to sign. It was presented to the Council and referred to the clerk, who reported that as to the amount of property represented it was more than sufficiently signed, but that it had not the requisite number of signatures to cover the area mentioned. It was then suggested that it be returned to get the balance of the number required, but as this would cause delay it was agreed to allow Mr. Stevenson to sign the petition, and that the Company would agree to give the district mentioned fire protection with the twenty hydrants. It was then suggested that it be returned to get the balance of the number required, but as this would cause delay it was agreed to allow Mr. Stevenson to sign the petition, and that the Company would agree to give the district mentioned fire protection with the twenty hydrants.

This was done by reducing the area mentioned in the petition to one lot (114 feet) on each side of George street, between London and Sherbrooke streets (also by reducing the number of hydrants to 12) which would be sufficiently represented by the number of signatures already obtained—a separate petition to be got up for the three on Aylmer street. It being, however, fully understood that this change was merely made to expedite the settlement of the business, and that the whole district south of London street, mentioned in the original petition, should be protected. It was decided that only those lots lying directly on George and Aylmer streets should be taxed for the hydrants for the one year, as it was considered that the benefit of the street watering being paid for by general tax this year, would be a fair compensation for the extra charge for the hydrants. A by-law was passed in accordance with the amended petition, and a new petition has since been presented for the three on Aylmer street. The Company's Solicitors have drawn up a contract for the hydrants on George street, to be executed by the members of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, limiting the protection to 114 feet on each side of the street, but which contract, as already been stated, was not intended to be a permanent one, but a temporary one, and Mr. Clutton, as this limitation was contrary to the original understanding, which was to secure protection to the whole area between 400 east and west of the street, I, as a member of the Committee, declined to execute it.

Mr. Clutton writes that the Company has taken to itself, and not to give away. I think I speak the mind of every ratepayer in the town when I say we do not wish to take water, and out paying what is just and proper for it, and that all interested are willing to fulfill to the very letter the true agreement made with respect to these hydrants. The ridiculous nature of the contract which the Water Company has presented for execution will be readily seen, if we consider for a moment that such important buildings as the Oriental Hotel, the Ontario Bank, the Central Iron Works and the market building, lying as they do so near to the centre of the town, would be totally unprotected, and should a fire break out in any of them the Water Company could (and most assuredly would, as Mr. Clutton informs us) refuse the use of the hydrants to suppress the water, and notwithstanding the fact that Messrs. McIntyre, McGill and Law have signed the petition for them. Do those ratepayers on George street, who are paying the cost of these hydrants, consider themselves safe when property so near them is unprotected?

It is really too bad if we have to pay for these hydrants and only get a small portion of the area covered which it was understood they would protect.

As the company was willing a few months ago to protect the large area mentioned in the original petition with 20 hydrants, they should not now take advantage of the mistake made by the Council in having this important matter open to doubt.

That the idea of limiting the area to 114 feet is a new one and not according to the intention of the Water Works By-Law will be readily seen from the following extract from the Secretary's letter to the Review of the 28th June, 1882.

"The by-law provides that the payment of the sum per hydrant shall cover the use of the same for all public purposes."

According to this, having paid for the hydrants, they are ours, and it is for the Council to say for what purposes they shall be used.

I remain, your obedient servant.

• NOVEMBER.

The Month for OVERCOATS and forerunner of colder days to come reminds everyone that heavier clothing is now wanted. This want we have anticipated, and have now on hand an exceedingly fine line to select from. Go tell your friends, then come yourself, and see that this is the place you have been looking for. Our general line comprises Overcoats, (heavy as well as medium), Men's Fall and Winter Suits in endless variety, Children's and Youths' Clothing in all the Newest Shades and Styles, and at prices that will suit all. Our Goods are all as represented.

Of course low prices have much to do with the success of any business where the competition is great, and especially in this the case with the Clothing Trade. But there is another feature, equally necessary to complete success, and that is the POSITIVE MERIT of the goods sold. It is upon these two absolutely essential requirements that we have established the most extensive business in Peterborough.

Old Friends.

As a proof of this, witness the throng of OLD FRIENDS who daily visit us, bringing acquaintances to introduce, and all convinced that we sell BETTER CLOTHING AND AT FAR LOWER PRICES THAN ANY OTHER HOUSE IN THIS TOWN. An apt illustration of these facts can be found in our present sale of an exquisitely made and thoroughly substantial ALL-WOOL SUIT AT $8; also a BEAUTIFUL $5 FALL OVERCOAT, equal to like coats found elsewhere at $8.

Intending Clothing-buyers will nowhere find such extraordinary inducements awaiting them as those now offering by us.

CUSTOM DEPARTMENT.

Watch for the Pearls.

A great many people do not need any incentive, other than their natural love for the bivalve to entice them to eat oysters, but a Lindsay paper publishes a story that should draw greater custom to the houses where oysters are sold. The other evening, says the Warder, Mr. Cattan, the constable, was taking a glass of oysters with a friend when his teeth struck a stone of some kind apparently, and on investigation a pearl was found to be a pearl. Mr. Cattan knew what it was, but did not say much as he placed it in his vest pocket enclosed in a piece of paper, but a jeweller to whom he subsequently took it found it to be worth $13 or $15 as it was.

Peterborough Canoe.

The following letter appears in the Mail:—"Sir, Having read in today's Mail the letter of W. G. H. in which he says: 'The Peterborough canoe would, I think, be too slight.' I desire to correct the impression which the publication of such an opinion is likely to produce. To do so, I need only state to you the rather severe test to which I saw a Peterborough canoe subjected not a week ago at the factory of the Ontario Canoe Company, and when I add, as the fact that it not only did not collapse, as anyone might have expected, but did not even 'give' or strain in any way, I think it may safely be claimed that such a canoe is not slight. The canoe in question is about 15 ft. 6 in. long by 20 inches wide, is built on the 'cedar rib' principle—the ribs forming at the same time the shell of the boat—and has about 24 feet of decking at each end with a strip of decking and a combing down each side, leaving about 8 or 9 feet open, and at the time of testing it, it had not even the thwarts in it to brace it together. A trawle was placed under each end, the centre being entirely unsupported. The builder invited a visitor, weighing some 160 odd pounds, to step into it, which he, after some hesitation, did, and was horrified to see the builder weighing about 170 pounds step in after him, and stand up in the centre of the canoe, which appeared to be not a particle the worse for such barbarous treatment. Another open canoe was turned upside down on trawles under the ends, and a heavy man walked all over it without straining; r. h. r. It is not a proper way to treat a canoe but the very severity of the test shows that although her light—only 80 pounds weight—she is at any rate not open to the objections mentioned."

Mount Hebron Encampment, I. O. O. F., which has been dormant for about thirty-five years, is being revived. A meeting is being held in the hall of Peterborough Lodge this afternoon, the following Grand Officers being present:—Mr. H. Urquhart, of Strathroy, Grand Patriarch; Mr. M. D. Dawson, of London, Grand Scribe and Treasurer, and Mr. Joseph Oliver, of Toronto, Grand High Priest. A meeting of the Encampment will also be held this evening, after which the visiting brethren will be entertained at a dinner at the Oriental Hotel. This is an important event in the history of Oddfellowship in Peterborough. The Encampment begins its new life with a large number of enthusiastic members.

Overcoat Appropriation.

On Sunday last Mr. C. Mather, of Otonabee, hung his overcoat in a hall in an hotel in this town, and when he went to get it at about six o'clock in the evening it was gone, some thief having appropriated it for his own benefit. An overcoat which answers to the description of the one stolen was offered cheaply on Monday, but the offer was not accepted by the man to whom it was made and the man who offered the coat was not known. On Monday morning a gentleman who resides on Charlotte street unlocked the street door, and a short time after, when he was about going out to his office, he looked in the hall for his overcoat, but it was not in its accustomed place. Some sneak thief had entered and carried it off. No clue has been obtained as to the identity of the thief.

The Queen's Lace Handkerchief.

The New York Opera Troupe will open next Monday evening in the delightful English opera of "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief," which has proved such a success in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. It will be given with a strong cast, and will retain all the original beauty of its costumes and scenery. The company comprises many artists of great merit, among whom are Miss Louise Searle, Miss Louise Manfred, Miss Redding, Miss Helen Cooper, Mr. Joseph Greenfelder, C. M. Pyke, and Mr. Gustave Adolph. Of a recent performance the Brooklyn Eagle says:—"The piece was put on in presentable form, and from first to last met the warmest appreciation of one of the most appreciative audiences we have ever seen assembled at the Opera House. The leading characters met with instant and popular favor, each contributing towards a gall for vociferous applause. The music, under the manipulation of Herr Hans Kreisel and an excellent orchestra, served to add additional charm to the play, and met with pleasing recognition."

B. C. Anniversary.

The anniversary services in connection with the Ashburnham Bible Christian Church were held on Sunday and on Monday evenings. On Sunday the anniversary sermons were preached by the Rev. J. J. Rice, of Cobourg, and the Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough. On Monday evening a tea meeting was held, tea being served in the Town Hall from 5 o'clock until 7.30. At the latter hour, those in attendance assembled in the church, where addresses were delivered. The Rev. W. J. Joliffe occupied the chair, and the opening exercises were conducted by the Rev. J. W. Butcher. Able addresses were delivered by the Rev. John Shaw and the Rev. J. J. Rice. Excellent music was furnished by the choir of the Bible Christian Church of Peterborough. Although the weather was unfavorable, there was a large attendance at the meeting, and it was a success financially and otherwise.

Winter Prices.

Under the angry presence of Jack Frost our oyster trade has become very brisk. We are having a lively run on our superior large bulk Oysters, which we are now selling at 25c per quart. Our customers tell us that they are the best for the money in town. Canned Oysters at all prices according to quality. Try our Selects, 40c per can. When once used they will recommend themselves. The public can rely at all times on getting nice fresh Oysters, as we import direct from the packers in Baltimore, therefore we are always sure of getting fresh stock. Don't forget the place, north east, opposite the express office; south east, opposite the market square, George street.

CARTON EGGS.

Visitors to Peterborough who seek comfort and convenience, a Table well supplied, and an Hotel complete in all respects, should stop at the Calne House. Baly Bros.

POLICE COURT.

DUNK.

TUESDAY, Nov. 27.—Thos. Shea, of St. Thomas, was charged by Chief Johnston with having been intoxicated on Monday evening and pleaded guilty. He said that he had worked near the town at the time the Grand Junction was being built, and on Monday he had met several old friends, with whom he had imbibed too freely. This was the first time he had appeared in this Police Court, and was allowed to go with a caution.

ODDFELLOWSHIP.

Mount Hebron Encampment No. 55 instituted—A Dinner at the Oriental.

The Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Ontario, H. Urquhart, of Strathroy, assisted by the Grand High Priest, Jos. Oliver, of Toronto, and the Grand Scribe and Treasurer, M. D. Dawson, of London, instituted an Encampment of Patriarchs in Peterborough Hall last evening. A number of brethren were also present from Port Hope and assisted the Grand Officers in the interesting ceremony.

An Encampment of the same name had an existence in Peterborough some forty years ago but through lack of support ceased to exist. Oddfellowship at that early day had many trials but maintained its struggle against contending odds, and did not entirely die out. Some of the lodges are yet in existence in different parts of the Province, and everywhere they left many records of kind and charitable acts, that still live in the hearts of the old residents. Under the Grand Lodge of Ontario Oddfellowship has increased until at the present time it has enrolled under its banner some 13,000 members, and between two and three thousand Encampment members. Mount Hebron Encampment has been reorganized under the most favorable auspices, and a large number of our influential citizens, who are prominent members of the Order here, were initiated in the new Encampment. Bro. Wm. Clinton, who was one of the charter members in the old Tent in the early days of Peterborough, was one of the charter members of the new Encampment, and his gray hairs and wide experience were as welcome today among the young men as he was forty years ago when in the vigour of youth and early manhood. The following officers were elected and installed for the present term:—

After ample justice had been done to the edibles, the "feast of reason" commenced. R. W. Bell, M. D., occupied the chair, and Mr. D. H. Moore the vice-chair, supported on either hand by the officers of the Grand Encampment present.

The usual loyal toasts "The Queen" and the "Governor-General," were duly honored and were followed by the toast of "The Grand Encampment."

Mr. H. URQUHART, of Strathroy, Grand Patriarch, responded, and during the course of his remarks, said that the Grand Encampment of Ontario was in first-class working order. This was the second encampment he had had the pleasure of organizing since he had been elected Grand Patriarch, and if every one he should organize would give him as great satisfaction as those two, he would be well pleased. This one, he believed, would become one of the chief encampments of the order.

Mr. JOE OLIVER, of Toronto, High Priest, also responded, and said that Encampments were now instituted all over the Dominion, and they were working harmoniously and doing well. The Order was never more prosperous than now. He wished Mount Hebron Encampment all success.

Mr. M. D. DAWSON, of London, Grand Scribe, returned hearty thanks for the hospitable reception tendered to the Grand Officers in Peterborough. This was his first visit to this part of the world, but he would not soon forget it. He had heard that Peterborough was a model place, and he was now satisfied that such was a fact. The Order was growing steadily and prosperously. The commencement of this Encampment was an augury of its success. He was pleased that it included both young and old men, and he counselled them to be regular in attendance at the meetings of the Encampment.

"Our Visiting Brethren" was responded to by Mr. McGUIRE, of Port Hope, Mr. Wyatt, of Prince Edward Island, Mr. E. E. Henderson, of Manilla Encampment, and Mr. Clap, of Mount Ararat Encampment, Nanawau.

"The Ladies." This toast brought Mr. McGEE, of Port Hope, and Mr. Workman, of Peterborough, to their feet, each of whom returned thanks for the ladies in a neat speech.

"The Press." was responded to by Messrs. J. R. Stratton and F. R. Yokum, of the Examiner and the representative of the Review.

"Mount Hebron Encampment" was proposed by the Grand Patriarch, and duly honored.

Mr. D. H. MOORE, Chief Patriarch, in responding, reviewed the events in connection with the institution of Mount Hebron Encampment. He did not hesitate to state that they would find the sentiments in the Encampment to-night such as would be useful for them to cultivate through life.

"The Chairman" was proposed by the High Priest, honoured and responded to by Dr. Bell.

"Our Host and Hostess" having been drunk, the company sang the National Anthem and dispersed after spending a couple of hours most pleasantly.

The members of Mount Hebron Encampment appear to be enthusiastic members and its complete success appears to be assured.

MILLBROOK.

VOTING on the FIRE BY-LAW.—A vote was taken on Monday on a by-law to grant $3,000 for fire protection, and resulted in its favor by a majority of two votes.

OMER.

FIRE.—About 10.30 on Monday morning a fire broke out in the frame house owned and occupied by Mr. Thomas Rowan. As there was a very high wind, the flames spread rapidly but were confined to the house in which the fire started. Mr. Rowan saved about half his furniture, &c., and has an insurance of $600. The two front rooms were occupied by Mr. Sarah Popley, who lost nearly everything; no insurance. Loss about $1,000.

Advice to France.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—The Memorial Diplomatic states that Earl Granville, British Minister of Foreign Affairs, has instructed Lord Lyons, Ambassador to France, to advise the Marquis Tseng to induce China to renounce her claim on Beinhin and Sontay. Lord Lyons is also instructed to intimate to the Marquis the advisability of refraining from interviews with representatives of the press.

Fire on the Aegean Coast.

The British steamer Nisero, from Smyrna, was recently stranded on the coast of Aegean. The Dutch authorities were powerless to assist the steamer because a hostile rajah threatened to kill the crew if the ship was touched. A British gunboat has been ordered to the scene.

The Greatest Healing Compound.

Is a preparation of carbolic acid, vasoline and ointment called McGregor & Patke's Carbolic Ointment. It will cure any sore, cut, burn or bruise when all other preparations fail. Call at John McKee's Drug Store, and get a package. Twenty-cents is all it costs.

HOUSE PLANTS.—Many a beautiful rose has been nipped in the bud by an undecorated worm, and many a young life has been sacrificed to the destructive power of worms in the human system. If you would save those other tender house plants, "your children," give them Freeman's Worm Powders, they are safe and pleasant, and are warranted effective.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?—What is meant by "secretions" in a medical sense? "The secretions" are the powers of certain glands and organs of the body to hold and distribute the healthful fluids of the system, such as bile from the liver, etc. Bile and Blood Bitters regulate all the organs of the secretions to make pure blood.

The use of Pills, Salts, Castor Oil &c. and other nauseous, griping Cathartics is unnecessary as a pleasant substitute is found in Dr. Carson's Bitters, which act as a Cathartic without griping or causing nausea. All Druggists sell it 50 cents a Bottle.

THE SURVIVOR OF THE DEFEAT.
CAIRO, Nov. 26.—Col. Costlogen sends a message from Khartoum, dated Nov. 25th, saying Vizetelly, artist of the London Graphic, is the sole survivor of the recent battle with El Mehdî's forces, and he is a prisoner at El Obeid. Costlogen says the situation is most critical.

PRINCE VICTOR.
PARIS, Nov. 27.—Prince Victor, son of Prince Napoleon, in declining an invitation to a Bonapartist banquet, says at present he has no part to play in politics, and should be distracted to see his name made a pretext for exciting antagonism between his father and himself.

AMERICAN BISHOPS AT ROME.
ROME, Nov. 27.—Cardinal Simeoni yesterday, in behalf of the Pope, congratulated the American bishops upon the agreement existing between them, and upon the settlement of the principal questions submitted for their deliberation.

THE SUDAN DISASTER.
CAIRO, Nov. 27.—The last dispatches received from Gen. Hicks show that the Governor of the Sudan and the Military Council were of opinion that his force was inadequate, that he could not spare men enough to establish a second post's communication, and that the weak posts would be surrounded and starved out by Arabs. Gen. Hicks, however, believed himself able to undertake the expedition, but it appears he afterwards indicated his regret at not having waited for reinforcements. All eyes are now turned to Khartoum, and fears are generally felt that El Mehdî is already besieging that city. Measures of relief are every where discussed.

ORANGEMEN ORGANIZING.
DUBLIN, Nov. 27.—Dublin Orangemen are making strenuous efforts to prevent the proposed Land League meeting at Newry next Sunday. If unsuccessful they propose to hold a simultaneous meeting on their own account, and the leaders have issued circulars inviting tenders for the accommodation of 3,000 Orangemen at that place from Saturday until Monday. It is probable, however, that both meetings will be proclaimed.

THE SUEZ CANAL.
LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Egyptian Government has sent a note to the powers declaring that no change can be made in the statutes of the Suez Canal without fresh concessions from Egypt.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION.
SYDNEY, Nov. 27.—Delegates from the Australian Legislatures have all arrived at Sydney, Australia, to attend a Conference to consider measures looking to the annexation of New Guinea and the federation of the English Australian colonies.

AMERICAN FORT.
PARIS, Nov. 27.—A Cabinet Council to-day recorded the decree forbidding the importation of American pork. The municipal authorities and chambers of commerce are directed to organize a system of pork inspection.

ARRIVAL OF O'DONNELL'S WIFE.
LONDON, Nov. 27.—O'Donnell's reputed wife, who was with him when Carey was shot, has arrived at Plymouth from the Cape to testify in his behalf.

A MISAPPREHENSION EXPLAINED.
ROME, Nov. 27.—The report that a Papal nuncio would be sent to the United States probably arose through a misapprehension of the fact that the Vatican thinks of sending Monsignor Sepined to preside as Apostolic legate over the council to be held in America in 1884. The American Bishops are here to make arrangements for the council. Mr. Sepined may remain in America to carry the labours of the council into effect, and afterwards maintain a direct communication between the Vatican and the Church in America. The question of reopening diplomatic relations between the Vatican and the American Government has not been mooted.

HEAVY FAILURE.
LONDON, Nov. 27.—Dobbs & Co., shipbuilders, of Glasgow, have failed. Twelve hundred workmen are thrown out.

FARNELITE GAINS IN DUBLIN.
DUBLIN, Nov. 27.—The Farnelites gained eight seats in the Dublin municipal elections yesterday.

MEN FOR CHINA.
PARIS, Nov. 27.—It is rumored that 12,000 men will be mobilized immediately for China and that the Minister of War is negotiating for the services of ten transports by which to forward troops. The French gunboat Lynx left Haiphong soon after the arrival of reinforcements. The Lynx and Leopard have gone to occupy the river near Beinhin to cut off the enemy's retreat. The Minister of War is consulting with the general who commanded the expedition to Pekin in 1880 concerning plans for an eastern campaign.

REFUSING TO SERVE.
CAIRO, Nov. 27.—After the review yesterday by the Khedive of the troops about to start for Suakin the Turkish officers went to Baker Pasha and refused to go to the Sudan, on the ground that their contract was for service in Egypt alone. There is a general sense of dissatisfaction owing to signs of a revival of religious enthusiasm, especially at Tanis.

GENERAL RISING FEARED.
CAIRO, Nov. 27.—Embassies of El Mehdî are busy in the large towns of Upper Egypt, and a general rising is feared.

THE CROWN PRINCE IN SPAIN.
MADRID, Nov. 27.—King Alfonso and the German Crown Prince visited Toledo to-day, and were received with acclamations by the people. They returned to Madrid to-night.

REDESS FOR CUBAN NEGROES.
MADRID, Nov. 27.—The Council of Ministers held this afternoon has decided to publish in the Madrid Gazette to-morrow a decree abolishing absolutely in Cuba all corporal punishment of negroes, especially stocks, collars and chains, and declaring that masters in future will only be allowed to inflict as a punishment for the blacks a reduction of a month's salary or twenty-four hours' imprisonment on fast days.

ENGLISH MEDIATION.
PARIS, Nov. 27.—It is denied that England offered to mediate between France and China.

Samoa.
Fresh Pork sent daily at 10 cts. per pound at GEORGE MATTHEWS' pork packing store.

The Navy Blue, real brown, olive green and other rich dark colors of the Triangle Dye are as perfect as the bright shades. They never disappoint the user. 10 cents.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1883.

Reform journals are very fond of indulging in vague abuse of our Dominion land regulations. Will any of our contemporaries oblige us by stating specifically any point in which our present land regulations are less liberal than those of the United States, or those of Canada under the Mackenzie administration?

The Globe has not a high opinion of the morality of British soldiers or of Canadian women. It says:— "A single regiment or two quartered in any of our Canadian towns or cities would morally be its ruin."

We do not envy the frame of mind that leads our contemporary thus to slander our brave soldiers or our virtuous women.

The election of a member of the House of Commons for Larnox has resulted in the return of Mr. Allison by the small majority of 5 over Mr. Fryn. This is the first case since the general election in which the Reformers have secured their candidate, and whether even this instance will hold good before an election court remains to be seen.

The Monetary Times in its "Banking Review" referring to the asserted financial uneasiness says:—

"The position is far indeed from being what some detractors of Canada are representing it to be—the wish, probably, being father to the thought."

That is just it. The Reform journals wish for a financial disaster, under the present administration, and therefore they are doing their best to bring it about.

In an article on the disputed territory of the Belleville Ontario says:—

"It did not occur to him (Mr. Meredith) that the Dominion Parliament would do otherwise than accept the award, seeing that the instructions to the Arbitrators were that their finding was to be 'final and conclusive.'"

The instructions to the Arbitrators were of no effect, as being given by unauthorized persons in defiance of our constitution. Does the Ontario maintain that Mr. Mackenzie's "instructions" were binding upon the Canadian Parliament, which alone as empowered by our constitution to decide such questions for the Dominion?

The Dundas Banner under the heading "A Political Judas" makes a savage attack, very lately issued, upon Mr. Gordon Brown, on the score of his having contributed to the Hamilton Frederic articles criticizing the present administration. The Frederic falsely denies that Mr. Gordon Brown is the author of the articles in question, but even if he had written them, we cannot see that he would be deserving of the epithets applied to him, since he was rather the betrayed than the betrayer. At all events such an attack comes with very bad grace from the Dundas Banner, which was subservient enough in the days when the Browns ruled the party.

ANOTHER BOUNDARY QUESTION.

It is reported that a difficulty has arisen in which there is involved another question as to the territorial jurisdiction of Canadian Provinces. Some miners having made application to the Government of Newfoundland for mining privileges in Labrador near Belle Isle, were informed that the Island did not claim the region in question. An application to the Dominion Government was not more successful, on account of a doubt as to the jurisdiction. It is suggested that Nova Scotia may have a valid claim under the old extensive charter. Possibly Quebec might establish a right to the region as being a part of the ill defined "New France." The Dominion might also successfully claim it as being an extra-provincial portion of British North America.

Now, though the territory in question is not very inviting for settlement, it may, if it proves to have rich mines, be a prize to the successful claimant. Under these circumstances we might have another "disputed territory" difficulty.

Now we would ask those who sustain the invalid award, what they would say if Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Monahan, by themselves or their appointees, made an arrangement to extend the limits of Quebec northward without the consent of the Dominion Parliament or an appeal to the law courts? Would not such an illegal and unconstitutional proceeding be denounced as a gross outrage, especially if it were found that Quebec was growing rich on the sale of mining rights, instead of the proceeds going into the treasury of some other province better entitled, or into that of the whole of Canada, as represented by the Dominion Government? We can fancy the Globe and its imitators fulminating against the Blues and Sir John under such provocation. How they would denounce the job as a wholesale robbery. And yet this is precisely what they approve in Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Mowat in regard to the Ontario boundary. The fact that we have, as we believe, a good claim to the disputed territory, only renders the irregular award more obnoxious, as throwing a doubt upon our legitimate title and deferring its enforcement.

CANADIAN LAND REGULATIONS.

A Contrast Between the United States and Canada—Reform and Conservative Rule.

THE MACKENZIE REGIME.

Under the Mackenzie regime there were (1) no homestead grants and no pre-emption grants within the railway belt of forty miles wide, a fact the Opposition organs forgot when attacking the present reserve of the one-mile belt; (2) three hundred and twenty acres were the most any settler could obtain, and (3) he had to pay $1 an acre cash in advance.

WHAT THEY DO IN THE UNITED STATES.

To-day in the United States—(1) Pre-emption and homestead must be at least two miles apart; (2) they cannot be held at the same time; (3) what is called a pre-emption in the United States is the right to purchase a lot of land after living on it and improving it for twelve months; (4) in the United States a man must be twenty-one years of age before he can obtain either a homestead or a pre-emption entry; (5) having once exercised his privilege of homestead and pre-emption, the settler can never do so again; he is, indeed, compelled to make affidavit when obtaining an entry that he has never had the privilege before; (6) further, in the United States, no man can obtain a homestead who is already the owner of 320 acres in any State or territory.

THE CANADIAN LAND REGULATIONS.

Under our present land regulations (1) Homestead and pre-emption must instead of being at least two miles apart. (2) They can be held at the same time, and occupancy and cultivation of the one is held to mean occupancy and cultivation of the other. (3) The settler may take up lands at the age of 18 years instead of having to wait till he is 21. (4) If he lives on and cultivates his land for three years (instead of five) he has earned a patent for his homestead, or for his homestead and pre-emption as the case may be. (5) So soon as he has thus earned his homestead or homestead and pre-emption he can obtain a new homestead and pre-emption. (6) After he has earned his second he can go on and earn a third and fourth or more. (7) The lands reserved for settlement are very few indeed compared with the enormous reservation of the forty mile belt reserved by the Mackenzie Government. (8) The entrance fees in Canada as compared with the United States are not more than half as much and in many cases not one-third. (9) The terms of payment are now, as compared with the Mackenzie regime, infinitely more liberal to the settler.

Whether then he looks at the land regulations of the United States or at those of the Mackenzie Government, the settler cannot but be impressed with the very great difference between them and those in force in the North-West under the present Government. To the advantage of the latter in the comparison. If he studies the land regulations of the several provinces of the Dominion east of Lake Superior he will be convinced that the present Dominion Government, in providing land regulations for this great Federal domain in the North-West, has been actuated by the most liberal views.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BETTER—Your correspondent has been confined to his room for the last ten days with a troublesome sore throat. Dr. Caldwell, from Lakeside, was called in twice. Thanks to his skill as a physician I am now nearly convalescent.

THE FAIRY.—The steamer Fairy is doing quite a large business this fall towing cordwood, lumber and shingles for shipment per Midland Railway from Lakeside. She very often makes two trips a day.

THE FAULTY CAMEL.—Mr. Goodwin, the contractor for the Buckhorn and Burleigh locks, is going to commence operations very soon at Burleigh, which looks like business.

THE ROAD.—The township council of Smith will have to get their attention drawn to the very bad state of the roads from this place to Burleigh & Fairbridge. They are past all speaking about. A good sum of money will have to be voted to make them good, and a good man appointed for the laying of it out to the best advantage.

THE SHANTY.—Mr. A. Dugas, foreman for Geo. Chalmer, started about ten days ago with a gang of 30 men, to take out cord and pine logs for next season's demand. Mr. Dugas has built his shanty near Big Cedar Lake in Burleigh. Your correspondent will be giving Arthur his usual annual call some time in early winter and report how his hat is worn; if a mild winter he will have no hat when at work.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.—The sooner the above railway is taken out of its present control and taken in hand by the Grand Trunk authorities the better it will be for those that get freight from Toronto (at least it could not be any worse managed in this department); freight from Toronto to Lakeside takes on an average from one week to ten days—which I can prove—and very often (especially at this time of year) the goods may be lying at the station and you are not notified of the fact by mail, as certainly this ought to be done promptly.

Great Captains at Variance.

The Rat Portage Progress says that General Pattillo and Brigadier Burden intend to run for the mayoralty of that town, and remarks:—"It would never do for them both to run, yet neither will retire. Pattillo informs Burden that he could not get in anyhow because he is too unpopular, whereas I have a little of my own Burden." Then Burden gets hostile, and says Pattillo can't get in for poundkeeper, that he ran for office twice in Oxford and was beaten both times, and he can knock the spots off him running for mayor. Pattillo asks Burden if he thinks he will get Conservative votes because he ran a Tory paper in Cornwall, and Burden retorts that he never stuck bills up in Port Arthur about the game laws and went around saying it was Norquay anyhow. Then they glare at each other and go to their rooms for two fingers, with a little water, and imagine how nice it would be to be a Manitoba mayor."

That popular hotel, the Calder House, will be thoroughly overhauled and renovated at once by the new proprietors, Baly Bros.

Evasion of the Authorities.

DUBLIN, Nov. 24.—The town of Listowel was thronged to-day with people who came to witness the unveiling of the memorial to Allen, Larkin, and O'Brien. Special trains from Limerick and Tralee brought many visitors. Two magistrates and a body of police were ready to enforce the Government's proclamation prohibiting the demonstration, but the promoters evaded them by unveiling the memorial earlier than the specified time.

Turkish Blackmail on Trial.

Bahri Pasha, chief of police at Constantinople, and six of the officers of the secret police are being tried on a charge of levying blackmail. Their plan was to charge innocent persons with poisoning false money, and if the accused paid a heavy bribe the prosecution was stopped. If they refused, a conviction was usually secured through the perjured testimony of police agents and others. The plot was discovered through the failure of Bahri Pasha to pay those he employed. Nine persons were convicted, and are serving long terms.

From Dakota to Manitoba.

When Prof. Bryce next visits Dakota he should enquire how many Canadians have been "driven out" of there into Manitoba. The C. P. R. authorities can convince him that over 700 families, numbering say 2,500 souls, have emigrated from there into this country since May 1. One hundred and sixty-four French-Canadian families have this year settled in the St. Leon district, coming principally from Massachusetts; and they say that hundreds will follow them next season. The railroad station shows that since 1881, when the work of constructing the C. P. R. was seriously undertaken there has been a steady stream of settlers from the American side to this. For every settler who has left Manitoba for Dakota, twenty have left Dakota for Manitoba.—Winnipeg Times.

The Port Ferry Fire.

PORT PERRY, Nov. 26.—A fire broke out here between 11 and 12 o'clock last night, which destroyed about $250,000 worth of property in the centre of the town. It commenced in Kaddy's Hotel, and made a clean sweep of Queen street on the north side from Ross' elevator to McCaw's jewellery store. The flames had made such headway before being discovered that they were entirely beyond the control of the firemen and citizens, who worked persistently, but against such great odds as to render their efforts almost unavailing. The prevailing strong south wind prevented contact with the south side of the street and saved the rest of the town. The existence of an alley between the Brunswick House and McCaw's jewellery store, coupled with the fact that the wall of the hotel fell inward, is largely attributable to the staying of the progress of the flames. Otherwise the whole of that side of the street would have been swept away. A large quantity of goods were removed in a damaged condition. Fortunately no lives were lost, though risks were run and venturesome attempts made to rescue movable goods. The Western, Phoenix, and Lancashire Insurance Companies are all more or less concerned in the total loss, which is $250,000.

Fatal Riot Over an Oil Well.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 26.—A bloody riot occurred at a natural gas well near Murrayville, Westmoreland county. The burning well is claimed by the Pennsylvania Fuel Company, and also by Melton Weston, a Chicago capitalist, the Fuel Company being in possession. The afternoon a gang of thirty labourers in the employ of Weston appeared armed with shotguns and clubs to take possession. To reach the well they would be obliged to remove a large pile of lumber. The labourers of the Fuel Company were unarmed. O. V. Haymaker, a member of the Fuel Company, ordered all his men to sit down on the lumber pile. Weston's forces moved forward and ordered the labourers off. The latter refused to go, and after threatening demonstrations the attacking party raised their guns and fired. The result was unexpected, and the result was frightful. When the smoke cleared away O. V. Haymaker and four others were found lying on the ground. Haymaker was dead, the others of his party were seriously and probably fatally injured. Scores of the greatest confusion ensued. The workmen of both parties engaged in a pitched battle, and many were seriously injured. Weston's force being armed, finally put the Fuel Company's forces to flight, and at latest accounts were in possession.

A Lawyer's Opinion of Interest to All.

J. A. Tawney, Esq., a leading attorney of Winona, Minn., writes: "After using it for more than three years, I take great pleasure in stating that I regard Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, as the best remedy in the world for Cough and Cold. It has never failed to cure the most severe cold I have had, and invariably relieves the pain in the chest. Trial bottles of this cure sent for all Throat and Lung Diseases may be had free at Taylor & Macdonald Drug Store. Large size $1.00.—1

THE FAITH CURE.—One who tried the faith cure declares that he is "cured of her faith"—Burdock Blood Bitters cures by faith alone. It is the grand specific for all diseases of Liver, Kidneys and Blood, purifying, regulating, and strengthening the vital fluids.

A FAILURE IN COPE.—A species of worm is eating all the leaves from the chestnut and hickory nut trees in many sections, and the crop will be a failure. Worms that afflict children or adults will prove a failure if Dr. Lee's Pleasant Worm Syrup is used. It is a safe and sure cure for all worms that lurk in the human system, tape worm included.

THEY ALL TELL THE SAME STORY. Mr. W. Thompson, Jeweller, Delhi, suffered for years from Dyspepsia, got no relief until he used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. He says it was just the medicine I needed. It has cured me.

NOVEMBER.

The Month for OVERCOATS and forerunner of colder days to come reminds everyone that heavier Clothing is now wanted. This want we have anticipated, and have now on hand an exceedingly fine line to select from. Go tell your friends, then come yourself, and see that this is the place you have been looking for. Our general line comprises Overcoats, (heavy as well as medium), Men's Fall and Winter Suits in endless variety, Children's and Youths' Clothing in all the Newest Shades and Styles, and at prices that will suit all. Our Goods are all as represented.

Of course low prices have much to do with the success of any business where the competition is great, and especially is this the case with the Clothing Trade. But there is another feature, equally necessary to complete success, and that is the POSITIVE MERIT of the goods sold. It is upon these two absolutely essential requirements that we have established the most extensive business in Peterborough.

Old Friends.

As a proof of this, witness the throng of OLD FRIENDS who daily visit us, bringing acquaintances to introduce, and all convinced that we sell BETTER CLOTHING AND AT FAR LOWER PRICES THAN ANY OTHER HOUSE IN THIS TOWN. An apt illustration of these facts can be found in our present sale of an exquisitely made and thoroughly substantial ALL-WOOL SUIT AT $8; also a BEAUTIFUL $5 FALL OVERCOAT, equal to like coats found elsewhere at $8.

Intending Clothing-buyers will nowhere find such extraordinary inducements awaiting them as those now offering by us.

CUSTOM DEPARTMENT.

Finest Lines of imported Fabrics—Suitings and Overcoatings—Honest Workmanship and Reduced Prices, are the attractions offering in this Department. Particular attention is paid to the Make, Fit and Style of our Clothing, and we acknowledge no superiors in the art of turning out Elegantly Dressed Patrons.

A TREELESS COUNTRY.

"I had a dream which was not all a dream"
A great tree was a desert, and the land lay bare and naked under sun and storm, Treeless and shelterless. Spring came and went,
And came, but brought no joy; but in its stead
The desolation of the ravaged land.
That leaped like wolves or wildcats from the hills
And spread destruction over fruitful farms,
Devouring as they passed the wood-crowned trees,
And sweeping southward nature's beauty
To choke the watercourses, where life waste.

The forest trees that in the olden time—
The people's glory and the poet's pride—
Tempered the air and guarded well the earth,
And under spreading boughs for ages kept
Great reservoirs to hold the snow and rain,
From which the moisture through the twinkling year
Flowed equally but freely—all were gone.
Their priceless hoards exchanged for petty cash,
The cash had melted and had left no sign;
The lawyer and the lumberman were dead;
The axe had rusted out for lack of use;
But all the endless evil they had done
Was manifested upon the desert waste.

Dead springs no longer sparkled in the sun;
Lost and forgotten brooks no longer laughed;
Dismal mounds mourned all their morose wheels;
The snow no longer covered as with wool
Mountain and plain but nestled stirring flocks
In arctic drifts; in rivers and canals
The vessels rotted idly on the mud
Until the spring floods buried all their bones,
Great cities that had thriven wondrously,
Before the source of thrift was swept away,
Faded and perished as the wood-crowned trees,
With water banished from its roots and leaves;
And men sat starving in the treeless waste,
Beside their fruitless farms and empty warehouses,
And wondered at the ways of Providence.

WORK AND HURRY.

Mr. Herbert Spencer thought that the most valuable piece of advice he could leave us in departing from our shores was to be less restless —to work less and play more. Overwork was the besetting sin of Americans, according to that English philosopher, who spoke with the more feeling and the stronger emphasis on the subject because he himself was a victim of the very excess against which he warned us. He had come to the United States, in truth, with the hope of restoring tone to his nervous system, so shattered by indolent application to study that he was unable to sleep soundly.

Sensible people here, however, knew very well that working too hard was not an American vice. It is rare to find an American whose tendency to sit takes that direction. The men who complain most of overwork are usually those who are unfortunates themselves for exertion by bad habits of self-indulgence. They could do their work without undue strain if they did not otherwise overtax their nerves.

But there is another very frequent cause of nervous prostration. It is haste and unmethodical labor, the habit of hurrying. But that cause, it seems, is comparatively active in London
no less than in New York.

The London Lancet warns the "city men," that is, the business men, that they are wearing themselves out with unnecessary hurry and haste. It also tells physicians that they would do far more to prevent the spread of nervous disease if they undertook to cure this vicious mental habit, than they can hope to do by dealing only with the particular ills which come from it.

One of the chief characteristics of business life, the Lancet says, is to be always in a hurry;
the moment a lad enters a business house he begins to make believe to others, and too quickly to himself, that he is only hurrying with work.
The result is the formation of a "mental habit" of hurrying, which before long becomes the keynote and motive of the whole life. It is the custom to write and speak as though commercial men were really in such a hurry that they pretend to be. Now, the simple fact is that all their haste and turmoil, prejudicial and often ruinous as it is, is artificial.

The bustling, hurrying man, as a matter of fact, is a poor worker and a poor thinker. His paralytic little in a day. Too much of his stamp power is expended in kicking up a dust.
The habit of hurrying and of feeling in a hurry is fatal to good work, and diminishes the account of work a man can get through with. Friction is too great. So little of practical value is accomplished, despite all the superfluous expenditure of energy, that he cannot go home at night with the sweet consciousness of duty done, of a day's work completed. He has left too many trifles to be taken up.

The man who accomplishes the most never seems in a hurry, no matter how much they have to do. Everybody must have observed that. They are not troubled for time, for they make the most of the minutes by working in a cool, clear, orderly, and methodical fashion, finishing each job properly, and not wasting their nerve-force on trifles or expending it in haste. They never complain of overwork. They are more likely to be hurrying up new work to do, in order to give their families more varied employment and to exercise some which are not sufficiently used.

To much work to do! The highest pleasure and greatest satisfaction are found in work only,
and the more work a man has to do, if it is work
to which he is adapted, the better he likes it.
The man to pity are those who are not getting to do, and those whose only business is to hunt for pleasure for itself—the fellows who have no other occupation than that of killing time. But we are also sorry for the men, whose manner, as described by the Lancet, suggests a boiler worked up to the highest pressure and only moved down by frequent letting off of steam. —N. Y. Sun.

Cure Free.

Any reader troubled with Dyspepsia, Costive-ness, Headache, Liver Complaint, etc., should call at John McKee's Drug Store, and secure a free trial bottle of McKee's Specialty. Cure at once, which will convince you of the merits of the medicine. It cures permanently where all other medicines have failed. As a blood purifier it has no equal. Remember it costs nothing to try it. Regular size 50 cents and $1.

A LITTLE BEHIND HAND.—Some people are always a little behind hand in all undertakings; delays are dangerous, and none more so than in neglecting what seems a trifling cold.
Prudent people break up the ill effects by timely use of Hagar's Federal Balm, thus preventing serious lung trouble.

At a meeting of the shareholders of the English Loan Company of London, Ont., on Saturday resolutions were passed authorizing an application to the Legislature for a reduction of the capital sufficient to cover recent losses and for an amendment of the charter of the company.

A FORTUNATE ESCAPE.—Mrs. Beckenham, 26 Pembroke street, Toronto, at one time was about to submit to a surgical operation for bad lameness of the knee joint, all other treatment having failed, when Hagar's Yellow Oil was tried, and speedily cured her.

A DISGRACEFUL case of elopement has been brought to light in London, Ont. A farmer sold his farm after having given his wife to refrain from leaving him, and with the proceeds he fled with her to the Pacific slope accompanied by a young woman, leaving his wife and five children penniless.

Mrs. ELIZABETH MASON.—Dr. M. Souville &

hand, and in reply to your enquiry I have much pleasure in stating that from the first time of using the sputrometer and the medicine I have improved very much. The bronchitis has entirely left me. I sleep well and have a good appetite. I must also add, that coming to you as I did as a last resort, the cure effected has been wonderful. Gratefully yours,
Mrs. E. Mason.

BICYCLE RIBBONS.

Dr. B. W. Richardson, who sets down cycling as indisputably the best exercise for intellectual workers, says: "If I walk ten miles in three hours, at a fair pace, I am tired, my ankles feel weak, my feet sore, my muscles weary, so that after the effort I am unfit for any mental work until recruited by a long rest. If I go the same distance on the bicycle on the same kind of road, I find that an hour and a half is the fullest time required for the distance, and instead of being ankle-weary and foot sore, with a sense of fatigue, I am agreeably refreshed by the exercise, and ready for study or other mental occupation."

With a machine reduced in weight to twenty-six pounds, and propelled on a good track nearly twenty miles an hour, the temptation to overdo matters is extreme. "Young and old, male and female, weak and strong, are all going wrong on this mania about records." A middle-aged man starts a tri-cycle; he can do eight to ten miles an hour without fatigue, throws off his gait, works well, sleeps well. Then he begins to beat his record; he gets over his thirty miles in a day, perspires freely, and the next day comes a touch of his old enemy, his nerves are broken down, and he will be shaky and uncertain in his resolutions and movements for some time to come. Younger riders are also overdoing it.

"To make one hundred miles a day on ordinary roads on a bicycle is now considered comparatively among practical riders; on a tri-cycle—which was held the slower vehicle—one rider, Mr. Marrott, has gone two hundred and nineteen miles, and an English lady, Miss Albion, has accomplished one hundred and fifty-three miles within twenty-four hours. Cycling necessitates temperate habits; hard drinking cyclists will go to the hospital and to their graves as fast as their machines can carry them." What Dr. Richardson calls the ventilation of the body by hours of free inhalation of the open air, is exactly made easier for most folks by these cheaper steel rivals of the horse.

Under the limitations he suggests, and cautions against over training and over taxing, which all lead to vascular and nervous disturbances, to hypertrophy of muscles, and to undue absorption and anxiety in the sport itself, with these dangers provided for by the temperate use of the wheel he can afford, as can all cyclists, to calculate the knowledge, as well as pleasure and health, that will come to men and women by these latest inventions in steel steeds. —Philadelphia Leader.

Extraordinary, if True.

The Winchester Journal gives currency to the following incident:—"One day at Westminster, a valuable horse was found lying down in the stable with one of his hind feet completely in his mouth, and so firmly was it there fixed, that it required the assistance of four men to release
it. This extraordinary circumstance can only be accounted for on the supposition that the horse, in attempting to scratch himself, accidently forced his foot into his mouth. The animal sustained no injury beyond one or two slight excoriations of the mouth."

Give up Medicine.

How precious is health! Wealth, honor, luxury, associations and friendship are of less value than health! Thousands of highly educated persons exclaim, "I would give all for health!" Multitudes who can talk intelligently of nebulae, leucocytes, monads, and of equations have become a trial to themselves and their friends, are fretful, hysterical, sensational, and even lax in morality! What is to be done?
First, stop medicines of all sorts! Give up the gauntlets of tonic, stimulants, alteratives, sodatives, diaphoretics, antiseptics, diuretics and purgatives, which have been applied in every conceivable way to the gastro-pulmonary and genito-urinary surfaces, to the nasal and serous membranes and external skin. Give up your liver pads, supporters, specific and beak cure self properly to nature's materia medica! Give up your bluebans, quinine, iron, ipecac, opium, chloral and bromides, and you have made the right start.

Now try to take hope into your soul! Believe you may become well, vigorous and useful, for it is true the most of you are curable. Second, Put yourself in proper relation to "deep breathing," sunlight, food, dress, sleep, motion, rest, water, and self-hood! Do this at home, or in the best institution you know, it will make no difference, only that you continue and persevere in doing it. —"L." in Herald of Health.

A Promising Angler.

On one occasion, Lord Walter Campbell, third son of his Grace the Duke of Argyll, who was then only eight years of age, caught with the fly no less than twenty-six sea trout, many of them of considerable size. On another, the youthful sportsman killed, in about one hour, no less than twenty similar trout, which he unfortunately fell and broke his rod, thus preventing the record of what promised to be one of the most remarkable feats in the annals of angling. The scene of the young sportsman's exploits was the river Aray on the pools opposite the riding school. The coolness with which he played and landed the fish was quite remarkable in one so young, giving evidence of that inherent skill which seems native to British sportsmen, and is found in no other country under the sun. —North British Mail.

is proper. The great difficulty to be encountered with the low grade of goods required.
In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silk. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the
and of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest
by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and aching teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Infant's Syrup for Children Teething.
Its value is incalculable. It will soothe the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives rest and comfort to the whole system. Mrs.
Winslow's Infant's Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the most perfect of all the child's and best remedy to be used and named in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

DEAR SIR,—For over twenty years I have suffered greatly from Neuralgia; sometimes being unable to swallow or taste properly.
The disease caused a severe pain over the eye,
and frequently stopped my writing on account of distress. The pain in my throat gave me much annoyance, especially in company, tells of which would occasionally fall down
into my throat, and I could seldom breathe
through my nose. I have taken quarts
of various medicines without any apparent benefit, until I was induced by your agent of 86
Muter street, to try your FOUNTAIN OF HEALTH.
After using five bottles I am prepared to give it as my honest opinion that for the cure of Neuralgia it is a good success. I have recommended it to many of my friends, one of whom encloses his testimonial with mine.
I am gratefully yours,

LOCAL NEWS

Agents Wanted.
The William's Manufacturing Company want reliable agents to sell their sewing machines. This is a good opportunity for those who like this kind of employment. Apply to the General Agent at Peterborough, Mr. W. P. O'Brien.

The Mayoralty.
Mr. W. Paterson, Jr., at present one of the representatives in the Council for No. 2 Ward, in an address to the electors in another column announces that he is a candidate for the Mayoralty for 1884.

Journalistic.
The Toronto Morning News is a new aspirant for public favour, under the editorship and proprietorship of Mr. Edmund E. Sheppard. Its introduction is very outspoken, its liberalism being of a most advanced nature, and its principles being "Democratic." It is bright and full of news, and is likely to make its mark.

Decidedly Colder.
There was quite a flurry of snow between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning, followed by clear cold, with strong winds. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong winds and gales veering to north-west and north; fair, decidedly colder weather, with a few snow flurries.

An Accident.
On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Jas. McLellan met with an accident, and had a narrow escape from more serious injury than he received. He was moving a step ladder in the block occupied by Mr. Tully, where the improvements are being made, and a chisel which had been left on the top of the ladder fell down, passing close to his head and striking him on the right hand. The chisel cut a severe gash on his hand, and Dr. Halliday was called in, and was obliged to sew the wound together.

New Railway.
Notice is given in the Ontario Gazette that applications will be made at the next session of the Legislature for a charter to construct a railway line from some point on the Ontario and Quebec Railway in the township of Whitby, passing near Port Perry to some point on the Northern and Pacific Junction near Gravenhurst, and also for a charter to build a railway from some point on the line of the Midland in the township of Orillia to the village of Gravenhurst, and with power to extend it further.

Literary Club.
In keeping with the progress which is characteristic of the town, we may mention that there has been quietly inaugurated within the last two or three weeks a literary club, which, if kept up with the same spirit that has marked the meetings already held, bids fair to accomplish a good work, and to be productive of lasting benefit to its members. Those who are in favour of the co-education of the sexes will be gratified to learn that it includes in its membership both ladies and gentlemen; the former being at present in the majority. The object of the club is to promote systematic reading and study and the cultivation of a literary taste, short papers upon a given subject being read at each meeting, followed by a conversational discussion upon the points raised or suggested by the papers. Of eleven short and pithy papers read last evening, nine were written by ladies. They display not only the greatest variety in handling the subject chosen, but also the greatest care in style and composition, and bore marks of thought and grasp of the subject, evidencing no slight ability on the part of the writers. From the beginning thus so well made we may look for the greatest and most important results.

POLICE COURT.

"AY, THERE'S THE RUB!"

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 28.—George Clark, an old man from Belleville, was charged by Chief Johnston with having been intoxicated. He was creating some trouble in the Post Office on Tuesday afternoon, when the Chief arrested him and escorted him to the cells. He acknowledged the truthfulness of the charge. "Why do you drink whiskey?" asked the Magistrate. The old man looked surprised, and although the question was twice repeated, he evidently could not find an answer. He was finally discharged with a caution to keep sober.

A Serenade.

The City Band on Tuesday evening serenaded the new proprietors of the Calise House, the Messrs. Daly Brothers. They played several selections outside, and having been invited into the house, rendered several pieces in the office. The music was greatly enjoyed.

A Good Investment.

Any person having a few thousand dollars to invest should not fail to attend the sale of the late David Carlisle property, which takes place at the office of Mr. C. A. Waller, on the first of December next. The brick dwelling house is large and in a good state of repair, while the garden is not surpassed by any in Peterborough.

St. Luke's Parochial Association.
This prosperous society held an entertainment on Monday evening last in the school house, Ashburnham. Notwithstanding the unfavorable state of the weather, the room was well filled, and the audience testified their appreciation of the excellent programme presented in the heartiest possible manner. The readings given by Dr. Clarke and Mr. A. Clegg were splendidly done, while Mrs. Bowman, Miss Ellsworth, the Misses Shaw and the Misses Stephens sang some beautiful songs in a manner rarely surpassed, each performer receiving a hearty encore. Miss Orde presided at the organ, playing the accompaniments with her usual good taste and precision. On Monday, December 10th, the Temperance Society will give a concert in St. Luke's school house, Ashburnham, which the general public would do well to attend, as a first-class programme is in preparation.

Sudden Death.
Miss Drake, of Grafton, died very suddenly on Tuesday afternoon, at the residence of Mr. R. B. Lundy. She had been visiting in Peterborough, at Dr. Halliday's and Mr. Lundy's, and had been receiving medical treatment. On that afternoon Mr. Lundy drove her to Dr. Halliday's residence. While going there she remarked that she had never felt better, and appeared to be in excellent spirits. Some time after wards she returned to Mr. Lundy's and was met at the door by Mrs. Lundy. After making some casual remarks, Miss Drake ran lightly up the stairs accompanied by Mrs. Lundy. She removed her hat from her head and placed it on the bed, and immediately afterwards threw herself down beside it. Mrs. Lundy, having seen her immediately before in such good spirits, had no idea that there was anything wrong, but believed the act was done in playfulness. However, as she did not move, Mrs. Lundy approached the bed and was startled to find that the young lady was dead. Miss Drake was a favourite with her acquaintances and was in addition an artist of considerable merit.

FIRE PROTECTION.

To the Editor of the Review.
DEAR SIR,—The letter of Mr. Cluxton's appearing in Friday's REVIEW I have read with interest and astonishment, but the scarcity of time has, however, prevented me from making comment on the same. I had almost made up my mind not to say any more on waterworks if the expression in that letter had not been so serious, and affected my property on George Street more particularly. I would ask Mr. Cluxton to kindly answer the following questions:—Will the Water Company protect my property, supposing that the high close fence on the west side of Chamber street opposite my premises, which Mr. Cluxton has erected contrary to the Fire by-law, should be on fire? Or will the Company wait until the building caught fire? According to Mr. Cluxton's letter all would depend on the whims of the Company. The sooner I know the answer the better as I most undoubtedly should have such danger removed by aid of the Fire by-law.
Thanking you Mr. Editor,
I remain,
W. LECH.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

To the Editor of the Review.
SIR,—The state of our municipal affairs calls for prompt and decided action. During most of the year the Mayor has been absent and the Council, left without a responsible head, has been unable to govern itself with decency, simply because the men who compose it are unequal to the position.

Most of the meetings have been exhibitions of rudeness and incapacity. Matters of moment to the community are above their reach; trifling reprimands and vulgar abuse have been the staples dealt in. Respectable men, and men who respect the fair name of the town, are ashamed, and desire that a capable and responsible man, possessing the respect and confidence of the community shall be selected for Mayor, and that men of broad judgment and at least respectable manners shall be elected to the Council. The future of Peterborough will depend on the efforts of her own citizens during the next few years. No town is better situated and none can be thrust into prosperity more easily, but it requires ability, judgment, and energy—and the hearty co-operation of a liberal and wise Council to assist in the effort. Will such a council as we have now fill the bill?

Let us act—and that with promptness and decision; we have had enough child's play, we want now the services of men who have the ability to devise wise measures, and the courage of their convictions to carry them out.

The Mayoralty.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

GENTLEMEN:—
As Mr. H. H. Smith, our present Mayor, some time ago signified his intention of not seeking re-election to the office of Mayor of the Town of Peterborough, at the earnest request and solicitation of a very large number of the representative ratepayers, I now offer myself as a candidate for that office.

For many years I, as a Councillor, have represented you, and have always striven diligently and faithfully to perform my duty towards my constituents and the public at large, and I now confidently refer you to, and rely upon, my labors and honest exertion in your behalf.

If elected, it will ever be my pleasure and honor to do my utmost to preserve and advance the interests of your town, and by strict integrity, economy and attention to your affairs, to merit the good will and esteem of my fellow citizens.

I do not intend, nor will I be able to make a personal canvass, but take this means of asking the votes of each of the independent electorates of this town, remaining

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1883.

THERE are not many farmers in the House of Commons, but the Reformers evidently think there are too many, for they have ousted Mr. McMillan, an honest and respected farmer from South Huron, to make room for Sir Richard Cartwright.

REFORM improvements on our constitution sometimes have a rather arbitrary look. For instance members are supposed to represent their constituents and to sit for the term of years fixed by the law. Mr. McMillan, however, as is now divulged, was elected for a term to be fixed at the pleasure of Mr. Blake without any regard to the statutory limit, and he really represented only Mr. Blake, who could terminate his political existence with a back of the finger.

In reference to the recent political meeting held by the Reformers of South Huron in a church, the Globe admits "the fact of the vote of nearly one half of the convention being in favour of Mr. McMillan's not resigning." The Globe construes this as a tribute to Mr. McMillan's worth, and a testimony of Liberal independence of thought. We would imagine that it betokened the disgust of the Reformers of South Huron at the dictation of party leaders who called upon them to throw overboard a local man they respected, in order to make place for a stranger who did not dare to face a constituency in his own neighbourhood.

To mitigate the force of the repeated blows which the Reformers have experienced in the Election Courts, they are fond of boasting that a Conservative has been disqualified, while no Reformer (in this election) has shared his fate. They omit to explain that this is another instance of the uncertainty of the law—that Mr. Fenwick was disqualified for treating before the nomination, while Dr. Dowling, who had also treated far more extensively before nomination, was allowed the benefit of the doubt. The Reformers would do well to await the action of the Court of Appeal before boasting too much, as it seems almost inevitable that it will interpret the law similarly in both cases, either disqualifying or absolving both candidates.

KEEPING HIMSELF SAFE.

The Reformers boast that while our leader has been unseated, there has never experienced such a reverse. We may remind them that Sir John Macdonald, has not been in the habit of displaying political cowardice, and instead of carefully choosing a safe seat, he has taken his place in the contest where the fight was hottest. In such a constituency, when he was opposed with the virulence which his opponents have always displayed against him, it was, however, improper not altogether ungenerous that some indiscreet follower should use illegal means to counteract the undue influence that were brought to bear against him.

Mr. Blake on the other hand has adopted a more cautious if less spirited course. He has displayed the same care for his own safety in the constituencies as in the House. It will be in the memories of our readers how a safe seat was found for the Reform leader in West Durham by the purchased retirement of Mr. Burke, the consideration being provided, however, not from private sources, but by the gift of a public office, by the grace of Mr. Mowat.

Now we have a fresh instance of Mr. Blake's canny regard for the security of his own position and feeble personal advantage. It appears that he was a party to a very dubious bargain with Mr. McMillan, that he should have the nomination for South Huron on the condition that he would resign the seat if Mr. Blake, being defeated elsewhere, should want it. The cautious but not very chivalrous Reform leader might well content himself with his double chance—being a candidate for a Reform constituency, and having another very safe seat kept warm him in case of failure.

Hearty from the West.

The independent Toronto World says:—"If opening Hamilton would not have jeopardized one seat, Mr. Gibson, the talented member for that city would undoubtedly have been the new minister. So that while this last move may increase the strength of the government, it is none the less a confession of their critical condition. The all-powerful party that Edward Blake turned over to Oliver Mowat has nearly run the race so far as its present control of the province is concerned."

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MUNICIPAL.

As the end of the municipal year approaches a little stir begins to show itself on the surface in Council matters. It is reported this week that a desire has developed itself in the village among quite a number to have a new Council altogether, to consist of young men, but a great many are of the opinion that the task is rather large, but many strange things happen. The candidates spoken of are, at any rate, all good men, and no doubt would make a good run. It would be premature to mention any names yet, but no doubt we shall be able to do so in a few days.

LUMBERING.

Messrs. R. & G. Strickland have 8 shanties of lumbering camps in full blast. This firm got over 2,000 pieces of square timber stuck in a marsh caused by some dam breaking away. The dams having been rebuilt, the late rains have enabled them to get this timber out into a lake where it will be ready to forward early next spring. They have already cut and skidded over a thousand pieces of timber, and more than sufficient logs to make 4,000,000 feet of lumber. The Messrs. Strickland deserve praise for the energy and enterprise with which they push their business.

THE LAKEFIELD DAM.

It has been rumored that a report has been sent to the Minister of Railways and Canals that it is necessary to build a new dam at Lakefield, but that the old one should be repaired. There seems to be no doubt at all among those here perfectly competent to judge, that such a course would be an absurd waste of public money. It is hoped that the rumor is not true, or at all events that no such decision will be adopted, but that to the credit of all concerned, a new dam will be speedily built.

POISONING CATTLE.

Mr. Richard Darling, who lives about four miles north-east of this village, has lost, so he informs your correspondent, 15 head of cattle within 8 months, having, as he (Mr. Darling) believes, all the symptoms of being poisoned. The last one, a fine animal, died on Tuesday last, the 27th Nov. Mr. Darling has determined to find out regardless of cost whether his cattle are being poisoned or not. It is almost incredible to think that any one could be found in this part of the country sunk so low as to be guilty of committing such a heinous offence out of revenge upon a neighbour, but Mr. Darling has strong suspicions that such is the case.

VERY MUCH LIKE IT.

In my correspondence I gave a list of officers installed in Court Lakefield, No. 43, C. O. Foresters, and by an oversight omitted the name of Dr. Bell as Financial Secretary. Dr. Bell being the Court Physician and a very prominent member of the Court since it was formed, the fact of the omission was considerably noticed by the readers of the REVIEW. Last week a town paper published the item word for word, and the omission of course, as an item from its own correspondent. I suppose this might be considered as simply a strange coincidence.

THE TAX COLLECTOR.

Mr. Thomas Muehall, the Lakefield tax collector, is getting along bravely with the collection of the taxes for this year. He expects to be able to return his roll on the day specified by the statutes, viz., on December 15th. In order to accomplish this he says that he will seize or all who do not pay up by the first of the month, so people had better beware.

ORANGE LODGE MEETING.

The regular December meeting of the old Orange Lodge No. 122, will be held on Monday evening next, the 3rd Dec., at 7 o'clock. The election of officers for the ensuing year will be the principal business.

MASONIC MEETING.

The regular communication of Clement Lodge of A. F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic Hall, Lakefield, on Tuesday evening next, the 4th December, at 7.30. Election of officers on the cards.

FENELON FALLS.

SHOT FOR A DEER.—The Gazette says that on Monday, Nov. 19th, two men named respectively Redner and Sawyers were out hunting near Haliburton, and seeing at a considerable distance what they supposed was a deer, both fired. Redner's ball took effect and the object dropped; and upon running to the spot they were horrified to find a man named Samuel Boyce lying bleeding on the ground. All we could learn in addition to the above regarding the accident was that Boyce was so badly wounded in the side that the doctors in attendance did not expect him to recover, but we have not since heard of his death.

WHAT JACK FROST DID.—A few evenings ago, after working hours, the steam whistle on Sandford's carriage works suddenly commenced to blow so vigorously that many persons in the neighbourhood rushed out of their houses, thinking it was an alarm of fire. Mr. Sandford, who had just passed on his way home from the village, ran back, entered the premises mounted to the roof, and had a good laugh when he saw what was the matter. It was Jack Frost who had caused the false alarm, for the wire connected with the whistle was loaded with icicles, which had gradually grown heavy enough to open the valve and allow the steam to escape.

THE PULP MILL.—The Pulp Manufacturing Co.'s block of buildings on the shore of Cassam Lake, in this village, are rapidly approaching completion and will be ready to commence operations in about a month. A great many men were busily engaged finishing or fitting up the interior of the different apartments in the mill, which was finished and roofed in some time ago. The two enormous boilers are in position; the engines are believed to be on their way here, and the switch from the Midland track to the mill is partly constructed. There is a deal of inside work to be done yet, but it is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and we hope soon to be able to record that the first carload of pulp has been turned out and shipped to its destination.

EASTINGS.

NEARLY A BLAZE.—The Star says that the dwelling of Mr. Wm. Coed had a very narrow escape from destruction by fire on Monday morning. The kitchen floor is some unaccountable manner took fire underneath and was not observed until a blaze was burning through the joists. An alarm was at once given and promptly responded to by the neighbors, who succeeded in extinguishing the fire. With the wind blowing a gale at the time, had the flames gained the least head, not only the dwelling house but the barns would have been doomed to destruction.

FOR A HARD COLD, with pain in the head, bones, or through the chest, take DOWNS' EXHALE, at once and in liberal doses, cover up well in bed, and our word for it, you will soon be well.

THEY ALL TELL the same story. Mr. W. Thompson, Jeweler, Delhi, suffered for years from Dyspepsia, got no relief until he used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. He says it was just the medicine he needed. It has cured me.

CAMPBELLFORD.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.—The Star says that on Saturday morning two young men by the name of Geo. McKee and Duncan Montgomery, aged about nineteen years, started out from Campbellford in pursuit of game. They went as far as Crow Bay where they procured a small boat, and, in shooting at some ducks the boat capsized and they were precipitated into the water both clinging to the upturned boat and were making for shore as best they could. Montgomery becoming benumbed by cold started to swim ashore which was about one hundred yards distant, immediately after leaving the boat he sank to rise no more. McKee kept hold of the boat and succeeded in reaching shore in a very exhausted condition. He managed to reach the residence of Squire Denmark and was kindly treated, but was unable to speak for nearly an hour after reaching there. Search is being made for the body of the unfortunate young man, but up to the time of going to press without success. During Saturday night whilst a party searching for the remains a person named Oscar Conn fell overboard and came near sharing the fate of young Montgomery.

Saskatchewan Coal.

The members of the Saskatchewan Coal Company are elated over the result of the test of their coal on a Canada Pacific Railway freight train. Twenty-five cars with 800 tons of freight left Winnipeg for Brandon, the Saskatchewan coal producing a power pressure of one hundred and forty pounds most of the way, and an average of 15 miles per hour was made. The time was very enthusiastic over the result. It publishes a table of the time made between stations, and says:—"The table does not note the time waiting for crossings. Allowance being made for that, it will be found that the train made as good time as would have been made had American coal been used. Moreover, the Saskatchewan coal will not cost the company much more than half the price it pays for coal from the States."

No taking nauseous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application removes all pain and will prove the great value of Fluid Lightning. Twenty-five cents per bottle at John McKee's Drug Store.

A Lawyer's Opinion of Interest to All. J. A. Tawney, Esq., a leading attorney of Winnipeg, Minn., writes: "After using it for more than three years, I take great pleasure in stating that I regard Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, as the best remedy in the world for Cough and Colds. It has never failed to cure the most obstinate I have had. Trial bottles of this cure for all Throat and Lung Diseases may be had free at Taylor & Macdonald Drug Store. Large size $1.00.—1

Horrible Murder.

At Laconia, N. H., lately, an Englishman of the name of Salmon, aged 30, killed with an axe a man, a woman and a child, and attempted to burn the house in which they lived with kerosene. Salmon has been arrested. A husband of one of the murdered women is also suspected.

A False Report.

It was reported on Monday morning that the Bay street fire engine had been sent to Port Perry in charge of several members of the brigade, to assist in extinguishing a large fire there. The engine and men got no further than the Union Station. Before the Grand Trunk could provide a car, a message arrived from Port Perry saying that the fire was under control.

What They are Saying.

A Prince's Prisoner to be treated thus—Adam Crooks.

You're not the only one—Honest Alex. MacKenzie.

By any means—Gordon Brown.

Oh, don't I know—Old Sir Richard.

We run government, Globe and Grip—Edgar and Jaffrey.—Toronto World.

The Queen Honoured.

The following is the second toast, following that of the President of the United States, at Evacuation Day banquet of the Chamber of Commerce at Delmonico's last evening:—"The Queen of Great Britain! The many virtues of her life have won the hearts of the English-speaking race, her reign will mark an epoch in history more memorable than that of England's virgin Queen or that of the illustrious Isabella of Spain, who pleaded her jewels to furnish the means by which Columbus gave this continent to the World." The toast was drunk standing and cheered.

A New Locomotive.

The very first locomotive ever turned out of the new Canadian Pacific works, on Colborne Avenue, Montreal, was successfully tested on Monday morning at the place under the supervision of Messrs. Brown and May, superintending engineer, and foreman of works. These gentlemen, as well as other critics present at the time, are said to have expressed their approval as highly placed with it. The locomotive moved forward at the first touch of the lever, as readily and smoothly as many that have been in use for months. This, the first of fifteen on order for the road, was stated as having been little more than a week under construction. Four more of similar design are intended to be ready before New Year's.

The Winter Camp Fire.

In New York on Thursday, November 22nd, the Winter Camp-Fire held their first meeting. The chairman-elect of the Winter Camp-Fire is Colonel Norton. W. P. Stephens was elected secretary and treasurer over E. A. Hoffman, Esq., by a vote of 13 to 12.

An interesting letter was read from Dr. A. G. Gerster, who is in route for Lacquette Lake in the Adirondacks.

Professor Edwin Fowler read a paper on the pleasures and benefits of canoeing. G. K. Monroe, Vice-Commodore American Canoe Association, liberally advocated the adoption of three different types of canoes for different waters, and various models were speciously, logically or sophistically defended by their various adherents and advocates.—New York Truth.

A Fascinated Burglar.

James Gallagher, alias John McNeill, alias McNulty, is locked up at the Armory, Chicago, for burglary. He is an old-time rogue, and has served several terms in the penitentiary, the last being for the burglary of the Church of the Nativity, at the corner of Duane and Thirty-seventh streets. He is a young man, but an expert burglar. About a week ago the residence of Mrs. Leonard, at the corner of Emerald Avenue and Thirty-fifth street, was entered by Gallagher. Mrs. Leonard has a sixteen-year old daughter. The girl is just budding into womanhood, and is remarkably handsome. While in the house (the hour was late), Gallagher entered the sleeping apartment of the young lady. He had ransacked the house and secured a gold watch and chain, some silverware and a considerable sum of money. The burglar looked at the sleeping girl. What his thoughts were no one knows. Perhaps he had a sister. The girl was awakened by a kiss imparted on her forehead. It was a kiss of reverence and not of passion. She sprang up and held the burglar. She screamed. He forced his testament and with a strict eye to business escaped. But the girl told her story to her mother, and the mother reported it to the police, not forgetting the strange experience of her handsome daughter. The stolen property in a pawn shop gave Gallagher away, and he was arrested. A large number of burglaries have been committed on the South Side, and it is thought by the police that Gallagher is responsible for them.—Toronto Morning News.

A Blazing Town.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 27.—Albany, Green county, was nearly destroyed by fire early this morning. The fire spread rapidly, sweeping away every business building in the place including the post-office and two newspaper offices. The adjacent facilities erected for fighting the fire. A number of people barely escaped.

Dean Baldwin's Farewell.

Christ Church cathedral, Montreal, was filled from the entrance door to the end of the chancel on Sunday evening to hear the gifted Dean Baldwin deliver his last discourse before his consecration. Chairs were placed in the aisles and chancel after the pews were full, and still a large number of the congregation had to stand inside at the door. Never, it is said, since the cathedral has been built, a great many years ago, has there been such a dense mass of people gathered within its spacious walls as on Sunday night to hear the eloquent rector finish his labours in a pulpit he has occupied with so much competence and benefit to his congregation for fourteen years. The text was selected from I Samuel, xvii, 47. The discourse was an exaltation of Christ as the Saviour of the world, and was one of the most powerful of the very rare, genuine high ever delivered. On Monday morning a public breakfast was tendered Dean Baldwin at the Windsor hotel, which was attended by all the chief clergymen of the city. The Dean was enthusiastically greeted.

How to Loosen a Tight Screw.

One of the simplest and readiest methods of loosening a rusted screw is to apply heat to the head of the screw. A small bar or rod of iron, flat at the end, if reddened in the fire and applied for a couple of three minutes to the head of the rusty screw, will, as soon as it heats the screw, render its withdrawal as easy by the screw driver as if it was only a recently inserted screw. As there is a kitchen poker in every house, that instrument, if heated at the extremity and applied for a few minutes to the head of the screw or screw will do the work of loosening, and an ordinary screw driver will do the rest, without causing the least damage, trouble or vexation of spirit. In all work above the common kind, where it is necessary to use screws, and particularly in hanging and mounting, fancy fastenings and appliances affixed to joinery or furniture work, we would advise the oiling of screws or the dipping of their points in grease before driving them. This will render them more easy to drive and so to withdraw, and it will undoubtedly retard for a longer time the action of rusting.

A. L. DAVIS & CO.

Our Canadian Silk Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co.'s own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

The symptoms are soreness, like perianthitis, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling about the parts affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for Tetter, Itch, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Erysipelas, Burns, Itch, Boils, all sores, crusty Skin Diseases. Sent by mail for 50 cents, 3 boxes, 1.35 (in stamps). Address, DR. Oh, my Back!

Is there a miserable, weakening pain in the small of the back? Is urination painful? Do you have palpitation of the heart? Do strange, indescribable feelings creep up your back and sides? Does the least exertion weary you? Does your urine show brickdust or albuminous deposit? Does any sudden fright cause an intense, sharp pain in the small of your back? Do you have an aching in the groin? Is your memory impaired? Is your breath short? Are there shooting pains about your vitals? Are you becoming dropsical? These are all symptoms of kidney diseases. Be on your guard against them. If let run it may end in Bright's Disease, which is sure death.

Your best course is to procure at once a bottle of SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS and Iron Bitters costing only 50c. It will cure any form of Kidney Complaint, except Bright's Disease, it will relieve the symptoms and defer the evil day sometimes indefinitely.

SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS is a medicine as harmless as water. The world has not seen its equal as a cure for diseases which attack the kidneys and for the complaints to which females are alone liable. It is of more value than any medical compound known to the medical faculty.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1893.

LOCAL NEWS

First and Second.
The Midland Railway has adopted the system of issuing first-class and second-class tickets on their line.

A Severe Blow.
A man employed at the new hotel being erected on Hunter street received a severe blow this morning from a falling mortar board.

The Cells.
One tramp found rest last night in the municipal black hole and sleeping house. There was a "blank record" at the Police Court this morning.

Methodist Bazaar.
The second annual bazaar of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church will be held at the residence of Mr. Geo. A. Cox during the afternoon and evening of Friday, Dec. 7th. A programme of choice vocal and instrumental music will be an attraction at the evening sale.

The Weather.
To-day has been cold and windy with a light fall of snow. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, according to the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Winds shifting from south and south-east; fair weather, with a little light snow in some localities; stationary or higher temperature.

Peterborough Census.
A Peterborough correspondent writes as follows in the Globe of Nov. 28th:—
"The census makers here have turned out two completely decked canoes in the American style of decking and fitting up, the hull being on the usual 'cedar rib' principle adopted by the company. They are beautiful. One is 14 feet 3 in. in length by 36 in. beam, the other 14 ft. 9 in. beam. They are heavier than a small open canoe of small build, but still very light. They have water-tight safety compartments fore and aft, a roomy baggage compartment, and an ample cockpit. They are fitted with two latrine seats each, with brass mast-bats, silver-plated tube plates, pulley etc., rudder and foot steering gear, and carry about two inches of lead. I have tried one of them under sail, double-bladed paddle, and find it paddle very fast and sail well. The hatches are made to cover the cockpit when not in use. The coming canoe is, I think, a half-decked one, which has just been turned out. The bow and stern decking is about 2½ feet at each end, and down each side is a strip of decking about two or three inches wide with a mooring inside, leaving the canoe still to all intents and purposes open, and capable of holding three persons at least. Under each end deck will be a large water-tight safety compartment, made of painted canvas drawn over a steel framework of wood and very tight, while under the side decking a further safety compartment could be introduced, rendering the canoe practically unsinkable, and keeping it upright even if filled with water. The one already built is 15 ft. 6 in. long by 36 in. beam. It is very light. For very rough water a canvas decking might be put on at short notice."

Peterborough Literary Society.
A meeting was held in Carwell Hall on Wednesday evening to organize a literary society—a preliminary meeting having been held a week previously in the same hall. The attendance was such as warranted those present in organizing with a good prospect of success, and the following officers were elected:— PRESIDENT—J. Richardson.
VICE-PRESIDENT—J. McMillan.
SECRETARY—M. J. Minor.
TREASURER—J. Matheson.
CRITIC—F. Henry.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—J. Richardson, J. McMillan and J. Matheson.

The Executive Committee were instructed to draft a constitution for the Society. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday evening next, when the following question will be discussed:—"Resolved, that annexation to the United States would not benefit Canada." Although this Society meets in Carwell Hall, it has no connection with that Good Templar Lodge, but is a distinct and independent association, and of a cosmopolitan character. Its promoters believe that it is just such a society as is needed, where young men—and those more advanced in years, also—of all religions and political opinions may meet once a week with the sole object of mutually improving themselves.

Breakfast Bacon.
Choice Sugar Cured Breakfast Bacon 12½ cts. per pound at GEORGE MATTHEWS' pork packing store.

A Good Investment.
Any person having a few thousand dollars to invest should not fail to attend the sale of the late David Carlisle property, which takes place at the office of Mr. C. A. Weller, on the first of December next. The brick dwelling house is large and in a good state of repair, while the garden is not surpassed by any in Peterborough.

Personal.
The Charlotetown, P. E. I., Patriot, of Nov. 22nd, contains the following notice of the funeral of the late Mr. R. A. Haviland, taller of a bank in Charlottetown, son of the Hon. T. Heath Haviland and cousin of Mr. R. W. Gribble of the Bank of Toronto, Peterborough:—"The sympathy of our citizens for the parents and friends of the late R. A. Haviland was fully shown by the vast concourse of people who attended the funeral obsequies on Sunday evening. At three o'clock the procession left Government House for St. Peter's Church, where the solemn office for the dead was performed by the Rev. G. W. Hodgson, after which the procession reformed and accompanied the remains of the deceased to the cemetery, St. Peter's Road. The funeral was one of the largest witnessed here for many years."

Routley's Christmas Cards.
The practice of sending Christmas cards to friends and relations is a very pretty one and almost everybody indulges in it. The Christmas cards this year are more beautiful than ever—if that is possible. Friend Routley has made a choice and extensive selection from the best productions of leading houses, and has a beautiful stock. We had the pleasure of looking over the selections which Mr. Routley's experience, taste and judgment have led him to make, and must say that the display is beautiful. The cards range in price from one cent to five dollars. The beauty of the design of the cheaper ones is something remarkable, while the more costly ones are quite too lovely for anything. We advise our friends to make an early raid on Routley's Christmas cards.

The "Fund W." Fraud.
A despatch from Chicago on November 27th says:—

"The trial of John Flemming and F. N. Loring for the so-called 'Fund W.' frauds, is now in progress in the United States Court. Motions in behalf of the defense to quash the indictment were overruled. Witnesses from interior points in Wisconsin and Illinois testified to receiving circulars from the defendants extolling their investment scheme; forwarding per post considerable sums of money; to receiving certificates for the same, and afterwards to receiving dividends for some months on their investment, the largest varying from 25 to 50 per cent. There were many of a much less amount. The 'dividends' came in for some months and then stopped altogether. The trial will last for some days."

The result of the trial will be watched for with interest. Loring was a member of another Chicago firm which carried on a similar "business" to that of Flemming & Merlan.

Commercial Men will find ample accommodation at the Calico House, Daily Bree.

Operatic.
The event of the theatrical season will undoubtedly be the production of Johann Strauss' beautiful opera, the "Queen's Lace Handkerchief," by the New York Opera Company at Bradburn's Opera House next Monday evening, Dec. 3rd. Of a recent performance, the Lancaster Examiner says:—"There was only standing room last night on the rising of the curtains and throughout the performance the most unbounded applause was bestowed upon the principals of the company for the excellent manner in which they personated their respective parts. Miss Louise Searle won the hearts of all by her clever and fascinating delineation of Donna Irene. She is certainly a charming actress as vocalist. Her support is beyond criticism. The whole company was in capital form last night, and gave the opera with a vim. There is only one thing can be said of the performance, and that is that both are worthy of the support of every lover of music."

Obituary.
The Port Hope Guide of Nov. 28th says:—"To-day we have to record the death of another of the oldest and most respected inhabitants of Port Hope, Mrs. Sophronia Gilchrist, widow of the late Mark Burnham, Esq. Deceased was born at Goffstown, New Hampshire, on the 23rd of October, 1801; was married to Mr. Burnham July 14th, 1819, and immediately with her husband came to Canada and settled at Amherst, township of Hamilton, which was then the only village in this section of the country. The county jail is about all that is left of that once thriving burg. Mr. and Mrs. Burnham returned to New Hampshire, where they resided until 1830, when they removed to Port Hope fifty-three years ago, where she has resided ever since. She was the mother of four sons and one daughter, only one of whom (H. H. Burnham, Esq.), survives her. She has been a widow since 1864. Mrs. Burnham was a sister of the late Doctors John, Samuel, James and Hiram Gilchrist. She was a member of the first Presbyterian Church in Port Hope and remained a member until her death, which event took place last evening at about ten o'clock. She was taken with a fatal illness, from the effects of which she did not revive. The immediate cause of death was heart disease. She was in her usual health yesterday, and in the afternoon took a walk and called on her pastor, the Rev. R. J. Beattie, where, with a couple of other old ladies, she enjoyed a pleasant visit."

FIRE PROTECTION.
To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Permit me to say in reply to Mr. Leach's letter in yesterday's REVIEW, that I am sorry Mr. Leach could not have made it convenient to see me personally, when I am sure I could have satisfied him that as he is paying for water to protect his property from fire, it is the duty of the Water Company to protect it from fire in every direction. If Mr. Leach will be good enough to refer to my letter to Mr. Rutherford, he will see that I requested him not to use the hydrants for fire outside of the fire limits without the permission of the directors or officials of the company.

Yours truly,
W. CLUXTON,
President.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1883.

The British Association.

During their stay in Canada next summer it is understood the members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science will take a trip over the entire line of the Canadian Pacific as far as completed, and that they will be accompanied by Sir John Macdonald and other Ministers of the Crown.

Successful Labourers.

The ship labourers to the number of 200, brought out by the Allan Company in the spring, have left for Liverpool for the winter, with drafts in their pockets for from $250 to $400
saved out of their earnings during the summer.
Many of these men sent money home regularly to their families.

A Panic at a Church Bazaar.

A bazaar in St. Anne's convent, Montreal, a few evenings ago, while a bazaar was in progress, and an enormous crowd of ladies and gentlemen were present, caused a complete panic.
The origin of the fire was the destruction of an oil lamp, which was thrown down on the floor, over which the burning oil ran. The fainting and shrieking of the ladies caused great excitement, and many of both sexes leaped through the windows, as the conflagration was close to the door of exit and they couldn't get out. Some gentlemen with great presence of mind restored order, and no one was seriously injured, except by fright.

Company.

No man can be provident of his time who is not prudent in the choice of his company.—
Jeremy Taylor.

As a man is known by his company, so a man's company may be known by his manner of expressing himself.—Swift.

A crowd is not company, and faces are but a gallery of pictures, and talk but a tinkling cymbal, where there is no love.—Bacon.

Mirth from company is but a fluttering, un-quiet motion, that beats about the breast for a few moments and after leaves it empty.—Pope.

Company, though it may relieve a man from his melancholy, yet cannot cure him from his conscience.—South.

Expensive Sport.

"The Scotch deer shooting season lasts about six weeks," says Ashore or Afloat. "Allowing for Sundays, and for days on which bad weather would prevent sport, the six weeks, on a liberal calculation, might afford thirty days' shooting.
At ten hours a day this would give 300 hours, or 18,000 minutes. Now we are told that Mr.
Winans, an American, has killed 196 stags this season, and that the rest of his forest in Scotland is 217,000. Allow 23,000 for keisers, fencing, and miscellaneous expenses, that would make the total amount Mr. Winans has paid for his sport $20,000. This is equivalent to 246 cents per hour is not a bad price to pay for the kind of 'sport' in which Mr. Winans is understood to indulge.

Winter Prices.

Under the angry presence of Jack Frost our oyster trade has become very brisk. We are having a lively run on our superior large bulk Oysters, which we are now selling at 35c per quart. Our customers tell us that they are the

DISTRICT INTELLIGENCE

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

TRAIN AND MAIL ACCOMMODATION.

Lakefield has this week received, through the new time table of the Midland Railway, excellent mail accommodation, and promptly thereafter full and complete mail facilities have been afforded by the post-office department. The people of this village have every way reason to be proud of the new arrangements. Business men can now leave Lakefield, go to Toronto, spend four hours there, and return to Lakefield
the same day.

Mails are received daily as follows:—At 11.55 a. m., from Toronto and Nipissing Railway. Peterborough, Grand Trunk east and Port Hope. At 9.20 p. m. from Grand Trunk,
No. 1, passing east, and Peterborough. Mails despatched as follows:—At 6.30 a. m., for Peterborough, Grand Trunk passing east and for Toronto at 3.30 p. m.

For Peterborough, Toronto, Grand Trunk east and Port Hope. The mails despatched by the early morning train will be made up at about 8 o'clock the night previous. The people in this part of the country do not yet fully realize that such changes have taken place. Many are not aware of the fact, but the news is spreading rapidly, and no doubt the railway will be more patronized now than before.

CAMPBELLFORD.

WARDS NOT WANTED.—The Herald says that a petition has been sent to the Seymour Council asking for a union of the wards now in existence, or a discontinuance of the ward system altogether.

ENLARGEMENT FOR ELEVATOR.—Messrs.
Rathbun & Son are enlarging their storehouse near the station and building an elevator. It is to be operated by horse power. Mr. Froman has the contract for its erection.

PERSONAL.—The Rev. Mr. Dunkley, pastor of the Bible Christian Church, is suffering from a severe attack of erysipelas. He is improving.

HURT BY A FALL.—Mr. Boyce, painter, was out about the face, and brised by a fall from a ladder, on Saturday.

SUFFERING FROM PARALYSIS.—We regret to learn that Mrs. West, wife of Mr. W. West, of Seymour, became the victim of a stroke of paralysis on Monday morning. She was in conversation with the family in her usual cheerful manner, when suddenly she was unable to speak. In a short time however, her voice returned, but she is still very much crippled in her power of speech.

LABOR PREMISES.—A new frame building is in course of erection near the paper mills at Ranney's Falls. It is 30 by 48 feet, two stories, and is intended to serve two purposes. The lower flat will be used by Mr. W. Kair for operations in carding and weaving; and the upper flat is to be fitted up for Mr. C. H.
Dorcas, who intends to put in a planer, a moulder, and a moulder, with which to prepare lumber for the hands of the builder. They expect to have the building completed and the machinery put in by the beginning of the new year. The power will be supplied by a wire cable passing from the paper mills to the building.

Visitors to Peterborough who seek comfort and convenience, a Table well supplied, and an Hotel complete in all respects, should stop at the Casino House. Daily Press.

BELLEVILLE.

INDUSTRIAL FARM.—The project of an industrial farm is being considered by a joint committee of the City of Belleville and the County Council.

HARBOUR FROZEN.—The harbour was frozen
over on Thursday morning.

FIRE.—The barn and sheds of Hugh Mc-Donald, township of Murray, were burned on Wednesday morning, together with the implements and a quantity of grain.

POSTPONEMENT.—The joint committee on the Hastings Industrial Farm met in Belleville on Wednesday night, and resolved to postpone setting until after the opinion of the people has been ascertained in the forthcoming municipal election canvass.

MIDLAND.

MANUFACTURES COMMITTEE.—At a special meeting of the Council of Midland on Tuesday evening a number of applications from parties desirous of establishing manufactures there were discussed, and the following gentlemen were appointed to act on the Manufactures Committee in addition to the Council: Messrs.
J. M. Dollar, Edward Peplow, P. J. Ryan, H.
F. Selver, C. M. Peters, R. Cain, and N.
Courtemanche.

COBURG.

SERIOUS FIRE.—A fire broke out on Wednesday morning about half-past eleven in a two-story brick building owned by Mr. Doody, north of the Grand Trunk station, on Division street. The wind was blowing a gale, and it was impossible to save the building, which was destroyed with part of its contents. Loss about $4,000; insured in the Royal for $2,600.

Field Lightning.

Is the only instantaneous relief for Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, etc. Rubbing a few drops briskly in all that is needed. No taking name-ous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application removes all pain and will prove the great value of Field Lightning. Twenty-five cents per bottle at John McKee's Drug Store.

The Greatest Healing Compound.

Is a preparation of carbolic acid, vasoline and cerate called McGregor & Park's Carbolic Ce-rate. It will cure any sore, cut, burn or bruise when all other preparations fail. Call at John McKee's Drug Store, and get a package. Twenty-cents is all it costs.

THEY ALL TELL THE SAME STORY. Mr. W.
Thompson, Jeweller, Delhi, suffered for years
from Dyspepsia, got no relief until he used Dr.
Carson's Stomach Bitters. He says it was just the medicine I needed. It has cured me.

The Hazy Elm.—and brown, olive green and other rich dark colors of the Triangle Dyes are as perfect as the bright shades. They never disappoint the user.

urge the American bishops to take concerted action in regard to Irish agitators in America.
The two Cardinals are not disposed, however, to mix politics and religion, but are willing to speak privately to individual bishops on the subject.

THE PARNELL FUND.

DUBLIN, Nov. 29.—The Parnell fund aggregates $30,438, of which Ireland gave $25,820, America, $2,541, England $1,045, and Scotland $378.

ADVANCE OF ADMIRAL COURBET.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—It is rumored that Admiral Courbet telegraphed to the Government that he has begun his advance, and that he occupies strong positions, on which he has mounted artillery.

HOPE OF ADJUSTMENT.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—A more hopeful feeling prevails here to-day in all circles, and a pacific solution of the questions between France and China is now regarded possible, as England is exercising her influence with both countries in favour of a peaceable settlement.

O'DONNELL'S TRIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The police precautions for the trial of O'Donnell, which begins to-day, are very strict. Some of the policemen will be armed with revolvers.

STORMS ON THE ATLANTIC.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Incoming vessels from America report terrific weather on the voyage.
The steamer Labrador, at Havre, from New York, had her decks swept and two of her men killed.

ARREST OF AN IRISH EDITOR.

DUBLIN, Nov. 29.—Mr. Matthews, editor of the Tyrone Courier, has been arrested on a charge of inciting Orangemen against the Nationalists.

PAYMENT OF IRISH M.P.'S.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Mr. Thomas Sexton, member of Parliament will go to America directly after the banquet to Mr. Parnell to obtain funds to aid the movement for the payment of Irish members of Parliament. It is stated Mr.
Parnell will give five thousand pounds to start the fund.

A THEATRE ON FIRE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Fire broke out in the Windsor theatre, Bowery, shortly before twelve o'clock last night. The flames spread with terrible rapidity, and within a few moments after the alarm had been sent out the whole structure was in a blaze from cellar to roof.
The efforts of the fire department were unavailing to check the conflagration. A thanksgiving audience, which packed the house from pit to gallery, had been dismissed only a short time before the flames appeared. Had the fire broken out a few minutes earlier terrible loss must have resulted.

THE SOUDAN TROUBLES.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The foreign consuls at Khartoum are leaving for safer places. Of 600 gendarmes who left Cairo for Suakin on Wednesday, 265 deserted on the railway journey from Cairo to Suak. The Porte has addressed a note to the Powers informing them that Turkey offered to send troops to suppress the rising in the Soudan, but that England refused the offer.

THE RAILWAY EXPLOSIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Mr. Lowell, the American Minister, acknowledging the receipt of a copy of resolutions passed by the employees of the Metropolitan Underground Railway, denouncing the authors of the recent explosion says:—"As there is not a particle of evidence to show the complexity of any American in the outrage, I can see no advantage in communicating the resolutions to the Government at Washington."

EXCITEMENT AT NEWRY.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Government has prohibited the Orange and National meetings at Newry past Sunday. Great excitement prevails at Newry owing to the hostile feeling between Orangemen and Nationalists in consequence of the Government placing Newry under the Peace Preservation Act. The Nationalists have resolved to hold their meeting on Sunday outside the town. Orange placards have been torn down. The Paranalite members of Parliament announced to be present at the

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1883.

Dr. Dowling was a Reform candidate and was also a Reform License Official. In his two-fold quality he is proved to have treated in unlicensed groggeries. Yet the Reform press maintains that his offence was very trifling, that Reform candidates are pure, and that Moral License Officials are endeavoring to enforce the liquor laws without the slightest regard to politics.

How much longer do Mr. Mowat and his tool the Algoma Returning Officer intend to break the law by keeping us in ignorance of the result of their plot to disfranchise a number of the Algoma electors? The time is long passed when, according to law, the return should have been made and gazetted. Is it possible that some further manipulation is still required to complete the falsification of the vote of the electorates? Or are they simply shrinking from the exposure of their illegal acts in the law courts?

Reform journals that have little regard for truth, and even Mr. Blake, who seems to have caught the contagion of "mixing and muddling figures," are uttering the falsehood that Sir Richard Cartwright was gurgled out of his seat at the last general election. The only change made in Centre Wellington, for which Sir R. Cartwright ran, was the addition of the township of Maryborough, which gave a Conservative majority of 28. As Mr. Orton was elected by 123, Sir R. Cartwright was really left in a minority of 124 in the old riding, so he and his friends must find some other reason for his defeat.

MR. MOWAT CORRECTS HIMSELF.

In the regular issue of the Ontario Gazette on Saturday, Nov. 24th, the following announcement appears:—

"The Honourable George William Ross to be Minister of Education of the Province of Ontario, in the room and stead of the Honourable Adam Crooks, resigned."

On Wednesday there was published an extra Gazette containing the following:—

"Erratum. For the Honourable George William Ross to be Minister of Education of the Province of Ontario, in the room and stead of the Honourable Adam Crooks, resigned (vide Gazette of the 24th Nov. 1883) read—

"The Honourable George William Ross to be Minister of Education of the Province of Ontario, in the room and stead of the Honourable Adam Crooks."

A DISTINCTION WITH A DIFFERENCE. Two opponents of party government sometimes point to Sir Richard Cartwright and the opinions expressed of him, as an instance of the inconsistency of party journalism, asserting that when he was a Conservative he was praised by Conservatives and censured by Reformers, and that now he is a Reformer he is praised by Reformers and censured by Conservatives.

We must be allowed to point out that there is an important difference in the conduct of the two parties in this respect. When Sir Richard Cartwright was acting with the Conservatives, that party gave him credit for his abilities, but did not consider them sufficiently great to warrant him in placing him in the position which he coveted, of Finance Minister. When he deserted they still gave him credit for his undoubted abilities, but censured the vindictive bitterness, which then was developed in him as he usual with renegades, and condemned his incapacity to manage our finances, an incapacity which they had foreseen when they declined to entrust him with the Dominion purse. They were consistent throughout.

It is very different with the Reformers. When Sir Richard Cartwright was their political opponent, they attacked him as a mixer and muddler of figures, but when he joined them for unworthy personal motives they could see nothing out of him, and they have even condoned the injury he did the country by the real mixing and muddling which he displayed in the position by which they purchased his alliance, after it was refused to him by the Conservatives. They have even gone further and have forgiven him for his great share in their political overthrow and are planning to bring him back to the House of Commons, because this mixer and muddler of figures is the best financier of which their party can boast.

Here undoubtedly there is a display of inconsistency, and a preference of party interests to those of the country.

OUR FEDERAL UNION.

By D. A. O'Sullivan, M.A., LL.B., Author of "Manual of Government in Canada."

The following paper, which was read before the Canadian Institute, Toronto, by Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan, is upon such an important and interesting subject, "Our Federal Union," and is so ably treated, that we have obtained it for presentation to our readers:—

MR. PRESIDENT.—I think I shall be within the spirit and letter of the constitution of this Institute in discussing the Federal Union of Canada in the way I propose to myself in this paper. The science of speculative politics, in which the defects in any constitution may be discovered and remedies proposed for their removal, is probably undesirable except in purely political societies—at all events it is not the subject here proposed for consideration. To positive political philosophy—using the word political in its higher and proper sense—I apprehend there can be no objection, nor even if some more aspiring writer were to endeavour to imitate Machiavel and combine the two systems in a manner that would earn the approval of another Lord Bacon. I shall draw attention simply to the fundamental law of our Canadian Confederation, and confine myself to our constitutional existence as it is, and not speculate as to what it might have been and be better than it is.

This, of itself, is no small matter. Ever since I took up the study of government I am the more impressed with the words of Story, "No man who has ever studied the subject with profound attention has risen from the labour without an increased and almost overwhelming sense of its intricate relations and perplexing doubts."

If such can be said of the constitution of the United States it will be seen that it applies with more force to our own. The instrument which knits together the States of the Union is probably the nearest approach to any perfect system of human government the world ever saw. It was begotten after the heat of a revolutionary struggle—it was to provide for vast areas of territory and regulate all classes and conditions of people. Nevertheless, the manner in which this has been done by a short written constitution, is such as to excite the admiration of all political writers. For three-quarters of a century a free and a bonded people were governed by it, and the famous 13th amendment of 1865 was only the second one in this century. Less than two pages of a statute book contain all the amendments of the constitution from 1787 down to the present time. Within that time we have had in this country three separate and distinct constitutions, besides radical changes in some of them, as in the year 1865, when the mode of representation in the Upper Chamber was entirely altered. By the charter of 1867 we have had the experience of 80 years of federal government in the United States as a legislative guide—our own experience and that of the Mother Country in those peculiar features of our system of government, which is in principle like to the British constitution, and to which there is nothing analogous in the United States Government or elsewhere.

It is not my intention to institute and continue a lengthened comparison between the American form of government and that of this country. We resemble it; we are modelled, as is said, on the principle of the British Constitution. As a fact we are neither one nor the other, and probably none the worse for that, but the study becomes all the more difficult, and the intricacies and doubts that may reasonably overwhelm a story in his own country are here to the full whenever some other great constitutional lawyer sits down to the task of expounding in a scientific way the Constitution of Canada.

To say that there has been a Federal Union in Canada—using the words in their strict sense—is in my opinion incorrect. The provinces which form that Union in Canada are not and were not sovereign states—they were not even possessed of reserved powers in legislation—they strictly were not relatively independent colonies of the Empire. The States of the Union, before their admission into the Union, were colonial possessions, and they retain to this day the reserved powers of legislation. Even they are not sovereign states, though it took a war to decide that point. They are, however, much nearer to the possession of sovereign power than the provinces of our Federation.

A great American writer, Cowley, says of the United States Confederation—the compact of 1777 that existed prior to the present constitution:—

"The States were in existence before and exercised nearly all the powers of sovereignty. The Union was in existence, but the Congress which represented it possessed a few powers only, conceded to it by the States, and these circumscribed and hampered in a manner to render them of little value. The States were thus repositories of reserved powers, and wielded them as being theirs of inherent right. The Union possessed but few powers, enumerated, limited and hampered, and these belonging to it by compact or concession. In a Confederation thus organized if a power could be in dispute between the States and the Confederacy, the presumption must favour the States. But it was not within the intent of those who formed the Constitution to revolutionize the States to overturn the presumptions that supported their authority, or to create a new government with uncertain and undefined powers. The purpose, on the contrary, was to perpetuate the States in their integrity, and to strengthen the Union in order that they might be perpetuated."

It was with this intention and purpose that the present constitution of the United States was formed, and in the tenth section it is expressly declared that the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited to it by the States, are reserved to the States or to the people, and, as has been said judicially, the Constitution, in all its provisions, looks to an indestructible Union, composed of indestructible States. It will be seen from an historical glance at the United States what took place in this respect, as far as is pertinent to our subject. The great sovereign States in the year 1777, bound by a compact which was called a Confederation, soon learned how useless such a compact was which had no executive force, and of which its members might come and go at liberty. Accordingly a convention of some ten years later met and arranged on the terms of an indissoluble Union, from which, having once entered, secession was impossible without resorting to means outside of the proposed terms or Constitution. Nine States entered in, and adopted it, and in a short time every State of the old and obsolete confederation, every old colony of Great Britain was ranged under one flag and as one nation. The Constitution I have referred to provides for the government of the people. In all this we see a quasi-State sovereignty always possessed and still retained—a choice to accept or reject the Union, but having once accepted, not being at liberty to secede from it—a grant of powers to a new government, reserving the balance to themselves.

In the British North American Colonies confederation has been talked of since the first year of this century. In 1800, 1814, in 1822, in 1826, Lord Durham's time, in 1839 and in 1864, there have been projects of union. Of the confederations of this latter year in Quebec and Charlottetown, it will be sufficient to say that three Provinces undertook finally to deal with the question of a federation. These were not pretended to be sovereign in any sense and not at all in the sense in which the present Dominion may be said to be sovereign. These Provinces took all their rights as colonies in their hands and said in effect to the Mother Country, "We resign our present charters; we have agreed to a new state of things; wipe out the past, and ratify the arrangements we propose to make for the future." The old colonies then passed away, and in their place came one new colony of the empire, with one parliament to make laws for the peace, order and good government of its people. That charter provides for the government of Canada. The new Canada was then divided up into as many Provinces as there were formerly colonies, with the same or probably the same geographical boundaries. The re-creating of the new Provinces of Canada from the aggregated former colonies of the empire is something not to be lost sight of—their status has been entirely altered—their powers of legislation are limited and the reserved powers taken from them—their ability to secede from the union out of the question—their rights to be considered sovereign states entirely untenable on any legal ground. The concession of legislative powers to the central government was done in a manner totally different from what was done in the United States, and it would be a confusion of language to speak of the present provinces conceding powers to any government before they possessed any themselves. The interposition of a statute like the Act of Confederation of 1867 between the old colonies and the new provinces may not appear of great moment to persons other than lawyers; but nevertheless it is as material as any document can be which regulates and governs the parties affected. It is like the partnership deed or joint stock charter of a new firm or company—it is to be looked to in the first instance—it is that which gives us such rights and privileges as we now possess; it is the law before all others, except imperial legislation, that must be regarded and obeyed.

This short retrospect will enable us to judge the better of State rights in the United States as compared with Provincial rights in Canada. (To be Continued.)

The Mayoralty.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

GENTLEMEN:—As Mr. H. H. Smith, our present Mayor, some time ago signified his intention of not seeking re-election to the office of Mayor of the Town of Peterborough, at the earnest request and solicitation of a very large number of the representative ratepayers, I now offer myself as a candidate for that office.

For many years I, as a Councillor, have represented you, and have always striven diligently and faithfully to perform my duty towards my constituents and the public at large, and I now confidently refer you to, and rely upon, my labors and honest exertion in your behalf.

If elected, it will ever be my pleasure and honor to do my utmost to preserve and advance the interests of your town, and by strict integrity, economy and attention to your affairs, to merit the good will and esteem of my fellow citizens.

I do not intend, nor will I be able to make a personal canvass, but take this means of asking the votes of each of the independent electorates of this town, remaining

THE LATEST PHASE OF THE BOUNDARY EMBROGLIO.

If one could place any reliance on the will-o'- the-wisp utterances of the Toronto Globe, one would be justified in coming to the conclusion that a little common sense had at last taken possession of Mr. Mowat, inasmuch as it would seem he is now taking the first reasonable and common sense step which he has taken for years on this matter, by seeking an interview with Attorney-General Miller, of the Manitoba Government, for the purpose of submitting the question of the boundary between the two Provinces to the proper court. This, whether Mr.
Mowat be sincere or insincere, is a step in the right direction, and is one which he should have taken long ago, instead of rejecting all overtures to this end.

Much, however, as we are pleased with this announcement in the interests of the country and because it is the best possible proof of the soundness of the stand taken by Mr. Meredith ever since it was definitely announced that the Dominion Government would not ratify the award, we cannot help noting the fact that this eleventh hour action of Mr. Mowat's and the reasons given therefore by the Globe place him in a most extraordinary and unsatisfactory position before an intelligent public.

Although the Globe's article is not long, yet the number of falsehoods, direct and implied, compressed within its limits are so many, that we shall only attempt to notice the most important of them.

Unquestionably the great majority of our readers, and especially those of them who heard the discussions on the Boundary Question which took place during the last two election campaigns in this country, will be struck with astonishment to learn from the Globe that "now that Manitoba has been drawn into the dispute, it is thought that a settlement might be "arrived at, which would be acceptable to both Provinces, without having any reference
"whatever to the Dominion authorities." Well, if that is not an extraordinary statement, considering the past record of the journal making it and the source of its inspiration, we do not know what would be one. "Now" that Manitoba has been drawn into it, &c. Why, where have Mowat and the Globe been for the last two years and a half that it is only now that they have discovered that Manitoba has been drawn into this dispute? Have they been asleep? Perhaps so. But let us see. Because Manitoba has been drawn into the dispute "it is thought that a settlement might be arrived at which would be acceptable to both Provinces"—that, we presume, includes Ontario. So in November, 1883, Mr. Mowat thinks the extension of Manitoba's boundaries eastward by the Dominion Government is calculated to facilitate an acceptable settlement.
We are glad to hear it, very glad—but it took
Mr. Mowat a very long time to find it out! In March, 1881, so injurious to this Province did he consider the extension of Manitoba's boundary eastward to that of Ontario, that he caused a "little" despatch to be forwarded to Ottawa,
"earnestly and vigorously protesting" against such an outrage, and against it as "an act of direct antagonism and hostility to the interests and rights of the Province of Ontario." And such has been his cry from that day to this.
But now, in a moment, Mr. Mowat wheels
"right about face," and declares this Act, against which he protested so vigorously, is just the thing to enable him to sit down with Attorney-General Miller and settle the whole matter "without any reference whatever" to the robbers at Ottawa. But we had almost forgotten,—it was only the other day that we were assured by the triumvirate that rules Ontario, the Globe and Grip that the matter was settled; that Mr.

Mowat was in possession, and that he was going to remain there. But, for some reason or another this is all changed. Another turn has been given to the Globe's boundary kaleidoscope, and presto, that which was an invasion of our rights becomes our advantage, and that which was, is not.

But perhaps the funniest and most brashfaced portion of this little article is the statement that Mr. Mowat is now going to court on the conditions upon which he was always ready to go, viz: That he should have sole control of the territory "in the mean time." Mr.
Mowat has done many foolish and cheeky things during his Premiership, but we scarcely think he will have cheek enough to ask Attorney-General Miller to come down here for the purpose of suggesting to him that in the mean time Manitoba should abandon all control to Ontario, even if it were in Manitoba's power to do such a thing. But we thought it was control of the lands and timber in the mean time that Mr. Mowat wanted. If so, what has Manitoba to do with these? She has no more to do with them than British Columbia or Prince Edward Island, consequently to pay as the Globe says that this matter may be settled by Ontario and Manitoba on "the line of all the sayings and doings" of Mr. Mowat, without "any reference" to the Dominion Government is either a disgraceful presumption upon the ignorance of its readers, or an evidence that the Ontario Government offices and the Globe office are occupied by men who would find a more appropriate place in bedlam than in the places which they now occupy.

Photographs.

Mrs. Harriet Peterbrook desires to return her thanks to the public of Peterborough and vicinity for the liberal patronage they extended to her late husband. She will carry on the Photographic business, in the same place, and solicits a continuation of their patronage. The studio

Organ Recital.

The date of the organ recital to be given by Mr. Chas. W. Ewing, assisted by the choir, in St. John's Church, has been fixed for Tuesday, the 11th of December. The recital from beginning to end will be marked by sublimeness and grandeur, consisting, as it will, of some half-dozen or more beautiful anthems, vocal (sacred) songs, and last, but not least, the charming and soul-inspiring music on the grand organ by Mr.
Ewing.

Rains Predicted.

This forenoon was cold and cloudy, and snow is falling heavily this afternoon. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, are as follows:—Fresh to strong winds from south-east veering to south-west; fair to cloudy, milder weather, with light local rains.

Proposed Snow Shoe Club.

At the final meeting of the Peterborough
Lacrosse Club to be held on Monday evening,
Dec. 3rd, an effort will be made to organize a snow shoe club, and it is to be hoped that the effort will be successful. All the members of the P. L. C. are requested to attend this meeting, as business of importance will be transacted.

The Hard St. Andrews Society.

Want of space prevents us from giving to-day in our report of the St. Andrews Society dinner, the verses written for the occasion by their Hard, but we will publish them on Monday, for they are so good that we would not like our readers to miss them.

THE SOCIALIST PLOT.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—It is believed the police are fully acquainted with the plot of the Socialist Wolf to blow up the German embassy.
A Frenchman named Bondurant, believed to have been associated with Wolf, was arrested last night. He stands charged with criminal conspiracy.

THE TRIAL OF O'DONNELL.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The trial of O'Donnell for the murder of Carey was commenced to-day at the old Bailey. The prisoner was guarded by a large body of police with revolvers in full view from Millbank to the court. The evidence was very damaging, although Thomas Carey, the son contradicted himself frequently during his cross-examination. O'Donnell appeared calm and collected, but watched the proceedings closely at various points.

TESTIMONIAL TO LORD ROSSMORE.

BELFAST, Nov. 30.—At a meeting of the Ulster Constitutional Club to-day Sir Thomas Bateson, M. P., presiding, it was agreed to present a testimonial to Lord Rossmore from all loyal Irishmen.

THE SOUDAN DISASTER.

CAIRO, Nov. 30.—A telegram from Khartoun, Nov. 29, states the panic is increasing and the garrison insufficient. Selker Pasha, the well-known conqueror of Dargou, will go to the Soudan with Baker Pasha.

FRESH NEWRY TROUBLE.

NEWRY, Nov. 30.—The National League yesterday passed resolutions condemning the action of the Government in prohibiting the meeting on Sunday and declaring that the Nationalists will assemble on Sunday morning, when, after the magistrate has read the proclamation, they will proceed to Warren Point and hold a meeting. The Orangemen have decided that unless the forthright procession of the Nationalists to-morrow evening is forbidden they will march to Newry to protect the Protestant quarter of the city. There was rioting here last evening, several of the participants being injured.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—Admiral Courbet telegraphed the Minister of Marine as follows:— Hanoi, Nov. 29.—"I am continuing the preparations for the advance." It is reported that M.
Waddington, French Ambassador at London, has been informed that the French Government intends to occupy Beaulieu and Sontay to satisfy her honour, but will not engage in war with China, and that after the surrender of the two places France will propose an armistice and ask for English mediation.

Mineral Wealth of Manitoba.

A Winnipeg despatch to the New York Tribune, dated Nov. 27, says:—"A glowing account of newly discovered mineral wealth in the Rocky Mountains comes from the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Persons just returned from those regions declare that the mountains in the vicinity of the Bow and Kicking Horse Rivers, as well as many smaller streams, contain both gold and silver. Scores of men have spent their time in prospecting, and the numerous rich finds show how their excursions have been rewarded. Lead have been discovered and claims staked out in every direction. Castle Mountain is said to be an almost solid mass of silver ore. Among other places were promising leads have been found are Johnsons and Bakers creeks, while some which are considered the best yet discovered are situated in the Kicking Horse Pass, and are owned by the Tunnel Mountain Mining Company. The company owns several claims carrying both gold and silver. Samples of the ore have been sent to Montreal for assay, and the returns show them to be very rich. The company will open an office at Bow River Forks, and intend to begin operations as soon as the weather will permit in the Spring. The gold ore is chiefly free milling, and they say they have enough of it to make all the North-west rich."

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1883.

OUR FEDERAL UNION.

The grand difference—one radical, in my estimation—is therefore that the States of the American Union in coming together retained their separate existence, and created the National Government at Washington out of such conceded rights, as they chose to give it. It is true, they afterwards learned, that they transferred the power which controlled themselves—that, in the example of South Carolina, they were not sovereign enough to secede from the Union, and that the Union was not a compact, or agreement, or a league, or a treaty, but that it was a positive, fundamental, inseparable statute which bound them as closely as if separate States never existed. "We, the people of the United States," are the words of the opening of the Constitution, and they were fatal to State secession just as soon as the people of the United States pledged themselves to vest the executive power in the President of the United States. The theories announced by the Federalist melted away before the eloquence of Webster and of Adams, and it was found that the entire Union must be dissolved rather than that one State could secede from it. This proposal for a new government, says Daniel Webster, was assented to, and an instrument was presented to the people of the several States for their consideration. They approved it, and agreed to adopt it as a Constitution. They executed that agreement; they adopted the Constitution as a Constitution, and henceforth it must stand as a Constitution until it shall be altogether destroyed. Elsewhere he says, "Does it" (the Constitution) "call itself a league, a confederacy, a subsisting treaty between the States? Certainly not. There is not a particle of such language in all its pages. But it declares itself a Constitution. What is a Constitution? Certainly not a league, compact or confederacy, but a fundamental law. The fundamental regulation which determines the manner in which the public authority is to be exercised is what forms the Constitution of a State."

With us the Provinces were merged into the new Dominion—gave up their names and their charters, and submitted to be governed by one parliament at Ottawa. They were re-created, re-created and formed into Provinces of the Dominion—no longer separate colonies of the empire, but constituent elements of the new larger colony. The powers given to the Provinces were enumerated powers—many of their ancient rights were gone or become obsolete, and henceforth they were new creatures, supreme in their own local rights, but having no capacity to increase their own stature by one cubit.

The parallel as to a union of independent States in the American union and in Canada does not seem to exist, and neither offers any parallel to what in history was a Greek or German union of independent States. If, in the opinion of the ablest minds in America, the federation of the American Union is not a compact or a treaty, and further, if the war of 1860-64 was any evidence that the people there do not consider it as such, the case in Canada is an fortiori one, though the contrary may be excellent advice for a noble lord and excellent statesman to give to the Canadians in an after dinner speech.

In Canada, as in the United States, the same people rule in the central as in the local or State Governments. The United States Senators are the representatives of the people of each State and not of the State itself. The representatives in the other House also represent the people. Whatever difference there may be in Canada as to our Senators being selected from each of the Provinces, in the last analysis of the question they are the representatives of the people. They are the choice of the leader of the people—the Prime Minister—the real sovereign. The people of Canada, governing Canada by their representatives at Ottawa, are as united in that respect that theoretically no federal union need be taken into account. The act of 1867 did not prevent dual representation, and if this were adopted in practice, the same men might rule in the general and local governments. It would be like the members of a city council governing in committee and in council, with this difference that the committee men had separate work of their own with which the Council could not interfere. But neither this comparison nor that of a company or partnership is exactly correct. In Canada the Provinces and the Dominion are independent, and neither can interfere with the other. It is only the power of the British Parliament that can alter the present state of things. With our territories, provinces and Dominion we have not full sovereign power. Each one is supreme in its own rights, but by the fact that these rights are limited there is no sovereign power in any or all of them. The same great writer to whom I have just referred says:—"The sovereignty of government is an idea belonging to the other side of the Atlantic. No such thing is known in North America. Our governments are all limited. In Europe sovereignty is of feudal origin and imports no more than the state of the sovereign. It comprises his rights, duties, exemptions, prerogatives and powers. But with us, all power is with the people. They alone are sovereign; and they erect what governments they please, and confer on them such powers as they please. None of these governments is sovereign, in the European sense of the word, all being restrained by written constitutions."

The main feature of every Federation is how far its constituent provinces approach to sovereign States. The autonomy of our Canadian provinces is perhaps the lowest in the scale of power that can be exemplified in history. The list of subjects assigned to the Central Government at Ottawa is fully more than double that assigned to the Provinces, and every unenumerated matter goes to swell the central list. And not only that, but the larger list embraces the important matters. When the autonomy of a Province is spoken of, or the home rule of a Province asserted, it must be with large qualifications. The home rule of an obedient wife to her husband is not an inappropriate comparison but like all other comparisons is not to be pursued too far.

For good or for evil, so far as our written constitution goes, the people of Canada have agreed to be governed by one Parliament—to have laws made for the peace, order and good government of Canada—but for convenience sake the Provinces have the exclusive right to legislate on certain defined subjects. This legislation is kept under a species of control in two ways—one the restraining power of the Courts, which is also exercised over Dominion legislation and the other the veto power of the Governor General of Canada. The Lieutenant-Governor of each province is an official of the Government of Canada, and is sent to reside over the local Legislatures with certain powers over the legislation and with executive control. The subordination of the Provinces to the Dominion is provided for—at least on paper, and their whole duty is the transacting of the Local government assigned to them. The provinces are independent of each other, but are unable to enter into any engagements other than the constitution provides for them. This is far from being in the position of quasi independent states, and indeed inter-provincial dealings are removed much further than before the union of 1867.

Our late Governor General, in a paper ascribed to him lately, after referring frequently to the domestic concerns of the local legislatures as compared with the more extensive and national duties of the Parliament of which he represented a part, made reference to the possibility of another American war in the assertion of Provincial rights. It appears to me very imaginative and as unlikely as possible. The men who argued for and against the secession of the American States were men who had pointed, forcible arguments on their side, with half a nation to enforce them. The Union was on its trial as a constitutional document—there were grounds, not few nor slight, for holding that each member of the Union was a sovereign State. Here there would be neither arguments nor men in like issues. There would be representations made to the Imperial Government, and the good of all would be considered, after some friendly advice or admonition meted out to the parties.

So much for the Legislative power. The judicial power is totally different from what obtains in England. In the main—except as to certain powers of the Supreme Court at Washington it is analogous to the judicial power in the United States. A judge in England cannot ignore a statute so long as it is on the books. It binds him—he may evade it or misinterpret it, but before the Constitution he has no power to query it. Such is not the case here or in the United States.

With us, as with them, the Constitution is the basis of legislative authority; it lies at the foundation of all law, and a rule and compass by which both legislators and judges are to proceed. If the legislatures transgress their constitutional bounds the courts must correct them. But the judiciary has no control over legislatures, and no power whatever to question its purpose or annul so long as such legislation is kept within its defined limits. The judiciary is, therefore, not a subordinate but a co-ordinate branch of the government of this country. It may keep the executive even within its authority by refusing to give the sanction of law to whatever it may do beyond it, and by holding the agents and instruments of its unlawful action to strict accountability.

A judge in a Division Court, as well as a judge in the Supreme Court, may be bound to ignore a statute, if not passed by the proper Legislature or Parliament. Every act of any of our legislatures repugnant to the Constitution is absolutely void, and cannot become law of the land. There is a presumption in favor of its validity, however, until the contrary is established.

The executive power in Canada is peculiar and merits a remark. Whilst the legislative powers of the Provinces and the Dominion are sharply defined, and whilst the judicial or administrative powers are little capable of creating a difference of opinion, it is impossible to say that the Act of 1867 is "not conflicting," or at least embarrassing in respect of the executive. In the British Constitution the sovereign is the apex of authority; the King or Queen theoretically summons the Parliament, which makes or is responsible for all the laws in the realm; appoints the judges who administer these laws, and the executive authority is vested in her. The same Queen in Canada is the same power, and summons the Parliament at Ottawa, appoints the judges as a general rule, with one trifling exception, and the executive government and authority of and over Canada is vested in her. This, of course, applies only to the Federal Government, but from other expressions and from one express section in the same Act, several of the Provinces claim that Her Majesty is a necessary element in their Provincial Legislatures; that she is the executive in the Provincial Legislatures. These Provinces are Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba and British Columbia, and they use the same forms mutatis mutandis of enacting laws as are used at Ottawa or at Westminster. The idea of a division of the supreme executive power is not new in republics—Mr. Calhoun, for example, being in favor of a dual executive, but all the great American jurists have advocated the vesting of the executive in one person, just as it now is, in their President. On the question of a divided executive, Macaulay says:—"There cannot really be more than one supreme power in politics." Very few propositions in politics can be so perfectly demonstrated as this, that parliamentary government cannot be carried on by two really equal and independent powers in one empire."

It is conceded that the Queen has no immediate power over Provincial Legislation, as the veto on it must come from Ottawa, and not from England. When, therefore, Her Majesty passes an Act in the Provinces referred to, Her Majesty's representative at Ottawa may disallow it—a proceeding likely to endanger the well-known doctrine of principal and agent, but from which happily no serious results have yet happened.

It is extraordinary that the Confederation of the United States had no executive, but it was found to be a fatal defect. There are lengthy state papers on this division of our executive in Canada, but I have never seen any solution of the problem, nor have any of our judges squarely proposed the question and attempted any solution of it. A reference to the arguments, and an historical review of the way in which statesmen have dealt with the matter would lead me beyond the limits of this paper.

I have now called attention to the three great divisions of government—the executive, the judicial and the legislative. In the latter two of these we resemble the Constitution of the United States—in the former and as to the Dominion Parliament generally, we offer an example of a reduced copy of the British constitution. We labor under the disadvantages of every people living under a written constitution—defined, limited and inflexible—but we have the advantages which a certain amount of definiteness always affords. We have not been as a people to govern in the past, and it is likely that we will be no better in the future.

The inhabitants of the Dominion scattered from ocean to ocean—men of different countries and languages—different religions and races—are difficult to govern consecutively in the same way for any great length of time. Six changes we have had since Quebec fell, and our ablest men will now tell you that the next few years are going to decide largely the fate of the Dominion.

It may be impossible to keep in union elements that are ill-assorted or antagonistic, but the continued existence of Canada as a Federation will be due to the united good sense of the whole people rather than to the absence of defects of any constitution binding them together.

COBOURG.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY IN A CHURCH.—The World says on the night of Friday, some miscreant entered the Methodist Church, and tried to open a desk which he found in the organ loft, and in which, no doubt, he expected to discover some church treasures,—perhaps money. He, however, found only tune-books; and, not being of a musical turn, he left them. It is not long since some one entered the Presbyterian Church, and stole missionary money which had been left in the box. Who are the church vandals?

STRONG FIRE.—On Wednesday, between 11 and 12, a large brick dwelling to the north of the Grand Trunk Railway, formerly occupied by Mr. Sheriff Waddell, was discovered to be on fire. The fire was shortly on hand, but the fire had made such headway before the alarm was rung that nothing could be done to prevent the entire destruction of the building. The place was formerly a valuable one and must have cost $20,000, but had lately been out of repair, and had fallen under mortgage, into the hands of the Trust & Loan Company, who sold it some months ago to Mr. Doody. It was a very large and well-built house, and was a landmark of the north side of the town. We understand it was insured by the Company in Toronto.

ONEKE.

INCIDENT FIRE.—The Herald says that at noon on Wednesday another alarm of fire was raised, but fortunately it was extinguished before any damage was done. It originated beneath the counter of Mr. T. J. Parson's store, and there is no doubt whatever that if it had gained a little more headway, the greater portion of Oneke would have been in ashes, as a very strong west wind was blowing at the time. This should prove another warning to our villagers and stir them up to having the Hook and Ladder Co. fully organized.

Turnbull has just placed on his counter a large consignment of handkerchiefs, which he is offering in many instances at less than the market price, consisting of goods that every family wants, such as Blankets, Flannels, Winceys, Gingham, Towellings, Carpets, Hosiery, &c. Call early; these goods are sure to sell quickly at the prices offering.

Suit Against the Exchange Bank.—MONTREAL, Nov. 26.—Mr. James Barker, trustee of Taylor, Robertson & Co.'s estate, has instructed his counsel to sue the Exchange Bank for $100,000 of assets which have been given to the bank as a preference over the general creditors, and leaving comparatively little for anybody else from whom advances or goods have been received.

Very Remarkable Recovery.—Mr. Geo. V. Willing, of Manchester, Mich., writes: "My wife has been almost helpless for five years, so helpless that she could not turn over in bed alone. She used two bottles of Electric Bitters, and is so much improved, that she is able now to do her own work. Electric Bitters will do all that is claimed for them. Hundreds of testimonials attest their great curative powers. Only fifty cents a bottle at Taylor & McDonald."

Wood in Surgery.
Wood is being employed scientifically in surgery in a different form from ordinary splints. A foreigner has introduced wood-wool as a cheap and useful dressing for wounds, and it is being prepared extensively as a commercial staple for surgical dressings. It is finely-ground wood, such as is extensively used in the manufacture of paper. It is a clean-looking, delicate-colored, soft, yellowish white substance, having an odor of fresh wood, and absorbs an immense quantity of liquid. The best wood-wool was found to be that which was obtained from the pine-wood. The wood-wool thus procured was first pressed, passed through a sieve, then dried and impregnated with a solution containing 1 per cent. of sublimate and 10 per cent. of glycerine. The advantage claimed for this dressing are numerous. It is clean, fresh, and of a whitish color; it is at the same time soft and delicate in texture as cotton, and "extraordinarily cheap." The actual price is, however, not stated. It possesses some antiseptic properties naturally, has an agreeable odor, and is exceedingly elastic even in this layer, so that bandages can be put on more lightly with this than with any other dressing. Its absorbent properties are so high that it takes up 12 times its own weight of water, so that 10 ounces of well-dried wood-wool after complete saturation attain a weight of 120 ounces.

Decorative Gas Works Burned.
Early on Thursday morning the inhabitants of Decoronto were startled by the cry of "fire!" when it was discovered that the Gas works were being rapidly destroyed by fire, without a chance of saving them. It is about three years since the Messrs. Rathbun began the experiment of manufacturing gas from sawdust, by a patent process of their own. The experiment was partially successful at first, as the illuminating power was not satisfactory; but after three years' experimenting and an outlay of a large sum of money, they had gradually increased the illuminating power until the gas works had proved a success. The night before the fire, the village had been lit very satisfactorily. The fire is supposed to have started near the boiler, and could not be subdued. The entire works, except the gasometer, were destroyed, entailing a loss of $50,000. It is believed that the works will be at once rebuilt. The loss is stated at $150,000 to $210,000; insured for $60,000.—Intelligencer.

How They do it.
So-called respectable people would hesitate considerably before pilfering your pocket in a crowded thoroughfare. That would be too too. Our Canadian Silk Industry is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1883.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

BOOTS OF PETERBORO' BANQUETTING ON THEIR NATIONAL FESTIVAL.

The Twenty-Ninth Anniversary of the Society—A Very Pleasant and General Gathering—Speeches, and Songs and Verses by the Band.

The St. Andrew's Society of Peterborough on Friday, Nov. 30th, celebrated the festival of their patron saint by a dinner at Morgan's Hotel. The spacious dining room was handsomely and appropriately decorated, with flags, mottoes, tartans, evergreen wreaths etc. equally attractive were the tables, both as to appearance and also as to more substantial merits. About one hundred members and guests partook of the entertainment.

The chair was taken by Mr. Duncan McLeod, the President of the Society, who was supported by Mr. Geo. Hilliard, M. P., and Mr. G. A. Cox. The vice chairs were filled by Mr. John Erskine, Mr. David Galletly and Mr. Donald McDermid, the first, second and third vice-presidents.

The chairman in the absence of a clergyman asked a blessing, and then followed a vigorous onslaught upon all the good things, the national haggis not being forgotten. The bill of fare was excellent and it required some time to do justice to it. It was as follows:—

Soup.
Vegetable and Oyster.
Fish.
Salmon and Egg Sauce.
Roast.
Ham and Turkey, Cranberry Sauce.
Boiled Beef.
Corned Beef.
Relishes.
Duck & Red Currant Jelly. Chicken & Brown Gravy.
Goose and Apple Sauce. Strips and Ribs of Beef.
Lamb and Mint Sauce. Pork and Sage Gravy.
Entrées.
Scotch Haggis and Pickled Tripe.
Macaroni and Cheese.
Relishes.
Celery. Mixed Pickles. Beets. Red Cabbage.
Vegetables.
Mashed Potatoes. Turnips. Carrots. Fried Parsnips.
Pastries.
Plum Pudding with Brandy Sauce.
Mince Pie. Apple Pie. Lemon Pie. Plum Tart.
Blanc Manger and Port Wine Jelly.
Dessert.
Tea Coffee. Ale. Fruit Apples. Oranges.
Grapes. Raisins. Almonds. Figs. Trifles.
Fruit Cake. Chocolate Cake.

During the repast some admirable music was provided by the City Band.

After dinner the Chairman gave the usual loyal toasts, the orchestra performing in the intervals.

"The Army, Navy and our Canadian Volunteers" was given by the choir, and having been duly honoured, Mr. Galletly sang "The Red, White and Blue."

Capt. Edwards, after a modest disclaimer as having to respond to such a great toast, alluded to the feast of the imperial army and the share of the Highlanders in them. He spoke hopefully of the Canadian volunteer system.

The Chairman proposed "The day and a' wha honor it," and Mr. Galletly sang "Scots Who Hae."

Mr. JOHN ERKINE, the first Vice-President, expressed his pleasure at seeing so many of the sons of Scotia and their guests assembled to do honour to the day, and that day in many a century and many a time their brethren were now met for the same purpose—Scotland's sons being like the Jew, widely scattered, and like them ever mindful of their mother-land. In poetic language he described the varied beauties, from the soft to the sublime, of their beloved country, and in the same strain he gave the due meed of praise to her warriors, her bards. He also spoke appreciatively of her theologians, of those who were celebrated in literature, science, the professions, and commerce, all combining to place Scotland in its proud position. After alluding to the deep religious feelings of Scotchmen, he concluded by dwelling upon the charitable work of the Society, and the helping hands which its members held out to their brethren.

The toast of the "Parliament of Canada and the Legislature of Ontario," was proposed from the vice-chair.

Mr. GEO. HILLIARD, M. P. for West Peterborough, returned thanks. He expressed his pleasure at seeing so many around him, who though Scotchmen, had now become Canadians.

He dwelt upon the great progress he had seen in the country, and the noble prospects before it. As a native of this country, he felt like receiving with open arms the Scotchmen coming to it.

Mr. GALLETT, second Vice-President, gave "Trade and Commerce."

Mr. T. MENZIES returned thanks, and dwelt upon the great development of the country, its commerce and its means of communication.

Mr. McDermid, the third Vice-President, proposed "The agricultural interest."

Mr. John Fowler and Mr. John Miller were called upon to respond.

The "Railway interest" was proposed by the first Vice-President in appropriate terms.

Mr. A. McNEIL sang "Castles in the Air," and in response to encores, "The Rocky Road to Dublin," and "Brown, the Tragedian."

Mr. Geo. A. Cox responded to the toast, being proud to be identified with so great and important an interest. When some years ago he had the honor of filling the civic chair of Peterborough, he found their invitations to manufacturers were met with the assertion that they were only on a side line. Since then he had been in his humble way doing his best to remedy this. Soon we would find ourselves on the line of the two great railway systems of Canada, connecting us with both oceans. We had every natural facility for manufacturing, and with such communication we should and would avail ourselves of them.

Mr. McDermid, second Vice-President, also responded to the toast, alluding to the rough places which he, as a contractor, had had to make smooth.

Mr. TELFORD, the Bard of St. Andrew's Society, said this was his 21st year as a member, and every year since then he had written some verses for them. The Secretary would read those he had now written, which he feared would be his last.

Mr. CAMERON, the Secretary, then read the verses, which we will publish on Monday.

Mr. E. B. EDWARDS proposed the health of "The Bard of the Society, Wm. Telford," and the toast was enthusiastically received.

Mr. GALLETT proposed "The Poets and Poetry of Scotland," in a speech worthy of the subject. He followed by singing Campbell's "Battle of the Bannock."

THE PRESIDENT proposed "the Mayor and Corporation of the Town of Peterborough."

Mr. THOS. MENZIES, as Acting-Mayor, returned thanks and spoke of the great future before the town. Being situated on the two great railway systems of Canada, he believed that Peterborough would soon be a city.

Councillor DOUGLAS thought that to be a good Councillor a man must be very peculiarly constituted—he must procure improvements at every ratepayer's door, and he must spend no money to do it.

Mr. McDermid, third Vice-President, proposed "Canada, Our Home."

The President gave "Our Guests."

Mr. HILLIARD, in returning thanks, gave an interesting account of a conversation he had had with Mr. Surtees, the hydraulic engineer, in which the latter had to acknowledge that our waters afforded greater power than that of the Ottawa River, in consequence of the great area drained, and the lakes affording such grand natural reservoirs. Consequently we should become a great manufacturing centre.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox, in responding, dwelt upon the same point.

THE FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT proposed "Our Mothers, Wives, Sisters and Sweethearts," the toast being acknowledged by Mr. Edwards.

Mr. TOLAN proposed "The President and Officers of St. Andrew's Society," and claimed that their merits were apparent from the success of the Society.

Mr. DUNCAN McLEOD, the President of the Society, responded briefly, but in suitable terms.

Mr. E. B. EDWARDS proposed the toast of "The Press," which was acknowledged by representatives of the local papers.

Mr. BOWIE sang "Allister McAllister," with tumultuous applause.

Mr. ROBT. SMITH sang "When the Kye Comes Hame."

Mr. THOS. MENZIES proposed "Our Host and Hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan," giving them well deserved credit for the repast they had prepared.

Mr. ALEX. STEWART sang "The Umbrella."

Mr. FRASER sang "Robbie Tamson's Seldy."

Mr. MORRISON responded for himself and the hosts.

Mr. JOHNSTON sang "Ranting Robbin."

Testimonial to the Rev. Father Boldue,
Secretary to the Archbishop of Quebec:—
ARCHBISHOP'S PALACE, Aug. 11, 1883.

Mr. B. LAURANCE,
DEAR SIR,—I have made use of the excellent spectacles which you chose for me, with great care to suit my sight. I find them superior to any I have made use of for a great many years. Several of my friends have visited your office and have admired, like myself, the great variety and perfection of your glasses.

Your obedient servant,
J. B. Z. BOLDUE.

Mr. Laurance can be seen at the Medical Hall, Peterborough, after Dec. 6.

B. LAURANCE'S SPECTACLES

MR. B. LAURANCE, of the above mentioned Establishments, has the honor to announce to the Citizens of Peterborough and surrounding country that he will locate his Office at

The MEDICAL HALL, (Taylor & Macdonald)

Corner of George and Hunter Streets, Peterborough.

For a few days only, commencing THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6th, with a complete assortment of the above Lenses, Laurance's Spectacles, so well known and appreciated in the United Kingdom, will be offered by him to spectacle wearers at the same prices they are sold at in England. Ground on scientific principles, from either the clearest and purest pable, or from optical glass especially manufactured for the purpose, they are without exception best adapted to restore the ravages of age and to restore perfect vision. For these reasons they are especially recommended by the most eminent men of the faculty.

MR. B. LAURANCE will adapt Lenses without extra charge, and his invaluable services will be placed at the disposal of Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's customers for a few days only, commencing on the above mentioned date. Each eye will undergo a special examination, and the Spectacles will be fitted with the particular lens best suited to the condition of each eye, and as no better opportunity will ever be offered for persons with impaired sight to be properly suited, he trusts this opportunity will be duly appreciated. Mr. Laurance has also received testimonials from the following distinguished personages and thousands of others:—

Genl. Gen. Sir Patrick Macdonald, K.C.M.G.
Chief Justice James McDonald, N.S., late Minister of Justice.
Dr. Sullivan, President Medical Association of Canada, Professor of Principles and Practice of Surgery, Royal College Physicians and Surgeons, Kingston.
Very Rev. James Lyster, Dean of Ontario.

Rev. Edward J. Stobo, Pastor of the Baptist Church, Belleville.
Rev. David Mitchell, Pastor Presbyterian Church, Belleville.
